The out-of-town students were invited to tour the three-year-old Institute, and ask questions about technical education from staff and students. The $20 million Institute also had two new buildings on display the 5-storey Tower Building and the Industrial Annex, boosting the accommodation capacity to 5,000 students at any one time. At present there are 2,800 students enrolled in the day-time program and 3,000 in the evening program. ## War on the drip

The campaign to buy material to sheet the inside of the curling rink is progressing. Anyone not yet contributing may see any one of the committee, C. Patterson, E. Goeglein, J. Whyte, A. Heiberg or G. McFadzean.

Curling came to an end for the season with the afternoon club completing their competitions and a pot luck supper last Friday night. The mixed bonspiel finished Wednesday night with the John Wall rink taking the first event.

The final wind-up is to take place in the curling rink in the form of a pot luck supper followed by teh annual meeting of the club and the shareholders, and the election of officers for the coming season. Trophies will be presented to the winning rinks for club competitions. All curlers are invited to this affair on April 22nd including those from the mens club, mixed club and afternoon clubs.

A NATION WONDERS. Canada as a whole is looking back seven years to when Steven Truscott, above, was found guilty in Clinton, Ont., in the sex killing of a 12-year-old girl. A Toronto writer, Isabel LeBourdais in her book The Trial of Steven Truscott has asked Canadians to review the evidence, claiming Truscott is innocent of the crime he is paying for. Truscott, at 14, was sentenced to death, but this was commuted to life imprisonment. Canadians now wonder whether he has not spent a third of his life in jail for a crime he did not commit.

Nonsense

What's all this nonsense about the possibility of an election in Alberta this year?

What possible set of events could justify Mr Manning in going to the people, with all the consequent expense involved? Does anyone really think the Opposition might muster a serious vote of confidence? Does anyone seriously think the government might be returned with more strength? Could even the probability of several provincial bye-elections justify the calling of a general provincial vote?

There's nonsense enough in Ottawa. Let's forget all this tilting at the windmills and get down to business. The government has a whopping big majority, and two full years more to run. There can be no excuse whatever for going to the people in the near future, except to lick the Conservatives and Liberals before Peter Loughbeed and Adrian Berry have a chance to put them on their feet.

Death penalty stays

Visibly unhappy with the result of yesterday's Commons vote on capital punishment, Canada's solicitor general said later he could accept it only as a directive from the House of Commons that the law is unchanged.

This will pose a most distressing situation for him and the cabinet, since almost every death sentence in recent years has been stayed and reduced to life imprisonment. Possibly now the cabinet must review their decisions in the light of this mandate from Parliament.

Result of the vote is quite interesting, showing clearly that nobody was interested in any partial measures. Indeed the vote on partial abolition of murder (which 74 voted for change with 119 against, whereas 112 favored complete abolition, with only 143 opposed. Interestingly, only one more vote could be summoned for a five-year trial.

The vote must have been exceedingly hard on individual members, released from the ties of party discipline and forced to make up their own minds on the subject . . . something many of them are not at all used to. One observation we would make is that probably the vote pretty well reflects the feelings of the nation generally. The move towards abolition is no doubt growing, but we doubt that the majority of Canadians are yet ready to accept the propositions . . . regardless of the established records of other countries in many of which it has been abolished for years.

By George!

When your children search for colored eggs this Easter, they'll be renewing a custom far older than Christianity.

Eggs represent the new life that returns to earth every spring —around the time of Easter. The custom of exchanging eggs as part of the celebration began in ancient times. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs in the colors of spring and gave them to their friends as gifts. Some early peoples believed that the earth had hatched from a giant egg.

World Book Encyclopedia says the early Christians of Asia and other lands exchanged eggs at Easter. They colored the eggs red.

Elaborate decorations became the rule in some eastern European lands. The Ukrainians are famous for their beautifully decorated Easter eggs. Each village makes its own design—for trees, horses, prints, roses, flowers, bull towers crosses chapels etc. Residents of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Lithuania, and other lands also are known for their highly decorated Easter eggs.

In England, friends often exchanged eggs at Easter, although nowadays these usually are chocolate eggs. The Irish break the long Lenten fast by eating eggs at dawn on Easter.

Germans color eggs green on Green Thursday —the Thursday before Easter — and carry the eggs all day for good luck. On Easter Monday the young people have an egg-rolling contest.

In Italy a priest blesses the eggs on Easter. The eggs occupy the center of the breakfast table, with other dishes arranged around them.

In the Netherlands children go from door to door during Holy Week, collecting Easter eggs. Young and old alike play games involving eggs on Easter Monday.

In Greece World Book notes, people tap red eggs together as a greeting when they meet on Easter. The first person says, "Christ is risen," and the second replies, "He is truly risen."

In Bulgaria on Easter Saturday, people exchange eggs and baked almond cakes. In Hungary, boys sprinkle girls with water on Easter Monday, and receive Easter eggs as reward.

Customs vary from land to land, but colored eggs have been associated with springtime since the dawn of history.

The superb skill of a chef who really knows his job is all that's needed to turn a very simple recipe into a gourmet's delight. Much of this skill can be learned by the average housewife who's willing to follow the directions given by any well-known chef.

One of the most popular chefs in Alberta, ready to share a few of his cooking secrets, is Henry Bachman, the highly skilled Chef de Cuisine at the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton.

A favorite recipe of Chef Bachman, for example, calls for a beef and rice dish that's extremely easy and economical to prepare. It's also a taste treat so deliciously blended that your entire family is likely to insist that you serve it many times again. Why not try it today?

Ross Creek news

(L. Van Buskirk)

A Parent Cadet evening was held on March 29, at the Lamont High School Auditorium. A very interesting film on gliding was shown, and was enjoyed by both cadets and parents.

Mrs. L. Rustand of Breton, formerly of Ross Creek is recuperating following surgery in the Lamont Hospital.

The Ross Creek Athletic Club report a very successful bingo and pie social. Winner of the raffle for the transistor radio was Mrs. W. Ulan; the pole lamp, Eileen Ludwig of Lamont; and TV trays, Robin Olsen of Edmonton. Peter Piche ably auctioneered pies with the highest price paid being $8.00.

UCW MEETS

The UCW held their monthly meeting at the home of Violet Bailey with 15 members present. Gertie Ferrell led a devotional with an Easter reading. Clara Yursavich led an open discussion on whether the age for voting and liquor licenses should be lowered to 18 years. This proved both entertaining and educational. Two new members joined the group, namely, Mrs. Jan Mariar and Mrs. Shirley Ford. Nel Malcolm won the birthday gift donated by Wilma Odlorne.

Plans were made to take the UCW program held in Chipman a few weeks ago to Partridge Hills Hall on April 19th, Ardrossan Hall on April 22nd and Lamont on April 23rd. Anyone missing the entertainment these ladies put on would certainly enjoy an evening of amateur music and plays at any of these places. Proceeds go to the Ross Creek United Church Building Fund.

An Easter thank offering was taken at the meeting. A delicious lunch was served by Alice Cossey and Violet Bailey.

Remember the special Easter service on Sunday at the Ross Creek United Church at 2 p.m. Rev. Birske officiating.

Mrs. Lorne Schacher had a party in honor of her son Bradley's birthday on Sunday, April 3, with 10 little guests helping him celebrate.

Question anyone?

How should you act with your boy friend in school?

The most important rule to remember, is not to show affection in any public place. This will show lack of taste and, also, it may prove embarrassing for those around you. Be friendly and natural when you see him. Stop and talk. He wants to be with the boys some time, so don't be possessive.

My guy and I are always quarrelling . . . why?

One reason could be that you both have different personalities. Date other boys to find someone more compatible. Another reason for your arguments could be because of immaturity. Don't jump to conclusions and get hot-tempered. Look at his side of the argument. Be sensible and sincere.

Want the family car?

Show your mom and dad how well you really can drive. Offer to drive your mom to bridge club; dad to golf. Once they know that you are a capable driver, a polite request may prove to be successful for you.

How do I get the attention of the new boy in school?

Don't ever chase him. Boys hate possessive girls and clinging vines. Be friendly when you see him, but don't put on a big show. If he is an avid basketball fan on your school cheering squad, try your hand at cheering, too. If he works at a certain grocery store, make it a point to do your mother's shopping there. When he realizes that you both have the same interests, he might start noticing you.

Modern etiquette

Q When someone phones our home and asks for a member of our family who is not home, should I ask who is calling?

A. If the caller does not identify himself, rather than ask, "Who is calling", it is much better to ask, "May I tell him who called", or, "Would you care to leave your number?"

Q Does a woman ever take the aisle seat when she is attending the theatre with a man?

A. No. She enters the row first, and her escort takes the aisle seat.

The birds have come back to tell me so.

Modern etiquette

Q. How much jewelry should a bride wear?

A. This should be limited either to that which is functional, such as a pin needed to hold the dress together, to a strand of pearls, perhaps small gold or pearl earrings. A watch or bracelet should not to be worn. The engagement ring must be worn on the RIGHT, or left at home until after the ceremony.

Q. Is it considered proper to use a "pusher" at the dinner table—a bread crust or the knife, to help push food onto your fork?

A. Yes, and there is no better "pusher" than a piece of bread. Lacking this, you may use the tip of your knife to guide or push a morsel of food onto your fork.

Q. When writing a thank-you note to a relative for a check received as a birthday or wedding gift, is one required to mention how the money will be used?

A. While this is not exactly required, it still is a nice thing to do and seems to indicate a more genuine pleasure over the gift.

Q. How do bridesmaids carry their sheaves of flowers?

A. If they are walking two-by-two, those on the right hold their flowers on their right arms, the stems pointing downwards to the left—and those on the left hold them in their left arms, stems pointing downward to the right. Bouquets or baskets, however, are held in the front.

Q. At the end of a restaurant meal, when a boy and girl are dining together, which one indicates that it's time to leave?

A. Usually the girl. She places her napkin at the left of her plate, looks questioningly at her escort, and prepares to rise. If he suggests that they linger on, she may do so if she wishes.

MacDuff Ottawa report

If his calculations are correct and his anti-inflationary measures successful the $130 million forecast will be realized. Perhaps for the first time in history a finance minister is going to find it disturbing if his revenues and expenditure position at March 31, 1967, is better than he has forecast.

BUDGET CAPSULES

Finance Minister Sharp has reversed the action of his predecessor removing in two stages the sales tax on production machinery which Mr. Gordon imposed in three stages. Dies, jigs, fixtures and moulds and tools for use in production machinery will be exempt immediately from the entire 11 per cent tax. This is important to the auto parts industry. Production machinery will be subject to a six per cent tax from April 1, 1967, to April 1, 1968, and after that will again be exempt.

Churches, like all other charitable institutions, will have to register with the Department of National Revenue and have a simple accounting of money collected and spent if contributors are to be allowed deductions from taxable income for this purpose

The Tofield Mercury

VOL. 15 NO. 34 PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, April 21st., 1966

This is part of the Tofield Golf Course with the Town of Tofield in the background. The golfers' paradise may have a short future and is presently under heavy questioning. However, it could survive if golfers and non-golfers have enough interest to keep it alive. For more details see article elsewhere in this issue. Photo by Peter Nickel

Will it survive?

Future of golf course at stake

(By Peter Nickel)

It's a matter of life or death for the Tofield Golf Course which is at the present hanging by the neck. Can the rope be cut? This depends on the golfers and local citizens. Have they enough interest to keep this recreational facility alive, or will they pass on the death sentence?

This interesting case was brought about by a change of ownership recently and the new owner, Wm. Davidson will not have time to keep up the operation of the course. However, if the public desires to keep it, he is prepared to give them this opportunity. On the other hand, the previous owner, C. F. Kallal, has had several offers for purchase of the machinery and club house but he, too, will await the verdict of the public.

Should the sentence be death, the result will be a herd of cattle on the course (pasture) or it may be plowed up leaving only history of the earnest efforts and many long hours of labor put into this dream of Charlie Kallal's, and the golfers' opportunity will be lost.

Recently, many of the golfers have been contacted and asked for their opinions, and all wished to see the course stay and were willing to back this up by purchasing shares.

MEETING CALLED

To find out what the verdict will be, a meeting has been called for next Tuesday evening at 8:15, in the meeting room of the Tofield Community Hall. At this meeting both Mr. Kallal and Mr. Davidson will offer their propositions and a final step can be taken from there to arrive at a decision. The meeting is open not only to golfers, but to all those interested including residents of Ryley and Holden who wish to see the golf course remain.

This is the last chance. What will the sentence be, life or death?

Honored by NU

C. T. HALLETT

C. T. (Charles) Hallett, senior gas utility man and compressor station operator with Northwestern Utilities Limited in Tofield, was honored at the company's annual awards dinner held in Edmonton last Friday.

Mr. Hallett was presented with his 20-year award by company president Murray E. Stewart when 41 employees were honored for long service with the company.

This is the largest number of awards to be presented by Northwesters in any one year and reflects the accelerated growth of the company in the period immediately following the Second World War.

The annual dinner also marked Northwestern Utilities' 43rd year of service to north-central Alberta.

Agricultural advisory committee appointed

The April 4th meeting of the Agricultural Committee of the County of Beaver, held in the council chambers, Ryley, named the following as members of the Agricultural Advisory Committee Lief Oslack, Mrs. Glen Welch, Jame Hancka, Stuart McMullen, Victor Rumanuik, Mrs. Paul Schwanke, Daniel Manderson, Glen Olson, Vernon Walker, Russel Bennett, George Robinson, Leo Marmazzoli, Mrs. Stuart McMullen, Nark Laskaski, Donald Campbell, Mrs Daniel Manderson, Stanley Brown and Mrs. Irene Warner

As requested at the meeting of March 3rd, Ken Boyles submitted prices on a pocket gopher poisoning machine. For a three - point hitch machine, the cost would be $228, and for a pull-type machine, $338. Both machines are less hydraulic cylinder and fan which he had tried to make arrangements to convert the tree planter but could not get the necessary attachments before three or four weeks. It was agreed a pull-type pocket gopher poisoning machine be secured from Elston Industries Ltd. at a cost of $238. f.o.b. Winnipeg.

It was also agreed the County of Beaver supply poison bait for pocket gophers at cost, and that Ken Boyles make arrangements to procure the necessary bait

The advisability of paying a bounty on magpie feet was discussed. Mr. Boyles estimated that it would not cost much more, if any, than to build traps and the mileage to run around collecting and delivering them, and it was agreed the County pay a bounty of five cents per pair of magpie feet and that this be under Mr. Boyle's supervision.

Tree planting was discussed. It was noted that, under the Department of Agriculture grant regulations, payments could be made for cultivation of trees provided they were planted not less than

The Community League Centennial Project

BY MAYOR W. H. FREEBURY OF TOFIELD

The Tofield Community League has embarked on its own Centennial project, that of paying off the outstanding loan on the Community Centre by July 1967.

The first Community Hall was started in 1946 by a group of public minded citizens, who arranged the necessary materials and unrewarded here, there and everywhere they could find them, and then under Ag. Dodds as foreman, petitioned ... and put up the building by voluntary labor. To build at that time had a population of about 56? people, and the only building that could possibly be used as a meeting place or community centre previously was the old Variety Theatre, which shortly before had been taken over by Mr. Watson for his Tofield Mercury and printing shop.

In the hall built in 1946, the Legion had their room in the upstairs back, and this being right after the close of the war, was well used, and the scene of many most enjoyable social evenings of the veterans and their families. The main part of the building was used for the twice weekly shows, besides con, dances, social events, school activities, gym classes, badminton, etc. While I was not personally one of the group that built this outstanding example of community effort, it was to the hobby of this hall that I established my first doctor's office, when I came to Tofield in 1947.

Unfortunately, disaster struck the community in 1953. The hall burned down. However community spirit was still strong in the district and using the fire insurance of $40 000.00 as a base, and with an additional $37 000.00 borrowed from people of the district on promissory notes bearing 4% interest, a bigger and better Community Centre was erected. Again by putting on Frolics and Saturday night movies the Theatre Committee was able to make money. This was the source of income which served to pay the yearly interest charges and retire some of the principal debt each year. Other income from hall rentals, part of duty sports and other events went towards the operating expenses and upkeep of the building.

Since the new building was erected in 1953, $17 000.00 of the debt has been paid off, most interest charges have been fully met. Unfortunately due to the competition of television, people from the theatre is now practically nil. For this reason the League is embarking on an all-out effort to retire the balance of the debt by 1967. Without the need for paying interest and capital charges each year, the Community Centre will be able to operate on the income from rents from the hall and meeting room. The League Executive are planning a series of special events and attractions for which they invite your utmost support.

The population of Tofield is now over 1,600. Many residents were not here when the original hall or the present Community Centre were built, and thus had no opportunity to donate either time, work or money. I am sure they will be glad of the chance to help with this community effort. The League invites your help by letting us in its various entertainment attractions, or by donations to its Centennial Project of debt retiring by 1967.

Incidentally the Community League is registered under the Societies Act as charitable community organizations, and donations are deductible from taxable income.

The Community Centre is something of which we can all be proud and thankful to have in our town. It helps there for everything to take it of inestimable importance to each of us in the district, and to the town. I hope everyone will get behind the League with all possible help and encouragement.

By George!

It seems the jokes on the various ethnic groups have begun to wane. I must admit I really enjoyed them. A friend of mine of Ukrainian descent especially enjoyed the Ukrainian jokes and as I enjoyed the few years I lived in Germany.

I can't understand those who say they think these Ukranian, Italian, German and Jewish jokes are just awful things. The people who hear the brunt of the jokes all seem to enjoy them. Yet when the popularity of British jokes died, and this was a good, and terrible way to treat the ethnic groups.

I certainly don't agree. One must have many years, the past of Englishmen, Scotsmen and Irishmen have been the target of the jokemakers. And so must ... including the English Irish and Scots—intended hearing them or repeating them.

Prior to the jokes on the ethnic groups, which was it that made the rounds? Oh yes the elephant jokes. And before that? The ... jokes and long before that it was "knock knock" and "what's this". Jokes. Kinds makes one wonder what will be making the rounds next to keep the people of one part of the world laughing.

And I wonder too what stories are making the rounds behind the Iron Curtain these days, or are such things allowed?

What a dull life it would be in this country if we didn't have jokes to circulate!

Our Alberta Heritage
WESTERN CANADIAN PIONEER MUSEUM

1911 Franklin
History of pioneer transportation captured in this unique collection

An enterprising father and son team, Ted and Stan Reynolds, have created one of the most unusual museums in our province. Here are authentic stage coaches and old time vehicles, such as the open buggies that provided prairie transportation in the days when "horse power" meant just that. Four hundred steam and internal combustion engines, stationary and traction models in broadly varying design, are prominent in the collection. You'll see pioneer cars dating 'way back to 1899 including the 1904 Cadillac and Olds 1 cylinder runabouts, 1908 Baker and 1911 Hupp [illegible] electric cars, 1911 Franklin air cooled, 1916 V-twelve cylinder National, Cord front wheel drive and the Brooks steam car. There's even a Gypsy Moth biplane, a horse drawn hearse, and a 1912 aerial ladder fire truck. The Western Canadian Pioneer Museum in Wetaskiwin is more than a historical storehouse. It represents a tremendous outlay of interest, time and effort by two imaginative Albertans, in creating a permanent tribute to the pioneer history of our Alberta.

Next time you're travelling highway No. 2, stop and visit the Western Canadian Pioneer Museum at Wetaskiwin. It's open every day from May 1 to October 1.

Sweet note for Country music

A 3-year-old horse named Country Music and owned by Mrs. H. J. Yerxa last week was named Champion Western Horse based on its performance during 1965 at approved shows.

What's even more thrilling to the Yerxa's is that the animal is one of their own breeding, and trained right on their own form, largely by Mrs. Yerxa.

The award is made by the Canadian Horse Show Association and the Equestrian Association, and is in the form of a handsome scroll.

'My Bank' directors to hold meetings in Calgary, Edmonton

The directors of the Bank of Montreal will visit Edmonton and Calgary for board meetings on consecutive days at the end of May, Horace Sellar, manager at the Tofield B of M branch, has announced.

The two-cities program is believed to be the first of its kind held anywhere by the board of a Canadian chartered bank.

Mr. Sellar said the bank's directors from many parts of Canada and from abroad will gather first in Edmonton and then will move to Calgary.

The Alberta meetings are the latest in a series away from the head office and are designed to give the bank's directors the broadest possible knowledge of regional conditions in various parts of the country, Mr. Sellar said.

Alberta representatives on the Bank of Montreal board are Gordon H. Allen, Q.C., partner, Messrs. Allen, MacKimmie, Matthews, Wood, Phillips and Smith of Calgary, and H. J. S. Pearson, president, Prairie Pacific Distributors Limited of Edmonton.

The Bank of Montreal has 102 offices in Alberta, including 17 in Edmonton and 15 in Calgary, one in Tofield and one in Camrose. Operation of all offices in the province is directed by J. Buckley Jones, general manager for Alberta.

Re: COUNTY OF BEAVER No. 9

PEST CONTROL

The Agricultural Committee have purchased an Elston Pocket Gopher Poisoning machine for the use of County ratepayers. This is a tractor drawn burrow building machine that drops poisoned bait in the run ways.

We will have three demonstrations within the County and interested farmers are urged to attend the demonstration in their area.

Watch for posters in towns throughout the County.

The Agricultural Committee will pay a 5 (five) cent Bounty on Magpies killed within the County of Beaver. Magpie feet must be treated with formalin or salt brine, thoroughly dried and submitted to the ASB office on the last day of the month.

New unit

Fire Chief Neil Reid and his crew of 14 volunteer firemen pose proudly with the new fire engine to serve Ryley and district. The new unit has a 500-gallon-per-minute pump with a 700-gallon water tank. The Fire Chief received the keys for the truck which arrived on March 21st from Mayor A. R. Cross. To date the only times the engine has been used was for burning grass as a precautionary measure. The brigade holds twice-monthly practices. The Ryley Fire Department intends to form a rural fire protection association for fire protection to surrounding farmers and sell shares at $50 each. The old unit was kept so that at no time would the village be without fire-fighting equipment, even if a village and a rural alarm were sounded at the same time. Mercury Photo

Beef club discusses its achievement day

(Grant Cossey)

The Tofield 4-H Beef Club held their monthly meeting on April 21st. Discussions were held regarding the Achievement Day, to be held on June 8th. A final judging competition will take place at the Donald Wood's farm on May 23rd.

Plans were completed for the yearly tour of all the 4-H farms, held Saturday.

It was decided to hold the annual Tofield 4-H Day this Saturday. Both groups will take part in this event. The Peewee group will shine shoes and sell pop-corn, while the older group will wash cars and hold a bake sale. Tickets were given out for a raffle to be held later. The prize is half a beef, cut, wrapped and frozen.

Laurie Weatherill demonstrated the slow moving vehicle signs, which are going to be sold by the club.

After the meeting, Mr. Night, the Alberta Wheat Pool fieldman for this district, showed a very interesting film on the Calgary Stampede.

County of Beaver honors Lars Olsons on retirement

The School Committee of the County of Beaver honored Lars and Blanche Olson at a retirement ceremony held in Ryley on April 22nd.

Lars Olson will be retiring from the teaching profession on June 30th of this year. His many years with the Holden School Division and the County of Beaver were repaid in part by tokens and words of esteem from School Committee members, County office staff, maintenance workers and administrative personnel.

More than 33 people sat down to a banquet, catered to by the Rebekah ladies of Ryley. Following the banquet, a short program was presented under the chairmanship of Mr. Olson's friend and co-worker, H. A. Pike Chairman of the School Committee. Jack Roddick spoke of Lars' service to this area, and presented him with a pullman case, wishing him a happy journey into retirement. Mr. Olson replied in an appropriate manner, describing all the humorous details of teaching in the past and at present. Walter Kropielnicki presented Mrs. Olson with an overnight case, and in his remarks paid tribute to her for her many years of effort in helping Lars make a successful career of teaching. She replied by remarking the case would be packed, ready to accompany Lars anywhere he chooses to go.

On behalf of the Alberta Teachers' Association, Bill Ogrodnick, principal designate of the Holden school, paid additional tribute to Lars for his work for the teachers of Alberta.

The gathering was pleased and privileged to be entertained by Larry Benson, who presented two number, the first being a parody on the tune "Camelot", poking a bit of fun at Lars' career at the Holden school. The rest of the evening was spent in visiting with Blanche and Lars, and an impromptu sing-song.

Guests attending the affair were the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Olof Monsson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cross, Mrs. Harriett Ruddy, Miss Arlene Dorin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stinson, Harold Weatherill, Carl Nord, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kropielnicki, Mr. and Mrs. Geo Knudslien, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Josey, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shibinski, Mr. and Mrs. William Ogrodnick, Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Semotiuk, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Benson, Mr. and Mrs. William Dorin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roddick, Mr. and Mrs. H. ## 4-H Day in Tofield Sat. April 30th

Plaudits for Legion

Meeting in annual convention recently, the Royal Canadian Legion reversed its stand of two years ago and adopted the maple leaf as the official flag of the Legion, rather than the Red Ensign.

Whatever feelings the Ensign may stir up, we cannot but applaud the Legion for publicly moving into step with the times. The red maple leaf flag is Canada's official flag, and nothing short of an Act of Parliament can change that. The warm affection and sentiment attached to the Ensign on historical grounds cannot be denied, but the official flag of a group is a matter of law and not of sentiment. And while many members of the Legion may think of themselves occasionally as a "lawless" bunch, the fact is, the group was founded on the determination of men and women to maintain our way of life.

Over the years many regiments and squadrons have laid away "colors" which are no longer in current use, in ceremonies replete with pomp and dignity. The same honor should be accorded now to the much-loved Red Ensign.

Witching or watching

Generations of rural people have come to realize how important is the person who can "witch" for water, that is, find underground water by bent hazel sticks or other means. Very often, the existence of whole communities depended on the uncanny skill of some "dowser" or "witcher" for water.

But in the generations yet to come, the existence of Canadian communities probably will depend on the way we watch our water here in Canada. In many parts of the country we are talking about exporting our water to the United States since there seems to be a surplus, without realizing that we cannot just turn off the water when it suits our purpose. Water, gas and power are utilities which require continuous supply once they're committed, and are not at all like wheat or cattle or hardware or radios, which can be cut off at a moment's notice for any consideration.

One of the great assets Canada has at present, which promises to contribute handsomely to her development, is her immense store of water resources. Surely it would be the height of folly to turn it over to the United States for a few paltry dollars, and in return lose the opportunity for development within our own country which these resources would generate.

We agree entirely with General A. G. L. McNaughton who has for years resisted any encroachment against Canadian waters, and who has many times warned Canadian politicians that they tend to underestimate the importance of the factors involved.

There is still no demonstrable shortage of water in the country to our south. But there is a demonstrable shortsightedness and arrogant wastefulness in their use of the water they have. If their present water resources were properly utilized, there is every reason to believe there would be no need for our most precious resource

Revolt in Ottawa

One of Canada's best known political commentators, Blair Fraser suggests these days there is a revolt brewing in Ottawa, with the younger generation, in all parties, anxious to overthrow the "old guard".

Only one of many young firebrands, thirty-four year old Conservative Pat Nowlan recently told a student group "The trouble with Parliament is that the men who dominate it are representatives of a minority generation. Parliament is still shackled by the disputes of 30 years ago."

"Who cares who insulted whom in 1962"' demands another

There's a tremendous amount of claptrack talked these days about the minority older generation, and the majority younger generation. Personally, we see ourselves as roughly half way between the two which probably means we're over the hill already. But the Ontario Society on Aging points out "Of all people who have ever reached the age of 65 since the dawn of mankind, 25 per cent are alive today."

There is no question whatever that the world's total store of knowledge is increasing with incredible speed, doubling at ever reducing periods. Yet the simple fact, ignored by the rebel generation, is that nearly all of this vast increase in knowledge lies in the fields of the sciences. Little has been added in the field of humanities and virtually nothing in the area of moralities to pen in the past two thousand years.

For our own part, these are the emphases we want to see from our government. We'll agree it's not the most efficient, but anytime the voters want it, they can have a government which will develop the utmost in efficiency, the utmost in control of the individual, the highest level of e-mputerization, and so on. We could have it. But we don't think we'd want it.

And we don't think the young rebels really want it, either

By George!

Friends of Tony Cox, former news director for the Camrose radio station leased longer more than one occasion for his Vocation accent which came to light quite often during his news casts. Many was the time he spoke of "Alberter" and "Edmer", but needless to say listeners missed his golden tones and the familiar accent after he decided about six months ago to return to his native "Australier".

Since returning down under Tony has been engaged in radio of course, but oddly enough, not in broadcasting. Friends in the area will get a chuckle from the following excerpt from a letter I received from Tony Monday

"I am at Radio Station 2GB For most of the time I work, I re-write newspaper copy for radio. Can you imagine" The management does not allow me to go near a microphone for broadcasting, because of my alien 'Canadian' accent I have found myself and there is rather a difference However, on Sunday I am making an exception for them since Because of a mistake in thinking, on the roster, I was the duty journalist and the only person at the station that had ever been on the air before The other announcer was a woman and an even more rigid station policy is never to allow women to do news casts So before I had finished my 15 minutes on the air the telephone began to buzz wanting to know who the new announcer was, where did he come from and what the h— was an Australian voice doing on 2GB One character said, and I quote 'Get that blank blank Sydney off the air' Others however were a little more polite and wanted some information on Canada. Needless to say, I haven't been back on the air"

It seems Tony's Canadian accent is now more pronounced than is his Australian.

WHY BANFF LOST THE 1972 WINTER OLYMPICS

Camrose, Apr 27, 1966

Dear Sir

Most people will blame the group of people who said the games would hurt the Wildlife in the park. Perhaps this group had a little to do with it

However, the reason, I am sure is because the men in charge in Calgary thought more of the commercial value to them and their business friends, than to the value of a good Amateur Olympic Sport Spectacle

The Olympic Games are a meeting place of people from all nation, and of all classes rich and poor. This goes for both competitors and spectators

Why did not the people in charge when they were sent to the World Champion Ski Meet in this Nation observe and learn from what they saw — namely 85,000 people watching the tournament with the King and family mixing with the crowd. Everybody was willing to help, to see that the tournament would be a success. No organized booing for a few to make money

A National Park and the facilities in the Park like motels, hotels, ski-lifts, rivers, hills, etc should be run on at least controlled, by the Government, so anybody could afford to enjoy a holiday or take in the Olympic Games without saving a year's savings for a few fleabites concerns The Park belongs to the people, and so does the Olympic Games.

Mr Brundage he... man in the organization set to fix site for the Olympic, easily could see through the Calgary and... other deleties in Banff

Yours sincerely

CHOICE OF SOVEREIGNTIES

OTTAWA - The Quebec election of June 5 should be of far more than passing interest to the rest of Canada There has seldom been an election with more significance for the future shape not only of Quebec but of Canada as a...

What the voters of Quebec are being asked to decide, in general terms, is just how much autonomy their province should have. The choices being offered them range from a stronger Quebec within a Confederation to outright independence

In these terms, therefore, the moderate approach is that of Premier Lesage and his Liberals Though moderation is perhaps the last thing Mr Lesage might be accused of by many English speaking Canadians

In calling the election Mr Lesage said he wanted a renewed mandate for participation in the federal-provincial tax sharing negotiations, which will be the most important political event of the fall and winter

Quebec stances in these negotiations will determine more than any other factor how much fiscal autonomy the provinces shall obtain and therefore how much political autonomy

POINTING THE WAY

In other words, what is being negotiated in these federal-provincial conferences is a new kind of Canada a Canada in which the provinces and the federal authority will stand in a different relationship to each other. In which the relationships between French and English-speaking citizens will be changed

An election over the issues involved in these negotiations would be a prevailing one. But it is frequently hard, even under the best of circumstances, to get a clear-cut decision on a specific issue. In the Quebec election now, that is well stood perform a great service Quebec's drive for autonomy and self-expression has produced many extreme and... and much confusion... and with it the province's unique political party system. The governing Liberals have been able to give clear expression to its political goals, or to the concept of Quebec's place in Confederation

Even the Separatists, who one would think would be united in the simple desire to see Quebec from Canada have split into rival camps

NO COMFORT FOR REST OF CANADA

Out of the confusion, however is emerging some kind of consensus which is probably best expressed by the Liberals, who had a large majority in the last legislature and seem destined to win another victory.

The approach of Mr. Lesage is pragmatic one, but it is based on a concern for existing Quebec.

with a strong Canada necessarily taking second place in his scheme of things

In other words, there is little comfort anywhere for those who wishfully expect that Quebec might somehow forget its aspirations and settle down to behave like a good and obedient little province.

That kind of comfort, perhaps fortunately, is not to be found anywhere in modern Quebec

The one common ingredient of all major parties in the election is a desire for more sovereignty for the province

The Liberals, perhaps purposely, do not try to express this in concrete terms, but seek it in concrete action. Mr. Lesage contents himself with promoting "a strong Quebec, stronger than ever", and thus avoiding his recent flirtations with ambiguous political concepts such as a "particular status" for Quebec

There are at least five other parties fighting this election. With the exception of the rather odd Quebec conservative party, which purports to represent English - speaking Quebec, they all seek greater autonomy than the Liberals do.

MANY-SIDED

Next in importance to the Liberals is the National Union Party which held 20 of the 95 seats in the last Legislature The Liberals held 63, there was one independent, and three vacancies on dissolution

Changes in the electoral law have increased the number of seats in the Legislature, and there may be as many as 300 candidates seeking election.

The National Union, under Daniel Johnson, will have a full slate of candidates. After flirting with separatism, Mr Johnson finally rejected it in favor of "more sovereignty" for Quebec This appears to mean a form of associate state which would be independent in everything but name, and perhaps eventually in that, too.

One other party is expected to field a nearly complete slate. It is le Rattlement National, a merger of right wing separatists and of the provincial wing of the Social Credit Rally.

Le Rattlement National, while not advocating separatism, does advocate associate statehood, which must be deemed to be just about the same thing

This strange marriage will try to capitalize on racial and labour unrest, hoping to regain some of the first bit by Real Caouette's C.ditistes, in recent Federal elections

The Province's largest separatist organization Le Ressemblement pour l'Independence Nationale - RIN - is expected to have about 50 candidates. It will also have the purest program—independence, complete and final, for Quebec.

RIN President Pierre Bourgault, who will be a candidate in the new Dupleasis riding, doesn't expect to win any seats. He expects a large Liberal majority, with resulting governmental errors and arrogance.

And that, he says, "will set us up" for the election of 1970. That seems an optimistic view. If the RIN fails to win any seats this time, it must be interpreted as a severe setback for the whole movement. It can only mean that the people of Quebec prefer the less drastic reforms represented by the older parties

The RIN will likely never get a better chance than it has this time. The voting age has been lowered to 18, and if it is true that the separatist appeal is greatest to the young, these thousands of new voters should make their influence felt.

The Quebec Socialist Party, finally, with only a handful of candidates, will try to appeal to labour groups with a mixture of social reform and a large measure of independence for Quebec.

What is clear from all this is that Quebec voters on June 5 are being asked to choose among various forms of sovereignty for Quebec. Some of these forms may be compatible with a united, if different, Canada. Others are definitely incompatible with that

At the moment it appears that the only compatible form is that offered by the Liberals. A victory for Premier Lesage, as theory and determined as he is, will un questionably therefore be in the best interests of Canada

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Pontiac Laurentian Four-Door Sedan

A lot of our advertising appears in people's driveways.

Pontiac's beauty sells a lot of Pontiacs. Consider the arrogance of its split grille. The long, lean sculpted body. That nimble-looking, distinctively-Pontiac stance. But we have a clever device for selling even more Pontiacs. We call it our Pontiac dealer. He's the man with all the answers. He can show you, for instance, exactly why it is that we're putting more of our Success Cars in people's driveways than ever before. He's a man you should make it a special point to meet. He can tell you about Pontiac's lavish interiors with their host of standard equipment luxury and safety features. He'll even demonstrate Pontiac's new brand of performance if you're feeling adventurous. Committee. An application would have to be presented to the Local Authorities Board and the application was attached to the letter.

It was moved and carried that the Bus Supervisor's Report for the month of March be accepted and that his expense account in the amount of $38.32 be passed for payment.

Salary Negotiations

In regards to the Salary Negotiations, the Chairman referred to the minutes of the March 17th meeting with the Salary Negotiation Committees, and he stated that the teachers still appear to be holding out for a very substantial increase in the salary grid. They were also quite concerned with the sabbatical leave, insisting that this should be part of the agreement. They were also insisting upon additional allowance for supervision as well as the idea of having seven years of training included in the salary grid As far as the School Committee was concerned they were of the opinion that no consideration should be given to an increase in the Principal's Allowance, neither should seven years of training be considered, nor sabbatical leave at the present time. In regards to the "private rate", it was suggested that the County should hold that line at the present time in accordance with the suggestions made earlier in the year Mr. Pike suggested that the grid should receive primary consideration and that, if the grid was settled, the rest of the items should not be too difficult to settle It was stated that the County might have to consider an increase of, possibly, 6% plus the 2 1/2% increment lo-crease, making an overall increase of some 8% A meeting had been scheduled for Wednesday, May 4th, at 7.30 p.m., with the Teachers Negotiation Committee.

It was moved and carried that A. Borsas and Bert Hammermeister be appointed permanent school bus drivers and that Ernest Hammermeister and Stanley Glad,

Moved and carried that the purchase be approved.

Mr Pike referred to the fencing of Block 41 and that portion of the 10th Avenue road allowance at Viking which was to be included in the school yard. He stated that he had obtained quotations from Frost Steel and Wire Co Ltd and from A.I.M. Steel Limited There were 1,700 lineal feet involved, gates, posts, etc, and this cost quoted by Frost Steel and Wire Co. Ltd. was $4 012; A.I.M. Steel Ltd. quotation was $3,700

The Committee was also advised that arrangements had been made by the Council for the fence on the Bus Shop at Ryley and the quotations submitted by A.I.M Steel in the amount of $975 for the dismantling of 1140 lineal feet of existing fence, supplying of 240 lineal feet of new fence and to install 285 lineal feet of complete fence, to be in amount of $973.20. This offer had been accepted.

It was moved and carried that the report be accepted and that the tender from A.I.M Steel for the fencing at the Viking school in the amount of $3,700 be accepted versity of Alberta, and he stated that Lloyd Cribb had agreed to attend this study seminar in connection with Chemistry 30. The tuition would be approximately $180, which Mr. Pike requested the School Committee to pay.

Moved and carried that Lloyd Cribb be authorized to attend the Chemistry Seminar, July 25 to August 12, with a tuition of approximately $180 paid by the County.

It was moved and carried that the following transfers be approved Mrs. Beatrice Frederick to Holden, David Bouchman to Holden; Mrs. Carol Rowe to Tofield.

Moved and carried that the following appointments be approved. Mrs. Helen Tiedemann, Tofield, Bass Lake, Viking: Robert Wiley, Viking, Howard Mauger, Tofield, Robert Christie, Viking.

Moved and carried that the following resignations be accepted. Edward Syrotchen, Ellen Syrotchen, Robert Kuhn and Virginia Kuhn, effective immediately; LaVerne Noble, Kay Pranke, Gladys Fee Stephanie Kommelsky, Vivian Ogrodnick and Lars Olson, effective June 30th.

Mr. Pike referred to the Committee a letter from Mr Hilliker, Band Master at Viking in connection with the purchase of two mellophones for a price of $180 each from an Edmonton band.

Moved and carried that the instruments be purchased.

Mr. Pike informed the Committee that Ethel Nordstrom would like to take one more year at the University before starting his teaching career, and that David Dalby and Lary Benson would like to go back to the University for another year's study, and all three were requesting a bursary from the County.

Moved and carried that the $400 bursary be granted to Fred Nordstrom, David Dalby and Lary Benson.

The Committee was advised that by Order-in-Council, Friday, June 10th, had been declared as Farmer's Day.

Moved and carried that the following transfers be approved. Mrs. Beatrice Frederick to Holden, David Bouchman to Holden; Mrs. Carol Rowe to Tofield.

Moved and carried that the following appointments be approved. Mrs Helen Tiedemann, Tofield, Bass Lake, Viking: Robert Wiley, Viking, Howard Mauger, Tofield, Robert Christie, Viking.

Moved and carried that the following resignations be accepted. Edward Syrotchen, Ellen Syrotchen, Robert Kuhn and Virginia Kuhn, effective immediately; LaVerne Noble, Kay Pranke, Gladys Fee Stephanie Kommelsky, Vivian Ogrodnick and Lars Olson, effective June 30th.

Mr. Pike referred to the Committee a letter from Mr Hilliker, Band Master at Viking in connection with the purchase of two mellophones for a price of $180 each from an Edmonton band.

Moved and carried that the instruments be purchased.

Mr. Pike informed the Committee that Ethel Nordstrom would like to take one more year at the University before starting June 30 to attend University in the United States.

Moved and carried that the requests for leave of absence be granted.

Reference was made to motion 36.66 in regards to the disposition of two of the one room school buildings on the Viking school site. The two grade one rooms were located on one basement and, if the Town of Viking was to remove the one room as suggested in motion 36 66, it would be necessary for the County to block the basement to the other room and to fill in the basement on which this one room was located It was suggested that, with proper supervision, it would be feasible to leave the building on its present location to be used by the Scouts and the Cubs organizations in the Town of Viking The building then could not be donated to the Town, the ownership would have to remain with the County and the County would have to maintain fire insurance on the building

This proposal appeared quite feasible, and it was moved and carried that motion 36 66 be rescinded and that the Town of Viking be advised that the one-room school may remain on the school site and be used by the Scouts and Cubs, but that the old Home Economics building will have to be removed from the school site if the Town wishes to obtain this building.

The Chairman referred to the agreement with the Town of Viking that the County was to open up 7th Avenue between 50th and 51st Street and put it in the same condition as 6th Avenue which is being closed for the benefit of the County. Mr. Haddick stated that it appeared that 7th Avenue would be paved and he felt that it would be far better to have the contractor doing all the work on this piece of road as anything that the County might do would have to be redone by the contractor. This was agreed to by the Committee with the understanding that a portion of the work might be charged to the county.

In regards to the proposed paving, the Secretary-Treasurer mentioned that the County would be responsible for approximately 50% of the cost of this paving program and the owner of the nursing home located south of 7th Avenue would be responsible for the other approximately 50 per cent.

Cr. Johnston wondered if Grade 9 at Kinsella would be brought back into Kinsella at the beginning of the 1966-67 school term and it was suggested that it depended whether or not a teacher would be available Also the fact that if four teachers had to be employed to teach 48 students it would be a pretty costly undertaking It appeared that some of the people in Kinsella were quite satisfied to have grade 8 transported to Viking whereas some were opposed to it. No motion, of course was made at this time

Some discussion took place in regards to the school grounds at Ryley, Tofield and Bruce and it was decided to try to get the road equipment to do some levelling at those places before the road construction season started.

IN MEMORIAM

ANNEBO — In memory of Roy Palmer (Tom) Annebo, who passed away April 27, 1964.

Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a sorrow no one can heal.
Some may forget you, now that you're gone—
But we will remember you, no matter how long

—Sadly missed by Sisters-in-law, Brothers-in-law, and their Families. 35p-2717

ANNEBO. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Roy (Tom) Annebo, who passed away April 27, 1964:

It's a lonely life without you
And sad has been our way,
For life is not the same, dear,
Since you were called away;
Every dawning day has thoughts of you,
Each eventide a prayer,
And in the hearts that loved you
You always will be there;
A cluster of fondest memories
Sprayed with a million tears,
Wishing God had spared you
For just a few more years.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife, Gladys, and sons, Tommy and Kenneth. 33c-2722

Loopholes or injustice

The MacDuff Report on this page this week recounts a most dismaying development in the field of resale price maintenance, a battle which has been fought in several countries with varying results. A few years ago Canada felt it had fought and won the war against the "right" of manufacturers to dictate at what price levels their products could be sold, and consumers across the entire breadth of the country were delighted to know that dealers could not legally be denied supplies simply because they bargain-priced these items.

However, it seems the Sunbeam corporation may have found a loophole in the wording actually written by the government lawmakers.

From time to time we run into accounts of trials where the judge takes into account the actual intent of the law as well as what it actually seems to say. What passes our understanding is why this sort of intent cannot be written as a general preface to the law, guiding any trial judge to a greater or lesser extent, and giving him some extra support for his judgment.

Everyone knows, whether he'll admit it or not, that the intent of the law on resale price maintenance was to protect the public against the desire of the manufacturer . . . for some unknown reason . . . to keep up the price of his products by denying them to merchants who would not "co-operate". Why must we get tripped up all the time over unintended slips, or loopholes, when all the time, the intent of the law is so clear.

It's justice, not law, which is supposed to be blind. The law is only considered . . . at least by one noted English writer . . . to be an ass.

Shoddy performance

Prime Minister Pearson survived a vote of confidence last night over the Munsinger case, because the Social Crediters and the Creditistes together supported him against the Conservatives and the NDP. However, our guess is their support was based not so much on their confidence in him as their feeling this was not yet grounds for dissolving Parliament.

Despite the vote of confidence, Mr. Pearson shows up in ever more dismaying and disturbing aspects. His explanation of his concern as the Rivard case burst and his request to the RCMP for files which went back throughout the entire Conservative administration and into the Liberal government of St. Laurent would be convincing if his later behavior supported it.

How ever, had he found anything in this search to support the feeling that security had been betrayed, or that unfair advantage had been taken of government position, surely it was his duty to bring the matter up more or less immediately. Seemingly, he returned all files except the Munsinger file to the RCMP and this he seems to have retained for some sixteen months.

It is practically impossible, notwithstanding Mr. Pearson's protestations, not to believe the only reason he could have retained this file was for partisan political advantage. Especially when you recall the manner in which the story broke, through Minister of Justice Cardin, who could only have seen the file or heard the story from Mr. Pearson, the motives would appear much baser than would have been ascribed to Mr. Pearson only a few months ago. Canadians will lament the loss in stature of this much-admired statesman turned politician.

Confusing the issue

Alberta treasurer Hon. A. O. Aalborg has been struggling for some time with legislation attempted and sidestepped by his predecessors in office: the much discussed interest disclosure legislation.

Also discussed in many other areas, of course, in Canada and beyond, the discussion always provokes a good deal of heat from several of the finance companies, who often manage not to throw too much light on the subject.

Pointing out the subject has been discussed for more than 30 years in the United States, without solution one company publication this month declares: "There is no reason to believe that we in Canada will be able to overcome all the difficulties and advantages and find a quick solution."

How ridiculous! Should we stop trying to find a cure for cancer simply because none has ever been found? Should we stop trying to reach the moon because no-one has yet made it?

The same company points out some buyers, and some credit agencies want only to state the total cost in dollars, since this is most meaningful to most buyers. A few on both sides would prefer the opposite lines and want to know the cost in percentage. How could these two widely divergent points of view be reconciled, asks the article, suggesting the legislation should be forgotten forever.

Would it be too impossible for really smart financial giants like the finance companies profess to be to figure the cost both ways, so the customer could choose whichever method he like best? All that's asked is that the customer know what the price of credit is. Few of them would be happy to be thought such morons they couldn't really understand one or the other simple explanation of what they're paying

"Contrary to the assumption that children gain satisfaction from 'acting out' impulsively, children become less satisfied and more impulsive when permissive, loosely structured conditions prevail".

This, says a release from the United Church of Canada information office, is the conclusion or one of hundreds of authorities on the questions of the problems of children. The conclusion is typical of the studies being reported in the professional journals of psychiatry, psychology, social work, and teaching. The recurring theme in these articles sounds like this: Children need limits and controls, as ordered day means stability and safety for the child. To develop the control of their own behavior, children needs controls set by adults.

In today's professional emphasis on what children need, is a decided shift in emphasis from an earlier period. Not long ago, and perhaps even yet, the psychologist was seen as the professional advocating freedom of expression for children. The writings of John Dewey influenced a whole generation in the approach to child - rearing and teaching. Dewey's contribution was a valuable reaction to Victorian rigidity towards children. Now the problem is the reverse. A whole generation of parents and teachers must learn how to set firm but not punitive controls on children. These adults need help in learning this as they are the products of "permissiveness".

There is mounting evidence that the problems of delinquency and disturbance we now face in our society result from a misuse of the concept of freedom for children. Our task now is to re-establish adult authority starting with the nursery, the kindergarten, and the playroom

"LOOPHOLE BUSTED"

OTTAWA—In spite of legislation prohibiting it, which a Parliamentary Committee laboured over for months before it was included in Canada's Combines Law, manufacturers may yet be able to force retailers to charge the price they fix for their products.

Sunbeam Corporation (Canada) Ltd, believes it has found a loophole in the resale price maintenance of the Act and it is probably ready to fight for it all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada. The Restrictive Trade Practices Commission is equally determined that no such loophole exists and would also like a Supreme Court ruling to confirm it.

At the moment Sunbeam, Canadian subsidiary of the U.S. manufacturer of shavers and other electrical appliances, stands convicted of breaking the law by attempting to induce two retailers, Shaver Bros. of St. Catherines, Ontario, and New Era Home Appliances in Toronto, to sell shavers and floor conditioners at or above the price set by the company. It has appealed both convictions to the Ontario Court of Appeals The Crown has appealed two acquittals and has now entered a third appeal against the judge's refusal to grant a prohibitory order against the company which involves the key point of law over which the whole fight is being waged. It is a safe bet that whoever loses in the Ontario Court of Appeals will seek leave to appeal to the Supreme Court

DOOR OPENED BY GOVERNMENT

The device used by Sunbeam is the result of an amendment to the resale price maintenance prohibition section which Parliament added to the law in 1960. The practice known as "loss leading" or selling a product at less than the retailer paid for it in order to attract customers to his store has been frowned on by several parliamentary committees over the years but they have never brought themselves to recommend its prohibition though two provinces, Manitoba and British Columbia, do so Instead Parliament finally compromised by getting the manufacturer to do the job for them. If a manufacturer believes his product is being sold below cost he is, in effect allowed to cut off supplies in spite of the prohibition against maintaining a minimum selling price He does not have to prove "loss leading"

Sunbeam argues through its counsel, J J Robinette, Q C , of Toronto, that if the law allows this, the law must also allow the manufacturer to warn the retailers of the minimum price below which they must not go without running the risk of being refused the product. It sent all retailers a price list fo rshavers, floor conditioners and other appliances which it described as the "minimum profitable resale price", explaining that these prices had been set after investigation of retailing costs and were at levels below which, in the company's opinion, no retailer could make a profit. Any sales at cheaper prices, it warned, would be investigated.

WITHIN THE LAW

Officials administering the Combines Law admit that if Sunbeam had not delivered this warning in advance but had cut off the supply of any retailer who sold below these prices they would probably have been within the law. No supplies were cut off. Retailers took the warning and sold at prices at or above those "suggested"

While the trial judge, Mr Justice Grant, has registered two convictions and has imposed very nominal fines, he has refused a court order prohibiting the company from issuing further action.

Thus the Commission's whole case collapses. If the judge is upheld by the higher courts it becomes impossible to prevent manufacturers from fixing minimum resale prices.

They need only issue price lists as the minimum at which they consider a profit can be made and threaten to stop supplying the retailer who sells below this profit. If this is the final verdict the law will have to be changed by Parliament or prohibition of re-sale price maintenance dropped

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULES

With Speaker, Munsinger, Seven Days et al running weeks of delay, members of Parliament may find themselves working all or most of the summer The government so far is not announcing all the legislation that it intends to throw at the MP's this session. The list, so far, contains 56 items though less than half of these have been announced to date The government will have to choose between paring down its list or paring down the summer holiday

County Council meets

Minutes of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9, Thursday, April 14th, 1966. Business arising from the minutes.

In regards to the Rural Road Study, the Sec-Treas. advised the Council that the agreement between C Department of Highways and the County in regards to Provincial Assistance in Rural Road Studies had now been completed.

Moved that the report be accepted Cd

In regards to the Annual meeting of the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation the Reeve who had attended the meeting reported that the tight money situation would in all likelihood effect the availability of money through the Corporation. It would appear that any proposed borrowing would be curtailed to a great extent. The School Authorities presented a motion wanting to have a director on the A M P C However, this motion had been defeated. it being felt that the School Authorities were given every consideration under the present set-up

In this connection it was noted that borrowing for school building purposes could be in excess of $18.00 per sq. ft. as long as the borrowing was within the approval of the School Building Board.

Mr C P Hays of Stroma had been reelected as a Director for Class "B" shares and he was also the Chairman of the A.M.F.C Moved that the report be accepted. Cd.

In regards to the Public Works tour it was moved that this tour be made on April 18, 19 and 20th, that it start in Division No. 7 and that the Council. ley meet at 9:30 at Charlie's Place at Tofield and that the Public Works Foreman be asked to accompany the Councillors on this tour. Cd.

In regards to the proposed assessment map the Sec-Treas. reported that, as near as he had been able to find out, the cost for a map of this type would be somewhere between $200.00 & $400.00 plus the extra amount of work in the office. He suggested however, that any decision on this matter might be deferred until he had an opportunity to discuss the matter with Commercial Printers in Edmonton who apparently, had made up the map for the County of Camrose No. 22. It was felt that as the map had not been available prior to the Court of Revision it would be in order to, if a map was decided upon, have this available before the end of the year so that the ratepayers could make use of it for the annual Appeal in January 1967 It was moved that the question of the assessment map be deferred until the Sec-Treas. has some definite information on Cd.

Correspondence

A letter from the Farmer's Union of Alberta requesting a contribution to the Placher Creek Air Pollution Fund was referred to the Council

Moved that no contribution be made from the County, that contributions be made on individual basis and that the Farmer's Union of Alberta be so advised. Cd.

A small commercial development was being established on the south side of the CNR tracks west of the Alberta Pool Elevator and the Village had been asked to supply fire and police protection as well as a road to this development

Moved that the request be approved Cd

A letter from R E. Glebelhaus concerning flooding of his farm yard on the north west corner of the S.W 10-50-15-W 4th was referred to the Council The Sec-Treas stated that he had by telephone referred this matter to Cr Kropielnicki on receipt of the letter. ## Has document 110 years old

Stanley Dunham of Kingman dropped into the office last Thursday with a bill of sale for some land his great-grandfather bought in what is now Ontario. The document was dated 1856.

"I thought it might be of interest to your readers", said Mr Dunham, "with the Centennial coming up."

He had with him, as well, an English sovereign to ensure they were genuine. It measured about four inches long and was made of brass. It is in like-new condition.

A couple of interesting things about the bill of sale was the description of its location and the selling price.

The land sold for "two hundred and fifty pounds of lawful money of Canada. The land was measured in "chains and links" and was located by degrees and pounds as well.

There was no mention of the province of Ontario, which, of course, was not a province at the time, prior to Confederation. The land was located "in the County of Middlesex in the Province of Canada" according to the bill of sale.

Renovated Skudesnes church to mark 60th anniversary

By MRS. J. KNUDSON PALMER-EARLING, April 29 —The church at the left observed its 60th anniversary last March.

On May 21st, at 8:00 p.m., and May 22nd, there will be three services with guest speakers—10:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.—to mark this anniversary in the newly renovated church. Palmer Olson, Pastor The sons of the congregation have worked hard the past month, headed by carpenter Thomas Hendrickson of Bawlf, to complete this task.

Tribute to "Our Little Church"
There's a little church that nestles
With its doorway facing West,
And it overlooks the dearest spot
Where our many loved ones rest;
The hands that framed and built it
Now sleep beneath the sod,
But to us who know its story,
'Tis a treasured house of God.
It has seen our babies christened,
And our sons and daughters wed,
It has heard our anguished weeping
When we parted from our dead
Through our lives we'll ever love it,
In our hearts no spot can be
So blessed or so holy
To many such as we
—by Christie Bowers, Alberta.

The committee hopes many visitors will be on hand for the special anniversary services.

Brian Taylor visits old home in England

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN—Mr. and Mrs. Geo H. Taylor received word several days ago from their son Brian, presently residing in Godstone, Surrey, England, that he and his wife and two small sons spent a five-day Easter holiday in Leeds, Yorkshire, and had visited the former home of his parents there. Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were born and raised in Leeds before coming to Holden. They had visited some of the scenic beauty spots in the outlying districts, also attending the Easter Sunday evening service in Leeds Parish church, and talked with Rev. Fenton Morley, Vicar of Leeds, who visited Canada a few years ago, and is to again spend a year or more lecturing at a Canadian University.

The Brian Taylors had also made a trip to Swaledale, visiting the church and locality where his great-grandfather, Rev. Richard W. Taylor, B.A., was the Vicar of Melsecks from 1878 to 1912. Brian and family were the guests of his aunt, Mrs. J. E. Rusby, the former Marjorie Taylor, who visited Holden in 1919-20, staying on the farm with her brother for over a year and a half.

Modern etiquette

Q. Just what is the proper and accepted manner of eating olives at the table? I have seen some persons take the whole olive into the mouth, and after the meat has been eaten, remove the stone from the mouth. This doesn't look right to me.

A. You're right—it ISN'T right! Correctly, the olive is held in the fingers and nibbled off the stone.

Q. Do you think that a person is always obligated to give a specific reason when he is compelled to decline an invitation?

A. Although not exactly a "must" — still a good, logical reason does have a way of softening a refusal of this kind.

Q. When there is to be a supper for the bridal party after the wedding rehearsal at the church, is it necessary to invite the clergyman and his wife?

A. If you know the clergyman well, it would be nice to invite him and his wife. It is not, however, necessary.

Q. When eating a biscuit and jelly at the table, should the jelly be applied to the biscuit with the fork?

A. No; the knife should be used for this purpose.

Q. Is it the duty of the bride-elect to buy the dresses and accessories for her bridesmaids?

A. No She selects the designs and materials, but her attendants must pay for their own outfits.

Q. When refilling the water glasses on the dinner table, should they be lifted or left on the table while pouring the water?

copted and that Cr Kropielnicki take nay action necessary to alleviate the flooding situation Cd.

A letter from Kushata and Kawalyck, Barristers and Solicitors, of Vegreville concerning a flooding problem in S E 9-51-16-W 4th was referred to the Council. Cr. Kropielnicki stated that this problem had been referred to the Water Resources Branch but apparently no report as yet had been submitted and it was moved that the correspondence be received and filed and that the firm of Solicitors be advised that upon receipt of a report from the Water Resources Branch necessary action would be taken Cd

A letter from the Sec-Treas of the Town of Viking requesting permission for the Centennial Caravan to use the Block north of 4th Avenue that the Town of Viking has agreed to sell to the County.

Moved that the necessary permission be given. Cd.

Moved that the Council has no objections to the proposed transfer in S E 13-49-19-W 4th, providing the County is not to be responsible for any road or other improvements in or to the transferred area. Cd.

Moved that the requisition from the Vegreville Health Unit No. 15 in the amount of $7,440.27 be accepted and paid. Cd.

Moved that requisition from Viking Municipal Hospital District No. 10 in the amount of $8,967.50 be accepted and paid. Cd.

The Sec -Treas. referred to the Council the matter of prohibiting construction within 125 feet from the centre line on public roads according to Sec. 426 of the Municipal District Act, this matter having been discussed at prior meetings. Sec. 426, sub-section 2, provides that a Council, by by-law, may prohibit the construction or placing of buildings and shelterbelts, farm dugouts and cesspools and disposal fields closer than 125 feet to the centre line of any public road, highway or street A by-law for this purpose would have to provide for payment from municipal funds for compensation and could also prescribe a fine for failure to comply with the by-law or to comply with terms and conditions of the construction, laying or placing of any of the work or things referred to. The Council felt that the by-law would be in order and the Sec-Treas. stated that he did not feel that he could set up such a by-law and it was therefore moved that the County's Solicitor be requested to complete the by-law. Cd.

The question of fire fighting equipment for the Hamlet of Kinsella was discussed, the Sec-Treas. having obtained some price quotations on suitable equipment. It was, however, felt that some person conversant with fire fighting should be consulted in this matter and it was moved that Cr. Johnston discuss the matter with, possibly, the Fire Chief at Viking or some such person. Cd.

In regards to the old machine shed at Tofield which had been sold to the Town of Tofield it was decided that the only item that the County would retain was the 500 gallon fuel tank which was to be offered for sale. Cr. Roddick stated that there was a 300 gallon fuel tank located on N. E. 16-47-14-W.4th that could also be disposed of Moved that these two fuel tanks be offered for sale at the same time as the old school buses are advertised. Cd.

Little leaguers get underway

Once again Spring time is upon us and as our thoughts turn to the many things that are to be done, our boys are already outside throwing the old ball around and getting the feel of things.

On April 26th a ball meeting was held in Holden to discuss the commencement of another ball season in the Little League and Pony League divisions. All towns along Highway 14 who participated in the league during 1965 were notified of this meeting and most had representatives in attendance

Tofield was represented by Jack Lampkit of the Tofield Recreation Board. Tom Kerlee and Robert Dueck of Ryley represented both divisions. Mike Thuryak represented the Little Leaguers, and Milt Malick represented the Pony League in Holden. Chairman for the meeting was D. Cooper, Recreation Director of Holden. Herman Dyck and Bud Taylor of the Viking Chamber of Commerce represented Viking interests. The Hamlet of Bruce was not represented.

The group discussed organization of a Midget League, Little League and a Pony League involving all teams, with the hope the playing schedule would commence May 9th, the early start depending on how soon the teams were organized and the registrations done. It was being planned to the Highway 14 Baseball League manager.

The group also examined the 1966 Little League rule book, and discussed the rule changes. A few of the rules were changed to suit conditions which pertain to the area involved.

All players are asked to get in touch with their coaches and register their names as soon as possible. Once again insurance coverage will be provided for the players during practice periods and league games. It is absolutely necessary for all players to pay this $1 registration to their coach before league games commence if they wish to play ball this season.

All games will commence at 6:30 p.m. and will be played on Mondays and Fridays.

As this was a lengthy meeting, further business was referred to the next coaches' meeting, to be held at a later date.

One last and very important comment to all readers of this article . . . is needed for the successful operation of these three ball divisions is the most important person of all—COACHES or ASSISTANT COACHES. Will you be one for 1966?

Curling Club wages 'War on the Drip'

New officers for the coming year soon for the Tofield Curling Club were elected at the meeting held Saturday, April 30th. G. Pickett will head the new group as president with 1. Swift vice-president; G. Allan, secretary; and W. Christensen treasurer.

The "War on the Drip" project is progressing with 300 sheets of plywood on hand at the present time; 500 sheets is the objective. It was again emphasized that this project was indeed important and all available support is required to put it "over the top."

MENNONITE YOUNG PEOPLE TO PRESENT FILM

The Tony Fontane Film, sponsored by the Mennonite Young People of Tofield and District, will be shown in the Tofield Community Hall on Sunday, May 15th, at 2:30 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Plan added features for Showcase '66

The Tofield Community League is making preparations for "Showcase '66", Tofield's annual Dominion Day celebration.

In addition to the usual attractions, the League is arranging for several new features. One of these is the hoped-for two-day baseball tournament with 8 teams participating and the final games being played on Saturday, July 2nd.

QUEEN AND PRINCESS CONTEST

Another "first" will be the Queen and Princess contest. Four queens, from high school, each with a princess from junior high, will be contestants for the honor of presiding over Tofield Showcase '66.

Tickets through which the public may vote for their choice of Queen and Princess will soon be on sale All votes will be counted by June 20 and the winner proclaimed. All contestants will receive prizes, with the winning Queen and Princess team being specially honored throughout the day. In addition to the honor and the prizes, all contestants will be given passes to the barbecue, the dance, the hot dog booth and the show.

The person who is the holder of the lucky ticket will receive two free tickets to the barbecue, two free tickets to the dance and two free tickets to the show.

The person selling the most tickets will receive a year's pass to the shows presented in the Community Hall by the Tofield Community League.

The Queen-Princess teams are: Luella Schacher (12A) and Kathy Gashe (7A); Cherie Astley (10B) and Ruth Dickson (7B); Dorothy Brent (11A) and Marian Boateler (8A); Frances Schultz (11B) and Nette Appleby (8B).

So be prepared to vote for your favorite combination! More information about this contest will appear later.

The jumping and cutting horses will again be a major attraction on July 1st. The Historical Society will again have an exhibit and will act as hosts to the Oldtimers. A midway is being planned.

All in all, Tofield's Showcase 66 promises to be a fitting contribution to Canada's 99th birthday. Let's all do our part to make it a really outstanding occasion.

Jim Roddicks married 25 yrs.

(Mrs. J. Roddick)

MINISTIK. — A triple occasion was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. S. George on Sunday, it being Mothers' Day, Douglas' birthday and the silver wedding anniversary of Dolly and Jim Roddick. A lovely turkey dinner was enjoyed by all in attendance.

A two - tiered gaily decorated wedding cake centred the table, a gift of Margaret and Edna Roddick, daughters of the honored couple. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shupe and Mr. and Mrs. Art Francis, of Tofield, and Mrs. Dorothy Wilmore, of Edmonton, were among the guests.

District pioneer of '94, Chester Coombes passes

A pioneer resident of the Ketchamoot district, Chester Coombes, passed away in the Tofield Hospital on April 25, at the age of 73.

Born in Colusa County, California, May 17, 1893, he travelled by covered wagon with his parents to the Tofield district. They arrived in the fall of 1894, taking a homestead south of the present site of Tofield. Mr. Coombes had resided on this farm until his passing.

In February, 1913, he married Ida Grovum, who predeceased him February 26, 1965. Mr. and Mrs. Coombes celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary just prior to her untimely passing.

He is survived by three sons, Harold and Ronald of Tofield and Lyle of Edmonton; three daughters, Ethel (Mrs. H. McCall) and Gladys (Mrs. E. Gabert) of Edmonton and Esther (Mrs. H. Ketchum) of Rocky Mountain House; 15 grandchildren; one great - grandson; three sisters, Mable (Mrs. Brown) of Bawlf, Margaret (Mrs. Johnson) of Central Point, Oregon, and Myrtle (Mrs. Ritz) of Ferdale, Michigan, and one brother, Leslie, of Vulcan, Alberta.

Funeral services were held in the Tofield United Church on April 28, with Rev. W. H. McDannold officiating. Interment was in the family plot in the Tofield Cemetery. Pallbearers were Ivan Mitchell, Albert Scott, Harold Shultz, Albert Sutton, Bill Ingram and Ralph Barnes.

Shouldn't be catching

Premier Lesage of Quebec has called a provincial election for June 5, and there have been many hints Premier Manning may be one of several other provincial premiers thinking along the same lines.

Like the 'flu bug, election fever can get pretty contagious, but let's hope it's not catching here. The only possible reasons Alberta could have for an election this year would be to catch the opposition parties with their fences down, or to avoid an election during Centennial year or else run the full term, which is generally frowned on.

Other than that, we can see no possible reason for an election in Alberta, and we suspect a number of voters would cry "dirty pool" if one were called.

Farmers warned

Edmonton's Better Business Bureau recently issued a warning to farmers to double check on the identity of companies and salesmen pushing steel buildings for farm use. This is the latest field to gain the attention of the fast operators, the Bureau reports, although it is only one of many.

This is not to say there are not a number of reputable firms and salesmen in the steel buildings business. The Bureau points out there are several firms who are seldom the subject of any criticism, because they welcome investigation in what they have to offer, in competitive quality or price, and because they do not resort to the well known rush tactics.

Often these firms are established in a community for a considerable period of years, and tied into the local population. He isn't necessarily a crook or a shyster because he's a stranger, but the Better Business Bureau, no further away than Edmonton, can cite several case histories which bear out their warning: Before you invest investigate.

Nominations, anyone?

Nominations don't close for some time yet in the search for Junior Citizens of the Year, yet everyone knows that summer-time isn't usually the period when people give a great deal of thought to this sort of thing. So may we suggest to our readers that anyone who knows a young Albertan, between the ages of six and sixteen, who has performed well beyond the normal requirements of young people, should send their nomination to The Mercury. The more information you can give, the more help it will be, but if there's just the name, we'll try to do the rest.

The award is not restricted simply to youngsters who have bravely saved the life of someone else . . . very often the choice is for those young heroes who daily and for months at a time carry far more than their share of the load when misfortune strikes the family.

Tofield and district have had winners before this . . . let's see if there aren't more about.

On the Provincial Scene

By JOHN WARREN

There are several sure signs of summer in Alberta. Tee temperature in some communities rises above freezing, golf replaces hockey as the chief subject of office conversation, and political and government activity seems virtually to disappear.

Of course there's always that slow period of recovery following a long session of the legislature. Hardly anyone can be blamed for wanting to take an extended trip after it's all over.

That's just what Premier Manning was planning last week. He was already getting his shots and putting together the material he will take with him May 17 on a three - week trip to the Orient. Last Friday a Japanese delegation met with the government and industrial officials. With the premier's reciprocal visit almost an hurray it would seem that huge Japanese development of coal and iron among other things in Alberta may be just around the corner.

Completion of the Alberta resources railway this month is another step in that direction

o o o

The government's bid to drop estate taxes seems to be getting some almost unexpected support from Ottawa.

The minister of trade and commerce, Robert Winters, said he favors the plan "Removal of the tax would generate capital for additional advancement of the private sector of our economy", he said To abolish the tax, Ottawa would have to agree to abandon it. 25-per-cent share and Mr Manning has admitted Alberta would probably have to give Ottawa something in exchange.

Last week was also the occasion for the first youth seminar in Canada sponsored by a provincial government About 200 delegates attended.

Education Minister McKinnon said the conference was aimed at finding out what youth is thinking. He said they would have a unique opportunity for youth to debate current social economic and moral trends. A second such seminar is planned for Edmonton this week

The young people represent rural, urban farm university, church and sports groups.

It seems likely that the major result of this new thing will be formation of a few guidelines for the new department of youth which really doesn't know what its job will be yet

The municipal affairs minister, Alf Hooke, threw out a real teaser in a speech last week. He said he has a proposal for reducing the share of education costs borne by property taxes but cannot reveal details right now.

Talking to the municipal advisory committee he said, "I'm surprised that none of you have come up with the recommendation we have in mind I won't say any more now"

The meeting was attended by ten groups who presented briefs regarding taxes.

MacDuff Ottawa report

OTTAWA. -The sparks fly frequently on the Canadian political scene as the two old warriors, Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker cross swords and exert every effort to lop off the head of the other. The green - carpeted House of Commons chamber echoed to the sounds of battle again early this month as the two antagonists clashed in the cheers and shouts and jeers and jibes of their respective supporters. This time the battle was over evidence that RCMP Commissioner George McClellan gave to the Munsinger security and sex inquiry. The Commissioner revealed that he had been summoned to the office of the Prime Minister on December 2, 1964. He said he was asked, by Mr. Pearson, if there was any information on file of a nature which would indicate impropriety or wrongdoing on the part of any member of the present government.

The Commissioner also disclosed that he was later asked if he had any indication of any impropriety or anything of a nature to bring odium or ridicule upon any member of parliament in any party over the last 10 years. Mr. McClellan told the inquiry at the open hearing that he was of course aware that the matters under discussion in the Prime Minister's office were in part at least the rumours and gossip circulating on the Munsinger affair He said he replied in the affirmative He was asked what it was and he referred to the Munsinger case

This testimony exploded in the House of Commons like a time bomb. At the earliest opportunity the Progressive Conservatives introduced a motion of non-confidence in the Liberal minority government. It said that the House strongly deplored and condemned the Government's action in having the RCMP transmit information to the Government at the past conduct of all members of parliament generally.

The Conservatives had a stormy meeting They decided to go ahead with the motion which in effect was a censure of the Prime Minister despite the fact that the Spence judicial inquiry was only getting underway. Gordon Fairweather, Conservative MP, a former Attorney - General of New Brunswick, and one of the most respected of the Tory backbenchers, was given the assignment of denouncing the Pm's action.

He led off with a speech that was fairly moderate and far removed from the hatchet-like job that an opposition member such as Erik Nielsen can carry out with vigor and venom. But Mr. Fairweather made 7+1 points effectively. The Conservative Opposition, he said, was deeply disturbed at the action of the Prime Minister. The Conservatives were concerned that it was destroying the independence of all MP's and undermining the institution of Parliament.

The New Democratic Party and the Social Credit group, also indicated their fear that the Prime Minister had gone too far. Both opposition groups said they would support the official Conservative Opposition in its attempt to defeat the administration. The Quebec group of Creditiste members, indicated that they, too, were disturbed But their spokesman Gilles Grenier said they would withhold judgment until they had heard the Prime Minister make his statement.

Mr Pearson was absent from the House, that first day of the two-day debate when his personal reputation came under strong and almost continual attack Rising from a sick bed he appeared in the House on the second and last day of the debate, to defend himself. Only Paul Martin had risen during the first day to voice a spirited defence of Mr. Pearson's reputation. Some Liberal backbenchers were annoyed that he delayed so long in springing to the P.M.'s defence

Notice was taken in the Liberal back benches that Martin was the only member of the cabinet who did rise to Mr. Pearson's defence. Other members of the cabinet were either not in their seats during the debate, or did not participate. Said one Liberal member bitterly: "Obviously the would-be party leaders want to avoid at all cost anything that smacks of trouble at this time. But if they only knew, it is now the backbenchers are judging them on their performance".

When Mr. Pearson returned to the House he needed no help. He [illegible] ordering the RCMP to embark on a scandal hunt into the private lives of any member of parliament. In dealing with the Tory charges against him, he said simply and earnestly that he was stating the facts and would stake his reputation on his recital of those facts. There were no histrionics. It was a Prime Minister placing the facts before the House and asking the members of Parliament to judge him on those facts. Clearly Mr. Diefenbaker is gambling that if the Grits can be defeated now that Mr. Pearson would no., recommend dissolution to the Governor General.

But the Prime Minister entered the arena ready to fight, and members listened and were impressed. He urged them to rest their minds back to that terrible period — November 1964 — when the Conservative Opposition hurled charges at the government of bribery and corruption. The Rivard affair was the basis of those charges and the Prime Minister found to his dismay that some of the charges had [illegible]. He became alarmed that the Tories might be telling the truth when they claimed that organized crime had gained a foothold on Parliament Hill.

With accusations and rumours flying about Ottawa he decided to call in the RCMP Commissioner. He said that the allegations against him as they swirled every other member of Parliament. That was why he asked the Commissioner for information about other cases, which were in any way similar to the cases that had been raised in the House at that period.

Most members were sympathetic after hearing the Prime Minister. The vote was 132 for the administration and 106 against. Supporting Mr. Pearson were 115 Liberals, nine Creditiste members, four New Democrats, three Social Crediters and two Independents Against the government were 91 Conservatives and 13 New Democrats headed by T. C. Douglas The Socialist leader's group had split.

Mr. Pearson had won again. Mr. Diefenbaker despite the venom and invective and the full power of his oratory had failed to convict the Prime Minister. But he will try again Mr Diefenbaker is a fighter He keeps coming back with verbal body blows calculated to wear down his opponent, or catch him with his guard down. Meantime the Canadian public are becoming weary of the contest.

Long way to go

"We didn't do nearly as well as we had hoped," Chamber of Commerce president Wright told The Mercury today, but he added that was chiefly because of a shortage of canvassers. Teams are still working, a week later, said Mr. Wright, covering an area about five miles north and south, and four east and west. Chairman of the medical committee, Bruce E. McDonnell, reported the campaign is slowly gathering steam, but the large number of farmers working on the land drastically reduced the number of canvassers available. No definite goal has been set, Mr. McDonnell reported, for local contributions, but he added if enough local support is gained, he feels some governmental assistance could be obtained towards the project. Meantime, he said, the canvass will continue, "and our chances look better all the time."

TO THE GIRLS . . . WITH LOVE FROM THE BOYS

1. How much make-up should a junior high girl wear? a High school girl?
2. Do you think it is right for a girl to smoke? to drink?
3. Should the girl or the boy take the responsibility for "going too far"?
4. What kind of girl do you date most frequently?
5. What conversational topic interests you most? interests you less?
6. Do you think a girl should ever stop being a humorist?
7. Do you like a girl clutching your arm?

Boys, your thoughts and inspirations on the above questions or those of your own, may help many girls get a glimpse of themselves. Please write to:

"10" Hints on Glasses

Glasses are a fashion. If they suit your personality and shape of your face, they may do more for you in the way of attractive looks than if you didn't wear them at all. For if you didn't wear them when needed, you would lose your attractiveness by the squinting and frowning that accompanies poor vision.

When picking out the frames that suit you best and do more to accent your eyes, try different shapes and shades to determine which accents your bright appearance. Never let a line in your frames repeat that of an undesirable feature.

The color you pick for your frames is as important as choosing the right color for your graduation dress. Pastel and greys accentuate fair skin, while bright or deep shades complement duskier complexions; dark, neutral frames tone down ruddy skin.

Choose the perfect hair-do to go along with your glasses. And never wear gaudy ornamentation on your specs. Remember that girls who wear glasses need extra eye make-up, but never too much to take away the brightness of their naturalness.

The Recipe Box

FRUIT SPARKS COFFEE RING

For breakfast, for coffee parties, for evening snacks, there is nothing, absolutely nothing, to beat a fruit-studded coffee ring.

And when that coffee ring is a product of your own oven, well then that's the moment to sit back and prepare to accept the compliments in becomingly modest fashion.

We use this recipe for Fruited Coffee Ring. Raisins, orange peel, lemon peel and crushed pineapple each contribute their own subtle flavor for a result which is, to say the least, distinctly edible.

This is a generous recipe. It makes three rings. Wrapped in foil, the rings freeze well and can be popped in the oven for "hotting up" prior to serving. A word of warning though—demands for this Fruited Coffee Ring are apt to be so great it will take a bit of doing to even get it into the refrigerator.

Fruited Coffee Ring
(Yield—Makes 3 rings)

- ⅔ cup milk
- ½ cup margarine or butter
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup lukewarm water
- 2 teaspoons granulated sugar
- 2 envelopes fast - rising active dry yeast
- 3 eggs, well-beaten
- 5½ cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 2 cups raisins
- ½ cup candied orange peel
- ¼ cup candied lemon peel
- ¾ cup crushed pineapple, drained
- 1½ cups sifted icing sugar
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk; stir in margarine, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into a large bowl, stir in 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Stir in lukewarm mixture, eggs and 2 cups of flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour (about 3½ cups) to make a soft dough. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch down dough and turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide into 3 equal pieces. Roll to 12 x 10-inches rectangle. Brush with melted butter. Combine fruit and spread each piece with ⅓ of the filling. Roll up lengthwise as for jelly roll. Place on greased baking sheets and form into circles, sealing ends firmly.

Cut 1-inch slices almost through with scissors. Turn each slice partly on its side. Cover, let rise as before, about 45 minutes.

Bake in pre-heated moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes.

Blend icing sugar, milk and vanilla; mix well. Spread over warm coffee rings. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired.

Strong support

Strong support for the local golf course was shown Tuesday night when local golfers backed their enthusiasm with cold cash. Several shares in the club were picked up at the meeting Tuesday, and club members are canvassing other prospects for the sale of a few more to put the club on a solid footing.

Golf course survives plow

(By Peter Nickel)

It was a tough battle and a near disaster which faced the local golf course recently but through a miracle the local golfers and citizens pulled together, pooled their resources and ideas and won the battle.

Forming a new executive of the Tofield Golf and Country Club recently, plans got under way for the new operation.

The new executive was elected as follows: Nick Kashuba, president; Ray McDonnold, secretary; H. Seiler, treasurer; Ray Pettit and Ed Reschke, two-year directors; Henry Pare and Gabe Pettit, one-year directors.

First step in the operation was to collect the shares from the [illegible] pledges and sell shares to the [illegible] then draw up a five-year lease with the owner which is being done at the present time.

Membership fees have been set as follows (the non-shareholder fee being shown in parenthesis): Male $20 ($25), female $15 ($20), student $5 ($10), man and wife $30 ($35); family rates maximum $40 ($45), university students $20. Green fees have been set at $1 per day and [illegible] at Charlie's place.

At the present time work parties are out getting the course in top shape, the executive is busy making plans and arrangements for the upkeep of the course, and it looks like it's shaping up for a good season of golfing.

The Club has requested that golfers take advantage of local facilities and make good use of the fine course and support the club whenever possible.

Shares may be purchased at anytime from the executive, and are payable in two installments. For further information, contact members of the club.

Future of the golf club fell in jeopardy recently with the sale of the land to Wm. Davidson. Mr. Davidson did not have time to keep up the course at that point, [illegible] he would not stand in the way of the club [illegible] continuing the project.

At the same time the persons [illegible] Oscar Kotal who [illegible] the [illegible] project has had a number of offers to [illegible] the machinery and the clubhouse set up for the project, and was concerned over the course he should follow.

Queen and Princess Contest gets underway

Tickets are being printed for the Dominion Day Queen and Princess contest, sponsored by the Community League. Students will soon be knocking at doors to sell the tickets for their favorite contestants. So that you may decide for whom to vote, here are the candidates, the first named being queen contestant, the second the princess candidate:

Dorothy Bert and Marian Hostetler; [illegible] Stoltz and Nettie Appleby; Cheryle Astley and Ruth Dickson; Linda Schacker and Kathy Roberts.

Horace Seiler is arranging for a return of the jumping and cutting horses. For years these have been a major attraction at Tofield on Dominion Day. Again Mr. Golden has offered to loan his bleachers to the T.C.L. so that spectators may enjoy the horse show in comfort.

Mrs. Mabel Boyles is preparing and arranging entries for the handicraft display. Last year, 250 people registered as visitors of the Handicraft Display.

Old-timers will be welcomed by the Tofield Historical Society. As in former years, free coffee will be served to those who were here in 1916 or earlier.

As usual, the students in the Tofield School will be presenting a display of their best work in art, essays and writing.

The two-day baseball tournament is expected to provide first-class entertainment, and to be a big drawing card.

Tofield students win summer scholarships

Several students of the Tofield High School have won scholarships to events being held this summer.

Gwen Klassen will represent Tofield at the Gold Eye F.U.A. camp and will be sponsored by the Tofield Co-op.

Jerry Hardy will be the Tofield representative at the Drama Seminar, to be held in Drumheller. The County of Beaver will be sponsoring Jerry.

The United Nations Seminar, held annually in Banff, will be attended by Tofield student Doug Grover, sponsored by the Lions Club.

These deserving students are to be congratulated on their fine work during the year, and are urged to continue at such a high level.

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN —The Trustees of the Holden Drainage District No. 1 met in the office of the secretary treasurer, Kay Hovland, Friday evening, May 13th. This was the organization meeting of the Board.

The Minister's approval of Oscar Mseth as a trustee was received and [illegible] Mr. Mseth being appointed as chairman of the Board for the coming year. It was decided that the meetings would be held on the last Friday of the month as previously.

The secretary advised the trustees that the grant from the Provincial Government had been received for last year's work on the ditch.

The Beaver [illegible] situation was discussed, as some of the dams had been destroyed. A man from the Provincial Government Fish and Wildlife Department has been sent to look after this.

There was also a discussion regarding culverts which are to be inspected by the trustees during the summer when they most need their inspection.

Bury the corporation man

Why should we bother to attack the Communists for degrading their citizens? We charge them with debasing the intelligence of their people, brainwashing them in countless ways to accept the party line. Not like Canada, where freedom of thought and speech goes unchallenged.

Yet what goes on here in Canada? Anybody who differs from the common view is branded an oddball, (which isn't very serious, of course). But if he differs somewhat more strongly, he's likely to be branded a red or a communist.

Anyone who does any thinking for himself runs the risk of ostracism, of being read out of the party, so to speak. Anyone with ideas which differ from the pattern of the moment is an embarrassment!

Just as one instance, noted Canadian reporter Blair Fraser in a current national magazine article, recounts how federal MP Ralph Cowan has been guilty of thinking along lines completely at variance with those of his Liberal associates. Recurrent waves of indignation over such dangerous views as favoring hanging and thalidomide, and opposing most of the CBC and all of French-Canada have brought repeated suggestions that he be expelled from the party.

Mr. Fraser reports that Prime Minister Pearson, although obviously furious with Cowan at times, has said he does not wish to see a man expelled simply for refusing to accept the majority view in the party.

Now, isn't that decent of Mr. Pearson? Isn't it democratic? At least there is still a little support for free speech, even if it's begrudged. But how little tolerance have we left when an elected member of parliament could be denied the right to think for himself or his constituents? Why should we bother to elect Mr. Cowan or all his associates at all? Why not just cast our vote for the leaders of the party, the one who gets the most votes being elected to office, and then he wouldn't have to worry about persuading all these dissident, and sometimes obstreperous, elements all over the country.

We've gone too far down the line in accepting the philosophy of the man in the grey flannel suit, the corporation man, the philosophy of non-involvement, the adjunct to not rock the boat.

We need the free thinkers . . . there's never been any important advance in the history of the world that didn't start with someone who dared to think on different lines. Sure, it takes teamwork to put over any program, but in the final analysis, it's one man batting against the pitcher who makes the homerun . . . it's one man against the goalie who blasts home the puck.

New Gerhart in cabinet?

Will there be a new Gerhart in the Alberta cabinet?

Speculation is rising that Edgar Gerhart may soon be named to the post of attorney general, a position held for several years by Premier Manning.

Mr. Gerhart has been a backbencher for many years, although he has not gone unnoticed within his own party. It's possible that by his own wish he has not earlier been named to any post of importance, or it's possible that political considerations, such as geographical representation, may have been the reason he has been by-passed.

Other than the fact he's a lawyer, we don't know how good an attorney general Mr. Gerhart might make . . . however, we have seen him at work, and we know him to be capable, sincere, and possessed of an insight such a job would need.

There'll be other cabinet posts coming up shortly, it seems, including the always-unfilled ministry of youth. Really, we don't envy Mr. Manning the selection . . . geographical representation doesn't seem to provide sufficient capable men to fill these posts, while taking the best man available doesn't always win votes. And the jobs are so tough these days that the very best men are needed.

Barmaids for Alberta?

The Alberta Liquor Commission is tangling with a new problem thrust in its lap recently, and one, we suspect it would have been happier without.

A request was made recently for approval of female waitresses in beer parlors, rather than the traditional male waiters, the appeal being made on the grounds that the operators could no longer afford the high priced males, and would have to cut costs somewhere.

One wonders if the hotelmen were telling all the truth, and no doubt the liquor commission also wonders if the applicants is not that pretty girl waitresses might move a higher quota of suds than their bread - shouldered brothers. There's nothing new about women in bars, of course, as witness the centuryes old barmaids of Europe, and the more recent bunnies of some states to the south of us. However, the opinion we feel would be pretty general is that Canadian bars generally would be better off without the sexy looking lasses. As for the barmaid of the old English inn, we won't be able to find her counterpart in this country until we reach the same level of having enough licensed premises to take the pressure of crowding off the majority of them.

More bars, smaller bars, without today's high overhead and consequent high pressure, would serve the cause of temperance better than today's circus midway style.

The modern superhighway can make driving a no-mile-an-hour breeze, but the ordeal of getting on and off these engineering marvels can give a motorist nightmares—unless he knows how to do it. This should be of particular interest just before the holiday season, even if the holiday is spent right here in Alberta where roads have been improved so much in recent years.

The multi-lane, high-speed road —variously called a freeway, expressway, thruway, turnpike or, in Quebec, an autoroute— may spare from two to eight lanes of fast-moving heavy traffic.

The unrestricted motorist, approaching the superhighway, is often confronted by a maze of entrances and exits, which seems specifically designed to confuse him. Some Californians, for example, will swear you can get lost for days on the Los Angeles Freeway. An exaggeration, of course, but it points up how easily the unwary driver can blunder into damaging, dangerous and, sometimes, disastrous situations on today's super-roads.

Advice for the bewildered driver on how to get on the road and into traffic smoothly and then off the road again—safely—might include: Know in advance the entrance or interchange you want to use. Keep a careful watch for directional signs—especially when travelling on unfamiliar roads, watch for instructions as to the proper lane for approaching the entrance. Know in advance your desired direction of travel so you don't end up in the wrong direction. If you do make a mistake don't cross a median strip or attempt a U turn. Continue to the next exit and enter again by the correct ramp.

Having approached the superhighway properly, you still have the problem of melting into all that swiftly-moving traffic. Therefore: Avoid a full stop, if at all possible, on entering the highway. Instead try to merge your vehicle smoothly into the traffic flow. Stop only if traffic will not permit a safe merging; as you move along the approach ramp estimate the speed of the flowing traffic and plan your entrance for a break in the flow; always signal and keep signalling until you move into the traffic flow; increase your speed as you enter so other cars on the road don't have to brake to permit your merging with the traffic; once you have merged with the traffic, stay alert to traffic on all sides. When you pass another approach ramp, cautiously permit other cars on the approach ramp to merge smoothly with the traffic. The road driver will slightly reduce his own highway speed to permit another car to move safely onto the road.

Having found you way safely onto the superhighway, you still must face the problem of exiting from the road. So watch for a sign advising the distance to your exit and allow at least two miles for making adjustments. Remember, at 60-miles-an-hour you'll reach your exit in two minutes; be alert for signs directing you to the proper lane for your exit. Remember to signal all lane changes. Check your mirrors. Watch for blind spots as you switch over as you approach the exit, slow down very gradual until you have reached the deceleration lane. Again reduce your speed to the posted limit as you move onto the exit ramp. Remember to readjust to slower traffic patterns, pedestrians, traffic lights, side-streets and parked vehicles, after you've left the super road.

MacDuff Ottawa report

OTTAWA—Walter Gordon has fired the opening round in the battle of ideas within the Liberal party.

When he broke long silence recently by publishing "A Choice for Canada", Mr. Gordon may have started an intra-party argument which will be decided at a party leadership convention yet unscheduled.

That convention—when Lester Bowles Pearson bows out of Liberal leadership—will choose a man and a set of ideas to shape the future of the Party.

Whether Mr Gordon has ambitions to be the man or not, he is definite about the ideas.

He wants the Liberal party to be left-of-centre dedicated to the preservation of Canada's national and economic identity even if this means further interference with free enterprise.

BLUEPRINT FOR FUTURE

These are the views set out in his new book and his thoughts on other areas of policy go with them.

In foreign policy, for example, he says Canada should speak out even at the risk of American displeasure, about the way things are going in Vietnam.

He wants the federal government to press forward unwavering toward a national medicare plan.

In a speech after the release of his book, Mr. Gordon was even more explicit about the direction he wants his party to go.

No new Horse choices. The Liberals could try to be a party of the right but Mr. Gordon saw this as disastrous because the Conservatives would eventually seize the part of the political spectrum rightly theirs. Or the Liberals could "waffle" between right and left. Mr. Gordon saw equal disaster in this course. The only one to approved was a forthright choice of the left.

KNOWN BEFORE HAND

This choice is no surprise to Mr. Gordon's opponents within the Liberal party. Saskatchewan's Liberal premier, Ross Thatcher, for example, has labelled the former Finance Minister as "the worst Socialist in Canada". The same thing is said less openly by others. And a central criticism of "A Choice for Canada" has been that the nationalist policies advocated at the book would lead to Socialism by the back door.

At first glance Mr Gordon seems an odd figure to head a revolution. He's a staid, trim accountant from Toronto with mild manners and an apologetic speaking style.

But he has impressive credentials as an idea man within the Liberal party. He was the key man in developing the Liberal policies in 1963 and 1965 which met the threat from the impressive beginnings of the New Democratic Party.

It was at this time that he broke his earlier bank—Troubled Canada—and the Pearson action program in 1963 when the Liberals took office was translation into politics of the book.

LEADER TOP WORRIER

Mr. Gordon went into politics with the hopes of his first budget and while he remained Mr. Pearson's Finance Minister, always stood in the shadow of that budget. But his resignation last year when the Liberals failed to win the majority he promised has worked a miracle in Mr. Gordon's popularity within the party.

He is seen as having followed the course of honor and set a good example to others. For this —and for his real achievement in organizing the return to power after the Diefenbaker landslide in 1958—Mr. Gordon stands high in his party.

Whether his ideas will win is another question. They have been immediately challenged by Mitchell Sharp, who took over from Mr Gordon as finance minister, in December.

MIDDLE-ROADER AGAIN

Mr. Sharp anticipated the publication of A Choice for Canada by making his own statement of Canadian nationalism in a speech the day before the book came out. But Mr. Sharp is a nationalist with a difference. He says the difference is that Mr. Gordon is pessimistic about the future of Canada while he is optimistic. And he says Mr. Gordon believes in penalizing foreign business while the Sharp policy is based on the realization that Canada's economy is an open and vulnerable that penalties would boomerang.

In all this, Mr. Sharp seemed to be trying to take a stance as a middle-of-the-roader who might appeal to those who want a mild dose of nationalism without the fears aroused by Mr. Gordon's statements.

This is all part of the Liberal leadership race which is denied by everyone in sight. The standard answer is that the party already has a leader. But this doesn't prevent a good bit of sidewing and leading on the Liberal front.

Robert Winters, who enjoyed a mild boom just after his re-election and re-entry into the Cabinet after ploughed under in the board rooms of Bay Street, has now been discounted to a second string contender.

But Paul Hellyer's stock has been rising since Winters' gamble that he'll get a crack at one of the economic portfolios if the cabinet is shuffled again later this year. Another name rarely mooted is that of Health Minister Allan MacEachen, an expert on parliamentary procedure and a left-leaning Liberal whose biggest current challenge is medicare. And the Ottawa - based starters are carefully watching Quebec's June election, because Jean Lesage can't be counted out yet.

The last name may depend on where the party wants to go—left, middle or right. But party strategists will also be looking at the map of Canada and the Maritime and Prairie areas where the Liberals were rejected last year.

Finding a man who can hold the Liberal gains in Quebec and Canada and expand it East and West may complicate Mr. Gordon's attempt to give the party a left-of-centre cread.

Jehovah Witnesses convene in Camrose

A delegation of Jehovah's Witnesses from Tofield has just returned from a weekend convention in Camrose. Torsten Tollefson was the presiding minister at the three-day session of training for members of the congregation.

"Our conventions are not revival meetings, for all our members are active ministers", Mr. Tollefson said. "But there is a need for further training and spiritual strengthening for all who are Christians. This is the need our semi-annual assemblies fill. All come away spiritually recharged and with greater determination to apply Bible principles in their everyday lives".

Soon you will be enjoying the art of mastering a summer tan. A tan can look wonderful on you and accent your features, but it can also do great harm. When you start your tanning, apply tanning cream to screen out harmful sunrays. Don't neglect your eyelids or the rest of your face. If you use a tanning cream with a tint, be sure it is a color that suits you, and apply it carefully so as not to receive a streaked tan. Often the hair becomes bleached and brittle from the sun's rays, so it is wise to keep it covered. While tanning, do not stay in the sun longer than 15 minutes. As you increase the frequency of your tans, increase the time limit.

To accent your tan, frost your lips with creamy lipsticks of pale pinks. These creamy lipsticks also protect your lips from becoming dry and sunburned. Pastel colours show off your tan tremendously.

Grade V field trip enjoyed by students

The two Grade Five classes of Tofield recently went on a field trip to St. Albert and Edmonton. This is a short account of the preparations made for this trip. In succeeding issues of the Mercury will be found accounts of the experiences of the children, written in their classrooms.

(By Lois Koop, Grade 5-B)

The grade five classes prepared to take a Field Trip. Near the beginning of the year, the pupils chose the missionaries and the explorers. Mr. Pike and Mr. Annis gave us permission to take this Field Trip. Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Cribb took the proposed route to see how much time to spend at each place They also made nice booklets in which are questions to be answered by the pupils. On the morning of Thursday, May 12, 1966, the troup left the Tofield School on their exciting adventure.

the amount of $58.35 be accepted and the account approved for payment. Cd.

In regards to Salary Negotiations reference was made to the minutes of the meeting of April 28th. From the minutes, as the Chairman pointed out, it was noted that it had been impossible to make any progress in the negotiations and the teachers committee had been advised that the County intended to apply for a bargaining agent. Further to this the matter had been discussed with Mr. Leslie Young, A.S.T.A. Executive Assistant for Economic Services, and the result had been that Mr. Douglas Muir of the firm of Ida Harries and Associates had been appointed to handle the negotiations on behalf of the County. A meeting with the Teachers Bargaining Committee would be held at 7:30 this date.

Moved that the report be accepted and the appointment of Mr. Douglas Muir confirmed. Cd.

The Sec.-Treas. referred to the Committee the Benff Trustees' Seminar and the Sec.-Treas. Short Course on June 6th to 11th. He stated that the Asst. Sec.-Treas. would be unable to attend for personal reasons and that he, himself, would only have time to attend the Municipal Sec.-Treas. Short Course in the early part of the same week. It was moved that the Superintendent, Mr. Nestor Semeniuk and Mrs. Darin and Knudsion attend the Course if they are able to do so and that the expense allowance be the same as in previous years. Cd.

On account of the Refresher Course at Banff being held during the regular meeting in June it was necessary to change the date for June meeting, it was moved that the June School Committee meeting be held on June 14th. Cd.

The Committee was informed that at the last Council meeting it had been decided to construct a storage shed at the Equipment Shops in Ryley in order to relieve the lack of space in the shops and a building 30' x 36' on cement foundation with cement floor had been erected by the County's Maintenance Crew. The cost divided on a 50-50 basis between the School and Municipal Expenditures.

Moved that the information be received and arrangements concurred in. Cd.

The Committee was informed that a further supply of typewriters was needed, especially for the Ryley School, and also that the electric typewriter in the Superintendent's office was in poor state of repair and it was not considered economical to have further repairs made to it and the Sec.-Treas. suggested that 16 school typewriters and one electric typewriter for the office should be obtained. The cost to be charged to debentures.

Moved that the Sec.-Treas. recommendation be concurred in. Cd.

The Sec.-Treas. stated that he had obtained a copy of Alberta School Bus Driver's Handbook, issued by the Alberta School Bus Operator's Association, and that he and the Superintendent had discussed the merits of this Handbook and were of the opinion that it was a worthwhile publication, therefore, the Sec.-Treas had ordered 100 of these Handbooks at a cost of 35c each.

Moved that the Sec.-Treas. actions be concurred in. Cd.

Moved that the following resignations be accepted as at June 30, 1966: Swinder Panno; Gosbild Berke; T. B. Walters; Kenne Nelson. Cd

At this time the Superintendent brought up the matter of the Recruitment Program which in his opinion has worked quite satisfactory. To date 7 teachers had been hired under this program and the Superintendent stated that he had more applications that he was dealing with for possible employment.

Moved that the report be accepted and that the following appointments be confirmed as at September 1st., 1966; George Lowe, Viking; Marilyn Lowe, Viking; Linda Wilkinson, Bruce; David Lockerbie, Bruce; Susan Smith, Ryley; Beverly MacRae, Ryley; Clement Fewer, Gordon Pittman, Sofia Corrales, Ryley. ## Tofield high school news

(Elaine Walker)

The annual Senior Prom was held last Friday evening, when a very entertaining program was enjoyed by all who attended.

Later in the evening "The Rhumba Kings" from Two Hills supplied the music for a lovely dance The beautifully decorated gymnasium, complemented by the beautiful dresses worn by the girls, made the theme, "Apple Blossom Time", one well worth remembering.

The graduating class of Tofield High would like to thank the Grade 10 and 11 students who worked so hard to add such a lovely memory of the end of their school days

SOFTBALL GAMES

The Ryley softball teams were at Tofield last night for exhibition games with the Tofield high school teams.

School committee meets May 10

Mrs W Reichenbaugh and Mrs. Bernice Empey from Bruce to Viking school be confirmed as from September 1st, 1966 Cd

The Bus Supervisor was present at this time and the tenders for the old school buses and the sheds were considered at this time.

A tender in the amount of $75 had been received on Bus No. 21 from Derek Tiedemann. The Bus Supervisor stated that this vehicle was worth more than $75.00 as a substantial amount of parts could be salvaged. He further stated that, as far as he knew, Mr. Tiedemann was actually interested in the running gear and he felt that the vehicle could be stripped and the left overs sold to Mr. Tiedemann.

On Bus No. 14, two tenders had been received. One from Mr. Henry Oberg in the amount of $305.00 and from Joe Alexander in the amount of $201 00 The Supervisor felt that it would be in order to accept Mr. Oberg's tender.

A tender in the amount of $25 00 for the two sheds, 8' x 14' and 8' x 16' had been received from Dyle Norton. This was not considered sufficient and it was moved that the tender in the amount of $305.00 for Bus No. 14 submitted by Henry Oberg of Holden be accepted but that the other tenders be rejected. Cd.

The question of the need of more washerooms and the possibility that this need would arise in places like Bruce and Kinsella was brought up by the Superintendent who suggested that some thought be given to portable buildings or trailers and Mr. Pike was requested to obtain more information on this matter

Mr Lars Olson requested that the usual sports grant in the amount of $125.00 for the year 1965-66 be granted to the Local A.T.A.

Moved that the request be granted. Cd

Moved that Mr. Lars Olson's request for ball equipment for the Sports Day be approved. Cd.

Mr Lars Olson asked permission to arrange to have the movie projector at the Holden school traded in on a new one. He said that the old one is 20 years old and can not be repaired any longer. It was decided to make arrangements for a new movie projector at Holden Moved that the bursary applications of Patricia Hoveland and David Balzer be approved. Cd.

An account from the Viking Curling Association in the amount of $70.00 for time used by the Viking High School was referred to the Committee.

Moved that the account be paid. Cd.

Mr. Pike informed the Committee that the intern teachers started on May 9th and would work in the classrooms until June 17th.

Moved that the report be accepted. Cd

The Committee was informed that a Leadership School for Cooperating Teachers was scheduled to be held on June 20th to 24th and, although this school was considered very good for cooperating teachers no teacher from the County intended to attend due to the school being held so late in the year — interfering with exams, etc.

Moved that the report be accepted. Cd.

The Sec.-Treas. now referred to the Committee the School Budget for the year and the Budget was examined item by item. It was then moved that the School Budget as presented by the Sec.-Treas. at this time be approved subject to the provisions of Sec. 39AA of the School Act. Cd.

Moved at 5:25 p.m. that this meeting now adjourns. Cd.

Mrs. Ruth Wickenburg motored to Edmonton with her daughter Janet on Sunday evening and will spend a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Vivian Jones.

Modern etiquette

Q. I've been told that I was guilty of a faux pas when I recently congratulated a girl upon her engagement—that this suggested that I thought she was lucky to "landing a man" Is this true?

A. You may have committed a mistake, but it's a common one, and I shouldn't worry too much about it if I were you. The usual procedure is to congratulate the man, and offer wishes of happiness to the girl.

Q When eating prunes, should the fruit be cut from the pit in the dish or may the whole prune be taken into the mouth, and then the pit removed to the saucer with the spoon?

A. It is better to cut the prune in half, and leave the pit on the plate.

Q. Is it obligatory for a guest at a christening to bring a gift of some kind for the baby?

A. While not obligatory, it is customary.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Do you think it is in good taste for a receptionist to smoke at her desk?

A. This does not give a good impression of the company she is representing. A receptionist should look pleasant, act and talk pleasantly, and it's difficult to do these things while puffing away on a cigarette. She should reserve smoking for her rest periods while she is away from her desk

Weakened by flames racing through the dry timbers, the tipple at Camrose Collieries collapsed less than half an hour after the fire was first noticed about 5 o'clock Friday morning. One of the two trucks lost can also be identified in the middle of the structure, beyond any hope of salvage. More than 20 years old, the structure was insured at $33,000.

Pioneer woman passes May 20

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

An old-time pioneer of Holden, Mrs John Story passed away Friday, May 20th at the age of 87 years, after a short illness, in the Westhaven Nursing Home in Edmonton.

Mrs. Story became ill last week and the family were sent for, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Story of Holden, and Mr and Mrs. Harold Story of Abbotsford, B C. Mrs. Story seemed to rally from her illness but then took a turn for the worse.

She was predeceased by a daughter Lila and her husband, and leaves two sons, Harold of B C. and Arthur of Holden, besides grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the Holden United Church.

Earns award on safe driving

Bill Wiens, an employee of Northwestern Utilities, Limited, was presented with an award for 10 years of driving without an accident at the company's annual safety dinner in Edmonton recently.

Tipple topples in Friday fire

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the coal tipple at Camrose Collieries early last Friday, May 20. Dense black smoke was noticed by S. T. Fosser, one of the workmen, about 7:00 a.m., but at first it was dismissed as grass being burned off. However, his wife reported the tipple burning, and Camrose Fire Brigade was immediately called.

By the time they arrived the entire tipple was a mass of flames, and nothing could be done to save the structure. Manager of Depot Sales for Forestburg Collieries, Dennis McGee of Edmonton, lauded the efforts of the firefighters and credited them with saving the rest of the structure.

Insurance company representatives met in Edmonton yesterday afternoon to discuss the loss.

The structure was built in July 1944 under the Dominion Coal Board to augment supplies for the military camp in Camrose, as well as supplies for the town. Cost at that time was in the neighborhood of a quarter million dollars.

Insurance in force at the time of the fire, on the depreciated value, was $33,000. Two trucks were lost in the blaze, one of which, valued at $4,000, was definitely insured, said Mr. McGee. He was not immediately certain of the other unit.

OWNERSHIP CHANGED

At war's end, Dennis Twomey assumed control and operation of the big unit, and continued, under the name Camrose Collieries Ltd., until his death, when it was sold to Forestburg Collieries.

At the time of the fire the tipple was in the process of being dismantled.

Plans are to continue the operation of a retail coal depot at the mine, with the product supplied from the Diplomat Mine at Forestburg. No interruption in service will be caused by the fire, reported Mr. McGee.

She is on the matriculation program in High School and plans to attend University, in the faculty of Education, after she graduates from High School.

Lions playground will open for summer on arrival of equipment

Tofield Lions held the last meeting for the month, with Gabe. Pittet as acting secretary for Rev. J. L. Scriven.

Members were told that the playground equipment was expected in a few days. They will now have to make new arrangements for meals as Mrs. J. Wall and Mrs. E. Regehr are giving up serving.

The Holden Chamber of Commerce requested the use of the Lions Dunk Tank, and it was agreed that it could be had for a nominal rental, with prompt return after their Sports Day.

Some ideas were explored for the raising of further funds, and a meeting of the executive will be held next week when this will be discussed more fully.

Coming to school?

Town pre-school children who will be coming to school next September are invited to come to school on Monday, June 6th.

Country pre-school children are invited to come to school on Tuesday, June 7th.

Who will insure the kids?

Because of the rising accident toll, Canada's auto insurance firms are turning down many requests for insurance from teen-age drivers and first-time drivers of any age. Many parents right here in Tofield are keenly aware of the problem caused by the refusal of some companies to insure the youngsters, and even in some cases, to insure the family car when they know children will be driving. Commenting on the situation, The Financial Post recently pointed out that accident rates and losses are so huge in the younger age group that companies cannot afford to insure them

Almost two million youngsters will pass their sixteenth birthday during the five years to end in 1970, all ready to exercise their supposedly inalienable right to drive. Who will insure them against their own inexperience and against the folly of those they meet on the road?

Notwithstanding the inquiry into the insurance picture recently directed by Alberta Highways Minister Hon. Gordon Taylor, there is no compulsion on insurance companies to insure everyone, regardless of the cost, nor should there ever be. They aren't, and should never be, considered as public utilities. Although financially, at least, they'd be better off if they were . . . at least public utilities are expected and regulated so as to make a reasonable profit when efficiently run.

The companies need new premium scales for each group under 25 to soak the accident-prone, claims The Post. But the present impasse on the insurance front also makes it plain that the standards for issuing licenses and policing drivers will have to be raised. That piece of paper is a permit to drive with a sense of responsibility, and not a license to kill.

Nicknames stick to people, and the most ridiculous are the most adhesive.

Classic dilemma

The classic dilemma which has haunted a series of Canadian defence projects ever since the calamity over the Avro Arrow is once again facing the defence department. It has reached the stage where a fly-or-die decision has to be made over Canada's entry in the vertical-take-off field, a highly competitive field at best. Canada's leading entry, the Canadair CL-84 has reached the stage where the Department of National Defence must make a key decision, whether to allow it to fade from sight, or to push on with development and make a detailed evaluation of its services from a military viewpoint.

Some Ottawa authorities feel the military don't really want it, but on the other hand, politicians realize it may have a huge export potential, something that is badly wanted to balance the heavy importations of many of our defence tools.

The problem basically, is to get anyone in authority to decide. Taking the blame for the wrong decision can be very painful, especially from the viewpoint of politics.

Message from Mert: "Drive safely and avoid the mourning after."

Ill wind, indeed

It was an ill wind, indeed, that caused crop failures for three successive years to farmers in some parts of the Peace River country, but this one differed in that it's hard to find somebody for whom the ill wind proved a boon, as in the old saying it's an ill wind that blows nobody good.

The Fairview Post recently drew attention to the problem created by the unhappy situation which has arisen from an impression that the entire Peace River country is affected, not just a few isolated areas, with the following comment:

The $475 and needy farmers in the Peace River region received from the province will look pretty small if recipients decide to sell their farms, according to real estate agents in the Peace. Usually flooded with requests for information from outside interests at this time of year, agents report enquiries regarding Peace River farms had dwindled to a trickle. Main reason is the widespread provincial and national publicity centred on the Peace by farmers attempting to establish a real need for aid after three successive crop failures. Although this problem existed in only isolated areas of the Peace, persons not familiar with the vast area, took it for granted all farms in the Peace were poor producers. As a result, agents claim it may take years for Peace land to attain the prestige it held prior to the national publicity

H George Mayer, Editor-in-Chief

By George!

Do you climb slowly flights of stairs when you used to do all a run? Do you find yourself wishing some of your friends would walk less briskly so that it would be easier to keep up with them? Have you given up tennis or softball because it made you puff too hard for comfort? Do colds seem to be more frequent?

If this sort of thing is happening to you, you have a lot of company. In fact you have an ideal candidate that the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and its branches are distributing a booklet with advice on what you can do about shortness of breath. The booklet is not about tuberculosis. It is about breathing difficulties, as the title, "Your Breathing Troubles", states.

Tuberculosis associations are interested in healthy lungs, for which reasons they have a stake in the prevention and treatment of all respiratory disease. They are all too well aware that in the last few years some chest diseases have increased alarmingly. There is four times as much emphysema, for example, as there was ten years ago—and a very disabling disease it is.

Asthma, bronchitis and emphysema, the most common causes of breathing difficulties, are discussed in this new booklet and lungs are practical suggestions for those who want to improve the situation while improvement is possible or keep discomfort from becoming more acute if it is too late for improvement.

The booklet is available from the Tuberculosis Association.

ACT OF A MAD MAN

OTTAWA.—It is a normal and human reaction to seek some kind of tightened security around Parliament in the aftermath of a horrifying bomb explosion in a washroom just outside the Commons chamber.

The man who held the bomb died when it went off. Its lethal power may have been intended instead for the prime minister, or for other ministers, or for a score of members of parliament sitting in the chamber.

It was an event unprecedented in Canadian parliamentary history. The shock of it has not yet worn off. Canadians generally and members of parliament particularly find it incredible that a man would, or could, walk freely into parliament with an explosive device aimed at killing.

It was, of course, the act of a madman. But its implications were no less terrifying.

PREVENTION

Even before his body was removed from the Parliament Buildings, however, the talkers were going up for tightened parliamentary security to prevent [illegible]

The security shield on Prime Minister Pearson was, in fact, immediately tightened on his visits to Toronto and Montreal, and in the area of his parliamentary office

Quite apart from these understandable precautions however, there were suggestions that the security system in general must be tightened around parliament. Worried members gave the opinion that security was inadequate, that steps must be taken to prevent recurrences, and that the public moved far too freely in and around the Parliament Buildings.

There was talk of denying access to the public galleries to all except those who obtained special passes from the authorities. There were suggestions that the Commons' protective staff should be increased, that policing on the Hill should be more stringent and restrictive

CALM AND TURBULENCE

This current Parliament has many reasons to be grateful to Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux. And now it has one more.

This remarkable man kept his head on that terrible day when many others seemed to be losing theirs. He refused to blame the protective staff for the incident. He refused to commit himself to any increased restrictions on public access to Parliament Hill.

His decision to oppose any [illegible] His great virtue is that he was able to take it at a time of real crisis when practically everyone else was succumbing to emotional stress.

"Any place open to the public can never be entirely safe", said Mr. Speaker. He didn't think the point had been reached in Canadian democracy where every person visiting the House of Commons would have to be searched

MUST CONSIDER PUBLIC

That course he said firmly, would meet with strong objection from the public, and he did not propose to adopt it.

The Commons protective staff is an excellent one. It could be improved, of course, as can security system could be improved.

But this did not take the position that all was necessarily well

In the light of an incident such as the explosion, he said "it would be normal to review security arrangements"

But he stubbornly fought off suggestions that any drastic steps should be taken to restrict the public's free and easy access to Parliament

For this, Canadians owe him much thanks.

Canadians are coming to Parliament Hill in ever increasing numbers. Admittedly some come to scoff, some to laugh, and perhaps a few to applaud.

But they're coming and they're getting to know their Parliament. Tourists from other countries also come in the thousands.

At the height of the tourist season, as many as 14,000 people come to the Hill each day

CAN'T SEARCH ALL

They can't all be searched, even if any one wanted to. And anyone determined to bring in a bomb or a weapon could do so easily enough. It could be concealed in a coat, or a package, or a woman's handbag.

There have been suggestions that better control could be obtained by admission of the British system, where no one gets into the galleries without a pass from authorities

While this seems appealing, it wouldn't offer any real protection against the bomb type of incident. It was only two years ago that Ronald Cass threw a carton of beer to all onto the floor of the Commons. It could just as easily have been a bomb

And Mr Cass had made his pitch from a seat in a special gallery which he had obtained on a pass from a member of parliament

NO COMPLETE ANSWER

There is quite a bit of support here for the Speaker's reluctance to impose any kind of restrictions on public access. This is a matter of public [illegible]

Any restriction on any visitor from another country, can drop into the House any time it's in session and find a seat. It's a free and easy system, and a good one. It's akin to the pride Canadians can feel in the fact that their prime minister can move freely about his country without being shadowed by hordes of protective police.

Security can't protect itself against isolated cases of insanities without violating some dear and valuable rights of citizens in general.

From time to time a mad bomber will have his way. When he does, it is up to the rest of us to ensure that we don't panic, that we don't sacrifice precious advantages for a temporary and in the end a spurious kind of protection.

Holden HS student wins cancer poster contest

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

Steven Koppel of Bruce a student at Holden Junior High school, was presented with a cheque and certificate Friday afternoon, May 20th — the first prize which he won in the Cancer Society Poster Contest for grades IX and X in the Edmonton and District Division. This was the first contest that Steven has ever entered and it is hoped with his ability not the last.

The award was presented to Steven by Mrs Ernie Doran who is on the teaching staff of Bruce School and also a member of the Women's Institute, which sponsor the Cancer Campaign in Bruce and district. Mrs Doran complimented Steven on winning the prize and remarked that he always had artistic ability and wished him well in his future studies.

Mrs Geo H Taylor member on the Edmonton and District Cancer Society Council, and representing the Cancer Society, also complimented Steven and said it was very gratifying to have a pupil of the Holden School win first prize, as a large number of students from many schools in the city and rural district entered the contest. She expressed hope that the students of Holden school would enter the contest again.

Mr Olson, principal of Holden school addressed the pupils expressing his pleasure that they had entered the contest, and that this, and many other projects they worked on in school would be of benefit to them in their future.

Oleh Shykora thanked Mrs Doran and Mrs. Taylor for being present and awarding the prize to Steven.

Steven thanked the ladies for the award, and said he had never thought that he would be fortunate enough to win a prize with his poster.

Scotch Broth

The only similarity between this broth and the kind made in a pot is that both have a variety of ingredients in them. I have a recipe for real Scotch Broth but none for the column which is just made out of my head. The real Mackay calls for a sheep's head which has even less appeal to people in this part of the world.

My dog Brose and I reached Alberta by road from Ontario last week and a long journey it seemed for both of us. You'll be seeing him around with me and, should you not recognize the breed he's a Welsh Corgi. It's all wrong that he should have a Scottish name so I'll explain that, too. I was doing this kind of job in another Alberta town, and I was often referred to as "Scotch Broth". The pup was given to me there and I said maybe I should call him Brose, as that is another Scottish delicacy. I've only tasted it once. That was enough. But it's simple so I'll part with the recipe. Take a handful of oatmeal, pour boiling water over it and add a pinch of salt. With plenty of good farm cream you may be able to swallow it.

I believe the history of this delectable dish dates back to the days when single men were available for farm work and lived in a bunkhouse or bothy as it is called in Scotland. The meal, milk and probably potatoes, were their perequisites, and the brose saved cooking proper porridge.

On my recent Trans-Canada trip it seemed most difficult to find accommodation for the night when I was most weary. On the other side of the Twin Cities I had four tries before settling in. My wants were few—warmth in the low temperatures prevailing, a clean bed and some means of boiling water for a 6:00 a.m. cup of coffee before leaving. One fat old dear of Slavic origin and with "vacancies" screeched at me, "Ve cannot have frying in ze rooms". I didn't stop to explain. The next one, with a face like rolls of suet pastry, wanted an exorbitant price and followed me to the car saying, "I vill show you ze room I get my hoosband". Not wanting her room or her husband, I backed out. But I met with extraordinary kindness at Brandon, where I had a breakdown and was faced with two days stuck in a hotel or motel and, it was feared, an expensive repair. Worst of all, it was my own fault. Eventually the parents of the garage owner's wife took me in as their guest and extended true western hospitality. Although the repairs were carried out that day, a Sunday too, I stayed overnight with my hosts and made firm friends with them. It was a good start in the west and I hope a good omen for the future in Camrose and district.

Completion is expected this summer on a new Alberta Liquor Control Board warehouse in Calgary. A contract was awarded last fall to Commonwealth Construction Ltd. of Calgary for $1,198,000. The structure is located on Highway No. 2 in the northern section of the city on a six-acre site.

Consisting of approximately 80,000 square feet, an added area of enclosed railway trackage brings total area to 110,000 square feet. The building has a clear ceiling height of 22 feet as all merchandise will be handled by fork lift palletizing.

Main floor is four feet above grade level to facilitate trucking and railway shipments. The floor is of reinforced concrete with an integral hardener to stand the heavy usage it will receive from trucks and other vehicles. The floor is designed to support a live load of 800 pounds per square foot.

Construction of the building is precast concrete frame and roof deck. Exterior finish is painted concrete block with some brick veneer on the office section. General office and lunch room areas are air conditioned and there is a large refrigerated area for beer keg storage.

Loading area space can accommodate twelve large shipping trucks as well as seven railway boxcars. Provision has also been made ... an extra summer load ... covered area. The building is designed for future expansion.

Farewell for grade 9 classes Tofield Junior high has

(Joy Warkentin)

The Grade Nine Farewell Banquet was held in the Tofield Community on May 18th, when head table guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sodhi, Mr and Mrs. Lampitt, Mr. and Mrs. Cribb, Mr. and Mrs. Annis, Mr Norton, Mrs. Phillips and Miss Cummings.

John Sears, president of the Big Three, acted as chairman, and Roland said grace. Toast to the Queen was proposed by Dennis Murray. The toast to the Grade IX's, given by Harvey La Rocque, vice-president, was responded to by Joy Warkentin. Margaret Francis proposed the toast to the teachers, with acknowledgement by Mr. Lampitt, Mr. Sodhi, Mr. Norton, Miss Cummings, Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Annis.

TEACHING IN ETHIOPIA

Mr. Cribb, the guest speaker, stated that when he and his wife were teaching in Ethiopia, where little or no education had been introduced prior to that time, the eager pupils sat with open mouths taking in everything that was taught. Never before or after had Mr. Cribb had such an attentive class. The blackboard was a painted wall, desks were very crude, and students had only notebooks—no textbooks. Every lesson had to be dictated. After six years, when the Cribbs left Ethiopia, they were informed that the pupils had kept their notebooks for those six years.

Mr. Cribb said that Canada is a land of opportunity, and students should make good use of it. He closed with a motto: "You cannot fail unless you give up".

A short program, under the chairmanship of [illegible] Wittenberg, followed. After "Oh Canada" was sung, Lillian Balzer played two selections on the piano. The Grade VIII girls, accompanied by Lillian Balzer on the piano, sang a selection, the words of which were specialy written for the occasion. This was followed by an instrumental duet, with Lyle Jacobsen playing the accordion and Wayne Jones the guitar. Roland, Lillian and Elvira Balzer sang a trio. The Grade VIII girls, again accompanied by Lillian Balzer, sang another number, in which they wished the Grade IX's good luck, and Lena Schroeder played a piano solo.

[illegible] IX [illegible] grateful to the Grade VIII students and Mrs. Phillips for all the [illegible] they did in decorating, under the appropriate theme "Countdown for Grade Nine", and also for making corsages.

Drop age for blood donors

The minimum age of 18 for donating blood has been conditionally lowered to 17 it was announced today by the Red Cross blood transfusion service.

Blood transfusion service officials say they have observed no ill effects resulting from 17-year-olds donating blood.

The one condition separating 17-year-old donors from the rest is that they must have the written consent of one parent, and as all donors, must be medically fit to give blood.

Helpful Hints
—from your Co-op Store

Consumers who take time to shop wisely usually save both minutes and money. The consumer-owned CO-OP suggests when next you shop, that you take time to compare both prices and weights on competing brands of canned foods. Take time to be certain you're comparing products of equal grade. Remember . . . the highest grade of canned foods is marked FANCY . . . CHOICE and STANDARD qualities are lower than FANCY—but the grade has no bearing on the food's nutritional value. Quality varies from grade to grade, nutritional value is usually similar.

Pioneer mother passes at 81

(Mrs. Joe Knudsen)

PALMER-EARLING — Funeral services were held Thursday at the Zion Lutheran Church for Mrs. Leona Gunderson (nee Smorlie) who passed away at the Bethany Home where she had resided for about ten years.

Mrs. Gunderson leaves to mourn her loss, one son Henry Gunderson, one step-son Arthur Gunderson, three daughters, Mrs. Alice Larson, Mrs. Selma Bratrud and Mrs. Evelyn Mosby.

She was a daughter of the soil, and it came easy for her to undertake anything when circumstances arose, during her many years as a widow. In this pioneer country, she carved her home, for herself and her family.

Many paid their last respects at the [illegible]. Pastor Palmer Olson officiated and the Heveland Funeral [illegible] was in charge.

Recipe box

A good basic sugar cookie recipe guarantees the success of these fancy cookies, cut in shapes to carry out the bridal shower theme, introduced recently. We've suggested bell shapes (available in cookie cutters) and umbrellas (which can easily be cut out of cardboard, then used as a pattern for cutting the cookie dough). You'll love the hint of lemon flavor in these cookies, too.

SHOWER COOKIES
(Makes approx. 4 doz. Cookies)

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup soft butter
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 1 egg
- 1 egg yolk
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla

Butter cookie sheets lightly. Preheat oven to 350° F. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter; gradually beat in sugar and lemon rind. Add egg and egg yolk, beat well. Beat in vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture, part at a time, combining well after each addition. Divide dough in half and roll out to 1/8-inch thickness on lightly [illegible] or canvas. Cut into bell and umbrella shapes using cookie cutters or cardboard patterns. Place on prepared cookie [illegible]. Decorate as desired. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until just golden. Cool on cake racks.

Car insurance or $500 fine

Under the terms of the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act, the operator of a motor vehicle is required to produce, upon request by a peace officer, either

(a) a financial responsibility card (pink card) for that vehicle, or (b) a certificate (green certificate) issued under the Act acknowledging that a $20.00 fee has been paid to the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, formerly called the "Unsatisfied Judgement Fund", in respect of the motor vehicle.

It is the intention of law enforcement bodies in the province to commence spot checks of motor vehicles, which will be carried out periodically throughout the year. Any person who is found to be driving a motor vehicle without either of the items mentioned above is liable to a fine of up to $500. Already several individuals have been fined the maximum amount for this offence. It is in an effort to persuade Alberta motorists to carry the proper insurance on all motor vehicles, that these regulations have been brought into effect.

Alberta motorists completing their 1966 License Application Forms have been asked the following question: "Do you have the necessary insurance coverage?" Unless the question is answered with a "Yes" or "No", no license may be issued.

If the answer is "No", indicating that the vehicle is not insured in accordance with at least the minimum limits provided for under the Alberta Insurance Act, the owner had to pay an additional fee of $20.00 into the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund. This $20.00 must be added to the "Total Fee Payable" on the application for vehicle license, and the license issuing office must receive an application for a Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Certificate (Green Certificate) at the time an application is made for a vehicle license.

A maximum penalty of $500 may be imposed where the application indicated that a motor vehicle is insured, when in fact it is an uninsured vehicle.

The Green Certificate issued under the Accident Claims Act does not provide insurance of any kind, nor does the $20.00 fee. However, if the motor vehicle owner has either of the required documents, the pink card or the green card, in his possession, he is not liable to fine.

Pioneer birdman honored in new book

The work of Frank Farley continues to live on, with publication of a revised edition of "Birds of Alberta". One of Alberta's pioneer ornithologist, Camrose has seen much of Farley's work over the years, as his influence extended into the lives of several young men who took up the activity as a sport, and later turned it into a career. Although he died about 15 years ago, his work continues to be the base for this monumental study.

Distributed by the Queen's Printer, the book is being circulated by bookdealers throughout the province, meeting back orders which have been standing for many months.

The revised edition offers some 85 new colored plates illustrating the text written by Professor W. R. Salt of the University of Alberta, originally in collaboration with A. L. "Bert" Wilk, formerly of Round Hill. The original volume was prefaced with high praise to the late Frank Farley of Camrose, whose early work in the field paved the way to preparation of the book.

The popular text describes, in detail readily understandable by the layman, the appearance, habits and habitat of birds commonly found in Alberta. Illustrating each description in most cases is a full color photograph of the bird. Most of these were taken by the author, Cyril Hampson and Mrs. Kay Hodges.

Priced at $5, the volume is sold almost at cost and was a labor of love on the part of the authors and photographers. Birdwatchers of long standing attribute the growing numbers of their clan in Alberta to the volume.

HOW TO CLEAN YOUR FACE

To clean your face, remove both soiled make-up and the dirt and grime collected during the day by applying cleansing cream. After removing the cleansing cream with a removal pad, pat face with hot or warm water, followed by a gentle soap lather. When cleaning the skin, work all the way into the hairline and over the ears and behind the ears and over the back of the neck. To protect the hair, wear a headband whether soaping or creaming.

Normal skin can take both a creaming and soaping to stimulate and cleanse and freshen the face. It is not wise to soap dry skin because of its sensitivity towards soaps. Medicated soaps are available for those who have skin problems. Deep-pore cleansers may be used once in a while to remove blackheads and to stimulate natural skin oils.

Whatever method or articles you use in night and morning cleansing, to do it correctly and regularly keeps the skin looking healthy and alive. Cleansing action also helps do away with sallowness and improves many skin problems.

PICNIC PLANNING

This June, take time off from your studies or after exams to throw an all-day picnic. Choose a location that supports game action and exploration, such as Ross' Flats or Happy Valley.

FOOD: If you plan to have enough people for two softball teams, suggest that each person contribute to the party by bringing some "energy" (food). But be sure to work it out so as not to end up with 10 loaves of sandwiches and one salad. Remember, that after a softball game or a hiking expedition, everyone will be hungry . . . make sure the food is plentiful.

ENTERTAINMENT: Don't forget the ball and bats! Maybe the picnic spot is wisely chosen beside your uncle's horse ranch, or the creek with the biggest rainbow trout ever. Field games can be loads of fun if well planned. Plan well ahead of time and have an all-day picnic party. Even hire some ants . . . just for tradition.

Baseball Tourney will highlight "Showcase 66"

Showcase '66, under the management of Lionel Barton, will be offering a two-day ball tournament as part of the Dominion Day celebration, sponsored by the Community League. This will occur July 1 and 2. With $450 in prizes offered, there are openings for eight entries. Some of these have already been filled Since baseball has been a major attraction in Tofield on Dominion Day for over 30 years, a two-day tournament is certain to arouse great interest.

Little League and Pony League baseball are also being arranged, and the diamond is being put into shape

The cutting and jumping horses will again delight the crowd. This event is being arranged by Horace Salter The fire department, both town and rural, will be putting up bleachers so that spectators may watch these exciting events in comfort.

THE RACE IS ON!

The Queen-and-Princess race is on! The students are selling tickets at a great rate. A chart monitor to indicate the standings of the four teams will be erected on Main Street soon

A $700 bill is to be raffled by the League on July 1. The ticket sales for this event are under the management of H. A Pike and John Baergen

Preparations are being made for the comfort and convenience of the usual large crowd on Dominion Day. The Historical Society will host Oldtimers in the Curling Rink. How about inviting a former Tofield resident to visit you on Dominion Day?

Mrs. Boyles is receiving entries for the handicraft display, which last year attracted many entries and many visitors. Mrs. Boyles and the Community League wish it to be understood that entries are for display only; no sales or other commercial ventures are allowed.

Dominion Day is traditionally Tofield's big day, and it is the proceeds from this day which will help to pay off the indebtedness on the New Community Centre. If everyone helps, this Dominion Day could exceed all previous ones.

DEADLINE

A barbecue will again send forth tantalizing odors when the pit is opened on Dominion Day. This feature of the celebration has always been highly successful, and this year should be even more

As usual, everyone pays the entry fee at the gate—workers included.

FROM THE SCRAP BOOK

Grade 5's visit historic sites

(Grade 5A)

About a month ago our teachers announced that we we were going on a Field Trip. We wondered what it was; we soon found out. A field trip is an educational trip away from the school, where you learn by actual observation

Much effort, time, and preparation were put into this trip so that it would be a success The children and teachers were working against time — collecting information, planning the route, and studying maps. We were privileged to have Mr. J Francis give us a very interesting talk in the local museum. This gave us a background to the history of our town. Incidentally the T.V. programs we saw in school helped us a great deal

We were very excited and it

"We'll insure the kids.."

Last week in this column we ran an item under the heading "Who Will Insure the Kids?" pointing out that many companies were backing off completely, while others made their rates so high as to be impossible. It was a point we've been meaning to write on for several weeks.

Too many weeks, apparently. It didn't take more than a couple of days to get an answer.

Things have changed in the automobile world, and nearly all, if not all, insurance companies are taking young drivers, and first-time drivers of any age, under the assigned risk plan, that is, they are passed around in strict rotation, each company taking its percentage of the new contracts.

Approaches differ with various companies, but broadly, we were told, the new customers are treated much the same way as any other customer. Their insurance is written at normal rates, and they can get themselves out of the assigned risk level if their driving warrants it. If not, they stay there with rates being levelled on a commensurate basis.

Seems to us the idea is eminently fair, and the insurance companies are to be commended on their new approach to the problem.

Millions of eyes will be glued to television sets tonight to see and hear how the United States comes off with its attempt for a soft landing of the Surveyor 1 spacecraft on the moon. The camera being carried in the nosecone will undoubtedly record fascinating bits of information not now within our ken, but probably the greatest fund of information will come from the actual landing itself.

Almost certainly, too, the effects of this landing will have a major bearing on the next step, that of carrying a man there. Things are moving rapidly in the space race, yet not quite so fast as the imaginative writers of the comics can race ahead. Still, maybe they're only pointing the way and getting a few miles ahead of us. The way things are going, the youngsters of tomorrow will probably be rushing off to the moon for the 24th of May, Uh, pardon us, Victoria Day . . . on whatever date it falls.

Stiffer sentences

It's interesting to note that sentences for motoring misdemeanors are getting stiffer in the Capitol City. Not for the run-of-the-mill minor infractions, but such things as driving without a license, driving while suspended, switching licenses and this sort of contempt of court.

Only last week the court records show a man sentenced to three months in jail for a second offence of driving while his license was suspended. Only a few weeks earlier such an offence would probably have brought only a little heavier fine.

The tightening up will be welcomed by the public generally, which is fast coming to believe it's being victimized in at least two ways by the irresponsible or contemptuous driver. First, they feel, they're not nearly as safe on the road as they might be with this driver off the roads, and secondly, they feel at least some of the high costs of auto insurance can be charged to them.

Border trouble

Trouble with sales tax is nothing new in Lloydminster, which straddles the Alberta-Saskatchewan border, but seemingly some sort of workable arrangement could be hammered out by the provincial authorities concerned. Many other communities in the Dominion would welcome any kind of sensible solution, but it wouldn't be sensible if some account is not taken of the very nature of geography. Border smuggling is an age-old sport of mankind, and it might as well be recognized officially in a case like this.

The Saskatchewan government wants to collect all the taxes possible, and objects to residents on its side of the border doing their shopping over in Alberta . . . just across the street very often.

Of course, it could reduce the services it provides in books such as these. That's one alternative.

At least another would be to recall they collect untold amounts of taxes from tourists from Alberta, who don't collect very much in the way of service such as education or hospitalization or whatever else the sales tax is for. The two might balance out not too unreasonably.

At last someone has come out with a summation of what the Munsinger case is all about, and it is done by comparing Canada's Munsinger case with Britain's Profumo case a couple of years ago. The writing is that of a man who has so many times in the past seemed to have given some understandable information to matters that most people find confusing—Blair Fraser of Maclean's Magazine.

In the first place, says Fraser, both cases were similar because a minister of the Crown was involved, on a more than casual basis, with a common prostitute But the similarities end there.

In the Profumo scandal the security threats caused by Christine Keeler's liaisons were deemed to be negligible—except for the unlikely possibility of blackmail. In the Munsinger case with spies was more direct. Outside Canada she had helped Soviet spies obtain false papers and had stolen money from for them.

But there doesn't seem to be any suggestion that Gerda's activities ever led to a breach of security regulations inside Canada. And any possibilities of blackmail were eliminated by the fact that the amorous adventures of Pierre Sevigny, the Associate Minister of Defence, were known to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

This, says Fraser, is the basic difference between Gerda and Keeler. In Britain, Prime Minister Macmillan was able to plead ignorance about Profumo's relations. Diefenbaker, in contrast, was instantly informed. But beyond giving Sevigny a severe scolding, he did nothing

What the Spence inquiry is all about, says Fraser, is whether Diefenbaker's decision to take no action was prudent or dangerous.

DUTY FREE MACHINES

(OTTAWA. — By this time next year Canada may be offering American manufacturers of industrial machinery a very substantial tariff cut and, in certain cases, free entry for their product. The plan has been given informal Cabinet approval in principle though some details remain to be worked out.

Whether the machinery program will be implemented eventually will depend on the attitude of the United States government and industry, the stand of other signatories to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade since it involves raising one tariff while it reduces another and the agreement of the United Kingdom which would lose part of its preferential tariff margin on machinery.

Initial reaction in Washington has been cool. This is not surprising. Canada is not planning to offer mere nominal tariff treatment to American manufacturers without an ulterior motive. The real purpose of the plan is to encourage Canadian manufacturers to replace part of an importation of machinery, valued last year at $1,218 million with home manufacture.

The tariff on imports of industrial machinery is governed by Tariff Board rulings on whether a machine is "of a class or kind made in Canada" This has been interpreted for years to mean that Canadian manufacturers supply 10 per cent of the Canadian demand. If the particular machine or machine tool is made in Canada according to this formula it is subject to a 22 1/2 per cent tariff. If it is not, the tariff is 7 1/2 per cent

The "class or kind" system has never been popular, even though it can provide massive protection to the manufacturer. The fact that he must first be supplying 10 per cent of the Canadian market means that in the early stages of production he is exposed to the cold winds of competition Only when he needs it less can he live in the shelter of the tariff wall while the Canadian purchaser pays the higher price for his machine which he passes on in a higher price to the consumer of his product

In addition to this, Tariff Board rulings on "class or kind" involve legal wrangles, right and narrowing judicial decisions and appeals to higher courts with consequent delay and uncertainty

It is now proposed to eliminate class or kind rulings in determining the tariff on industrial machinery. One level of tariff, perhaps 15 per cent, would replace the 22 1 2 per cent and 7 1/2 per cent. An importer would then apply to a board of government officials for suspension of the tariff. To get free entry for the particular machine or machine tool he would have to satisfy the board not only that it was not being made in Canada but that it could not and would not be made here economically and within reasonable time. The board would hold public hearings at which prospective manufacturers could

One difficulty is to find a process for appeal. No one is going to be satisfied to let a bureaucratic board have the final say. Yet an appeal to the courts involves the same old delays and, to be acceptable, the new plan must be quick, simple and efficient. Cabinet has rejected the suggestion of officials that the Minister be given final decision. Governments have had enough trouble politically with ministerial discretion written into the law. An alternative is reported to have been proposed and there will be plenty of time to discuss it. With some luck as well as a bit of good management the machinery program might be ready for introduction in the 1967 Spring budget.

The machinery program does not require any action by Washington but Canada is expecting to get something in return for this major tariff concession. The appropriate place to obtain this quid pro quo is the so called "Kennedy round" of tariff bargaining among GATT members at Geneva. At the moment the Geneva negotiations are stalled pending agreement among themselves on agricultural and other policies of the Common Market countries If there is failure to get this and the Kennedy round collapses Canada will seek bilateral talks with the United States next year when the machinery program would be a major offer

At the moment, however, U.S. officials are reported to be a little weary of Canada's free trade schemes. The automobile agreement of 1965, while it is credited with a large part of the spectacular increase in Canadian exports of cars and parts last year, is not too popular on either side of the border At the end the Americans may not be too keen to offer any valuable concession in return for conditional free entry of machinery, since in some cases, it will mean an increased tariff

Meanwhile there have been some preliminary approaches to Canadian industry where co-operation is essential. The response, so far, has been favourable.

the recent settlement of the truck drivers strike in Ontario may provide a solution to the problem of applying the new Labour Code hours of work to the trucking industry. The settlement includes inauguration of the 40-hour week on January 1, 1968. So far the trucking industry is enjoying an 18-month deferment of the hours of work provision which will expire at the end of this year. If the industry in Ontario applies for it a further deferment will be given, the end of which would coincide with the collective bargaining agreement. It is hoped this would set a precedent to be followed in other provinces.

Ryley 4-H beef club planning busy month

(By Club Reporter)

On May 26, the Ryley 4-H Beef Club held a regular meeting in the School Home Economics room.

There were several items on the agenda for this meeting. The first was the final plans for the club Achievement Day. It was decided that the weigh-in at the Alberta Pacific elevator commence at 8:30 in the morning on June 7, and that the calves be paraded through town to the skating rink, where the judging will take place at 10:00 o'clock. Immediately after the judging of calves, Jacobson's will provide free transportation for the calves to Viking for the grand champion judging and sale, which will be held in the Carena.

The club decided to hold a dance and "slave" auction in Victory Hall on June 10, as a final attempt to raise club funds.

The final club activities to be held as the closing events for this year are a private banquet for club members, their parents, and the invited merchants who donated prizes for the achievement day. This will be held June 24. On July 7, the club has planned an evening picnic at the Beaver Lake camp-grounds. This will be the last club activity for this year, and members hope it will be a success.

Everyone is invited to attend the Achievement Day on Tuesday, June 7, to see what 4-H Clubs are doing throughout the year, and are asked to come to the sale at Viking and support the local Beef Club by purchasing a fine calf. Remember, the following Friday (June 10), a dance will be held in Victory Hall. Everyone welcome.

County Council meets May 12

Minutes of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 Thursday, May 12, 1966.

Mr. D. J. Bussard, Department of Highways District Engineer was present at this time to discuss with the Council the proposed road program under the Articles of Agreement and other items.

Mr. Bussard stated that the Department would appreciate if the County would undertake to spray the main highways, Nos. 14 and 36, for weeds as they were located within the boundaries of the County and the Department would pay the cost for this work. Mr. Bussard was informed that this request would be taken care of.

He also referred to the Department's desire to see a permanent type of snow fence, that is a shelterbelt planted some 100 feet in from the fence line on the various farms, and he wondered what success this had met with in the County in past years. It was suggested that not too much success had been had in this matter as many farmers seem to consider a shelterbelt far from the fence line as being obstructive to their farming operations and, although this was understandable to some extent, it was also considered that a shelterbelt of this kind would not only assist in keeping the roads clear of snow but it would also help in cutting down on the soil drifting during dry windy seasons. It was suggested that, if some method of payment for these shelterbelts to the farmers could be considered, the farmers would be more likely to put in this type of shelterbelt. The Council was then advised that the grant to the County under the Articles of Agreement amounted to $89,233.00, an increase of $3,765.00 from 1965.

Moved by Cr. Johnston that his information be accepted. Cd.

Business arising from the minutes:

In regards to the proposed assessment map, the Secretary-Treasurer reported that he had contacted Riley's Reproductions Ltd. and had received a price of $1000.00 to $1200.00 for 2500 copies of these maps. He had also contacted Commercial Printers but, before he could get a price from them, he would have to obtain some more information from the County of Camrose who had had a map prepared by Commercial Printers some time ago. He stated that is was his intention to go down to Camrose to obtain this information.

Moved that the report be accepted. Cd.

In regards to fire fighting equipment for Kinsella, Cr. Johnston stated that he had not yet received the information from certain parties which he had contacted in this connection and it was decided to defer this matter until the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. A. R. Graham, Assistant Manager of Alberta Motor Association, interviewed the Council at this time in regards to the Association's method of putting up road signs. He stated that it was the intention of the Association to thoroughly cover that portion of the Province, in which the County of Beaver is located, this year and that it would then be three years before the road signing outfit would be in the area again. He requested that the Councillors submit all the necessary information so that a comprehensive program could be carried out during the month of June. Mr. Graham then retired.

The resignation of the Road Foreman, Mr. J. W. Peck, to be effective on May 14th was referred to the Council. His resignation had been referred to the Council at the Special Meeting on April 30 and at this time it was moved that the resignation of the Public Works Foreman, Mr. J. W. Peck, be accepted. Cd.

The Sec.-Treas. was requested to refer the following bridges to the Bridge Department for inspection and possible replacement, either by new bridges or culverts: S.E. 17-48-12-W.4th; West 5-49-15-W.4th; WNW. 29-49-14-W.4th; SSW. 9-47-15-W.4th.

The Sec.-Treas. was also requested to notify Calgary Power Limited of the need for moving power poles at the following locations.

WSW. 6-48-14-W.4th, 2 miles east; NNW. 7-48-12-W.4th, 2 miles east; SNW. 14-49-16-W.4th, approximately 1 mile north; SSW. 23-49-16-W.4th, 9 miles north.

It was decided to continue the Council meeting on May 19th and it was moved at 5:25 p.m. that the meeting now adjourns to reconvene on Thursday, May 19th at 10:00 a.m. Cd.

It appeared that Mr. Fane had gone to a considerable amount of work, having had a number of meetings with the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa and his Advisory Staff as well as with the Board of Review of the P.F.A. Act, but without any change in the original decisions having been made.

Moved that the letter be received and filed. Cd.

Moved that the fire fighting equipment as outlined by Cr. Johnston be purchased. Cd.

A report from the Board of Review of the P.F.A. Branch concerning townships in the County for which inspection had been requested was now referred to the Council. The original decision was that none of these townships were eligible, however, the latest report indicated that some actions in Townships 48-13, 48-14, 49-13 and 49-14 were eligible.

Moved that the report be received and filed. Cd.

Information from the Alberta Crop Insurance Corporation and the Annual Report from the Corporation was placed before the Council and it was moved that the material be received and filed. Cd.

It was suggested that this matter could be discussed by the Agricultural Committee and the Advisory Agricultural Committee and it was moved that the matter be referred to these two bodies. Cd.

The Sec.-Treas. mentioned that the RCMP had inquired how strictly we wanted the fire permits enforced and after some discussion it was moved that we request the RCMP to enforce the fire permits according to regulations. Cd.

The Budget for 1966 as set up by the Sec.-Treas. was now referred to the Council and was examined item by item. It was noted that no provisions had been made for the cost of the Rural Road Study, neither had there been any provisions for a possible grant to the Town of Viking for a fire engine and it was suggested that possibly another mill should be added to take care of these items as well as providing a small cushion. It was then moved that the estimates, as dealt with at this time, be approved providing for expenditures in the amount of $1,260,149.00 with estimated revenue in a similar amount and that the necessary bylaw be placed before the Council. # Anglican women have conference at Tofield

The annual Wainwright Deanery Conference of the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church was held at Holy Trinity Church, Tofield, on May 25th. Holy Communion was celebrated at 11:00 a.m., with the Venerable Archdeacon V. P. Cole of Wainwright the celebrant, assisted by Rev. T. Steele of Sedgewick and Rev. McDermott of Viking. The Rev. T. Elliott of Edgerton was the Preacher.

Executive members present from the Edmonton Diocesan Board were Mrs L. D. Moore, president; Mrs. B. L. Brown, prayer partner secretary; Mrs. J. R. Warner, life members secretary; Mrs. A. Ridley, living message secretary, and Mrs. J. F. Hodgins, Christian social service secretary. Delegates were also present from Rodino, Viking, Irma, Edgerton, Wainwright, Hughenden, Killam, Lougheed, Sedgewick and Tofield, numbering 74 in all.

After luncheon in the Community Hall, sessions opened at 2:00 p.m. The address of welcome was given by a member of the Afternoon W.A., and was replied to by a Sedgewick W.A. member. Branch reports were adopted, and addresses were given by the Deanery president, Mrs. P. E. Semotuik of Wainwright, and by the executive members present from Edmonton.

There was a large display of knitted and sewing articles, including layettes and quilts from the various W.A. groups; also articles for Social Service. Money was voted towards the Anglican World Mission, the Overseas Scholarship Fund and the Oakhill Boys' Ranch.

There was a fine display of Pakistan embroideries. The W.A. in Canada continues to support this work which Elsa Peter is doing for the women of Pakistan to help support the families and to provide clothing and school books for the children. There is a store in Lahore devoted to the sale of embroidery, and one has recently been opened in Knightsbridge, London; but they still depend a great deal on the sales made in Canada, which last year amounted to $32,000, Edmonton's share being $500.

The meeting adjourned at 4:00 p.m., followed by a short Evensong and refreshments.

On the Provincial Scene

By JOHN WARREN

It was sort of an odds-and-ends week.

Lands and Forests department crews were getting prepared for some serious fires in most northern forested areas. After bringing an 18-hundred-acre blaze under control in the Peace River forest district, a crew of 30 men, four bulldozers and aerial support, pulled out—but not too far. The hazard in all but the mountain regions was rated high as the week ended.

Then there was the first meeting of the legislative committee appointed at the last session to study school centralization.

There can be little question that it needs study. The problems (of inadequate education in some rural schools compared to that provided in large centralized high schools; of small or work school boards in some remote areas) are serious if not alarming.

Just what the committee will discover and recommend remains to be seen. But under chairman Romeo Lamothe (SC-Bonnyville) it will undoubtedly be kept hopping.

On the same general subject a judicial order in Spirit River emphasized just how severe the difficulties can become. Voters there had defeated (by 377 to 333) a money bylaw that would have permitted construction of a $1,335,000 centralized high school. That was on March 28. Last week Judge D M Gardiner voided the plebiscite after hearing that [illegible] people who cast ballots weren't entitled to.

Added the judge: "This matter appears to arise by reason of a very defective statute". The School Act, he said, "leaves the whole situation open to misunderstanding and error"

He said he was satisfied a proper vote had not been taken. It isn't known when another plebiscite may be held.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Pontiac Parisienne Custom Sport Convertible with Sports Option

The only thing that says "low price" about Pontiac is its price tag... and that's removable.

It would be easy for a guy like you to get excited about a new Parisienne convertible, wouldn't it. Breezy, full-sized styling. Rich interiors. The car has success written all over it. Sure, you'd like to own a Pontiac. But if you're like a lot of people we know, you maybe figure that Pontiac is just too good to be true. You figure it costs a lot of money. Of course we can tell you all kinds of nice things about Pontiac; how well it's built, how much you deserve one, but the nicer we make the car sound, the more expensive you think it is. The only way we can get around this is to invite you in to have a look at the price tag. It's maybe not quite as colorful as the car, but it's liable to turn you on just the same. People forget (and who can blame them), but Pontiac is not an expensive car! And that's not just talk. We can offer you the kind of a deal that could put you behind the wheel of your own new Pontiac this week. A guy like you could really go places in a Pontiac. If there's any better way to get there, we can't think of it. And an easier way, we're sure there isn't. So drop in and get acquainted with all our price tags. You'll know us right away. Just look for one of the names listed below. Be seeing you.

Community league seeks to retire debt in '67

It will be remembered that, before Easter, The Mercury carried a guest editorial written by Tofield's mayor, Dr W. H Freebury, in which the suggestion was made that citizens who appreciated Tofield's fine Community Centre might wish to show their appreciation in a tangible manner. Since that time, Hans Christensen, treasurer of the Tofield Community League, announces $30 in cash donations has been made to the League.

Horace Seller announces that, to date, $900 has been returned to the League by holders of the League's notes for that amount. These donors were people who had loaned the League money to assist in building their new Community Centre and now, rather than collecting their money, are leaving it with the League to aid in its Centennial Drive to retire the debt on the Community Centre. Other holders of notes have indicated similar intentions.

For past and future donations, the League says "Thank You".

seemed that May 13 would never come. Finally, when the day arrived it turned out to be an ideal day for the trip. The buses left promptly at 8:55 with two bus loads of excited and eager children.

On the way to Edmonton we observed many different things such as occupations of the people, and formations, difference in soil, and industries. When we arrived at Edmonton we were quite surprised at all the means of transportations on the network of highways. The modern houses and buildings made a great impression on us.

Leaving Edmonton, we proceeded to St. Albert, where we visited the St. Albert museum and saw Father Lacombe's 1 e m 1 s and m-mument. After this we visited Hudson's Edmonton House, which is a replica of the original fort built by the Hudson's Bay Company. We were fascinated with the lovely pe:ures, the furs, trade goods, and the display of guns and ammunition. Our next stop was at McDougall Church, and the George McDougall house and Museum Here the sturdy little pioneer church stands beside the large modern one John Walter's House, in the old residential section of Edmonton, was the last place we visited. What struck us most was the replica of the York boat and many other pioneer relics

Then we started home, and most people would imagine our wonderful trip had come to an end. But it had not We are still enjoying it by writing reports, doing illustrations and filling in our booklets.

All of us agree that this trip was most enjoyable and worthwhile. Not only have we gained knowledge, but also broadened our ideas. In our opinion, gaining knowledge first hand by actual observation is the best

The Grade Five Classes are very grateful to our superintendent of Beaver County, our principal, and teachers for giving us this great opportunity

School superintendent H. A. Pike transferred

Word has recently been received in Tofield that H. A. Pike, Superintendent of Schools in the County of Beaver, has been transferred to Medicine Hat School Division, No. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Pike and their sons, Gavin, now a pre-law student at the U. of A., and Dean, a Grade VIII student, have resided in this area since 1954. Until 1959, they lived in Holden, but in that year they built a home in Tofield and have lived here during the past seven years.

Mr. and Mrs. Pike came to Alberta from Saskatchewan. Mr. Pike obtained his early education in Swift Current, Sask., and his B.Ed degree from the University of Alberta

After teaching in Calgary city schools, Mr. Pike was appointed Superintendent of Schools in the Edson School Division. In 1954 he was transferred to the then Holden School Division, now the County of Beaver, No. 9

Mr. Pike has great organizational ability. He leaves the County of Beaver with the gratifying knowledge that his ability has been able to participate in the new mathematics' program, has achieved satisfactory results. He has worked with the School committee, the administrative staffs and the teachers in the schools and says that, due to the co-operation of all involved in the County's educational system, the County of Beaver is one of the most progressive areas in Alberta.

He is happy to state that due to the foresight of the County of Beaver, the students in its schools have been able to participate in the continuous progress plan whereby students are grouped with others of like ability, and excellent physical education programs under qualified instructors. New biology and chemical laboratories have been constructed and students may keep abreast of the new scientific knowledge; instruction in band music has been given in some centres; the new libraries in the County of Beaver are second to none in the Province. He feels that, in regard to education, this is an area of which its residents may well be proud.

BUSY IN COMMUNITY

As well as his professional activities, Mr Pike has found time for community activities, and here Mrs. Pike has also been greatly involved Both are members of the United Church of Canada, and Mrs. Pike is a member of the U.C.W. Both have worked hard for the Tofield Community League; Mr. Pike has been an officer and member, Mrs. Pike has given freely of her artistic talent to help the League.

Mr. Pike has been instrumental in bringing the now Drama Festivals to Tofield on several occasions. Both are members of the golf club; Mrs. Pike of the bridge club. Both are members of fraternal organizations: Mr. Pike an officer of Palestine Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 66, and Mrs. Pike holds an office in Ionic Chapter No. 72 O.E.S. Mr. Pike

Comm. League studies Dominion Day celebration

With president Lionel Borton in the chair, the Tofield Community League met Tuesday, June 7, in the Community Center. Since this was the last meeting before the League's Dominion Day celebration, attention of the members was directed toward plans for that occasion.

The new features this year which have already been announced are the two-day, eight-team baseball tournament, and the Dominion Day Queen and Princess contest

In addition, another new attraction has been added Vince Bates, an expert, experienced sheep-shearer, will give a demonstration of his skill and speed in front of the bleachers just before the first "go-round" of the horse show This will be Vince's busy day, since he is also in charge of cooking the meat for another of his famous barbecues.

To go with the delicious barbecued meat, a fine meal is being planned, which will consist of potatoes, gravy, cucumbers, tomatoes, rolls, and coffee. After an enjoyable day, this meal will taste especially good since it is eaten out-doors to the company of friends. It will be served at 4:30 to accommodate the crowd.

LEHMAN ON MIKE

Doug Lehman will again be announcing the ball games. Mr. Lehman has contributed his services for several Dominion Day celebrations, and the League is pleased that his fine announcing will be part of their celebration this year.

Baseball is extremely popular in this area, as indeed it has been ever since the first settlers introduced it. As well as the featured two-day tournament on senior baseball, each interest is being shown in the Pony League and the Little League baseball that a new diamond is to be provided for the younger players.

RACING FOR PRIZES

Tickets are going well for the Queen and Princess contest. The winning team will be crowned by League president Lionel Borton, just inside the entrance to the main gate to the exhibition grounds. The Queen will then be whisked away to throw out the first ball in a ball game, and return to distribute, with the help of her Princess, the awards in the parade winners.

The parade this year will form up at the C.N. depot, proceed north to Dr. Prentsey's clinic, turn east till it reaches the north gate of the exhibition grounds, the Community Center. Since this is the last meeting before the League's Dominion Day celebration, attention of the members was directed toward plans for that occasion.

Fine farmers for burning stubble without permit

This marks the first time in the province a charge has been laid under the Soil Conservation Act.

Rev. Ruxton accepts post at Redwater

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN — Rev. Ruxton was away in Calgary last week attending the Alberta Conference being held there. He returned home on the Saturday to pick up Mrs Ruxton and the two eldest children, returning to Calgary for his ordination, which was on Sunday.

We have been advised that Rev. Ruxton and his family have been posted to the United Church at Redwater.

Last Sunday, members of the session conducted services in the United Church in the absence of Rev. Ruxton. Mrs. Campbell delivered the address and Mrs. Lary Benson sang a beautiful solo. Mr. Don Allan also took part, and Mrs. J. Lindberg assisted.

ATA sub-local meet

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN — The Holden-Bruce Sub - local A. T. A. met Monday evening, May 30, when Mrs. Grace Appleby gave her report from the local. A representative is to be sent to the Drama Festival in Drumheller, August 7-13. The serial ball meet was successful, partly due to the fine weather Holden, Viking and Tofield each won two games. The grade 8 girls' team won their game.

Mrs Pearl Allan spoke about the convention. It has been decided to hold it March 2 and 3. There is to be a centennial trade in Edmonton at that time, and the teachers will have the opportunity to tour it.

The teachers annual June get-together will be held June 16

Miss Nagy, the Geographical representative, came from Vermilion to address the meeting. She said there are now 13 specialist councils A new one has been formed to include primary teachers She also spoke on the expansion of the A.T.A. and the work they are doing.

Adult delinquents

There's a lot of talk in recent years about kids who get in trouble, and almost the entire younger generation is concerned over the fact it's considered a bunch of juvenile delinquents because of the actions of a few.

Part of the trouble, too, is that some of the delinquency is the action of adults. If not adult in age, at least they're adult in development and physique

At least one Tofield motorist has had cause to find out how well developed these delinquents are, and to his sorrow. When he found someone had dumped sugar in the oil filler of his engine crankcase, he sorrowfully went through the expense of cleaning the whole engine out, shaking his head over such childish pranks, then took the precaution of installing a lock, mounted securely with welded supports on the filler line.

The notion of kids went out the window when he found his welded rods twisted off, and more sugar dumped in.

Why anybody would do such a stupid trick in the first place is hard to fathom. Why anybody would repeatedly vandalize one man's engine is even harder. And why anybody sufficiently grown up to wrench off welded rods isn't sufficiently grown up to know better passes all comprehension.

Because of their depredations, this unfortunate citizen has been driven to the unreasonable necessity of welding an extremely solid hinge over the filler, with a heavy padlock, so that it can be opened only with the key, or by tearing the whole filler off the motor. What's civilization coming to?

Serious crime

One of the more serious crimes recently has been going on more or less continuously for several months on Highway 14, where one or more men are impersonating police officers and stopping cars on the road. In a number of cases men have been bullied and abused, while several women have been the subject of attempted attack, though so far as is known, no attack has yet been successful.

No effort should be spared at apprehension, and indeed, police officers are doubling effort to halt the attacks, since they tend to bring into disrepute any police officer, however unfairly, and at the same time to make drivers highly wary about stopping even when legitimate peace officers are halting them.

Undermining confidence in the police forces is a serious crime. They need all the public support they can get.

A day's budget

The Shah of Iran has turned over to UNESCO a gift of $700,000 for its worldwide fight against illiteracy. The generous amount becomes doubly significant with the Shah's explanation that it represents merely the equivalent of one day's military budget in Iran. He has added that he will make this an annual gift — if richer nations follow suit.

The wealthy countries remained silent at the UNESCO meeting which heard the announcement. Delegates later explained that they could make no commitment without instructions from home. Anyway, most were doubtful that their governments would allocate in their pursuit of literacy such a huge sum as one day's military expenditure.

And so, if he achieves nothing else, the Shah of Iran has at least succeeded in drawing grim attention to the arms race and the perversity of values. The United States alone is estimated to be spending $185 million a day for military purposes.

-The Montreal Star

Public insurrection

In any of the central American nations, we'd call it public insurrection. In the southern United States, we'd probably call it race riot. And in this country we call it strike violence and dismiss it as something perfectly natural and expectable

It seems incredible to anyone with a background of respect for law and order that constituted authority should be so easily and so openly flouted, and with such impunity as is the case with some of the strikes in eastern Canada right now. Ordinary individuals would be run into the hoosegow with hardly a moment's hesitation if they were to act in such fashion, yet when the numbers become large enough, there is a great deal of doubt and hesitation. Of course, there's hardly enough space in all the jails, probably, to hold them.)

This wasn't the treatment accorded a number of hungry young men a few years ago when they decided to march on Ottawa for a little more. When we are going to treat that as wilful lawbreaking, and offer the public a little more protection?

I wonder when Albertans will experience a provincial election as close as that in Quebec Sunday.

There in Alberta in the last few elections there has been some doubt at times as to which party would form the opposition Much the same situation in Quebec exists following Sunday's election.

In Quebec, however, it's a question of the leaders of the two major parties both claiming they will form a government In Alberta the choice of who will form the official opposition came about election before last because the opposition parties each had only one representative. This makes it tough to chose an opposition leader as well.

Yet, for some reason, I feel that the political game here in Alberta is still on a rather high plane, particularly when compared with the political situation federally Sure, we may have four-man opposition and a "radical" party in power with more members on the government side than they have what to do with, but at least there has been no talk of scandals, very little, if any, time wasted on unimportant issues while the future of the province is at stake, and no mud-slinging. I used the "radical" party in describing our Social Credit government, because there is little doubt the people of Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes consider Socreds radicals, for the simple reason they don't know the situation here. While the original Socreds may have been radicals, I don't think many people today will deny that the present Alberta Social government is probably more truly right-wing conservative than the Conservative party itself.

LABOUR UNREST THREATENS

OTTAWA. — Canada's booming, prosperous economy is threatened.

It is threatened by a rash of strikes There are more strikes across the country than the Federal labour officials can recall for many years

The serious labour disputes, if they continue to spread, could bring the Canadian economy to a jarring, grinding halt

Labour Minister J. R Nicholson is worried He frankly told the House of Commons at the end of May that labour unrest was getting near the point of being completely out of hand

The Minister appealed to all members of Parliament to apply their minds to finding "some corrective formula or solution" which will prevent matters from deteriorating to any greater degree

Inflationary pressures are at work in the economy They have resulted in rising prices This in turn led to labour pressing for higher wages In April alone 16 conciliation boards were set up according to federal spokesmen In other times, a total for a year of 25 such conciliation boards would be regarded as normal

One of the most serious strikes to afflict the nation, in view of Labour Minister Nicholson, was the walkout by the longshoremen that tied up ports at Montreal, Three Rivers and Quebec City This had slowed down Canada's shipments of wheat overseas and the exports of other products shroud Prairie wheat sales were endangered Experts were accumulating at the docksides and Quebec farmers were suffering an acute shortage of feed grain for their cattle

As that strike stretched into nearly a month the Federal Government exerted all its efforts at persuasion to try and bring the parties together The Labour Minister, accompanied by Industry Minister C. M. Drury, held emergency talks in Montreal They failed to bring about an immediate settlement, but the Labour Minister was hopeful that they had laid the basis for an end to the strike

Mr Nicholson told the House of Commons that he was optimistic that the strike would be settled in a reasonable time" He said that a fantastic wage offer had been made However, he appeared to rule out the question of compulsory federal arbitration when he stressed to the House that he believes in the natural processes of collective bargaining to bring about the best solution. He said the Shipping Federation of Canada had made a substantially higher wage offer but was properly insisting on a guaranteed increase in productivity during the second year of the contract

A survey of the labour scene shows that the Labour Minister has good cause to be worried this year. These developments are the cause of his concern:

St. Lawrence Seaway — A federal conciliation board report has proposed a 7% wage increase for 1,300 employees of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority with an additional 7% in a year under a two-year contract. But it fell short of the demands of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) The issuance of the report meant that the union can legally go out on strike never days later on June 11. Such a strike would block the seaway and add to Canada's shipping woes.

Air Canada—Representing 1,800 ground personnel employees, The Canadian Air Lines Employees association voted last mon'h (May) to reject the unanimous recommendations of a conciliation board for a new wage agreement. The decision to go on strike was deferred until the Labour Minister received the board's report. Federal labour law stipulates a union may not take a strike vote or call a strike until seven days after the Minister has issued the board's report Such a strike would ground Air Canada's aircraft and throw an added load onto the railways.

Railways — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) representing 20,000 conductors, brakemen, yardmasters, yard foremen and helpers on Canadian railways, filed their second application at the end of May, for the establishment of a conciliation board. This move followed the breakdown of negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Wage talks between the BRT, the largest of the running trades unions, and Canada's National Railways, broke off about a month ago At that time the BRT applied for establishment of a conciliation board and appointed Douglas Fisher as union nominee

Lumber Industry—On the west coast, British Columbia saw the latest results of a mail-in vote of the International Woodworkers of America members register about 95 per cent in favour of strike action to back up their demands. There are 30,000 IWA members involved and it could hamstring the economy of that Provence

It is no wonder that Lumber Minister Nicholson, as he spoke to the Commons, indicated in blunt terms that he was giving consideration to radical changes in the machinery for the settlement of labour disputes. He suggested that one limitation might be in the creation of "arbitration and labour courts". They have been set up in Australia and other countries.

The Minister also proposed that compulsory arbitration might be the solution in those labour management disputes in which the public interest was paramount and in which "the national interest is at stake". He stressed, however, that in making that suggestion he was voicing his own view and not necessarily speaking for the Cabinet.

Mr. Nicholson said he could cite many instances where the public interest must be given precedence. The Minister declared it was just as important to have compulsory arbitration available in essential service fields as it is in the revised civil service legislation. However, he hinted that the Cabinet was divided on this question

Such measures had received "very serious consideration" by the Department over a period of years. As a member of the Cabinet Joe said, he knew something of the difficulties encountered in trying to work out an acceptable formula. He stressed that in ordinary circumstances the principle of collecting bargaining should prevail and he would be reluctant to see processes disturbed by compulsory arbitration.

Clearly the Government is heading into serious difficulties as labour unrest spreads across the country. Nation-wide strikes could cripple the economy and, added to the and inflationary moves already taken in the budget, they could quickly turn the present boom into a bust.

Adult delinquents

There's a lot of talk in recent years about kids who get in trouble, and almost the entire younger generation is concerned over the fact it's considered a bunch of juvenile delinquents because of the actions of a few.

Part of the trouble, too, is that some of the delinquency is the action of adults. If not adult in age, at least they're adult in development and physique

At least one Tofield motorist has had cause to find out how well developed these delinquents are, and to his sorrow. When he found someone had dumped sugar in the oil filler of his engine crankcase, he sorrowfully went through the expense of cleaning the whole engine out, shaking his head over such childish pranks, then took the precaution of installing a lock, mounted securely with welded supports on the filler line.

The notion of kids went out the window when he found his welded rods twisted off, and more sugar dumped in.

Why anybody would do such a stupid trick in the first place is hard to fathom. Why anybody would repeatedly vandalize one man's engine is even harder. And why anybody sufficiently grown up to wrench off welded rods isn't sufficiently grown up to know better passes all comprehension.

Because of their depredations, this unfortunate citizen has been driven to the unreasonable necessity of welding an extremely solid hinge over the filler, with a heavy padlock, so that it can be opened only with the key, or by tearing the whole filler off the motor. What's civilization coming to?

Serious crime

One of the more serious crimes recently has been going on more or less continuously for several months on Highway 14, where one or more men are impersonating police officers and stopping cars on the road. In a number of cases men have been bullied and abused, while several women have been the subject of attempted attack, though so far as is known, no attack has yet been successful.

No effort should be spared at apprehension, and indeed, police officers are doubling effort to halt the attacks, since they tend to bring into disrepute any police officer, however unfairly, and at the same time to make drivers highly wary about stopping even when legitimate peace officers are halting them.

Undermining confidence in the police forces is a serious crime. They need all the public support they can get.

A day's budget

The Shah of Iran has turned over to UNESCO a gift of $700,000 for its worldwide fight against illiteracy. The generous amount becomes doubly significant with the Shah's explanation that it represents merely the equivalent of one day's military budget in Iran. He has added that he will make this an annual gift — if richer nations follow suit.

The wealthy countries remained silent at the UNESCO meeting which heard the announcement. Delegates later explained that they could make no commitment without instructions from home. Anyway, most were doubtful that their governments would allocate in their pursuit of literacy such a huge sum as one day's military expenditure.

And so, if he achieves nothing else, the Shah of Iran has at least succeeded in drawing grim attention to the arms race and the perversity of values. The United States alone is estimated to be spending $165 million a day for military purposes.

The Montreal Star

Public insurrection

In any of the central American nations, we'd call it public insurrection. In the southern United States, we'd probably call it race riot. And in this country we call it strike violence and dismiss it as something perfectly natural and expectable.

It seems incredible to anyone with a background of respect for law and order that constituted authority should be so easily and so openly flouted, and with such impunity as in the case with some of the strikes in eastern Canada right now. Ordinary individuals would be run into the housegow with hardly a moment's hesitation if they were to act in such fashion, yet when the numbers become large enough, there is a great deal of doubt and hesitation. Of course, there's hardly enough space in all the jails, probably, to hold them.

This wasn't the treatment accorded a number of hungry young men a few years ago when they decided to march on Ottawa for a little more. When are we going to treat this as wilful lawbreaking, and offer the public a little more protection?

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Otto of Tofield returned last Thursday via Air Canada from a trip to Colorado Springs, Colorado, U.S.A., where they attended the graduation of their son, Robert Allen, on May 26th. Robert had finished his fourth year at Colorado Springs College, and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business administration. The 66th annual commencement address was given by Wm. Jovanovich, president of Harcourt, Brace and World, publishers of New York City, to the 338 candidates for degrees from 37 states and three foreign countries.

$50,000 SCHOLARSHIP

In 1962 Robert was awarded a $15,000. scholarship by the El Pomar Foundation of America, granted to scholars throughout North America and other countries for their academic abilities and outstanding sports achievements, to attend Colorado College, being the only one chosen from Canada that year.

Born at Viking, Bob attended school there and later at Edmonton, Scona, Eastglen Comp High and Alberta College.

At the early age of three years, Bob took the stakes and spent most of his spare time at the small town rink, later arena, and never missed being a member of any hockey team that was in action. While in Edmonton he was an active member and assistant coach of the "Universal Concrete" team. Northern Alberta Champions of 1958-59. The following two seasons he signed up with the "Bombers" at Flin Flon, Manitoba, and from there to Colorado Springs, where he was assistant coach and outstanding member of the "Tigers". Games were played in the World Famous Broadmoor arena. Each year a trip was taken through the northeastern States as far as New York and Providence, R.I., where they played the major Universities and colleges. Last year Bob coached the Freshmen College team, bringing them through to second place in the league. Besides being active in hockey, Bob refereed college football and hockey and was an executive member of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity.

Robert's charming wife, Ann was also a graduate from the same college in 1964, with a B.A. in Education and a Political Science degree. She is employed by the U.S. Government in the Public Relations department.

Last week, Bob and Ann will travel to Los Angeles, California, where Bob has accepted a position with a large American industrial corporation for whom he had worked for the past two summers. In the fall he will continue his studies towards a Masters degree.

Ann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Herlihy of La Habra, California, also attended the graduation, and spent a few days with the Otto's visiting and sight-seeing around the area. Some of the highlights was a trip up the famous Pike's Peak auto highway to the 14,110-foot summit House and the beautiful views of the surrounding peaks in the Rockies. A visit to the "Garden of the Gods", an inspiring, immense formation of colorful rocks. A tour of Cripple Creek, and Victor, America's greatest and most famous gold mining area, now mostly ghost towns. A grand view of the Sangre de Christo range of mountains and the Great Divide. Through the scenic Phantom Canon to Canon City, over the rainbow trail to the top of the "Royal Gorge" and the world's highest suspension bridge 1,053 feet above the bottom of the gorge. Returned to Colorado Springs over the Skyline Drive and visited the Chrysler Museum Zoo, Will Rogers

Tofield 4-H club commended for calf show and courtesy

It would have taken more than the rather cold, dull day on Monday to dampen the enthusiasm of Tofield 4-H beef club members showing their calves at the fairgrounds there. They were well supported by spectators. There was an increase in the number of exhibits over last year and prices were higher at the sale following, but perhaps not notably so in view of present market trends.

Len Usher, supervisor of 4-H clubs from Edmonton was judge of showmanship, assisted by Dale Cragg from the 4-H junior branch who selected the winners for grooming.

Bill Yule from Barrhead judged the calves, Earl Ross of the club's adult committee acted as ringmaster and John Moore, club leader as announcer.

He introduced the new District Agriculturist, Frank Kehoe, formerly of Canmore.

4-H CALVES

After placing the 23 calves before him, Mr. Yule said there was little to choose between the top six or seven. He had selected as first and grand champion the Angus steer because of his good, deep sides, finishing and overall balance. This calf was brought out and shown by Colleen Wyllie 16, who has been in the 4-H club for six years.

Reserve to the second-place calf as reserve champion, the judge praised its thickness but said its fleshing was not quite that of the champion. This heifer steer was brought out and shown by Ross Cossey, 13 who has been in the 4-H movement for three years and in his first year he showed the reserve champion in the Pee Wee group. The next four in order of placings were Lyle Hedberg, Harry Stadnick, Robert Jensen and Doug Finseth. Farther down the line, the judge said most of the calves needed more finish. his congratulations to exhibitors on the show and, in particular, their courteous behaviour.

SHOWMANSHIP

After judging Mr. Usher remarked that showmanship was like salesmanship. The product and the salesman or showman had to be well groomed, the product well displayed and the showman able to talk about it. He passed out five for good showmanship in the following order: Laurie Weatherill, Grant Cossey, Lyle Heiberg, Robert Holowaychuk and Colleen Wyllie.

The award for grooming went to Grant Cossey.

PEE WEES

Mr. Yule judged 15 calves in the Pee Wee class and remarked that he felt sure the future of the club was secure with such exhibitors.

Grace Heiberg won the championship with a well-fleshed and balanced Hereford calf and Eddie Kallal was reserve with a calf of much the same type, if not as heavily fleshed. Next four in line with their calves were Linda Rude, Craig Snyder, Bennie Kallal and Ray Cossey.

The best showmen was Craig Snyder followed by Ray Cossey, Evelin Schaker and Betty Jones.

SALE

The champion made top price at the sale and went to Laurie Byers of Canmore for 21 cents per pound. Its selling weight was 971 lbs. Next highest price, 28 and a quarter cent was paid by Cascada Packers for the champion. The Res calf at the weight of 864 lbs. Reserve 4-H calf made 27 cents to Swift Canadian, for 941 lbs. Byers, Burns Foods, Cascada Packers, Swift Canadian, Gainers, Swansons, Everetts Meat Market and Kallal all figured in the remainder of the sale. A total of 33 calves was sold, including six stallmates who selected the winners for grooming.

"It must be at least fifty years old and nobody around New Norway remembers ever seeing one," commented Geo. Ross of Duhamel May, as he brought in a wrench found in one of the fields th[illegible] spring. Turned over to R. W. Campbell, a d[illegible]an of the Winnipeg to Edmonton trails. The wrench was only eight to ten inches long, but had undoubtedly been the wrench impressed everyone who views it, as the more pressure exerted on it, the more tightly the wrench is set in the screw heading and still legible, is the manufacturer's name, Roger Prentz and Co., Warren, Pa. Mr. Ross [illegible] when he dropped the land. "I was tickled to find it," he reported, adding that he intends to show it to Ellwood Hills for possible inclusion in the museum. —Camrose Canadian Newsphoto.

On the Provincial Scene

As Premier Manning and industry and Development minister Russ Patrick wound up their Japanese trip last week there were a few more hints that oil sales may have been one of the chief topics of discussion.

With sales to both the United States and other parts of Canada severely restricted by competition and quotas, the huge Japanese market is increasingly attractive. All that's needed is a pipeline to the west coast port of Prince Rupert, the huge supply at Fort McMurray and Rainbow Lake—and a low enough price to attract the Japanese. Even if it doesn't work, the trip at least confirmed Japanese interest in Alberta's coal and iron.

Seeding of crops seems to be going well in most parts of the province—running up to a week ahead of last year's schedule.

Meanwhile the provincial government is still sifting through applications for special assistance to the Peace River and east-central Alberta areas. More than 3,000 claims have been paid—mostly in the northern area which suffered three successive crop failures in succession.

The bill so far is almost $2,000,000. Another 1,000 applications, it is expected will probably bring it close to $2,500,000. That's just twice as much as the government set aside this year for the scheme—and exactly the amount that would have been available if the federal government had agreed to Alberta's request for matching aid.

The tab, however, doesn't include a number of related items. For instance, more than 1,100 applicants didn't get any of the they hadn't sown enough grain special assistance aid because in the first place. These people and many more will be asking for help in the form of loans under the Seed and Fuel Assistance program which has now been put into effect.

Agriculture Minister Harry Strom noted that the loans through the Relief Advances Act would assist many of those who didn't qualify for help under other schemes. But, he added, "It's unfortunate that any aid program must leave some people out". It's also unfortunate, he felt, that Ottawa didn't lend a more sympathetic ear to Alberta's request for help.

It seems that entertainment in beer parlors is a remarkable success. The chairman of the Alberta Liquor Board, Peter Elliott, says the atmosphere in the 60-odd hotels that have adopted live entertainment has improved considerably. He says the patrons are happier, rowdyism is down and the only problems have been rare instances of oil-color humor.

The next step is elimination of "Men Only" and "Ladies and Escorts" barriers. But Mr. Elliott won't say yet just when desegregation will take place.

An appeal aimed at having the Alberta Communal Property Act declared invalid, discriminatory and unconstitutional has been heard by The Alberta Supreme Court.

But decision has been reserved and it may be some time before the five-member panel of judges rules on the legislation that restricts the size and location of Hutterite colonies. The appeal was filed by a group of Southern Alberta farmers—both Hutterites and non-Hutterites. They claimed the sect and its religious beliefs were discriminated against.

The provincial government contends that the purpose of the act is solely to provide for the orderly expansion and development of land held as communal property. Lawyers for the sect contended that the legislation was aimed solely at the Hutterite religion.

FRANCHISING RISKIER — The franchise business is getting riskier in Canada. A growing number of Canadian managers and executives are being attracted to franchising, Paul Gibson writes in The Financial Post. To many it offers a way to break out of the corporate confines and to operate a business of their own which could one day become highly lucrative. Just about anything that can be sold is now being marketed under franchise arrangements, The Financial Post writer points out. Besides the more familiar root beer, donuts and hamburgers operations range from washing machines and mufflers through auto-diagnosis units, grocery supermarkets, rug cleaners and swimming pools, to coin centres and baby-sitting services. Returns to some franchisees after all expenses are put as high as 20,000 a year.

Impressions of the St. Albert Museum

Lorne McMann, Grade 5A

The first stop on our interesting field trip was made at the St. Albert Museum which is located on the north side of the Sturgeon River in the modern town of St. Albert.

As we entered the grounds, we were impressed by an imposing bronze statue of Father Lacombe. The words inscribed on it tell about how he was honored by the Indians and white settlers. Off to one side of the grounds, there were three enormous bells sent all the way from France to Bishop Grandin. Beside these, there was a cross made from two of the piles of the first bridge built by Father Lacombe.

The museum encloses the original hewn log church built by Father Lacombe. In it are many of his possessions. Some of these were his vestments, prayer book, furniture and family pictures. Of great interest to us was the actual ticket presented by William Van Horne to Father Lacombe which allowed him to travel free anywhere on the CPR. A framed scroll telling about Father Lacombe's various achievements with the CPR, the Canadian government and mentioning especially the work of Father Lacombe done among the Indians and Metis was one of the main exhibits. Farming implements, carpentry tools, numerous pictures, an ancient printing press and typewriter gave us an idea of the life of the pioneers and missionaries. I would like to mention especially the model of the bridge built by Father Lacombe across the Sturgeon River.

It was the first bridge west of Winnipeg. Among the Indian and Eskimo artifacts, Indian buckskin garments with elaborate bead work, Cree grammars, dictionaries and calendars were on display. Indian weapons, an actual birch bark canoe and snowshoes held our interest.

The Eskimo hunting tools were mostly of bone and ivory. There were fish hooks, harpoons, and spears. A life size model of an Eskimo in his native costume caught our eye.

In the crypt were the tombs of Father Lacombe, Bishop Grandin, and Father Leduc. The altar and two carvings of angels done by early missionaries were quite outstanding. Some other exhibits of interest were pictures of the early missionaries and inscriptions telling of the life of the missionaries.

The outside shrine was made of stone and was quite attractive. Around it were the fourteen Stations of the Cross depicting Christ's last journey and passion. What impressed us most in the cemetery were the neat rows of the graves of the missionaries who had worked and died in the north-west.

We now have a better understanding of the missionaries and how they helped in settling the north-west of Canada.

is a member of the Tofield Historical Society and has donated exhibits to the Historical Museum.

Mrs. Pike has participa...ed in the adult art classes held in this area, and has loaned her work for display on several occasions. Both of the Pikes are avid rock collectors and polishers, they have large collections of rocks and petrified wood. These displays, beautifully mounted, have loaned for exhibition on various occasions.

Moving to Medicine Hat opens up possibilities for continuing, or even expanding, their hobbies for Mr. and Mrs. Pike. The golf course is adjacent to their new home; art classes are held and the interest in pottery-making in Medicine Hat holds much for Mrs. and Mrs. Pike the promise of learning to work in ceramics.

While realizing that being transferred from one locality to another is a necessary facet of a Superintendent's life, Mr. Pike says that he and Mrs. Pike are sorry to be leaving the friends they have made in their 12 years residence in the County of Beaver. During the last seven years they have enjoyed participating in the community activities of Tofield and regret that this phase of their lives has ended. This feeling of regret is minimal, they will be sorely missed in the community, both in the organizations they have so ably helped and by their many friends. The Pikes go to their new home accompanied by the good wishes of the community of Tofield.

To honor oldtimers at Showcase '66

The Tofield Historical Society will again be making its valuable contribution to the success of the Community League's "Showcase '66" on Dominion Day.

Following the parade, as in former years, the Historical Society will be hosts to Old Timers of the Tofield area. An "Old Timer" is defined as one who was in this area in, or previous to, 1916. On previous Dominion Days, the waiting room of the Curling Rink has been filled with Old Timers who, after registering and having identifying ribbons pinned on, are treated to free coffee by courtesy of the Community League. Old friendships are renewed, as: "Remember when . . . ?" and "Where is he now?" are heard in increasing volume during the day. This is Old Home Day for many senior citizens, and the Historical Society takes pleasure in providing an occasion for them to reminisce.

As well as acting as willing hosts to Tofield's pioneers, the Historical Society will have a display of pictures of early times in this locality. James Francis, secretary of the Tofield Historical Society, will be on hand to answer questions about the pictures. A number of the pictures have not been displayed before; some are recent additions to Mr. Francis' collection, and some are on loan for this occasion only. A display case of pioneer articles will also be on view.

Harold Schmitz, president of the Historical Society, announces that the quilt made by Mrs. Mary Tiedemann and featuring thirty-five cattle brands used in this district will be on display in Garford's Ladies' Wear all next week. This quilt is done in yellow with the brands done in contrasting colors, and is another example of the fine workmanship of Mrs. Tiedemann. Tickets for this quilt are on sale, and the draw for the winning ticket will be held at 7:00 p.m. on the Exhibition Grounds on Dominion Day.

Tofield Lions meet Tuesday

Matters for attention of the Club were the July 1 parade float, Bank Link, re assisting in sale of tickets for the Community League.

It was learned that arrangements for the student exchange to Rome, Italy was taking place. The per capita fee is $4.00, increased from $2.50 previously. Other items discussed were the cutting of grass, Lions Bingo, barbecue for next meeting and replacement of the trophy for Bruce School students.

No one need go hungry at July 1st celebration

Only two weeks till Dominion Day! President Lionel Barton announces that officers and members of the Tofield Community League. The sponsoring organization of the annual Dominion Day celebration, are very busy completing arrangements for this event.

Since food is always an important item, plans are being made so that all entrants to the grounds will have a chance to satisfy their appetites. The ladies are trusted to free coffee by courtesy of the Community League. Old friendships are renewed, as: "Remember when . . . ?" and "Where is he now?" are heard in increasing volume during the day. This is Old Home Day for many senior citizens, and the Historical Society takes pleasure in providing an occasion for them to reminisce.

300 4-H clubs get free paint

A practical way of celebrating Canada's Centennial will be provided by United Grain Growers to 4-H clubs in the prairie provinces. Already the 1,700 or so clubs in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba will have received their offer to supply enough paint for an individual club to paint 2,808 square feet of a community project. The first 300 clubs to apply with a suitable project in view will be eligible to receive about six gallons each of paint.

The painting of a 4-H clubhouse, rally centre, small fair building, a cemetery fence, pioneer's house or a public facility would all be considered suitable projects, but UGG looks forward to ideas from clubs It is also possible for two or three clubs to combine in order to paint one larger community project In such a case, 12 or 18 gallons of red or white exterior paint would be supplied.

A. M Runciman, president of UGG, stated at a farmers' meeting in Wainwright recently he was "particularly pleased with the Community Paint up Project because it allows your UGG1 company to perform a worthwhile service as a means of celebrating its 60th anniversary.

Council deals with varied program

The Tofield Town Council met on June 3rd, with Mayor Dr. W. H. Freeburg and Councillors Allan Boese, Herndon, Patterson and Swift present.

Clr. Swift reported that Calgary Power Limited had been contacted regarding the street light fixtures, and he was assured that when the proper forms were received by the company same would replace the ones presently in use.

DISPOSAL GROUNDS

After a lengthy discussion, the secretary-treasurer was instructed to contact the County of Beaver No. 9 regarding the fencing off of the east end of Windsor Avenue, which would permit the gate to be moved from the north and east corner to the west and north corner of the disposal grounds; also to see if the County would be interested in paying half the cost of the disposal grounds and half the maintenance cost of same in return for allowing rural persons to use it. The Health Committee received permission to keep the disposal grounds locked. It is open to Tofield residents only on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. If authorized persons wished to use the sanitary grounds other than the specified times, a key could be picked up at the Town Office. The Police Department or from the Public Works Department.

The 1966 Budget, drafted by the Finance Committee, was presented and approved Rita Halvorson was appointed enumerator on a motion by Clr. Allan

The Water and Sewer Committee were authorized, on a motion by Clr Boese, to proceed with the service connection in G. Garford's property as they see fit. It was moved and carried that the Town be responsible for the first 20 feet of water line to G. Garford's.

Building Permits were approved to Wm. Lesniuk for storage

They have wrenches too

Since The Mercury, in a recent addition, printed a picture of an antique wrench found in the Camrose area, Harold Schultz, president of the Tofield Historical Society, has been informed of two similar wrenches located in this area. Mrs. Mary Mitchell and Stan Dunham are both owners of wrenches of the disposal type pictured by The Mercury.

Mercury's cartoonist recognized

Two of the many cartoons drawn for The Tofield Mercury by Verne Harney have been reprinted in a booklet entitled "Cartoons from 25 countries".

The two samples of Mr. Harney's work appear along with works of such other well known cartoonists as Ben Wicks, John Yardley-Jones, Tom Innes, Peter Kuch, Peter Whalley and Al Reaim.

The two Harney cartoons chosen by the publication no doubt will be recalled by our readers. Both appeared in 1964. One, during the flag debate, depicted John Diefenbaker spiking maple leaves on the lawns in front of the Parliament Buildings, the leaves having fallen off the new flag it was titled, "Autumn in Ottawa". The second cartoon shows a Red Army soldier depositing a picture of Nikita Khrushchev in a dustbin, along with spider-web-covered pictures of other Soviet leaders. The caption on this one was a news item which read, "The Presidium . . . granted request of Nikita Khrushchev on his relief from duties: . . . In view of his advanced age, poor health, etc. . . ."

Drawing cartoons has been a hobby with Mr Harney for several years Manager of the Dominion branch of the Bank of Montreal over an extended period, he recently moved to Camrose preparatory to retirement in July.

Congrats, Vern

The Mercury extends congratulations to Vern Harney for his success in cartooning, mentioned somewhere else in this paper. Two of Vern's well-known cartoons were chosen for a 1965 edition "Cartoons from 26 Countries" featuring 131 cartoonists of whom 42 were Canadian, and only 80 of their cartoons were shown. The fact Vern was approved on two seems outstanding.

His well known cartoons have long been a popular feature, and both he and we hope his imminent retirement will furnish more time for this challenging field. If he's entering again this year, may we suggest as one that marvellous cartoon of John Diefenbaker on the station platform in Camrose, offering HIS locomotive to help move the farmers' grain?

Tight money and inflation

Discussing recent changes proposed in the Bank Act, Finance Minister Sharp commented that tight money and severe controls are likely to be needed for some time to help contain or curtail the problems that inevitably build up under the stress of inflation.

Perhaps Mr. Sharp should do a little talking to some of his own party members. Maybe they're not aware of the effects of the recent Canada Pension Plan on costs across the nation. Maybe they're not aware of the manner in which prices all across the country have increased as hairdressers, restaurateurs, barbers, electricians, service station operators and many others try to recover at least the cost of the pension, plus a bit on the side.

If it's inflation you're cutting, Mr. Sharp, let's watch any increase in this area.

Time for controls

Settling of the dockworkers strike only when the Prime Minister held a gun at the heads of both parties clearly indicates how necessary it is for some new controls to be added in the field of labor negotiations. Many responsible leaders, in many areas besides those of farm organizations, have criticized the situation where 4,200 unruly dockworkers can hold up the industry of almost the whole country, or where a group of railway workers, or airline workers, or truckers or any other segment of the country can seriously interrupt the services on which we depend so much.

The situation is rapidly going beyond the bounds of tolerance, and where once employers were subjected to controls which reduced their absolute authority, it has now reached the point we must have controls over the despotic use of powers gained by the unions.

It passes reason that a demand for ten per cent increases in wages for each of two years should be sought, or that the government should suggest as a compromise fifteen per cent over a period of thirty months.

This is half of one per cent every month!

What kind of inflation does the government contemplate with this kind of suggestion? What sort of protection does this give the elderly living on fixed incomes, acquired over years of hard toil? And what does this augur for the Canadian Pension Plan, whose benefits (and, of course, contributions) are tied to the cost of living?

We need to curtail this irresponsible development, and insist, by law if necessary, on a responsible approach from both sides. We need to be given more protection by our legislators

To err is human

The Department of National Health and Welfare's information services have been coming in for a good bit of ribbing the past few days, as more and more people notice errors in the dates of their service for June, which shows Father's Day as June 12, where it should be June 19, and Dominion Day as July 4th (we won't tell you what this should be.) They also list June 20 as the first day of summer, and we had always thought the summer solstice came June 21.

While we couldn't care less about Father's Day, we were a bit dismayed over the Dominion Day error, though really sympathy was the major feeling we drummed up. Anyone who has ever made his living by the pen or the typewriter knows just how much effort is poured into keeping the record accurate, the facts straight. And they know, notwithstanding all that effort, just how terrible appearing are the errors which develop in spite of their endeavors; the errors which are spotted only after the whole thing has gone to press and it's too late. No-one is immune . . . we've all experienced it.

So, as we said, we couldn't laugh with scorn, we could only sympathize Even if we have to celebrate Father's Day on July 4th

By George!

Ald. Marv LaBarge, who took part in a golf tournament at High River recently, came home with a dandy little booklet on golf etiquette, as prepared by friends of mine, Charlie Clarke and Don Tanner, at The High River Times. Space does not permit reprinting all the notes on etiquette, but here are a few gems:

"Register at the clubhouse. Your wife may want the lawn cut.

"Golf spikes are OK at home but don't wear them for clubhouse floors. The termites have contracted for all our holes.

"Don't pick up a stray ball. It may belong to a sticky banker who is helping you finance that set of clubs. A ball isn't lost until you can't see a player—even in the bush.

"Like beef, we like good grass. Stay off the planted areas and give us a chance to grow some good, deep rough.

"We like fairways, but let them play on No. 2 Highway while you golf. It's safer for them out there.

"Replace the flag. It's not the national standard which rises with the dawn and sets with the clunk. Give the sharpshooters something to aim at.

"Don't drive into the players ahead. They might interfere with a hole in one. If someone drives into you, pick up his ball, tee it up graciously and drive the d - - - thing into the river!

"One player can demand some rights, but if you are playing with more than four in your group, you're like the rest of Canada—you've lost all your democratic rights.

"If you've lost your tee, you might try an advertisement in The High River Times.

And in conclusion, Charlie and Don say, "This 'thing' was designed, written and lithographed by Times golfers. It was easy. We just recalled all the nasty remarks our golfing friends (so-called) made to us this spring".

MacDuff Ottawa report

QUEBEC CLOUDS

OTTAWA. — The results of the Quebec election didn't come as an absolute surprise to Ottawa. Polls and newspaper forecasts had warned of Jean Lesage's fading strength. But Federal politicians were surprised at the extent to which the embodiment of Quebec's quiet revolution, once thought untouchable, was rejected by the voters.

It ended any talk of Lesage as a possible challenger for the Federal Liberal leadership. Behind some of the funereal Liberal faces there may have been a concealed satisfaction that the field had been reduced. As a possible leadership candidate, Jean Lesage had always been an unknown quantity, making it difficult to calculate the odds.

Combined with the stand-off results in Prince Edward Island, the Quebec squeakey led to immediate forecasts that the provinces were starting to feel the weakness, born of indecision on the part of the public, that has long plagued Ottawa.

Quebec's Rene Levesque was quoted as saying that the days of big majorities was past. It may be that on the provincial front as well as the federal, voters feel they can't give their complete confidence to one party or the other. They may want to balance one against the other.

The new man on Canada's national scene is Union Nationale leader Daniel Johnson, a 34-year-old lawyer who has been 20 years in politics and five years at the head of his Party.

In that time he has completely rebuilt the old Duplessis party by recruiting an attractive following of young candidates. When the Union Nationale fell from power in 1960, there were plenty of predictions that it would not survive. But Daniel Johnson and his men have put bumpty-dumpty together again.

In the aftermath of the Quebec overturn, Ottawa is trying to assess Mr Johnson and his intentions. In opposition and in the election campaign, he talked a more Quebec nationalist game than Mr Lesage.

He has advocated scrapping the British North America Act and starting all over again. He wants Quebec to take over 100 per cent of revenues from the direct taxes it now shares with Ottawa—income tax, corporation tax and succession duties. Quebec now gets 47 per cent of income tax, 24 per cent of corporation tax and 75 per cent of death duties.

On election night, Mr Johnson may have been referring to this when he said Quebec should immediately exercise all its powers under the BNA Act.

If he pursues this line, he will clash with the Federal Government. Ottawa has the right under the BNA act to collect money by means of taxation, including direct taxes.

And Ottawa doesn't intend to give up its rights.

Indications from Finance Minister Sharp are that he will take a tough line this Fall in fiscal negotiations with the Provincial Governments. He'll probably tell them that Ottawa has withdrawn all it intends to from the imposition of direct taxes to make room for the provinces.

If the provinces want more money, they will be invited to levy their own taxes and take responsibility for them.

Such a policy would hit hard at Quebec One of the legacies of the Lesage Government of 1960 to 1966 is a fast rising cost of government. The government moved fast and far in education reform, road building, industrialization and other phases of the Quiet Revolution. But many of the voters knew these reforms only in terms of an increasing tax bill and the promise of a better life by-and-bye

In this context, it is thought likely that any Quebec Government would have come to a clash with Ottawa. The lines have been hardening on both sides and had Mr Lesage remained firmly in power, he would have had to ask for more money and Ottawa would have been almost certain to refuse. One silver lining in the Quebec clouds for Federal Liberals is that it's easier to say no to a political opponent than to somebody in the same political family.

Yet to be assessed is the qual-

Those UFOs

(The Montreal Star)

It is most comforting to have a spokesman of the eminence of Sir Bernard Lovell, of Jodrell Bank fame, assure us that unidentified flying objects are all fragments of meteoric or space hardware; or just plain figments of the imagination—the stuff of science fiction rather than science.

Scientists, he says, have been able to explain every UFO they have ever investigated.

But, pariah the thought, how about the ones they have not investigated. How about that one at Three Rivers? How about that one at . . .

Brent-Hostelter Duo leads in Queen and Princess race

Some'hing new has been added to the Community Centre! A large thermometer adorns the front window of the Centre. Its function is not to tell the temperature (that is all too easily registered by one's goose-pimples this cold June!) but to indicate the relative standings of the Queen and Princess teams in the race to select the Dominion Day Queen

So far the Dorothy Brent - Marian Hostelter combination is in the lead, but there is time for the others to catch up and make a real race. In order to acquaint the general public with the girls concerned, the following statistics are given:

Charla Astley—a queen contestant from Grade X is a tall brunette, lively and full of fun. She enjoys sports and has participated in basketball and softball. She enjoys dancing.

Ruth Dickson—the princess contestant of the team is a Illusive Grade VII student, who was a valued member of the Cheerleaders in Junior High. Ruth is a newcomer to Tofield, but has made many friends.

Dorothy Brent—also a newcomer to Tofield, is a petite brunette in Grade XI who has artistic talent. She enjoys painting in oils.

Marian Hostetter—also petite, is a lively Grade VIII student, who shares an interest in art with her Queen-contestant partner and adds interest and ability in sports to her qualifications for Princess.

Princess Schultz—well known in Tofield for her interest in music —she is a member of the United Church choir—in CGIT, in sports and in dancing. She was a runner-up this year in the public-speaking contest sponsored by the Rebekahs.

MacDuff Ottawa report

ity of Mr. Johnson's will and determination, always vital factors in negotiations between governments.

There was no doubt about Mr. Lesage's determination. About him there has been a touch of declanale grandeur and arrogance, a kind of "l'etat, c'est moi" certainty that had little patience with opposition, whether from Ottawa or within his own province.

Mr. Johnson has been described as a mixture of drive and prudence. Editor Claude Ryan of Le Devoir, the Montreal morning daily, once called him "a curious mixture of realism and opportunism".

He has tended to make broad statements of principle—on Quebec's rights and sovereignty, for example, but has avoided getting pinned down on the details so that observers are unsure what he really means. In government, he would be forced to get down to brass tacks.

But those who have watched him warn against underrating Daniel Johnson. He is not a pale reincarnation of Maurice Duplessis. His Union Nationale is a new kind of party with internal democracy instead of the monolithic one-man rule of the Duplessis years.

His success in building this kind of party and using it to topple the Lesage Majority show him to be a clever and astute politician but how he uses his skill from now on is the question causing those pursued frowns at Ottawa.

Ryley 4-H Beef Club holds Achievement Dav

On June 7, the Ryley 4-H Beef Club held their achievement day, which commenced with a weigh-in at the Alberta Pacific grain elevator at 8 a.m. After all the calves had been weighed, they were paraded down main street to the skating rink. At 10:00 a.m. a judging contest in which the members participated was held with the official judges giving results as follows: Seniors — Champion Garry Wiens; reserve James Paniec; third, Joan Wiens. Showmanship: 1st, Garry Wiens; 2nd, James Paniec; 3rd Douglas Mearen. Grooming: 1st Garry Wiens; 2nd Joan Wiens; 3rd Ricky Dunck.

Pee Wees — Championship, Duane Teske; reserve Ronald Teske; 3rd Brian Lyons. Showmanship: 1st Elaine Mustedal; 2nd Terry Mezira; 3rd Keven Dagge; Grooming: 1st Diane Hilfred; 2nd Ronald Teske; 3rd Bernie Teske.

Garry Wiens also won the Grand Champion prize in Viking when he competed with Holden and Viking in the Inter-Club competition. In the sale that followed, Garry sold his calf for 30.5 cents per pound. The Ryley 4-H Beef Club feels that the achievement day was a great success and thanked Mr. P. Wiens for donating his time and the elevator agent for the weigh-in.

Mr. Jacobson hauled the calves to Viking for the sale which was sponsored by the Viking Beef Club.

On the Provincial Scene

No part of the country is really "with it" these days unless it has a labor dispute. Alberta managed to join the "in" group last week with a hassle at the Great Canadian Oil Sands project at Fort McMurray.

Mind you, it's not a big dispute like that of Ontario's seaway workers, Quebec's longshoremen or Vancouver's garbagemen, but it's big enough to get the labor department upset.

It seems the government set up a trade school in the town to train men specifically for work on the project. Many of them, previously unemployable, are Indians and Metis. A lot of them have landed jobs on the huge project since taking the adult [illegible] tional courses.

But last week the principal of the school said the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union would sign only five of 10 graduates in welding. The next day he said the union refused to sign any.

Union officials said simply that the entire apprenticeship program is involved but refused to comment further. It is believed they feel the special training program is not adequate, even for assistant tradesmen, although some previous graduates are on the job. Racial discrimination was suggested as a factor and was denied.

The entire situation got very confused by the end of the week and the last word was that the department would give it "close examination".

The cabinet last week appointed an advisory board to deal with a larger body of workers — Alberta nurses. The council will advise the health minister on all matters concerning nursing practice and education in Alberta.

Meanwhile a large portion of the province's nurses seem to have done alright on their own. Edmonton's 700 nurses appear to have bid successfully for $355 a month.

The seemingly endless bickering over national parks in Alberta enjoyed another flurry last week.

Industry and Development minister Russ Patrick suggested a commercial zone for a mile on each side of parks' highways might be a nice thing. He said it would be less than five per cent of total park area and would leave most of such nature spots as Jasper and Banff for the mountain climbers and bird watchers.

At the same time he turned down an invitation to appear before the commons Northern Affairs Committee to discuss the subject. He said he didn't have time to go to Ottawa but added it would be nice if the committee came out to Alberta. They may not get too comprehensive a picture sitting in Ontario which has a total of 11 square miles of national parks, said Mr. Patrick.

Regulations covering the $50 tax rebate to homeowners were approved by the cabinet—although there still seems to be ample confusion about how and when each eligible [illegible] owner will be paid.

What is known is this—the application will be sent by the province to municipalities about the end of the month. The municipalities will send them to home-owners as soon as possible. When they are returned and approved the local government will ask Edmonton for enough money to cover them (plus 50 cents per application for administration) and the cheques will be mailed by the municipality to the eligible applicant.

The Lands and Forests department has stepped up its [illegible] for preventing erosion in [illegible] areas. The latest move is a booklet aimed at forest management personnel and others such as oil companies, outlining steps to be taken to leave forests and streams intact. Oil companies have promised to co-operate and pay the bill.

YOUR PERSONAL LOAN — Canada's chartered banks may soon have to begin revealing the true interest rate they charge on personal unsecured loans, Clive Baxter says in The Financial Post. The change could be included in the Bank Act amendments due to be presented in Parliament any day now. If this is one of the amendments Finance Minister Sharp has up his sleeve — and there is a growing feeling in financial circles that it is — the move will signal an important victory for the supporters of full and honest disclosure of the true costs of borrowing.

Gotta green thumb?

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

Don't Wait For Trouble

Best protection against bugs and disease in the garden is healthy, rapid growth. That can be almost guaranteed by keeping down the weeds, thinning the flowers and vegetables where necessary to promote more rapid and vigorous growth and by light weekly cultivation. The latter in addition to removing weeds and other unwanted plants, also conserves moisture, opens up the soil and permits the plants to make better root growth.

Sometimes, however, in spite of our best efforts the garden is attacked. On the first sign of a wilted or eaten leaf, or of cut worms, tomato worms, aphids, or slugs or other enemies, one should lose no time in getting out the duster, sprayer or bait.

It's a lot easier and cheaper to check one of these attacks before they really get underway. And it is not difficult with all [illegible]

Every seed house is well stocked with sprays, dusts and other controls. Very often [illegible] is a combination of chemicals ready packaged, which will [illegible] handle any bug or garden pest; [illegible], those that suck the juices [illegible] those that attack fruit or roots. Remember that in this as in other types of warfare the best defence is to attack, don't wait until the bugs are in complete control before starting the offensive.

Make them Blend

Much too often one sees a good looking flower bed spoiled by a lot of ugly stakes, shingles, labels and strings more conspicuous than the blooms. The neat gardener paints his stakes green or brown or at least uses weathered material that will blend with the foliage. He will also use colored string or neutral raffia for tying up, and he will do this loosely so as not to bunch the plants; and when growth starts he will remove unnecessary stakes and markers. Instead of stakes one can fix brush, firmly in among taller plants while they are still growing and encourage them to grow around and cover the supporting material. This is a particularly good way to handle delphiniums, peonies and other tall bushy plants.

Your Own Vitamins

Most people grow at least some of their own vegetables because they know that only from a garden right at the kitchen door can they get real freshness and garden flavor. But fresh picked, homegrown vegetables contain valuable vitamins, which disappear a few hours or at most, a day or two after picking. Lettuce, for instance, and especially leaf lettuce which is more exposed to the sun than the other kinds, is high in vitamin A. Carrots will supply the same vitamin and for a longer period as this vegetable of course will keep well in storage. For vitamins B and [illegible] as well as A, kale is highly recommended. It contains about [illegible] as much vitamin as ordinary cabbage and it is easier to grow. For the highly prized vitamin C nothing is better than a fresh tomato.

chocolate bars, gum and popcorn. The full-course dinner will be available only on the first day of the two day celebration but the snack foods will be available both days.

The good cooks of the Tofield Community have always been most generous with their donations of luscious pies for the booth and Mrs. Christenson is asking that these contributions again be forthcoming.

The barbecue supper is always a high point of this day. At four o'clock the barbecue pit over which Vince Bates and his helpers have toiled, will be opened and the tantalizing aroma of succulent meat will call the crowd to supper. Under (we hope) sunny skies, groups of friends will enjoy the results of Vince's hard work and the accompanying foods served by Bill Bertram's committee. The supper will be served from four o'clock to six o'clock to allow time for all the hungry to be fed. Of course the hot dog booth will be in operation all day long and its many workers will be busy handing out the "red-hots" and coffee.

Tofield seniors in first place

Tofield Seniors were active at weekend ball tournaments.

The first game at the Bardo Community saw Tofield down Ryley in a score of 31-5.

In the second feature Round Hill proved Bardo 9-5; and in the third game Round Hill defeated Tofield 11-6, to win the tournament.

On Sunday, at Camrose, in the first game Camrose Cubs defeated Round Hill 10-5; Edgerton defeated Rosalind in the second game; Tofield defeated Hetsler 5-3 in the third; and Camrose Cubs defeated Sedgewick 13-0 in the fourth. In the final game Camrose Cubs defeated Tofield Lions 4-0.

IN FIRST PLACE

In the Power Inn Baseball league the Tofield Lions now stand in first place with four wins and one loss as they came from behind to defeat Ryley 8-7 in a game played in Ryley last Tuesday. Ryley has three wins and one loss and one game in hand.

The Tofield Senior Ball Club would like to thank Leo Burka for donating the registered Lab. dog that is to be raffled July 1st, with proceeds going toward a new "home plate" and pitcher's rubber for the local diamond.

The Recipe Box

A meat dish that may be eaten hot, or sliced cold for summer days when cooking is even more of a chore, is Saucy Ham 'n Yam Loaf. You simply put a mixture of seasoned ground ham and pork and some canned condensed mushroom soup into a rectangle. Spread with a delectable yam and pecan filling, roll up like a pinwheel and bake.

If it's to be eaten hot, smear the loaf with the remaining mushroom soup heated with sour cream, nutmeg and mustard or horseradish.

Ingredients

2 cans (10 ounces each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 pounds ground ham
1 pound ground pork
2 slices bread, torn into small pieces
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon pepper
4 cups mashed cooked yams or 2 cans (1 pound each) mashed yams
2 cups chopped celery
½ cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup sour cream
4 teaspoons prepared mustard or 1 tablespoon horseradish

Combine ½ cup soup with ham, pork, bread, onion, eggs and pepper. Mix thoroughly, divide in half. On wax paper, firmly shape each half into a 10x16-inch piece. Combine yams, celery, pecans, and nutmeg, spread half on each piece most within 1 inch of edges. Roll up, peeling off wax paper. Pat ends firmly to seal. Place, seam side down, in shallow baking dishes. Bake at 350° F. for 1½ hours or until done. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining soup, sour cream, and mustard. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with loaves. Makes 12 servings.

chocolate bars, gum and popcorn. The full-course dinner will be available only on the first day of the two day celebration but the snack foods will be available both days.

The local cooks of the Tofield Community have always been most generous with their donations of luscious pies for the booth and Mrs. Christensen is asking that these contributions again be forthcoming.

The barbecue supper is always a high point of this day. At four o'clock the barbecue pit over which Vince Bates and his helpers have toiled, will be opened and the tantalizing aroma of succulent meat will call the crowd to supper. Under the huge tarpaper, green, of friends will enjoy the results of Vince's hard work and the accompanying feeds served by Bill Davison's committee. The supper will be served from four o'clock to six o'clock to allow time for all the hungry to be fed. Of course the old dog booth will be in operation all day long and its many workers will be busy handing out the "red-hots" and coffee.

The Recipe Box

A meat dish that may be eaten hot, or sliced cold for summer days when cooking is even more of a chore, is Saucy Ham 'n Yam Loaf. You simply put a mixture of seasoned ground ham and pork and some canned condensed mushroom soup into a rectangle. Spread with a delectable yam and pecan filling, roll up like a jelly-roll and bake.

If it's to be eaten hot, sauce the loaf with the remaining mushroom soup heated with sour cream, nutmeg and mustard or horseradish.

Ingredients

2 cans (10 ounces each) condensed cream of mushroom soup

2 pounds ground ham

1 pound ground pork
2 slices bread, torn into small pieces
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon pepper
4 cups mashed cooked yams or 2 cans (1 pound each) mashed yams
2 cups chopped celery
½ cups chopped pecans
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup sour cream
4 teaspoons prepared mustard or 1 tablespoon horseradish

Combine ¼ cup soup with ham, pork, bread, onion, eggs and pepper. Mix thoroughly; divide in half. On wax paper, firmly shape each half into a 10x14-inch piece. Combine yams, celery, pecans, and nutmeg; spread half on each piece most within 1 inch of edges. Roll up, jelly-roll fashion, using wax paper. Pat ends firmly to seal. Place, seam side down, in shallow baking dishes. Bake at 350° F. for 1½ hours or until done. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining soup, sour cream, and mustard. Heat; stir now and then during with brown. Makes 12 servings.

Fire destroys truck and gas

Daryl Albrecht, Ryley was driving a gas truck six miles south of Ryley when he noticed sparks from his rear view mirror. He stopped and jumped out, with his fire extinguisher in his hand. However, the truck was in flames already, so he ran to the nearest farm to summon help. The truck was destroyed by the time assistance came. At the time of the fire he had a full load of fuel with the exception of one compartment that he had just emptied. There was no explosion. The truck was owned by Ryley Motors.

Develop another butter substitute

The Ontario Agricultural College reports developments of a new low cost dairy spread that looks and tastes like butter. The new spread contains less than half the amount of fat found in butter and margarine, but has about seven times as much protein.

The new spread is made like butter, but a specially treated milk powder is added. The fat content is reduced and moisture content is increased. Results of taste tests indicate that consumers prefer the new spread to butter.

'Home stretch' to Showcase '66

So many horses and riders are entered in the Tofield Jumping Sweepstakes this year that an open contest as well as the intermediate contest may have to be held.

Horace Seller quotes Donald Macdonald as saying, "Tofield is now on the circuit for the Canadian Cutting Horse and Western Pleasure Association, so we may be assured of continuing fine entertainment provided by this organization at Showcase '66 Horses and riders from all over Alberta will be present to thrill Tofield spectators on Dominion Day".

The executive of the Tofield Canada Hunter and Jumper Equestrian Association, as we may be assured of continuing fine entertainment provided by this organization at Showcase '66 Horses and riders from all over Alberta will be present to thrill Tofield spectators on Dominion Day".

The executive of the Tofield Community League heard the above report as well as several others from committee heads at the meeting held Monday night, with president Lionel Borton in the chair.

Prizes for the successful Queen-and-Princess contest as well as lesser prizes for the unsuccessful candidates were decided upon.

This bevy of beautiful young Ladies will ride on a specially-constructed float and the winners will be crowned just inside the main gate while the judges are making and recording their final decisions. The president of the league will officiate at the crowning of the Queen and Princess.

The grounds committee of the League have been busy pulling the ball diamonds in shape, and will erect a new backstop this week.

PARADE TAKES SHAPE

The parade committee, Art Francis, D. W. Jacobs and Reed Burchard, have contacted businesses and organizations in town requiring floats. As the parade is always a major attraction, how about contacting one of the Parade Committee and entering a decorated car, bicycle or float? How about a fleet of Hondas—decorated, of course—in the parade? And, of course, the ever-popular horses and their beribboned riders will be in the parade of horse-power. The parade will be led by the Andrew School Boys' Band who last year gave such an impressive performance.

Thanks to the Tofield Fire Department, bleachers will be brought from Golden's farm and set up for the use of spectators at the horse show. Parking will also be directed by this able group of men.

The school display will be in the Curling Rink and owners of exhibits are asked to take their entries at 4:00 p.m. Otherwise, they will be returned to the school.

Mrs. Mabel Boyles and Mrs. Hazel Patterson will welcome entries to the handicraft display they are assembling. If you have an entry of handicraft or a collection of any sort, please contact one of these ladies. This are appeals, especially, for exhibits from those over 70 years of age and those under 17. Again exhibitors are reminded that this is not a commercial venture, and no sales or sales-promotion is allowed. Whether you have an entry or not come and view those of other people. You will be most interested.

Those sporting red ribbons with "Old Timer" and "Tofield Historical Society" will be former citizens and perhaps present citizens of the Tofield community. The ribbons will be given when old Timers register in the lobby of the Curling Rink. The spirit features the brands belonging to the cattlemen of this area, will be on display.

BALL TOURNAMENT

Lionel Borton announces that the Invader ball tournament will give Tofielders and their guests some great entertainment. The ball plays of the game will be announced by Doug Lehman so that you may keep track of the progress of the game even while you are a customer at the Ladies' food booth or at the hot-dog booth. Little League and Pee-Wee ball will also be featured. The young fans put on a good exhibition of ball, so be sure to see one or all of the games when Ryley Holden.

Tofield Gun Club has 3rd blackpowder shoot

Next Sunday morning a blast from a miniature cannon will signal the official opening of the Tofield Gun Club's Third Annual Blackpowder Shoot. Competitors are expected from several distant points to be on hand to compete for trophys in nine separate competitions, all to be shot with the guns of yesteryear.

Muzzleloading rifles, shotguns and pistols will again belch large clouds of noxious smoke as well early breechloaders, as the 30 or more entrants vie for the highest scoring target in each event. The finale will be a sixty-shot gunting competition, in which fourteen hunters attempt to shoot off the top of a two inch stake farther than any other team. # George Meyer leaves Mercury

Following nearly seven years with The Camrose Canadian, George Meyer this week severed his association to move south to Taber, where he plans to purchase The Taber Times, another well-established weekly newspaper.

Mr. Meyer moved to Camrose from Manton, where he had been a partner in The Manton News. During several years for the excellence of his paper there.

Mr. Meyer took over as editor of The Tofield Mercury four and a half years ago when the then publisher, Cliff Patterson, moved to the United States, and sold his paper to The Canadian. During that period, he has tried to maintain and improve the standard of local news coverage for the Highway 14 communities served by The Mercury.

As well as superintending the firm's commercial printing operations, he could fill in in emergency as a linotype operator or compositor, and many times helped to speed up production in bulging periods.

Mrs. Meyer and the three children will remain in Camrose for a short time, but expect to move south in the near future.

Versatile in the extreme, as many associations, he could fill in in emergency as a linotype operator or compositor, and many times helped to speed up production in bulging periods.

MacDuff Ottawa report

OTTAWA — Some of those tough-minded, sophisticated Liberals who feel they are born to govern have apparently decided that Life with Lester isn't so bad after all.

Just a few months ago it wasn't hard to find Liberals who said Lester Pearson should quit as Prime Minister and leader of the party.

They said he and Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker were of another age, embroiled in a private feud that had little to do with the problems of government of Canada.

Now it's a different story. Top Liberal candidates for Mr. Pearson's job are tripping over their own feet in a frantic race to boost their leader.

This has been such an obvious and deliberate development that it's even earned itself a name.

Newsmen around Ottawa are calling it "The Bolster Lester Club".

First it was Transport Minister Pickersgill, in Newfoundland a few weeks ago, who told his audience that Mike was the man for the Liberals.

Stories that Mr. Pearson should resign, said Mr. Pickersgill, were nothing more than a dirty plot by the Conservatives to demoralize the Liberals and divert attention from their own leadership problems.

Then Health Minister MacEachen joined the chain in a speech in Ontario. He heaped praise on the Prime Minister, and said he would go down in history as the right man at the right time for Canadian Confederation.

In the House of Commons a few days later, Finance Minister Sharp, one of the main contenders for leadership of the party, put his heart on his sleeve.

"I, for one, and I know I speak for all members on this side of the House, hope that Prime Minister Pearson remains as leader of this party as long as he has the strength and patience to continue", said Mr. Sharp.

"There will never be a revolt in this party designed to unseat him", added Mr. Sharp, with a meaningful glance in Mr. Diefenbaker's direction.

"Whenever the party of which you are the leader gets into difficulties fraught with ominous divisions within its ranks, it then engages in the rare game of trying to create troubles in other parties". Mr. Simms told Mr.

All these developments have strengthened him as leader and Diefenbaker

The Liberal rumblings of a few months ago may now be attributed to a dark Conservative plot—but not very convincingly. The fact is that in March, when the Victor Spencer and Gerda Munsinger cases were boiling, many of Pres Liberal wanted to ditch his leader.

Now there is a campaign, started by the faithful and joined by the not-so-faithful, to build up the leader.

The campaign has worked well —so well in the view of some Liberals who would rather like to be leader of the party and Prime Minister of the country.

The campaign came along just at a time when Mr. Pearson was distinguishing himself in a number of different ways, and was earning new credit even without the help of his supporters.

At the same time some heavy pressures were removed from him—at least temporarily—by the defeat of the Lesage Government in Quebec.

Jean Lesage is a Liberal and Lester Pearson is a Liberal. But rather than creating a flood of co-operation between Quebec and Ottawa, that fact created instead severe difficulties and tensions for Mr. Pearson.

Those who are close to him have noticed in recent days that he has been more relaxed and confident than he has been, in all probability, since he became Prime Minister.

His top ministers are supporting him valiantly, he doesn't have to worry about Jean Lesage, and it's still too too early to know how much he'll have to worry about the new Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson.

The Commons has been moving fairly efficiently. The Opposition hasn't been able to stall effectively on anything. He seems to know where he's going on the big programs like Medicare, the Canada Assistance Plan, and revisions to the Bank Act.

His prestige was greatly enhanced by his last-minute intervention in the disastrous strike of Quebec longshoremen, and he was given much of the credit for settling it.

Just before that he made two speeches in the United States in which he took a strong line independent of, and in some respects in opposition to, the U.S. policy on NATO.

These were important speeches, creative speeches, the kind that indicate vigorous and intelligent leadership in international affairs by a Prime Minister, and probably

Life with Lester

Ignorance is no excuse

"Ignorance of the law is no excuse" is an axiom which has stood the test of time, and indeed, well it should. If ignorance could be pleaded as a valid defence, no one would bother to bone up on regulations.

However, it's a pretty tough situation for the average layman when even members of the legislature can't keep abreast of developing legislation, and this situation was confessed to us recently by an Alberta MLA who knew a new law was in the mill someplace, but wasn't sure of its status at the moment, and indeed, felt it had been proclaimed when in fact it hadn't yet reached that stage.

In the light of all this, is was something of a surprise at a school board meeting Monday evening to hear a highways branch officer casually remark a new vehicle testing program would be launched July 1st, whereby travelling patrols could order motorists to report in to a Safety Lane for a check of their vehicle. If the vehicle is found faulty, it may be given a certain length of time to come up to standard, or even ordered off the road. Motorists interested in having their own vehicles checked may also drive in voluntarily.

The idea is excellent. It's been advocated for months by this column and many other writers on the field of highway safety, with seemingly little response from the minister of highways.

We're delighted to see something being done about banishing impossibly unsafe vehicles.

But we're absolutely incredulous that such a piece of legislation could be instituted without any advance publicity. It is scandalous that motorists should not have any notice of the program contemplated.

This is one more of the 112 bills passed at the last sitting of the legislature, when so much material was rammed through that the lance corporal's guard on the opposition side couldn't possibly keep up, and little publicity, or comment was occasioned by the bill, either then or later.

Monday night's spokesman assured his hearers there was no intention of being nearly "so tough" as in some other areas, such as Ontario, for instance. But if the law can be introduced with so little notice to the huge section of the public who are motorists, what is there to say it can't suddenly be "toughened" up with equally little notice?

We're all for the program of checking cars for safety, but we're concerned that a week before its introduction nobody outside the department knows anything about it.

By George!

BYE, GEORGE!

(Caption courtesy "By" Reeser)

By the time my ever-lovin' faithful readers see this column and providing there are no hitches in my plans, "By George" will have taken his leave from Camrose, and will be searching for a home for his family in Southern Alberta. Yes, sir, dear reader, this is farewell.

Looking back over the files I've seen several of three "By George" columns I'd gladly see again, but there were three weeks when there wasn't too much to say, and I must genuinely admit I did a masterful job of filling the space and still saying nothing.

Camrose has been wonderful to my family and me. We came here a little over 6½ years ago from Southern Alberta—a family of three. Now we're a family of five, and our oldest of three girls who celebrated her first birthday shortly after our arrival in the Rose City, will be wending up the second year of her schooling next week. It hardly seems possible so many changes have occurred in the relatively short space of nearly seven years.

We love Camrose very much. It's a beautiful city, full of wonderful people. We've never been so richly endowed with kind, thoughtful, understanding friends. The most saddening part of this move is having to leave these friends behind. One thing is sure: They'll never be forgotten.

And now a word or two about the people I've worked with at The Canadian. No one could ask for two finer fellows, of course, than my business partners, Ken Patrige and Chuck MacLean. Our association has been a most happy one.

There isn't a more devoted crew, I'm sure, in the city of Camrose than the boys on the back shop of The Canadian. Always cheerful and willing, there isn't one among them that I'm not proud to count as, in the words of Jack Parr, "I had you not".....and that!

And the girls in the office! Well here's another remarkable, hard-working crew that never fails to go the extra mile or to help whenever or wherever possible.

Well, it's pretty easy to sit at a typewriter and put all this down on a piece of paper, but quite honestly, I doubt if I could say these things to these people, for it's darned hard to talk with a big lump in your throat!

Thanks, everyone, for being so kind to me, my wife, and our three little girls.

—By George" Meyer.

MacDuff Ottawa report

also provide him with some moments of mild amusement and irony as he considers the change within only a few months.

So Mr. Pearson is riding high for the moment. But he probably appreciates as much as his staunchest critics how ephemeral his position is, and how easily it can be assailed.

Mr. Justice Spence's report on the Gas-Arctic Manager affair, expected by the end of June, can and probably will roll the political waters in the summer.

And the private and debilitating embarrassment with John Diefenbaker is a nothing very real and dangerous. In moments of political crisis, as are sure to come, this feud damages Canada and the quality of political life.

Mr. Pearson, who doesn't have a lust to retain power, does stand now in a stronger position. But he is not likely to use it to produce his career.

He's stronger because his party is defending him. He is stronger because the Liberal voice in Quebec is no longer the Government of Quebec, but is heard as loudly in Ottawa from Quebec members.

About all he asks is that his strength last through crucial tax negotiations with the provinces and that his prestige last through Centennial Year.

Cubs have fun at camp-out

Twenty-seven Cubs of First Tofield Cub Pack enjoyed their annual overnight hike, leaving at 6:30 a.m. from in front of Tofield's Legion Hall. Dressed in full uniform the cubs embarked in seven vehicles and proceeded to Floating Stone Lake.

Upon arriving at their destination at approximately 9:15 a.m. the Cubs were immediately put to a bench and then they were divided among eight boats for a couple hours of fishing.

Return'ng from the fishing jaunt around noon, the Cubs got into their swimming trunks and went into the lake until dinner time. After dinner tents were set up and assigned, bed rolls were put in order, and everybody got settled. A half hour rest period followed.

Around 5:00 p.m. a brief storm hit the camp, but it was well protected by trees and no damage was done among the hardy outdoorsmen. The storm was all over in 20 minutes, the lake levelled out as smooth as glass, so the cubs again took to their boats for another fishing jaunt. They returned from fishing and had a weiner roast before going sleepily to their tents, and bed rolls.

Sunday morning all the boys were up bright and early for a breakfast of bacon, eggs and pancakes. The pancakes were poured, flipped expertly, and served by Ken Eastlick, who was kept on the job for two hours to feed the hungry cubs.

Fishing was again indulged in until about noon, when the cubs had another sojourn in the water, where they stayed until dinner was served. After dinner, amid loud lamentations, the tents were taken down, beds were rolled up, gear packed and all was loaded for the return trip. Two short games of "pioneers and Indians" ended the activities, the cubs then boarding the cars for the trip back home.

The caravacade arrived back at the Tofield Legion Hall at approximately 5:15 p.m. on Sunday, and the tired but happy cubs were dispersed to their respective homes.

The Cub leaders wish to give special thanks to the following people who supplied great help without which the Cub Camp could not have taken place: Geo. Arnett, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Eastlick, Wade Gallinger, Ken Appleby, Stan Glover, Norman Glover, Jack Hardy, Carol Swanson, Arny Klassen, Mrs. Ellis Hardy, and Bill Willson of Edmonton.

Gun Club members at Edmonton shoot

Alan Warner, Gordon Warner, Jack Nolan, Glen Rietl and Larry Willson of the Tofield Gun Club travelled to Edmonton on June 19th to participate at the Alberta Arms and Cartridge Collectors' annual shooting competitions.

Alan Warner was the big winner from Tofield, taking home first prize trophies in the cartridge rifle muzzle loading shotgun and exploding target hand-gun events. Jack Nolan won first prize in the breech loading shotgun event, while Glen Rietl took second place cup in the same event in addition. both Alan Warner and Larry Willson took prizes for the old-time costumes they were.

This is a very good showing for the local gun club, as this was the provincial shoot and there were competitors from all over the province including both major centers and Hinton. The black powder shooting competition also enjoyed TV coverage

WHY THERE COULD BE A SHORTAGE OF DAIRY FOODS IN CANADA
In Canada, one of the world's great agricultural countries, it is ironic that there could be a shortage of milk.
One of the main reasons for this is that each year an average of 10,000 dairy farmers are leaving the business.
Despite increased efficiency, high costs of operation, equipment and feed are forcing dairy farmers out of business. Nearly all farm expenses have increased while the price of dairy foods has remained fairly constant.
There is a serious shortage of farm labour. More and more farm workers are attracted to other industries where they can work fewer hours for more pay.
If dairy farmers continue to leave the business at the current rate, there could be a serious shortage of vital dairy foods in Canada. The dairy industry is important to Canada's economic and nutritional health. And dairy foods are still one of your best food values.

Tofield students win government bursaries

Word has been received this past week that two Tofield Grade XII students have been awarded Government of Alberta Technical Bursaries.

Leslie Appleby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Appleby, and Robert Foshaug, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leif Foshaug, were interviewed recently by the administrators of the Technical Bursary Program and accepted for training. This is quite an achievement for the two boys as 400 students were interviewed throughout the province, and only 40 were chosen.

Leslie intends to enter the field of refrigeration and air-conditioning. He will train for two years at the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary, during which time his expenses will be paid. He will then work for the Government of Alberta for two years. A big demand exists for trained technicians; manufacturers and distributors of mechanical equipment, heads of government departments and consulting engineers are all looking for trained personnel. With this specialized training in a field where demand is high, Leslie's future looks bright. Congratulations, Leslie!

Robert was accepted for similar training in civil technology, which would involve training in surveying, and though he has since decided not to accept the award, it was a feather in his cap to be chosen.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Chupka were Sunday and Monday visitors in Edmonton, visiting their daughters. Their eldest daughter, Patsy, is to be married in July, and they are busy making the arrangements for the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Budd and family had as Sunday evening visitors and supper guests, Mrs. Campbell and her sisters, Mrs. Gilbert Morris and Mrs. Bert Carr. Mr. Budd met and visited with Mrs. Morris and family in England when he was overseas in the 2nd World War and on leave.

100TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stewart of Victoria, B.C., former Holden residents, are planning to visit at Brandon, Manitoba, within the next few weeks, with Mr. Stewart's mother, who visited with them in Holden, and who will be celebrating her 100th birthday this year. Mrs. Stewart, who has been in a Senior Citizens' Home the past five years, enjoyed good health and looked after her own home until her 93rd year, when she fell and fractured her hip. After spending a lengthy period in and out of the hospital, she was admitted to the Home on her 95th birthday.

Albert Kondrat has been visiting the past while with his daughter and family in Edmonton.

FRIENDSHIP GROUP MEETS

The Friendship Group met June 15th at the home of Mrs. R. Roeder, with 12 ladies present. Mrs. Mary James presided, and Mrs. Mabel Sizer had charge of the devotions. A letter of thanks was read from Miss Bardo, from the Mission in Hong Kong, thanking the ladies for the lovely quilts they had received. Mrs. J. A. Giebelhaus read an an article from The Observer on the present conditions in Viet Nam, and Mrs. James read an article on God and His People. At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess served a delicious lunch. Next meeting of the Friendship Group will be held July 20th, at the home of Mrs. Joe Hooper, with Mrs. Carrie Olson taking the devotions.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. Dora Loney had the misfortune to fall on the sidewalk Monday of last week, cutting her face quite badly. She was taken to Tofield Hospital in the ambulance for treatment. Her daughter, Mrs. Francis Shand of Edmonton, visited at the hospital and called to see her father, Mr. Loney, to let him know of Mrs. Loney's condition. We were pleased to hear that she was coming along very nicely.

Showcase . . .

Viking and Tofield Little Leaguers play in their tournament.

The midway brought by Wally Uvsiak and Hec Gervais will keep the little ones happy all day (I and when they are hungry), the two booths have plenty to satisfy them At 4.00 p.m., the barbecue will be opened and the barbecue supper served. The meal will have been cooking under Vince Bains' supervision since early morning Incidentally, don't forget Vince's demonstration of sheep-shearing during the afternoon!

Since Showcase '66 is the major effort of the League in its struggle to retire the debt on our fine Community Centre. It is to be hoped that all residents of the area will participate in Tofield's big day. The lot of July has been celebrated here since the 1880's, and Showcase '66 should be a worthy successor of other Festivals" It all depends on you!

all local residents to drop in at the range, two miles north of the cemetery, some time during the day, and if any local men (or women) would like to try their luck be on hand at 10 a.m. to register. Any gun designed to be used with black powder is eligible If in doubt, or for more information contact Al Warner or Larry Wilson

Many people think of this shoot as being for experts, but at the Provincial Shoot held in Edmonton two weeks ago, Jack Nolan of Tofield won the cartridge shotgun event, even though he had never fired in competition before and despite the fact that he was using a borrowed gun that he had never shot before Entrance fee is only 25c per event and spectators of course watch free.

The local Boy Scouts will again be offering hotdogs, coffee, etc for sale, so for something a little different in entertainment, run out to the club range Sunday afternoon Many of the contestants come in costumes of early days so be sure to bring your camera along.

VOL. 15 NO. 44 PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, June 30th., 1966

'See ya tomorra' at Showcase '66!

Fly-in breakfast

Last week Mrs. Ken Nyback and family (right) had a flying visit from her brother and crew who are stationed at Wainwright for a month. Lieut. Ross Craddock is on the left and beside him is Sgt. Stan Larsen. The Nyback home, north of Camrose, is in the background.

● Tomorrow is the big day! For weeks plans and preparations for the July 1st celebration, "Showcase '66" have been going on among many local committees, under sponsorship of the Tofield Community League, and now all that is needed for a successful day is co-operation from the weatherman Forecasts indicate a warm, sunny day, with only remote possibility of suffered absence. TCL president, Lionel Beeton is highly optimistic this year will be the best ever

Visitors are expected from a wide area of the annual event, and all ages from the youngest to the oldtimers have been considered in making arrangements. There are many new features this year, as well as many time-proven favorites on the agenda.

The Queen-Princess competitions have sparked keen interest the past few weeks, and the winners will be announced at the grounds. Another "first" is a sheep-shearing demonstration by expert Vince Bains.

PARADE TO START

The mammoth parade will set off activities in the forenoon and is expected to be the best in recent years. Entry classes are many and varied and will be headed by the Andrews Boy's Band

Baseball games in the tournament loath Friday and Saturday will extend the celebration beyond the usual one-day affair. There are also teams entered in Little League and Pee-Wee ball. Doug Lehman will announce the plays at all games

The displays of handicrafts, school pupil's work and museum pieces of the Historical Museum Society have all been arranged for, these having attracted many visitors in previous years

Oldtimers are to be given special recognition and will be served free coffee by the Historical Society

BARBECUE

Climaxing the afternoon's activities will be the opening of the barbecue pit at 4.30 p.m. where Vince Bains will again prove his skill of cooking the beef to perfection. To go with the delicious meal will be a fine meal of many foods.

Other treats will be for sale throughout the day and a full course dinner served at noon. So none should go hungry

The Tofield Jumping Sweepstakes have roused great interest this year, and open contest as well as an intermediate contest will be held.

The midway brought by Wally Uvsiak and Hec Gervais will keep the little ones and older people too, happy throughout the day

This is a very brief summary of what you can expect tomorrow, with many more attractions not mentioned here Since Showcase '66 is the major effort of the Community League in its struggle to retire the debt on the fine Community Centre, it is hoped all residents of the area will participate in Tofield's big day.

The Tofield Gun Club held their 3rd annual black powder shooting competitions Sunday, on their range three miles north of Tofield

Much-men were here from Hilton, Hargwyne, Bluffton, Camrose, Edmonton and Ryley. The club members were also gratified by a good turn-out of spectators to see the shoot

Following is a list of the winners and the guns they used

First in the muzzle loading rifle event was Bob Backman of Hilton, shooting a 50 cal. percussion rifle of his own manufacture Paul Fiore of Edmonton took second place with his 40 cal Kentucky Flint-lock replica, also of his own manufacture

Bob Backman, again in the muzzle loading pistol event, this time using an original 36 cal 1851 Navy Colt, was first Jim Willson came in second in this event, using a 44 cal 1860 Colt Army Replica

In the cartridge rifle event, Warren Werner of Bluffton showed the way, shooting a 45-60 Winchester model of 1876. Second place went to Tofield's Alan Warner and his 30-55 Winchester 1885 Hi-wall

Next came the two shotgun events, Al Grey of Edmonton winning the Breech loading competition with a 12 gauge Neumann hen double, and Gordon Jorgensen of Camrose coming second, with a 12 gauge Bliszet double. Carter Nolan supplied some tough opposition in that one being a tossing coil in the trail round Allen Reel of the Tofield Club won the prize for the muzzle loading shotgun, using a Parday's double-barrel percussion gun

After this some novelty events were run off Jack Nolan proved to be the best cow-boy, being the only one to ring the bell in the bear target, shooting from the hip with a 44 cal Colt Army replica Warren Werner showed good form in winning the 100-yard pistol event with a 40-40 single action 1873 Colt Army revolver Al Warner won the moving target event with his 30-55 Hi-wall, outlasting Larry Wilson and his 45-70 Hi-wall and John Allen of Hinton and his 57 cal Enfield muzzle loader

Action at Ottawa

Which for some fast action at Ottawa as opposing forces line up for a test of strength, or tests, if you will, because several are likely to be seen right away.

First off is Finance Minister Sharp's insistence on getting the Bank Act revisions under way before the summer recess, much against the will of some other pretty strong members of his own caucus. And second is the NDP's threatened filibuster if the government doesn't give in to its requested pension legislation.

The NDP's threat is that it will unseat the government rather than lose this point; but it's not well taken, or well advised at this juncture, for it's not important enough to rumble a government and force a general election. Welfare legislation is racing ahead too quickly for a large proportion of the people anyway, and the country should be given a chance to catch its breath, and catch up on other areas that have been neglected for a longer period still.

One such is the Bank Act, which has been waiting in the wings far longer than is good for either the banks or other business in the country. It is no secret that Mr Sharp wants to see the lifting of the 6 per cent ceiling rate on interest banks can charge — a feelings being that this will help combat the inroads of the near banks when in recent years have flourished remarkably.

Other members of his own party, notably former finance minister Walter Gordon, disagree strongly.

For our own part, we're inclined to agree with Mr. Gordon, rather than Mr. Sharp, though we recognize the banks face a major problem getting money to lend when some trust companies are offering to pay only a fraction less than 6% for deposits left with them for as little as nine months. Obviously, if the banks can only charge 6% interest, they aren't going to be able to come very close on the interest they pay depositors.

One thing seems fairly obvious, although surprising, and that is the amount of money there is around the country. However, it's uneasy money, looking for a safe haven. For some reason unexplained there is more selling of government bonds than has been the case for years. And there is evidence some of this money is finding its way into equity stocks, either directly or through the mutuals, in order to share in the rising . . . or falling . . . price of the stock market generally. At least it tends to be a hedge against inflation, although it's also keyed directly to any deflation we may see.

There are other tests of strength on the Ottawa scene, not nearly so obvious as the Pearson-Diefenbaker combat, but running deeper, and possibly more serious in the long run. In any case, with an insistent demand for summer holidays this year nobody wants to repeat last summer: there's bound to be some fast action upcoming ahead a house as possible, to keep the largest number of members happy.

It was Colin Cameron of the NDP who objected on the premise that it was in the public interest that as many companies as possible become publicly owned, and this rebate of taxes would drive most of the companies right out of business. What he claimed is false then we don't know what can be made for the publicly owned corporations getting out of the field.

Good news for consumers

One bright light appears on the consumer front now in Alberta, at least in most fields. As a result of Ottawa's decision to rebate 95% of the corporation tax levied on privately owned power companies and of the provincial government's undertaking, it would seem that rebates to the consumers in connection there is bound to be a reduction in rates to consumers.

Where the reductions will show up is another guess at the moment, though we bet the companies view it favorably when worked out. One thing seems fairly certain: since this is a public issue at the moment the reduction is likely to be offered in all

Will you be here?

Will you still be around on July 5th, to the overwhelming question answered by the Dominion Accounts Association? They point out the National Safety Council predicts more than 700 Canadians and Americans dead in traffic accidents . . . off the job! Highway workers . . . off the job! Medical staffs working . . . off the job!

Speed . . . one of a not the killer-pushes of the association. The sevenhanger a decision at variance with established traffic conditions. To make sure you're around after the holiday crackle see the note at the top of the page. Drive defensively . . . always expecting a wrong move by other motorists. Start the summer on normal schedule . . . the safety factory of traffic. Stay alive on longer runs to avoid fatigue when powers reflex action.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

When I took over the job of organizing Canada's biggest celebration in history, I ran into a number of pessimists, even a few cynics.

This is the sort of line they gave me. "Canadians aren't noisy patriots. You'll have a tough job stirring up much flag waving for 1967".

Well, some of their facts were correct but the spirit in which these few pessimists presented their views to me was not what I accept as Canadian. I have travelled long and far enough in this country to know that Canadians really have strong positive feelings about their country

I could agree with some of the statements by my pessimistic friends if they were in a different context. Canadians are not given to wild demonstrations of patriotism in their own country. Such displays embarrass us. I believe our kind of nationalism is more thoughtful than emotional and that is why I believe so fervently that our Centennial will be a successful and meaningful event in our history

Yes, we may have difficulty at times in decoding what we are, what we are for and what we are against in the world. But we know what home is and though we may be embarrassed to express it we love our land. Perhaps I discovered this as I travelled abroad when I met Canadians far from home. When we are overseas travelling we are more apt to open up and reveal to other people our inner thoughts about our country. One particular instance comes to my mind. I was standing at a crossroads in Lancaster England a few years ago and became engaged in conversation with a young man across the table from me. He was a Canadian working at an airline office in London. With no prodding from me he poured out all his thoughts about home and about Canada.

"I'm not a nationalist", he said. "In fact I'm against nationalism. It causes a lot of trouble in the world. That's why I like my country. We're not aggressive nationalists. But really, mister", he said, "it's hard to describe my feelings about my country". He thought his feeling for his homeland was not just the house he was born in back in Ontario, nor was it necessarily his home town. It was the fine country where he used to go on canoe trips in the summer, the big running rivers and the roads that go forever

"I always felt if I couldn't find a job in Canada I could always go to the north country and trap though not something new couldn't do over here—and at least make a living" he said. He admitted it was just a "fancy of the mind" —probably he'd stay—and if trouble always gave him a feeling of security he said. "I always felt that the Rockies or the Canadian wilderness were mine even though I didn't go there every weekend I only saw the Rockies once

The young man went on, expressing his mind and being very sentimental and patriotic. I thought to myself he probably would be far too undefined and embarrassed to talk like that back home

From now to 1967 Canadians, as individuals and in groups, large and small, are finding ways to express their true feelings about Canada. I feel you more about these in future reports.

won the bench rest competition with a score of 97/30 at 40 yards. Arnold also got the best shot of the day trophy in this event, neatly taking out the exact center of the target with one of his bullets. Don Holmes of Edmonton placed second in this event with a .577 cal Snider Rifle

WHY YOU MAY HAVE TO PAY MORE FOR DAIRY FOODS

Each year, Canada's dairy farmers get a smaller return for their investment and efforts. Increasing costs of operation, equipment and virtually everything a farm needs, plus a very serious shortage of farm labour, are putting dairy farmers out of business at the rate of about 10,000 each year.

Returns to the dairy farmer have not kept pace with increased costs of farm operation.

From May 1954 to the beginning of 1966, in most Canadian markets, the aggregate increase to the dairy farmer was only 2 cents per quart for standard homo milk.

Consumer prices of dairy foods have not increased as much as most other food products.

From May 1954 to the beginning of 1966, in most Canadian markets, the aggregate increase in home delivered milk (standard homo) was only 3 cents a quart.

Canada's dairy industry is vital to our economic and nutritional health. If dairy foods cost a little more than they used to, they'll still be your best food buy.

Worker rescued as 9 ft. ditch caves

Four miles east of Holden, on Highway 14 an AGT underground cable excavation caved in burying Harvye Ward under four feet of dirt about 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday afternoon. The Holden Ambulance arrived and administered oxygen and first aid, then took the victim to Viking Hospital where he regained consciousness Wednesday morning. He statement as to his condition was released Wednesday afternoon as he was still undergoing thorough examinations.

VOL. 15 NO. 45 PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, July 7th, 1966

'Showcase' is colossal

A winner

A new entry and a very colorful one in last week's parade was this first place winner entered by the hospital. Spectators, as well as the nurses on the float, thoroughly enjoyed this one.

Despite cloudy skies, Showcase '66 was an unqualified success. The dull day failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the 2,200 people gathered to celebrate Canada's 99th birthday.

From the time the parade, led by the scarlet-clad "Mounties" and the Andrew School Boys' Band to see the leader slap of Leo Kerchinsky marching down Main Street until the last ball game was over, Showcase '66 offered entertainment for everyone

QUEEN AND PRINCESS

A "first" this year was the Queen and Princess contest, which was won by Dorothy Brost and Marion Hnatiuk. The winners as well as the runners-up rode in state on the Community League float, which had been beautifully decorated by June Christensen, Margaret Ballard and Jane Cheney.

On arrival at the grounds, the Queen's float was met by Cal Annis, master of ceremonies, and Lionel Burton, president of the League. In a ceremony conducted by Mr. Annis, the Queen and Princess were crowned by Mr. Burton, and presented with gold watches

All the contestants, Frances Shultz, Nettie Appleby, Luella Scharker, Ruth Dickson and Kaith Hegeler, were given gifts by Mr Burton, on behalf of the Community League Queen Dorothy Brost drew the lucky ticket, the owner of which was Mr Roth. Harvey Lallycee received a year's pass to the show for selling the most tickets.

PARADE WINNERS

Queen Dorothy was escorted to the ball diamond by Mr. Burton to throw out the first ball. She then announced the winners of the parade, as follows

Non-Commercial Floats — 1st, Town of Tofield, 2nd, Hospital; 3rd, Junior High "Bug"

Commercial Float — 1st, B-A Products, 2nd, Charlie's Place

The barbecue was also run by over 400 Rotary people. The Tofield Rotary Association and the Optimist Club cooked with

MEMORY-JOLTING FLASHBACK

Flag for Wainwright

Wainwright will score a 'first', believes the Rev. W. A. Stevens of that district, with the introduction of a flag of its own for the town. Prepared by the Chamber of Commerce, the flag has been formally approved by the Town Council, and shows a rope ring encircling a brown buffalo, with the word Wainwright underneath in bold yellow letters, the whole on a blue field.

At first glance we're inclined to deprecate the interest in a town flag or even a provincial flag for that matter. We've been interested that Alberta as a province has so far not seen fit to authorize a provincial flag, following the lead of several others.

For some time, we have felt we'd better leave things alone until we can show more interest in our national flag. This notion about not flying a flag we don't like is nonsense ... but that argument is long since dead. The flag is a fact, just as surely as death or taxes, and we haven't noticed anyone skipping either of these simply because they don't like them.

But maybe Wainwright has a bright idea. Maybe if more of us became interested in flying the flag of our own town, we'd become flag conscious and interest might go on from there to provincial and national flags.

More pay or they quit

Under this heading The Financial Post recently reported there will be a big increase in pay for armed forces this fall, some possibly equalling the 30% gained recently by the Seaway workers. The move isn't a bit popular with the Department of Finance, apparently, but Defence Minister Paul Hellyer has been convinced for some time there is no alternative as they see more and more men and women slipping out of the services, to enjoy their share of the national prosperity they believe they are missing out on.

We don't know what rates of pay are in the service today, and it may be they're slipping behind some what. But reports from all sides seem to indicate that life in the service isn't too bad at all, really, and one thing civilian life almost never provides is a fairly substantial pension at an age when a worker is young enough to move into other fields of production, and earn a second income in addition.

The defence department hopes, apparently, that by using the "most modern management techniques to increase productivity" the total manpower requirement can be reduced and the total wage bill kept more or less at a level.

Trouble with this is that other industries will feel the impact of higher wages in the military, and have to keep pace, notwithstanding the fact servicemen are quitting. And so the merry spiral goes on, as the demand for skilled and trained workers makes insatiable demands during a period of relatively full employment. The prosperity we all desire creates some of our biggest problems.

Susie Lopatinsky was maid of honor, who wore a pink satin gown with a lace overlay. The bridesmaid was Maureen McLachlan, wearing a gown of turquoise crepe. Both girls carried identical bouquets of white carnations and white ceremony mums with matching ribbons.

The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Ernie Theroux and the bride's brother, Colin VanBuskirk Ushering the guests were Rose Franklin and Colin VanBuskirk

The bride's mother chose a dress of aqua crepe and lace with pink accessories, and a corsage with matching ribbons.

The groom's mother was attired in a pink and white print dress with white accessories, and white roses on corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 120 guests at the Fort Saskatchewan Golf and Country Club. Dolores Schacher was in charge of the guest book. Ralph Causey was master of ceremonies, and Charlie Niemasty proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

23 cars derailed in freak CN wreck

Service on the Canadian National Railway line to Edmonton was broken late Friday night when 23 cars smashed up a mile and a quarter of a mile of track. Damage has so far not been estimated in the freak accident, described by several railroaders as the worst they had seen in 20 years.

Reason for the accident has not been decided yet, either, according to J. J. Thornton, railway representative in Edmonton.

Shortly before 11:00 p.m. Friday the southbound freight, hauling a mixed load of ore cars from Pine Point, loaded and empty boxcars, came to a halt a mile south of Armena, near the Miquelon Lake road, when 23 cars careened into a heap, twisting tracks and crushed into a tangled mass.

Noise of the crash was heard by farmers all over the district, according to reports phoned in to The Mercury.

The smash involved 18 empty 1 cars and five gondolas.

FAST ACTION

Almost immediately repair crews swung into action. Arrangements were made for a bulldozer to come from Edmonton by lowboy, while Ted Kelten of Camrose was also retained. By early morning, roadcrews were on hand from several points in the region, and work commenced on clearing the track.

First consideration of the crews was simply to pull the wrecked material from the roadbed, and tumble it into the ditch for later removal. Wheels, axles, and other material left behind was also cleared away, then crews started removing twisted rails and broken ties.

Almost immediately, ties were replaced, and new rails were set in place, so that reconstruction work moved ahead as fast as possible. By night service was resumed over the section, with salvage operations to continue over a more extended period.

TRAINS KEEP RUNNING

Trains continued to run during the interruption, being re-routed from Camrose north to Tofield, and thence in to Edmonton. After the break, the locomotive and cars still remaining coupled continued south, while those standing behind the break were drawn back to Edmonton again

No estimate of damage is yet available, said Mr Thornton, who reported that new boxcars cost about $18 000. Of course, he pointed out, with older cars, depreciation has to be taken into account. He offered no estimate of the price of the ore cars, which were almost new.

As much as possible of the nickel concentrate will be salvaged, said Mr Thornton, since the refiner product is valued at 32 8 per ton. There is much less value attached to the nickel ore in the two gondolas which upset he said, since this was still raw ore, pretty much as it comes out of the ground. Heavy shipments of ore as well as concentrate have been carried by the company from the new mine at Pine Point to the smelters at Trail.

Cause of the damage is still under investigation, The Mercury was told, with the remark that it appears at present that the equipment was not at fault.

Bardo district couple mark 25th anniversary

(Mrs. C. M. Rude)

BARDO — A large number of friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the Community Centre on Sunday afternoon to honor Leonard and Evelyn Stauffer on their 25th wedding anniversary.

Miss Sylvia Stauffer was in charge of the guest book, and the lovely wedding cake was baked and decorated by Leonard's sister, Evelyn.

Leif Foshaug was master of ceremonies for the program, calling on Pastor A. Dahlen for the opening devotion. The ladies sextette sang a song, and Lester Severson, Evelyn Foshaug and Patricia Litwin gave a musical number on the guitar, ukulele and accordion

Mrs. Evelyn Stauffer read a poem which had been composed for the occasion, and Mrs. Herman Lawson, Evelyn's mother, sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by Bernice Heiberg and on the violin by Evelyn's father, Herman Lawson

As it was also Leonard's birthday, his sister Evelyn presented him with a birthday cake. Leonard's cousins sang a song, and Willard Burkholder did a bit of reminiscing from school days.

Kenny Stauffer presented his parents with a gift from himself and Warren; Ivan Foshaug presented a purse of money from the community, friends and relatives; Leonard Lawson and Mrs Holmar Haugen from the Campbell families.

The happy couple expressed their deep appreciation for gifts and everything that had helped to make the day such a pleasant one.

Tofield Lions meet July 5

Tofield Lions Club held their first July meeting on Tuesday evening in the Community Centre with Lion "Chick" Blacklock, newly installed president, in the chair. Tofield Coffee Shop is now catering to the Club.

It was learned that Lion Henry Poege won the raffle of the $100 bill. Appreciation was expressed to those Lion members who spent time in making the interesting float for the July 1st parade.

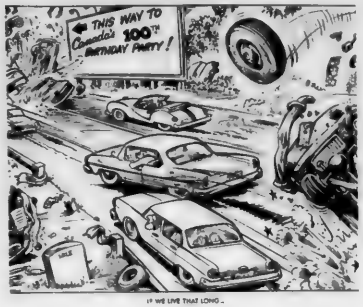
International Lion President Lindsay will be in Edmonton on August 1, an event which might not happen again in 30 years. The members were urged to attend if possible and have a good representation from District 27B

The matter of surrendering the Canadian Charter and continuing under the Head Office was discussed, and tabled until another meeting

Some ideas for variety entertainment were explored, and may be finalized later.

4-H at work

Believe it or not, but most of the paint did get on the buildings instead of the painters above, who are members of the Tofield 4-H club carrying out a centennial project of painting the booths and fences in the sports grounds. Paint was supplied by the UGG to all 4-H clubs wishing to take on such a project.



IF WE LIVE THAT LONG...

Great Canadian

The death early Monday of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton removes from the scene one of the comparatively few great Canadians our country has produced. A remarkably clever man, he served his country in many fields, as diverse as it is possible to be. As scientist, he was for years before the war the head of the National Research Council, with many important developments to his credit.

During the war, he headed the Canadian Army overseas until relieved of his command, and it is a matter of record that he was warmly admired and highly respected by the same troops who booed their prime minister. Whatever the official record shows, Canadian troops knew his removal was because his keen sense of principle would brook no compromise, and he was a thorn in the flesh of the British military hierarchy, who desired to split the unified Canadian Army into two corps

Returned to Canada, he was made minister of national defence, but found himself entirely unskilled in the guerilla warfare of politics, and he lost out in his bid to maintain the army on an entirely volunteer basis

Returned to civilian life, he served on Canada's U.N. committee and was for years chairman of the Canadian delegation to the joint U.S. committee on water use. Here again, his unswerving devotion to Canada coupled with his intense honesty and fearless expression brought him into continual conflict, so that he was rarely out of controversy for any length of time

In this pre-centennial year, when so many of us are wondering what is the nature of the 'true Canadian,' here we have the best example we could look for in the life of Andy McNaughton.

Junior citizens, anyone?

Countdown for the junior citizens nominations for this year is only a mere two weeks away, and so far The Mercury has only one nomination for this award.

There must be more than one young citizen, 6 to 16, in this district, who has contributed far more than his or her share minimum in helping to make things go, either at home or beyond.

Anyone who knows of circumstances they feel are particularly commendable is urged to write a report and send it to The Mercury, or directly to Calgary Power. If you feel unable to write the story sufficiently well, please get in touch with Chuck MacLean, editor of this paper, and have him fill in for you.

But please don't delay July 31st is the deadline

Centennial Report

1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

What small town or city in Canada has not been served, at some time in its history, by a Chinese restaurant or a Chinese laundry? Our communities have been built by the contributions of many cultures and it occurs to me that too often the contributions of the Chinese have been overlooked.

In earlier times the Chinese provided the backbone of labour for railroad building. They were the cooks in mines and lumber camps. Gradually they developed small businesses and provided services to communities which few others were prepared or able to offer. They still do that today and scores of small communities would have no public eating places if it were not for Canadians of Chinese extraction. Also, they provide a cultural addition to our cities with their glamorous and interesting modern "Chinatowns."

These contributions I have mentioned are some of the more noticeable ones. Chinese Canadians today are active as well in most other areas of modern society—in the arts, the professions, in business, even in politics. For example, Mr. Peter Wing recently became the first Chinese Canadian to be elected mayor of a Canadian city, at Kamloops, B.C.

The people of Vernon, B.C., are quite aware of the contribution the Chinese have made in the development of their community. What has made them more aware recently is an offer by the Chinese community of Vernon to build a tea house as a Centennial project in the city park. Walter Joe, spokesman for the Chinese community's Freemasons and Dart Coon Club, told the city council that some of the oldtimers wanted to build the tea house as a reminder of the new and old cultures.

I can agree heartily with the Vernon News which commented in one of its editorials: "Chinese Canadians should be saluted on their desire to play a part in celebrating the 100th anniversaries of B.C. and Canada. In this way their part in the building of a nation, which we tend to overlook, can receive the recognition it deserves."

The first Chinese arrived at Vernon 60 to 70 years ago and the community reached 700 people around the time of the First World War. The News states that they went to Vernon in force with the building of the railroad and earlier some took part in the Cherryville gold rush. "They stayed to provide the labour needed to operate canneries and the agricultural industry. It was mostly labour because they lacked the education and knowledge of the language to get better jobs.

"But the Chinese established themselves as hard workers and good citizens. Many became prosperous businessmen and played a significant role in the community's development." I might add that wherever the Chinese were allowed to bring up families in Canada they strove to give their children higher education.

It is easy to see that the Centennial is not only an occasion of celebrations. It is a time when we are reminded that Canadians of all backgrounds have developed this country and that we cannot afford to think that any group of us can be self-sufficient in isolation. I believe that the Centennial projects—the big ones being conducted on a national scale and the small ones like the Vernon tea house—will remind us that Canadians originated from societies and cultures all over the world and will increase our understanding of each other's way of life and point of view.

OTTAWA —In the fire and fury of the seven days dispute, the government has produced a broadcasting policy which July Lake is open will settle things for ten to twenty years to come.

They have been some raised eyebrows at this statement by the efficient Secretary of State who has covered her sparks and done some switches all year from the Heath Portman to Canada - Manpower Culture.

But the Broadcasting White Paper tabled in the Commons last week was an extremely progressive statement as well as the appointment of the Board of Broadcast Governors, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and the Government as every-body will know what they have to do.

NEW STRUCTURED PLAN

It is proposed to structure with various levels of regulation and responsibility.

At the top Parliament will supreme, it will have to repeal the new broadcasting act which will follow the White Paper.

Responsible to Parliament is set policy and apply the law as the Government. But the Government proposes to give it more latitude power to be assisted and strengthened Board of Broadcast Governors.

For example it will be the Board of Broadcast Governors, not the Cabinet that will issue broadcasting licences — subject only to technical checks by the Department of Transport.

KILL PATRONAGE

By this device, the government hopes to remove the taint of political patronage from the broadcasting business. And the new Board of Broadcast Governors will be given teeth to keep licence holders to the promises by which they obtained the Stiff fines against licence holders who fail to maintain quality will be levied. Previously, it was possible only to levy small fines and the Board of Broadcast Governors hesitated to take the ultimate step of recommending revocation of the licence.

And the step is eliminate public hearings on the licences to provide the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation with a five year grant based on the number of TV households in Canada as part of having the government year has in hand to implement each year.

BBC UP — CPC DOWN

Under the Board of Broadcast Governors has been strengthened, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will have its powers curtailed somewhat. It will no longer come under the Board of Broadcast Governors as will the private broadcasters and a new Federal Crown Corporation to be set up for educational and public broadcasting.

Community antenna television will also come under Board of Broadcasting Governors rulings. Within the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation itself, the government has moved to separate the areas of policy making and actual day-to-day operation. The President of the Corporation will be the Chairman of the Board which makes policy. But the day-to-day business will be carried on by a Chief Executive Officer appointed by the Board with the approval of the Cabinet.

BUT STILL INFLUENCE

The government has reserved the right to "guide" the Board of Broadcast Governors in action to prevent foreign control seeping into Canadian broadcasting and to halt the speed of monopoly control in legal situations where one owner has newspapers, radio and television stations.

For the private broadcasters there's a guarantee against unfair commercial competition by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The government has decided that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation should not try for more than its present share of the broadcast market—about 25 per cent of television revenues and four per cent of radio revenues.

FREE HAND

Just how the changes will affect the futures of such persons as Alphonse Ouimet, President of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will only be seen when the legislation is in effect some six months from now.

But the government will have a free hand since all apointments to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and Board of Broadcast Governors—including Mr. Ouimet's recent appointment for another seven year term—lapse with the new law.

District farmers squeezed as Edmonton packers strike

Over 600 workers at Canada Packers in Edmonton went on strike against the company yesterday morning, joining those in seven other Canadian cities in the nation-wide walk-out. They are members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, and the dispute is over social security, job security and wages. A picket line of 50 of the employees of the plant was already in action when the Edmonton plant at Fort Road and 76st street opened Wednesday morning.

The strike will have a wide spread effect in the Edmonton area, to producers and consumers alike. Many farmers, including those in the Tofield, Ryley, and Holden districts normally sell off any surplus cattle at this season when they are at their peak of fatness from the green grass. This is particularly true this year when hay crops are light and winter carry-over of surplus stock is not practical. Some producers too need the money from the sale of these cattle to carry on the expensive business of harvesting the crops, and hogs now ready for market will lose in value every day they are held over. While Canada Packers is not the only buyer of cattle and hogs it does handle over 40 per cent of the animals in the Edmonton area, and the crippling of their facilities by the strike will have an adverse effect on the [illegible] generally.

From the [illegible] point of the consumer [illegible] of fresh meat are almost certain to rise because of the demand on the available [illegible].

The management of Canada Packers [illegible] meat [illegible] perish.

Miquelon cottagers asked to sell to park

Owners of 10 lots on the south-east point of Third Miquelon Lake have received letters from the Department of Lands and Forests asking if they are prepared to sell them and at what price to the government.

At present there are four completed cottages on these lots which have been developed over the years by the owners and there are two more under construction.

It is the policy of the government to avoid private ownership of land in Provincial Parks and a recent sale of land to expand Miquelon Park means that these lots are now within its boundaries.

Originally intended as a community project, this park started in 1957 with the purchase of 104 acres by the Lions Club of Camrose which found the development of it beyond the means of the club and subsequently donated it to the provincial parks department on condition that the area would be made into a park. It is fast becoming one of the most frequently patronized parks in the province.

The tendency in most of us is to observe rather than act, avoid rather than participate, not to no rather than do, the tendency to give in to the sly, negative voices that constantly counsel us to be careful, to be controlled, to be wary and prudent, and hesitant and guarded in our approach to this complicated thing called living.

Rev Father McGee of St. Anthony's Parish, Edmonton performed the ceremony. Mrs E. Stinson was the organist

Given in marriage by her brother Richard since her father was confined to hospital the bride wore a floor length gown of white applique Sonesta styled in classic sheath lines with a sweeping train, round neckline and lily point sleeves. Her filmy chapel length veil was held in place by two white roses and lily of the valley, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Terry Heitman and Miss Elaine McKernan. Her niece, Beverly Heitman was flower girl Their similar gowns of pale blue brocade were floor length sheath style and they wore matching hair bands and white full-length gloves. Their cascade bouquets were of white mums

The bride's mother wore a peacock blue lace ensemble, pink floral cloche, pink rose corsage and white accessories. The groom's mother chose a dresden blue linen ensemble, white picture hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

At the reception for 100 guests held at the Community Centre, the bridal table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake.

Quite a number of couples from the Ross Creek district attended the wedding of JoAnne McLachlan and Jim Carter at the Ottewell United Church, Edmonton, and the reception at the Beverly Crest Motor Hotel on Saturday.

About 140 members of the Schacher families attended the first family re-union held in six years. The affair took place at the Beverly Crest Motor Hotel. Following this they went to Borden Park where ice cream and soft drinks, etc., were served to the four generations represented. CLEANING HAZARDS

Never attempt to mix dry-cleaning fluids in the home. Although the final result may not be inflammable, some of the ingredients may explode on contact with others, before they are sufficiently diluted. Also, the toxic fumes emanating from the mixture could cause serious harm to a person mixing and using these fluids.

Taking things as they come, and being able to live with them is another form of success.

Monday's rain saves burning crops

. . . Hay crop very light

Queen and Princess

Shown here are the lovely winners of the Queen and Princess contest of the July 1st celebration this year. Queen Dorothy Brent and Princess Marian Hostetler found it a great honor to reign over the celebration and proved that with their good looks, personality and lots of friends it is easy to get the majority of votes. Photo by Peter Nichol.

Although coming too late to help some parched grain fields, nonetheless the rain, estimated at 1/10 of an inch which fell late Sunday and during Monday in the Tofield and Ryley districts, put an entirely new picture on the crop situation on most farms, from last week's report. Already the grain and gardens have responded to the moisture, and are in the best growing condition since spring. Other than a few scattered showers, the district has had almost no rain during June and July.

The extreme drought this year has had a damaging effect on the hay crop, too, which is very light. The rain has come too late to do much good here, as most hay is ready for the sickle now, or has already been cut. In Ryley district there is a very light hay crop, and some farmers have already had some shipped in to feed their livestock. It is hoped that the rain will revive the burnt pastures enough to feed the cattle for awhile. Speaking to the Alberta Wheat Pool agent at Ryley today, he said the wheat crop there could yield 15 to 20 bushels per acre, but that coarse grains are much lighter

In a strip all the way from Killam on the south to Vegreville there has been hardly any rain fall since spring up until Monday's rain, and sub-soil moisture is very below normal. The conditions improve somewhat closer to Tofield, but still considerably lower than usual. Even with Monday's rain, a half crop is the best that can be expected, most farmers say.

Early sown wheat on summer-fallow appears to be the only crop which will yield anything like a worthwhile crop, although Monday's rain should bring on oats and barley so that they can at least be cut for feed for the cattle

CONCERN FOR CATTLE

Not wishing to dispose of their basic herds of cattle, the prospect of insufficient feed looms large to farmers who depend to a large extent on the livestock to augment crops. For awhile farmers were concerned about the strike of Canada Packers in Edmonton and the effect it would have on the market for beef and pork ready for slaughter, but have been assured by cattle buyers that this should be short as other packing houses have already increased their processing of meat in order to offset the effects of the strike

The drought in north central Alberta is quite wide-spread and is

The International Nickel Company is trying a new twist in labor relations seeking permission to sue several employees for engaging in an illegal strike. Indications are the suit may be permitted.

It brings to mind an interesting commentary on the attitude of unions themselves to the illegal strike. It seems that responsible labor unions could pretty well eliminate the illegal strike if they were really sincere, simply by suspending or cancelling membership privileges of members engaging in illegal walk-outs.

Actions speak louder than words, they say.

Square peg

Recent complete disinterest of anyone in the motel business in building tourist accommodation in lower Lake Louise helps to prove how far off base is the Hon. Arthur Laing, minister governing Canada's national playgrounds, in trying to develop the park's business pattern along government lines rather than economic thoughts. It probably also indicates the business world isn't too interested in the new groundrules laid down by Mr. Laing for leases

The idea that any lease in the future reverts to the Crown at the end of forty years may be considered reasonable, since anyone entering the deal knows the rules. But we maintain Mr. Laing . . . and the Canadian government . . . cannot maintain their intention of ignoring leases made in 1958 as a "perpetual" basis Mr. Laing has objected to lessees holding to these "obscure agreements", which reminds one of Hitler's amazement that Britain would be so concerned over a "scrap of paper."

It is unthinkable that Canada should follow the same lead. If the government's agreements can't be trusted, then the integrity of the state means nothing. We have already seen too much of this sort of thinking regarding our treatment of the Indians . . . and we've been told the reason we can't alter present-day rules for the Doukhobors and the Hutterites is because of decades-old agreements which can't be changed.

If mistakes were made in granting leases into perpetuity, it is too bad, and should not be repeated in the future. But governments, like individuals, inherit the mistakes of the past, and must live with them. After all, time itself is on the side of the government, as these things have a way of righting themselves.

The parks were nothing without the developers who took risks the government wouldn't face. The parks were built by these people, not plundered by them. We abhor it when the Communists, the Nazis, the Fascists, and others break their solemn undertakings. We must not be guilty of the same shortcoming within our own system.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

By JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

A television series about the drama of life in New York City used to end this way: "There are eight million stories in the Naked City. This has been one of them".

Around Centennial Commission headquarters at Ottawa we are beginning to look at Canada's 1867 celebrations in the same way. There are many thousands of national, provincial and local projects under way across Canada to mark our 100th birthday and they all make stories. The big national projects alone are numbered by dozens — the Confederation Train and Caravans, a 4,000-mile canoe race, the Canada Festival, the Youth Travel program; programs for the performing arts, visual arts, folk arts, athletics, tree planting, new buildings for arts centres, museums, and so on.

I am going to tell you in this column of one of the national projects about which I am quite excited It is the Armed Forces Tattoo, the big big cross-Canada show which will be mounted by the Department of National Defence.

At the time of writing I am particularly excited about this event because I have fresh in my mind an advance look at the program. At Centennial Commission headquarters recently Brig. C. Arnold Peck and Captain Ian Fraser of the Department of National Defence centennial planning staff described the two-hour show—of which there will be 147 performances in 49 cities across the country—and provided storyboard illustrations and taped excerpts of the stirring music especially composed for the Centennial

I can predict that Canadians will be given a thrilling surprise when they see the Armed Forces Tattoo, which will be one of the highlights of the 1967 reinforcement. The advance presentation which we saw and heard at Ottawa showed that the Forces' project is being conducted in a highly professional manner.

There will be 48 colorful selections in 13 major scenes of the Tattoo with static bands, marching bands, pipes and drums, scenes from history as far back as 1665, a novel gun-handing race over obstacles, a drummer boy's idea of what war was like in 1812, 150 sailors dancing a hornpipe, action scenes on the battlefields— even an actual World War II Spitfire in an enactment of a Battle of Britain "scramble".

The Armed Forces Centennial team has done research deep into history, through the years to the period when the early French and British regiments were stationed in Canada, and they have produced not only the music of the regiments but also the servicemen's songs of life canteens and messes which also have been sung by the citizenry of yesterday and today.

Research also has been done for the Tattoo in Europe by Captain Fraser for considera'ion of the best military tattoo productions and techniques at Edinburgh and on the continent. Captain Fraser, it has been pointed out, produced the Armed Forces show at the Seattle World's Fair which proved to be one of the highlights of that exhibition.

After seeing the very professional advance work done by the Defence Department's Centennial staff, I do not hesitate to recommend that you watch for the date of the performance, whether it be an indoor one or an outdoor one, nearest to your area, and be sure to attend

He stated that on June 30th he and the secretary-treasurer had met with the Assistant Director of Mines concerning the road being washed away at this particular point. Mr Melsop the assistant director of mines, said indicated that some

Cr. Weatherill referred to the dangerous condition of the road intersection at the S.W. corner of Sec. 4-51-20-W4th, located in the County of Strathcona, and Cr. Weatherill was requested to discuss this matter with the Councillor for that Division in the County of Strathcona, possibly at the July 25th meeting.

Cr. Knudsen reported that he had travelled off the beaten track through Bittern Lake to the Round Hill Flood Control Project, as this had not been done previously and his action was approved by the Council.

Assistance could be obtained from the Department of Mines and Minerals to overcome the shifting away of the bank at this place, and Cr. Knudsen referred to various ways in which this could be accomplished.

It appeared that they now had four veterinarians and that they had set up an office in the northern part of the area, that they serve, and the secretary-treasurer was requested to contact the Vegreville Veterinary Clinic in this matter.

Groundwork started on seed plant

Work has already started on the new Alberta Wheat Pool seed plant south of Highway 13 and east of the CNR tracks, with heavy earth - moving machinery preparing the site.

A contract, worth roughly $1,000,000, was awarded a Calgary firm, Apex Seed and Plant Construction Ltd., to construct the seed plant, which will be the major portion of the new complex. Facilities for handling bulk fertilizer will also be constructed, but this will be a separate job.

To be completed by August next year, the seed plant will be the first step in development of just over five acres of land, bought from the City for $30,000.

A spur line from the CNR track will also be constructed to the property, providing access both by rail and highway. The plant will be a heavy shipper in the past, with truck and train both coming in for major shares of the loadings, which reach out to areas all over the west.

The new building will replace the plant used since inception of the seed growers, in 1942, at 47th Street and 50th Avenue. In time, this had been a wholesale supply house and junior store before being bought by the seed growers co-operative.

advised to bring lists matter up at a later meeting when he had made up the bus list for the year.

In regards to the teacher situation Mr. Symyrnoum stated that a commercial teacher was required at Tofield, a French teacher at Holden, and a Physical Science teacher at Viking.

He stated that he might possibly have teachers for the positions at Viking and Holden but nothing available for Tofield at the present time.

Mr. Symyrnoum mentioned the fact that no space was available for the Principal's Secretary at the Holden School and he suggested how by some alterations this space could be made available. This work is to be done by the County's Maintenance Crew.

Moved and carried that the suggested alterations be approved and that the position of Secretary to the Principal at the Holden school be advertised in the Holden Herald and the Tofield Mercury.

The Committee was advised that Mr. Boris Stashko would like to have a garage at the teacherage he is now renting in Ryley. It was felt that finances would not permit construction of any garages this year and it was moved that Mr. Stashko be advised that his request cannot be acceded to this year. Carried.

Mr. Symyrnoum informed the Committee that an additional duplicator was required at Viking. He stated that there were two duplicators there now but, as there were three sections in the school, a third duplicator should be obtained. The price of this machine was in the neighborhood of $600, although this had not been provided for in the current year's budget, it was moved and carried that a duplicator be purchased for the Viking school

Mr. Symyrnoum mentioned that the Vegreville Health Unit would like to rent accommodation for a Public Health Nurse at Holden and that it appeared that the upstairs in the Calo house might be available. It was decided that, for the time being, the place should not be rented and that, if and when it was rented, it should be the understanding that 30 days notice could be given at any time.

Ruby Keehn and partner top talent show in duet

Mrs. Andrew (Ruby) Keehn of Camrose with Robert McDonald, Wetaskiwin, were winners of the CFRN Klondike Days talent contest in Edmonton on Saturday. Their talent was demonstrated in a duet, Mr. McDonald playing on a handsaw accompanied at the piano by Mrs Keehn. The saw, with resin applied to one side, vibrated to the strokes of a violin bow, and the pieces played were, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms", "The Cattle Call" and "Heart of My Heart".

The contest was advertised prior to Klondike Days and began on the Tuesday with 60 entries. Participants performed each day up to Saturday and one entry was selected as winner for the day. Mrs. Keehn and Mr. McDonald entertained for the first time on Saturday and later the same day competed successfully against the four other winners. Among the judges was Johnny Forest who was touring with the Don Messer group.

Prize for the winners was a combined television, stereo and radio set. Asked which of them was to have it in their home, Mrs. Keehn laughed and said, "Guess we'll have to cut it in half"

County Council meets June 16th

Following are the minutes (in part) of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver, No. 9, held Thursday, June 16th:

Diesel Fuel Tank

In regards to the diesel fuel tank at the old Municipal grader shed at Tofield, Cr. Weatherill reported that this 500-gallon tank was in good condition with 14 feet of good hose and fittings. It was suggested that this tank be moved to Holden to replace a 300-gallon tank, that is located at the grader shed there, and that the 300-gallon tank be mounted on wheels and used by the Public Works Crew as the present storage facilities are not large enough.

It was moved and carried that the report be accepted and the suggested recommendations carried out.

Sewerage System for Kinsella

At this time, A. B. Samuel, Professional Engineer with the Associated Engineering Limited, appeared before the Council in connection with the tenders called for the construction of a sewerage system for the Hamlet of Kinsella. He stated that nine contractors had originally taken out specifications, but only four tenders were received. The low tender was submitted by Whimell Enterprises Ltd. of Westlock for a total tender of $41,744.70. The total estimated cost for the project would be $48,587. This of course was much above the $40,000 authorized by bylaw, and Mr. Samuel suggested that the line on Railway Avenue be deleted, at least for the time being, effecting a saving of $11,005. This would bring the estimated cost down to $37,563, being within the terms of the bylaw. The Council gave some considerable consideration to the project and, as had been the case during previous discussions, it was felt that the County as a whole could be saddled with a very large portion of the debenture in case the population in the Hamlet of Kinsella was being reduced by people leaving the Hamlet.

After some careful and extensive consideration, it was moved and carried (Cr. Dorin voting against the motion) that the proposed sewerage system for the Hamlet of Kinsella be not proceeded with.

Cr. Johnston stated that C. N. Kjorlein of Kinsella Welding and Machine Shop had requested permission to pipe water from the well in the Hamlet to his workshop in order to be able to install the required rest-room facilities. Cr. Johnston stated that, in his opinion, this would be quite in order as there was an abundant supply of water.

Moved and carried that permission be given for the piping of water from the Hamlet water well to Kinsella Welding and Machine Shop.

Fire Permits

In regards to the enforcement of the fire permits, it was mentioned that the RCMP Detachment at Tofield was enforcing these permits very closely and that some of the regulations in the Act concerning the permits were entirely out of date. In the opinion of the Council the regulations did not apply to present day conditions. It was felt that some amendments to the Forestry Act should be requested and also that the RCMP Detachment at Tofield should be requested not to prosecute for minor infractions, and Cr. Weatherill was asked to interview Corporal R. Murr[illegible] in this regard.

Correspondence

A letter from Alberta Pacific Grain Ltd., requesting approval of their fertilizer shed at the elevator at Bruce, was referred to the Council.

Moved and carried that the necessary approval be given.

The Council was advised that the Alberta Assessment Appeal Board would hear appeals from Decision of the 1966 Court of Revision beginning on Monday, June 20th, to Tuesday, June 28th.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted.

Moved and carried that Form "A" as submitted at this time be approved as the tentative program for 1966 with the understanding that the total amount for road construction and gravelling should not exceed the sum of [illegible]

Moved and carried that advice from the Dept. of Highways that an allotment of $50,000 has been approved for work on the Special Contingency Road north of Holden to the County boundary be accepted and correspondence received and filed.

Cr. Knudslien stated that Kenneth and Lawrence Kallal of Kallal Hereford Ranch Ltd. wished to drain a slough on Sec. 34-50-18-W4th on to Section 33-50-18-W4th and hence into the creek on this parcel, and they had requested a culvert on the road between the two sections.

Inasmuch as the proposed drainage was of no benefit to the County's roads, it was moved and carried that Kallal Hereford Ranch Ltd be advised that they may install a culvert on the road allowance at their own expense, providing for at least a 22-foot top on the road.

It was moved and carried that bridge authorizations providing for 72-inch culverts at WNW 2-51-16-W4th and WNW 1-51-16-W4th be accepted.

The matter of proposed teacherages were discussed at this time, and it was decided to provide for full basements in the proposed Duplex at Ryley as well as in the single teacherage. Tenders to be submitted by June 30th and buildings completed by August 15th.

THE FUN SEASON

Farm Safety Week

Last week was Farm Safety Week, and it seems particularly fitting a major Canadian farm machinery manufacturer should have chosen this week, either by accident or design, to announce that roll-bars will be available to buyers of new tractors as optional extras. As one eastern writer puts it, the 15 mph farm tractor and the 150 mph racing car will soon have one thing in common.

Since they're optional, and extra cost items, we imagine they won't have any more initial impact than safety belts did in automobiles. However, it probably won't take very long to build support for them if the farm housewife adds her two cents to the tractor deal, or if the insurance agent starts doing a bit of arithmetic.

Partly, the innovation reflects concern over criticism directed at the machinery industry, partly their concern over safety of their products. This year, for example the Canadian Medical Association convention endorsed tractor roll bars. A spokesman for the machinery industry also predicted that within a year, all manufacturers would be offering as options not only the roll bars but also safety frames and seat belts.

It's lawlessness

The outburst of suspected arson in three cases over the week-end as close to home as Calgary more or less brings home to many the explosive type of situation which can develop in the case of labor strife. People who may be more or less reasonable, tolerant citizens can lose all sense of proportion when engaged in a labor struggle, and obviously, those who never were tolerant to begin with may easily be persuaded to abandon any sense of responsibility they may have held.

In Calgary, gratefully, swift action seems to have been taken, but the question arises, when is this same action going to be regarded as inevitable, just as inevitable as it was when a gang of young people decided to run amok in Calgary the night before the Stampede started?

What are our lawmakers doing to ensure swift and certain action in these cases, so law-abiding citizens can live in the peace and security they are entitled to? What, for instance, are Cliff Smallwood or Chester Sayers doing in this regard? Both have been elected to look after our interests . . . it seems reasonable to turn to them in this instance and ask.

Man, wife injured in two car smash-up

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Story were unfortunate early last week in being in a car accident in Edmonton. The other car involved drove through a stop-sign and hit their car badly. Mrs. Story was badly shaken up and bruised, but Arthur's injuries were more extensive, having two ribs broken and both lungs collapsed. He was taken to the Royal Alex Hospital in Edmonton and was still in the Intensive Care Ward last Saturday when we were speaking to his son Gordon.

However, we were pleased to hear he is making progress, but is likely to be in hospital for some weeks. Mrs. Story is staying with her daughter and family, the Koop Spannenbergs, to be near her husband. Arthur and Doris and the Spannenbergs had been planning on a holiday trip to Penticton, before the accident occured.

Eldon Norum (right) a farmer-inventor from Simpson, Saskatchewan, and a friend examine the power bin cleaner, a labour-saving device invented by Norum in his farm workshop. The simple machine now being manufactured by Smith-Roles is claimed to move over 600 bushels per hour. The manufacturer states the power bin cleaner, which weighs only 60 pounds, can be used safely inside the bin. It is said to outperform two husky men with shovels. Norum "had to" invent the machine when a doctor ordered no shovelling because of a heart condition.

Former district woman passes away July 30th

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

The sad news was received by friends last week that Mrs. Olive Moisey, had passed away. She was the wife of William Moisey, of Edmonton, formerly the D.A. with County of Beaver at Ryley, several years ago. Death came on Saturday, July 30th, after Mrs. Moisey had been in poor health for some time. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, one daughter, Eileen (Mrs. Gordon Elkeer) of Toronto, one son Edward of Edmonton, and four brothers.

Prayer service was held Wednesday, August 3rd and the funeral service was held Thursday, August 4th, with Rev. M. Yuriwsky officiating and interment in the Edmonton cemetery.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family, as Gordon Elkeer who was visiting in Edmonton with his wife was recalled to Toronto on the death of his mother a few days before Mrs. Moisey passed away.

Ryley couple marks silver anniversary

On the 31st of July, Mr. and Mrs. John Kropielnicki celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. A service was held in St John Mary Vianney Catholic Church. During the mass the couple received communion under both species as allowed on special occasions in the new liturgical practices following Vatican Council II. Renewal of their marriage vows was held and Father Scriven blessed their wedding bands, which were gifts from their children and grandchildren.

After mass, the family and friends gathered at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr and Mrs Walter Kropielnicki, where a dinner was held in their honor. Father Scriven led with grace. Thomas Kropielnicki, their nephew, was master of ceremonies and also gave the toast to the celebrants.

Mr. Kropielnicki died early this morning (Thursday) in hospital.

He was taken to hospital only last evening, and passed away a few hours later. No warning had been given, nor had he been sick prior to yesterday.

Telegrams of congratulations were read from Archbishop Jordan of Edmonton, Her majesty the Queen, Prime Minister Lester B Pearson, John Diefenbaker and Frank Fane and his family.

Words of congratulations and best wishes were also given them by Father Scriven, A. Podruzney and Thomas Kropielnicki. One of their original attendants of 60 years ago was present, Mrs. Alex Chupka of Poe, and also Joe Ludwig of Chipman.

Ron Kropielnicki, their grandson, presented them with a clothes hamper from the guests. Mr and Mrs John Kropielnicki have two sons, ten grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Fast action

Tuesday brought the announcement from the acting minister of education, the Hon. A. O. Aalborg, that the government will be setting up some kind of a board to evaluate teacher training, for the purpose of salary considerations. While no details were spelled out, it seems fairly obvious it will go a long way toward meeting the insistent demands of many school trustees, as well as those of many municipal councils, including every one of the bodies concerned in Camrose.

Another striking feature of the announcement is the urgency it seems to indicate. For one reason or another, the matter couldn't even wait until the arrival back home of the minister of education, who is attending a conference in British Columbia. It would be interesting to know what political situation required that no delay could be tolerated in making the announcement . . . that even a few days would be too long to wait. Can it indicate the government's complete agreement with the trustees that no time should be wasted in warning the teachers' association not to overreach itself?

Another milestone

Living near the Joarcam oilfield, as we in the Tofield area do, anyone familiar with the importance of its development some fifteen years ago will be keenly interested in an editorial comment in the August issue of the Imperial Oil Review which points out.

"Coincident with all the celebrations of our hundredth anniversary next year, the Canadian oil industry will also mark a milestone. On balance, Canada is going to become self-sufficient in petroleum in 1967. For the first time the value of petroleum industry exports will equal the value of imports.

"This is a big change. Less than 20 years ago, we imported 90 per cent of our oil, and Canada's one major oil field — Turner Valley in Alberta — was declining steadily. Then Imperial discovered the Leduc field, and the country was on its way to the goal it will reach next year.

"Since Leduc came in, Canada has invested $71½ billion in oil exploration and production in western Canada. A lot of this capital was generated by the industry itself and ploughed back into more exploration and development, but a lot also came from abroad. This foreign capital was essential to the development of the western oil fields. In fact, it wasn't until 1962 that the annual gross revenues from oil and gas operations began to exceed annual expenditures. But the industry's cumulative deficit still totals more than $2 billion.

"Why didn't the oil industry get all its capital inside the country? Canada simply lacked the capital resources to finance the oil development as well as the other major developments of the postwar period.

"Many people did invest in oil in those days, of course, but to a large extent Canadian risk capital was "hard-rock" oriented. Investors were familiar with mining, but wary of big-scale oil exploration and development, which was new and strange.

"We were lucky that foreign capital was available 19 years ago when we needed it. Without it we could still be an oil-poor nation. . . ."

AGT switches to dial in Holden and district

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

On Wednesday, Aug. 3rd, the Holden Community Hall was filled to capacity with many standing in the hall, to see the Alberta Government Telephones show of of the new Dial System, which now is in effect in Holden and district with a greatly enlarged number of subscribers, and also in receive pertinent information on use of the system.

The speakers from A.G.T. were introduced by a few words from Mayor Bruce Budd A. L. Gibson, president of the amalgamated Holden Mutual companies, was one of the speakers, giving a short resume of the telephone system of the Holden district and of the Mutuals.

Mrs Bertha Sanderson, who has been the A.G.T. agent here for the past 15 years, was presented with a certificate and cheque from the A.G.T.; Lyle Gosland, on behalf of the Mutual company, presented her with a transistor radio, and, on behalf of Holden, Mayor Budd presented her with a purse of money.

Saturday, Aug 6, the Holden office of the A.G.T. was closed and the new exchange was in operation, with the dial system going into service at 12:00 o'clock midnight. While this is progress for Holden and the district, one has some regret that one will not be able to have a personal contact with the operator and obtain information from them.

Former district lady is 'budding' poet

(Mrs. J. Riddell)

MINISTIK—Mr and Mrs. Bert McLean (nee Frances Kephart) of Quesnel, B.C. have been visiting relatives and friends in Ministik and surrounding area. Among them being Mr. and Mrs Russell Rowland and Joan. School chums and friends will remember Mrs McLean (nee Frances Kephart) when she attended school here for some time, staying with her grandmother, the late Mrs. C. Murdock, and her aunt, Mrs. [illegible]

After marrying, she moved to the Cariboo district of British Columbia, near Quesnel, and soon saw that country could be written about that country. She received a very good sum of money as royalty for her little booklet of poems entitled "Barkerville Ballads".

She has had a second book published recently, and it is hoped she's as fortunate with it as she was with her first.

Frances is the eldest of five children of Jake Kephart and the late Lillian Kephart, of South Cooking Lake.

Tofield Lions meet August 9

Tofield Lions Club held their first August meeting in the League Centre on Aug 9th., with President Lion "Chuck" Blacklock in the chair. One visitor was present.

It was learned that the Variety Night, previously planned for August 30th., could not be held for reason of absence of one entertainer on holidays. The Club was informed that the wearing of hard hats by construction workers in a Compensation Board regulation and as farmers are not covered by them, cannot be included. The Club would request however, that farmers wear hard hats at all times for their own safety.

Details regarding a wading pool are that the Dept. of Public Health does not approve of same, and Town Council would require more information if this might in some way be feasible. The matter of numbering of houses and setting up street signs is near the final stage by the Gas Co., and may be a reality in the near future.

Lions Ed Regehr and Horace McHeffey, in company with Mrs. Regehr, had attended the whit

Invasion of privacy

It may not be on the increase, but the needless and senseless invasion of privacy in this machine age is far too prevalent. A number of instances come to mind, one of the more recent having to do with the provincial government's homeowner grant of $50.

One of the questions asked on the form is the applicant's date of birth, and among some homeowners it is raising a storm of protest. What possible difference could this make in any circumstance? Many properties are listed in the wife's name, many in the names of widows. What happens to the women who are perennially "29", or who usually add one year to their age every third birthday? And by no means all our citizens who are reluctant to tell their age are women, either. We know several men personally who feel it's nobody's business.

But how could it affect ownership of the house, or repayment of the $50, as long as the householder meets the qualifications?

Why require birthdate for a driver's licence for someone more than obviously old enough to qualify, yet far from the senile area? Why not, instead, use the method accepted in beer parlors: if there is enough doubt to inquire, the onus of proof is on the customer.

We know some application forms which ask as a matter of course the applicant's religion, and while this has nothing whatever to do with the job, it can on occasion influence the selection.

A student applying to another school jurisdiction recently was asked not only about his own background, but so many questions about the birth date and place of both parents, and their early origins that he had to go home for information. Really, what bearing would it have on the student's progress?

The list could easily be extended.

For ourselves, it really doesn't matter. A working newspaperman tends pretty well to live in a glass bowl, and we [illegible] few sensitivities in these areas. On the other hand, we know many people who have, and we understand their feeling that these questions constitute an unnecessary invasion of privacy, serving no purpose. And we feel there are already too many incursions of this kind not to [illegible] they should be curbed and restricted.

Progress

We used to talk about the 'march of science' and that was almost the head for this item, till we realized we weren't thinking about a march but almost headlong flight.

A quicky survey shows even mid-teeners recall the general introduction of transistors, so it can't be very many years since these amazing little devices fascinated adults by combining and replacing the functions of radio tubes, resistors, condensers and so on far bigger than they. It was one of the most impressive steps in miniaturization.

Only a few years ago, and already the transistor is obsolete. It's well on the way to being replaced by infinitely more complex units known as 'integrated circuits', which again will perform the work of many transistors, condensers, resistors and so on. They are so small that three, combining more than fifty varied functions, can easily be placed on a silver dollar, with room to spare.

The fact they're appearing commercially now means they've been known for some time, and probably have contributed tremendously to the space program. Military and scientific programs of this nature naturally would come first, and the domestic market later.

How long till they'll be obsolete?

Don't open the tap

The MacDuff report on this page enlarges on recent statements by resources minister Hon. Arthur Laing that Canada's water resources are not now and may never be negotiable for sale to the United States, where many an eye is being cast at our supposed vast surplus

We've differed strongly with Mr. Laing on his policy of going back on Canada's pledge insofar as national parks leases are concerned, but we're with him all the way insofar as keeping our water, now and in the future. Either he is voicing the government's new policy, after Prime Minister Pearson chose to equivocate on the matter at the time of the last election, or he is in the unhappy position of espousing a much more intransigent attitude than his leader.

On at least two counts, though, Mr Laing's position is correct. In the first place, there is not yet any demonstrated need for Canadian water on the American side of the border, and many Americans feel there would never be if only Americans would take strong action both to protect their present resources, and to research the field of use and re-use.

In the second place, Canadians are only looked on as equal partners when they have something the States wants. History is replete with examples of the door being shut tight when there's something we want, and there are many examples today, even.

Today's best example lies in the auto parts reciprocal agreement, for instance, which is killing several small Canadian firms. Look at the co-operation in the field of copyright, which permits American publishers to steal the work of any Canadian author which sells more than 1,500 copies in the States. In most cases, American manufacturers and producers have almost limitless access to Canadian markets, hampered only by occasional protective tariffs. Yet ask the Canadian farmer about access to the livestock markets across the border.

We'll need all our own water before long, with no chance to shut off the tap once it's opened. Let's not get any further involved in a fifty-fifty partnership basis on the basis of one horse, one rabbit

NO TRESPASSING

OTTAWA. — A classic range-war situation in Western folklore is the fenced creek or waterhole [illegible] thirsty cattle bawling and [illegible] outside the wire. Inside [illegible] the grim-faced defenders with [illegible] and [illegible] ready for man or beast that tries to break the fence

Canada's boundary with the United States is beginning to look like one of those [illegible] fences. On one side are the thirsty American cities and industries.

On the other are Canadian rivers tumbling [illegible] to [illegible] oceans and a [illegible] group of defenders led by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing.

Mr. Laing chose the recent American Bar Association convention in Montreal to post "no trespassing" signs around Canadian water.

"Canadian water is not now negotiable and I am not certain that it will ever be", Mr. Laing told the American lawyers.

[illegible] plans to divert northern rivers to arid [illegible] the United States are not acceptable to Canada, Mr. Laing stressed, pointing out that Canada has its own arid areas.

And he was probably understating the situation when he commented that use of natural resources would be one of the great controversies of the future.

As the U.S. thirst for Canadian water increases, there will be added pressure on Canada. So far, there has been no official U.S. government endorsement of the biggest proposed diversion project, the multi-billion dollar North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA).

Developed by a private engineering firm in California, the plan would treat the rivers of the North American continent as one unit, turning the northern-flowing rivers to feed the south.

NOT ALL AGREED

Eventually, the U.S. Government itself may join in the pressure for some such project. And the persuasive devices available can be powerful, as Canadian finance ministers have found when they had to trim economic policy to fit U.S. efforts to fight the American dollar drain.

Nor does Mr. Laing have a united Cabinet behind him in his determination to hang onto Canadian water for future Canadian use

In resources as well as in economic policy, there are continentalists as well as nationalists in the Pearson Cabinet. Even the Prime Minister himself, during last year's election campaign, spoke of exporting water in the future as Canada now exports wheat or oil. At that time, Mr. Pearson didn't say the negotiations would be easy or quick. But neither did he say Canadian water was not negotiable. The same kind of difference was evident between spokesmen for the Conservative party during the [illegible]

For several years now, there has been a kind of creeping continentalism in Canada's resource policy. This has changed the long-standing Canadian policy against export of energy, on grounds that energy should be retained in Canada to build up industry in this country.

One turning point was the national oil policy adopted by the Diefenbaker government and carried on by the Liberals. In this policy, the Canadian government officially put its authority behind the export of oil. Exports of natural gas were also sanctioned, so that of Canada's daily production of 2.9 billion cubic feet, about 1.2 billion cubic feet go to the United States.

Another important break in energy policy was the 1963 Columbia river agreement—making possible development of an international river on the basis of export of the Canadian-owned downstream benefits. The principle of export of hydro power has since been applied to Hamilton Falls in Labrador and to the ultimate development of the Nelson river in Manitoba, neither of them international rivers.

TWO VIEWS

At the same American Bar Association meeting where Mr. Laing was taking a firm stand on Canadian water, an oil company executive was proclaiming that the "continental energy concept" was firmly established in North America, although far from mature.

The lines between nationalists and continentalists in the use of natural resources are not yet sharply drawn. Nobody, including Mr. Laing, is refusing to sell any Canadian water, ever. And even the most convinced continentalist believes that Canada should meet her own needs first and use remaining resources as a bargaining lever, getting the highest price possible from the Americans.

The argument is likely to develop [illegible] timing and terms of exports and over the amount of reserves needed for Canada's future growth. And this will have to be based on studies on both sides of the border.

GET THE FACTS

In the United States, Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall has said his first job is to make a complete inventory of American water resources and to formulate a U.S. water policy. Only then will the United States government know whether it needs water from Canada, and how much.

No such complete study has been started in Canada, although it could be done by the new Department of Energy and Resources which is to come into being Sept. 1. But it is in the process of starting in bits and pieces. The recently agreed Saskatchewan-Nelson survey, covering the main rivers of the prairies, is an example

And until the studies are done, men like the late General A. G. L. McNaughton and like Mr. Laing will continue to ride the international fence to make sure nobody steals our water.

Her feet hurt

She was middle-aged, she looked tired and she was going down a flight of stairs one at a time. Her feet hurt and, no matter what may be the opinion of the cartoonists, this is no subject for humor. The reason her feet hurt was that she had walked instead of taking a bus, because the drivers were subjecting the transit company and its riders to a slowdown in rush hour.

She was an unhappy consumer of the services offered by the publicly-owned system. If she had had a paper she could have read the swan-song speech of Senator Thomas A. Crerar while she rested and she might have found some comfort in it.

The senator, out of the wisdom of his almost ninety years, said this. "I would say to labor we are going to establish a court. We will put the most impartial and fair-minded men we can find on that court, and we will tell that court that in the end they have to take into account not only the rights of labor, not only the rights of business, but also the rights of the public . . ."

He was speaking of labor under federal jurisdiction but the public does not make fine distinctions. One day it will rise up on its aching feet and the result will be compulsory arbitration. The Hon. Mr. Crerar, if he's around to see the day, will have the right to say, "I told you so".

PREVENT LOSS OF GRAIN FROM TRUCKS

Moving grain in unprotected trucks results in considerable loss of valuable grain. In addition, weed seeds are spread along road allowances and this can create a serious weed problem.

A specially designed wind baffle has proven effective in eliminating this problem. Detailed plans may be obtained free from your nearest Searle Elevator Agent or by writing to: Agricultural Service, Searle Grain Company, Limited, P.O. Box 943, Winnipeg 1, Manitoba.

Alaskan visitor tells how to guess weather

... with aid of computer

"Mr. Weatherman, tell us how you work the oracle of weather forecasting." John Loopstra, leading forecaster with the United States Weather Bureau at Anchorage, Alaska, was kind enough to do so while on holiday in Camrose, visiting Mrs. Loopstra's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Spiers.

A weather program begins at thousands of observation points all over the world. Mr Loopstra said he believed two - thirds of them are in the northern hemisphere, the southern hemisphere lagging behind in gathering weather information. The bureau at Anchorage receives teletyped weather reports from well beyond Japan, from most of Russia, which is co-operative in this respect, from northern Europe, some from China, all Canadian reports except from the extreme east and all U.S. reports except from the very south-east.

Information is gleaned from ships of several nationalities plying between Canada, the U.S. and Japan, but most of the recording ships are Japanese. One of the most important points is the northern Pacific in the Canadian weather ship stationed in the Southern Gulf of Alaska, a little over 1,300 miles south of Anchorage. At the bureau, it is known as "Ship Peppa" and its importance lies in the fact that Peppa not only takes surface observations, but observations of the upper air as well. Every 12 hours a radiosonde attached to a balloon is released and this supplies information about the temperature and humidity at upper levels. By tracking the balloon from the surface, it is possible to ascertain what the winds are at those levels.

This formidable collection of information is handled by a "map spotter" whose rather tedious job it is to plot it on a weather map which is passed on to a forecaster. He, in turn, analyses it in terms of pressure gradients — the most important elements received from the surface. He figures out where the pressure systems are and then anticipates the direction in which they will move and so arrives at a forecast. The difference between the high and low pressure systems is usually the measurement of the wind, so the greater the difference between the systems, the stronger the wind is going to blow. This enables them to give valuable forecasts for mariners. The Anchorage bureau sends out over the Aleutian chain and also forecasts for long aviation flights between Alaska and Japan and for all the State of Alaska. It transmits forecasts by teletype or telephone to radio stations and by marine telegram or telephone to marine and aviation users.

COMPUTER COMES IN

"It is getting to the point now", said Mr. Loopstra, "where even the weather business is computerized". The forecasters make a prognostic chart and anticipate weather 36, 36 or 48 hours ahead. This chart can now be made better by a computer than subjectively by a forecaster. This method took a long time to develop, having begun in the early '30s, but a few years ago the computer had begun doing as good a job as a forecaster with quite a lot of experience. Even the computer errs occasionally — usually for lack of data at the time it is required

Mr. Loopstra was asked if the computer was putting forecasters out of jobs. "On the contrary", he said, "relieving us of drawing a chart for the future enables us to direct our efforts into other directions — to do things which should have been done before, such as focussing for fire weather, humidity and so-the-sized forecasts of wind directions in the case of forest fires. With more men to do these jobs, users are getting more service", he said.

Another big thing coming in is the agricultural forecast, not only in the broad sense but more specialized, dealing with fruit frost, for example, which is critical in such a short season. Weather forecast can now rotate employees between three forecasts and in research during the slack months.

FEEL RESPONSIBLE

Excitement? Yes. forecasters get excitement when a storm is developing and they are concerned when it develops stronger than they anticipated. On the Alaska coast there are terrific storms at times and the forecast may, on occasion, not indicate their severity Barges may be driven ashore and fishing

Front, left to right: Miss Alma Harber, Mrs. Lena Olson, Mrs. Emma Hagen, Mrs. Caroline Davick, Mrs. Anna Watland, Mrs. Mary Petersen, Mrs. Anna Sandahl, Mrs. Tilda Prestlien, Mrs. Jenny Haakstad, Mrs. Anna Haugen, Mrs. S. Olesberg. Mrs. Margaret Fjeldheim, occupational therapist, is standing behind Mrs. L. M. Gunderson in wheelchair. Prizewinning handicrafts are displayed and include quilts, crochet, knitting, rugs, tatting, basketry, leathercraft, lamps, novelties and other items, all beautifully finished. —Camrose Canadian Newsphoto.

Fine and original work comes from Bethany

Residents of Bethany Home and Hospital won a large number of prizes at Camrose Agricultural Fair and at the Klondike Days exhibition in Edmonton. Altogether they presented 112 items in the handicraft sections, and the production of them required a great deal of time, patience and skill.

Originality was the characteristic of quite a few of their exhibits. One example of this was a wall ornament. The base was a broken light fixture, a square of narrow bands of black metal; the background, stucco wire sprayed with a copper tone. A tastefully grouped spray of plastic flowers in a half-pint fruit basket and all sprayed with the same tone, was attached to the wire; the result was extremely effective. It was made by Mrs. M. Vialeed.

The white knitted dog with a long body, made by Mrs. Haakstad, looked like a cuddly toy for a child, but had a practical use undiscovered until the tail was lifted. Pressing the spray cap released a stream of air freshener.

SUPPORT FROM BUSINESS

Mrs. Margaret Fjeldheim, occupational therapist at Bethany, said in an interview that between 30 and 40 persons attend the therapeutic classes. She added that local stores are thoughtful of their needs. For example, the plastic flowers used in the ornament described above were donated to the institution by Builders' Hardware following the fire on their premises, and Safeway's gave them the fruit baskets.

From the scrapbook

Gaze into your dreams, but despise not life. To live with what talents we have, amid what circumstances we know, meeting what opportunities we face, doing our best in all things and giving our best to all men.

To make that fair as a dream is the real purpose and sublime of life.

—Anonymous. JWR

It is important to feed the mind and soul upon things which keep us in tune with our work and with God's unfolding program of life.

Cossey-Sadaway rites solemnized July 2nd

(Mrs. L. VanBuskirk)

Summer flowers made a pretty setting at the Avonmore United Church on July 2 for the wedding of Diane Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sadaway of St. Michael, and Terrance Ralph Cossey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cossey of Tofield. Rev. Simpson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor-length classic sheath of white crepe, with lace bodice and lace lily-point sleeves. Her veil, made of chantilly lace, extended into a beautiful sweeping train. She carried a cascade bouquet of talisman roses.

Mrs. Robert Canart, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Leon Jarigan, niece of the bride, Daphne Eglinski and Cheryle Pollock. They wore identical gowns of pale yellow satin shantung with matching shoulder-length veils of nylon tulle. Each carried a bouquet of white shasta 'mums with yellow ribbons. Dressed in similar fashion was the flower girl, petite Marcella Malynk, niece of the bride.

Best man was Robert Canart. The groom's other attendants were Grant Cossey, Robert Antonuik and Jim Kotouychuk. Ushering the guests were John Jarigan and Ross Cossey.

The soloist sang two selections, "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

For the occasion, the bride's mother chose an afternoon dress of powder blue lace with biege accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a rosewood crepe and lace ensemble with white accessories and corsage of white roses.

A reception was held in the Delph National Hall for 600 guests. A four-tiered wedding cake flanked by flowers centered the head table. Master of ceremonies Alex Kuryle called on John Warner to propose the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Honored guests at the head table were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cossey and Mrs. J. Bailey, all of Tofield.

Out of the province guests were Mrs. Jarigan, John and Lona and Miss Sharon Lane, all of San Antonio, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Edstrom and family of Kelowna, B.C. Zenon Sadoway from Nova Scotia, Mrs. Cecil Bailey of Chilliwack, B.C., Miss Cheryle Pollock of Winnipeg and Mrs. Jeffries of Campbell River, B.C.

Before leaving on a motor trip to the Prince Rupert area in B.C., the bride changed to a turquoise terrylene [illegible] dress with white accessories and wore a rose corsage.

The happy couple will make their home in Edmonton.

Because there are so many helpless people in the world there is enough for those to do who are willing to help.

Novelty for N.B. student

One of the visiting students from New Brunswick, Robert Harper of Athelville, takes on the job of shepherdess for a few minutes at Lyseng Hereford Farms. Holding a halter for the first time in his life, he showed good judgement in fancying this fine female of the breed as it was a second prize winner at Camrose Fair. Nolan Lyseng kindly took the animal out of the corral for inspection and she was wearing top boots of thick mud after the recent heavy rains.

"Forecasting can be repetitious or a challenge; encouraging, if one has to make a difficult decision and it turns out right, discouraging if it is wrong. Sometimes it's a toss-up and it must be more nice to tell the public we don't know, but we get together and make up our minds". A marine forecast and an aviation forecast in the same locale must be consistent. It takes a man possibly a year or two on a station to interpret what the particular pattern of a chart means in that location.

Auctioneer dies after long illness

A well known Edmonton auctioneer, Donald Clive Ball, 53, of RR1 Ardrossan died Thursday after a lengthy illness.

Since 1946, Mr. Ball has been associated with Ball, Jacobs, Ball Auction Service. After his father, Donald Ball Sr., died in 1964, the firm became known as Ball and Jacobs Auction Service.

The firm handled all auction sales for the Edmonton Exhibition Association

Born in Red Deer, Mr. Ball moved to Edmonton in 1911 where he attended Victoria Composite High School, before attending auctioneers school at Decatur, Indiana

Mr. Ball was the past-secretary of a reading by Thelma Vogelin and a song by Edith Hartiger's Sunday School class. There were speeches by several people, and a community singsong Maynord Stauffer presented Clarence and Wilma with a purse of money from the community. The couple thanked everyone for coming and making the evening such a memorable one, and invited all to visit them at their new home

Community bids farewell to Laubers

Mrs. Oliver Lehman

DODSLAND, Aug. 2nd. Relatives and friends met at the Grand Forks Community Centre to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lauber and family who are leaving the community and moving to Edmonton, to make their home.

A program was held consisting of a reading by Thelma Vogelin and a song by Edith Hartiger's Sunday School class. There were speeches by several people, and a community singsong Maynord Stauffer presented Clarence and Wilma with a purse of money from the community. The couple thanked everyone for coming and making the evening such a memorable one, and invited all to visit them at their new home

ARDA to survey pastures shortly

Headed by Ken Miller, survey chief, an ARDA survey team will move into this area in the near future to check on a number of items in connection with pasture use and development here. Farmers in the district will form part of the body of more than 600 farmers whose answers will be used to develop possible changes in regulations governing grazing lands, reports Frank Kehne, district agriculturist

A pasture research grant totaling $43,700 has been awarded the Department of Agricultural Economics at the University of Alberta by the ARDA. The purpose of the two-year grant, according to Dr H C Love, Project Director, is to examine the costs and possible benefits of improving public lands for increased grazing capacity in Alberta

The pressure on grazing lands in the Province is rising. During the ten-year period 1951-61, the number of head of grazing livestock in Alberta increased by 55 per cent. During this same period, however, grazing land acreage increased by only 17.4%. The problem is further complicated by the fact that with 1,900,000 Albertans increases, Canadians eat more beef annually.

Phase two will include a survey interview with more than 600 farmers and ranchers in Alberta who are using the public grazing lands. Data from this phase will provide provincial Administrators with much of the information needed to allocate public funds for the development or improvement of eight grazing areas in the province. Comparisons of the rate of improvement on public and private lands will be estimated.

The first phase of this study was conducted during the summer of 1965. It examined pasture problems in the province from the viewpoint of the individual farmer or rancher in order to assist provincial Administrators in estimating the demand for public grazing lands and the need for increased development

Dr. Wayne Fuller of Iowa State University visited the University of Alberta during the week of June 6th to assist with the planning of this project. Dr. Fuller is an internationally famous statistician whose specialty is in the area of designing survey projects which will yield the greatest amount of reliable information in the most efficient manner.

Theatre re-opens

The Tofield Community Theatre will re-open on Friday and Saturday, Sept 2-3, with the feature "Girl Before". Show time both nights 8:00 p.m.

The theatre has been closed for the annual two months holiday season, during July and August.

Make choices soon for Royal

The Alberta Department of Agriculture will again assist livestock breeders with an exhibit at the Royal Agricultural Wales Fair in November.

Breeders planning to nominate beef or dairy cattle, sheep and horses should forward their nominations to W. C. Gordon, Livestock Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Legislature Building, Edmonton, prior to September 30.

Because there may be a few changes in classifications, breeders planning to nominate should write to the Royal for a 1966 livestock prize list as soon as it is available.

Camrose lad drowns in Mirror Lake

5-year-old Phillip Jonathan Skiba drowned in Mirror Lake Saturday evening, shortly after supper, as he and some playmates played on the bridge. Apparently he fell into the reservoir, and was unable to clamber out.

Playing with him at the time were his brother Vernon, 8, and possibly his sister, Linda. City police are under the impression the older boy ran for help, but police were alerted by an unidentified adult.

The accident took place on the old bridge, immediately north of the RCMP barracks, which has been closed to vehicle traffic for some years. As part of the Mirror Lake park, however, pedestrians frequently use the bridge.

Dr. H. W. Machnis, whose home is at the north end of the bridge, and Dr. F. M. Smith were at the scene when the body was recovered by fire department members. Doctors, firemen and police combined to apply artificial resuscitation immediately the body was recovered, but without avail. No inquest was required.

The lad is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Skiba, his brother and sister, his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Skiba, his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Shuward, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Frank Ostrowski

Funeral services were held this morning at 10:30 from St. Francis Xavier Church, with Rev Finlay MacDonald officiating. Burial followed in Camrose Cemetery. Burgar's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements

Pen still mighty

If the pen is mightier than the sword, the typewriter which has largely replaced the pen must be mightier than whole armies.

The theory seems borne out in a recent article by Erle Stanley Gardner, well known criminologist and possibly dean of the mystery story writers, in which he commends the recent book by Isabel LeBourdais titled The Trial of Steven Truscott.

While the material forwarded to The Canadian is frankly promotional, still Mr. Gardner's comments deserve some attention as he goes on to say "This Truscott case is a typical example of what can happen when authorities grasp a seemingly obvious solution, decide a suspect is guilty, and then start looking for evidence to bolster their contention. . . .

" . . . it is high time the public generally realized how very easy it is to reach wrong conclusions in cases of this sort, and how dangerous it is to first get a suspect, and then try to fit the facts to the case . . . "

"If competent newspaper reporters had been present at the trial and had been writing up the testimony, I doubt very much if the highly significant testimony on behalf of the defense would have been so generally dismissed as being fabrication or unimportant."

Mr. Gardner's statement may be made from the viewpoint of American courtroom procedure and American reporting, but his experience and broad background demand a good deal of consideration be given his remarks. Only as a minor point, we find the importance he attached to press coverage is highly flattering.

Stiff competition

A businessman friend recently commented rather acidly on the manner in which so many important business corners are being bought up by the banks for their operations, leaving only somewhat poorer business locations for the merchandising world. It's a trend which has occasioned comment in many centres, too, as the number of branch banks increases almost by mathematical progression.

Our friend may forget, of course, that banking, no less than retailing, is a highly competitive business, and if a location can be considered good for one business serving the public, it probably would be just as logically a good location for a bank.

All the same, when businesses are competitive, prices usually are pretty sharp, and retailers find it hard to explain why banks always seem able to outbid them, even paying incomprehensible prices at times.

And all at just six per cent, too! My, my!

Challenge for Canadians

How do you make increased ownership of Canadian industry by Canadians palatable to outsiders and attractive to Canadians themselves. In a recent address to a life insurance group, W. Harold Rea, said he felt the "erosion of Canadian ownership of industry to foreign interests" was proceeding at an alarming rate.

As chairman of Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd., Mr. Rea speaks with considerable authority, but if memory serves us correctly, Mr. Rea was also head of Canadian Oil Company, before its shareholders sold out to Shell for an inflated figure, and on this basis would speak with even more knowledge and background of his subject.

Mr. Rea made some suggestions, The Financial Post has offered some more, and more yet are expected from the Carter Royal Commission on Taxation.

Suggestions to spur Canadians into buying shares of their own companies include the thought the government might allow them to deduct half or even all of their Canadian dividend from personal income taxes payable, instead of the 20% credit now allowed. Estate taxes might be waived on the part of an estate invested in Canadian ownership securities, if indeed, estate taxes aren't eliminated completely. Ways might be found to encourage more pension and insurance money to move into the area of equities.

The challenge, comments one noted writer, is to devise a climate that encourages Canadians with imagination and drive to grasp the opportunities that country offers in abundance. ## Carter-McLachlan vows exchanged on July 9th

A lovely summer wedding was held July 10th at the Ottewell United Church, Edmonton, when Jo-Ann McLachlin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLachlin, of Tofield, became the bride of James Grant Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Carter of Lamont.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Leonard Musto.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length white French silk gown, and train, with shoulder length veil and jewelled headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses with white gladiolli and ivy.

Miss Joyce Strobl of Lamont was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Donna Rogers and Irene Boyko of Edmonton. They wore identical gowns of yellow and gold satin with lace overlay tops, and carried bouquets of white and yellow mums.

Attending the groom were Percy Stefura, Larry McLachlan and Del Howden.

The bride's mother chose a beige three-piece suit with matching hat and medium brown accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations and yellow roses. The mother of the groom wore a pink lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations and roses.

The reception was held in the evening at the Beverly Crest Motor Hotel, Edmonton. Following the dinner, a half hour entertainment of Scottish piping by two boys from the Edmonton Boy's Pipe Band and songs by Johnny Forrest preceded an evening of dancing.

For travelling the bride wore a two-piece navy blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, Spokane, Coeu de 'Alene and several resorts, before returning to take up residence in Edmonton.

Pen still mighty

If the pen is mightier than the sword, the typewriter which has largely replaced the pen must be mightier than while armies.

The theory seems borne out in a recent article by Erle Stanley Gardner, well known criminologist and possibly dean of the mystery story writers, in which he commends the recent book by Isabel LeBourdais titled The Trial of Steven Truscott.

While the material forwarded to The Canadian is frankly promotional, still Mr. Gardner's comments deserve some attention as he goes on to say "The Truscott case is a typical example of what can happen when authorities grasp a seemingly obvious solution, decide a suspect is guilty, and then start looking for evidence to bolster their contention. . . .

" . . . it is high time the public generally realized how very easy it is to reach wrong conclusions in cases of this sort, and how dangerous it is to first get a suspect, and then try to fit the facts to the case . . . "

"If competent newspaper reporters had been present at the trial and had been writing up the testimony, I doubt very much if the highly significant testimony on behalf of the defense would have been so generally dismissed as being fabrication or unimportant."

Mr. Gardner's statement may be made from the viewpoint of American courtroom procedure and American reporting, but his experience and broad background demand a good deal of consideration be given his remarks. Only as a minor point, we find the importance he attached to press coverage is highly flattering.

Stiff competition

A businessman friend recently commented rather acidly on the manner in which so many important business corners are being bought up by the banks for their operations, leaving only somewhat poorer business locations for the merchandising world. It's a trend which has occasioned comment in many centres, too, as the number of branch banks increases almost by mathematical progression.

Our friend may forget, of course, that banking, no less than retailing, is a highly competitive business, and if a location can be considered good for one business serving the public, it probably would be just as logically a good location for a bank.

All the same, when businesses are competitive, prices usually are pretty sharp, and retailers find it hard to explain why banks always seem able to outbid them, even paying incomprehensible prices at times.

And all at just six per cent, too! My, my!

Challenge for Canadians

How do you make increased ownership of Canadian industry by Canadians palatable to outsiders and attractive to Canadians themselves. In a recent address to a life insurance group, W. Harold Rea, said he felt the "erosion of Canadian ownership of industry to foreign interests" was proceeding at an alarming rate.

As chairman of Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd., Mr. Rea speaks with considerable authority, but if memory serves us correctly, Mr. Rea was also head of Canadian Oil Company, before its shareholders sold out to Shell for an inflated figure, and on this basis would speak with even more knowledge and background of his subject.

Mr. Rea made some suggestions. The Financial Post has offered some more, and more yet are expected from the Carter Royal Commission on Taxation.

Suggestions to spur Canadians into buying shares of their own companies include the thought the government might allow them to deduct half or even all of their Canadian dividend from personal income taxes payable, instead of the 20% credit now allowed. Estate taxes might be waived on the part of an estate invested in Canadian ownership securities, if indeed, estate taxes aren't eliminated completely. Ways might be found to encourage more pension and insurance money to move into the area of equities.

The challenge, comments one noted writer, is to devise a climate that encourages Canadians with imagination and drive to grasp the opportunities that country offers in abundance. Tax incentives are only one method. Canada's best brains ought to be put into the effort to find other workable incentives as well.

And during the process, no little thought should be given the damaging effects of the runaway inflation which is destroying the value of money saved and laid aside against the future.

EDITOR'S NOTE: News in this column last week, we learn, was written by Mrs. Gladue more than a year ago, and has caused some concern to a number of our readers, for which we are very sorry. A thorough check has been unable to turn up any acceptable explanation, and The Mercury is still wondering how this exceptional circumstance could have developed. Had the dates been clearly inconsistent, the item would have been questioned. The fact they easily matched a current calendar helped to contribute to the blunder.

The C.W.L. met at the home of Mrs. M. Gladue on August 11th.

Mr. Dunham had a pleasant surprise recently when his sister, Mrs. Davies, arrived from England to spend a few days with him.

Karen and Holly Peterson have returned home after spending a few days with their Uncle Emery in Camrose. Their three small cousins returned with them to visit for a few days.

Mr and Mrs. Bruce Hall of Portland, Oregon, are visiting with Mrs. Hall's grandmother, Mrs. M. Gladue.

The Ladies' Club met at the home of Mrs. R. Peterson on Thursday, Aug. 18th. Plans were made to hold the annual Thanksgiving Supper on October 8th, at the Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kyle observe 17th anniversary

On Saturday evening, August 13, friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs. Gordon Kyle, on the occasion of their 17th wedding anniversary. A pretty corsage was pinned on the bride and a boutonniere on the groom. Louise was lovely in a beautiful blue woollen suit, and was also wearing a very happy smile.

Louise and Gordon were married at the home of her parents, the late Frank Gould and Mrs. Louise Gould, who at that time resided at Lindbrook. The Rev R. N. P. Orme officiated, and after the ceremony, guests sat down to a lovely reception dinner. Some of the guests of Saturday night were also present at the wedding 17 years ago.

At the anniversary party, a beautiful board was used for entertainment, with the motto, "you do it—or else!" Nearly everyone proved to be a very good sport, and much fun and hilarity was enjoyed. The game, "How well do you know your partner", a questionnaire for Mr. and Mrs. Kyle caused much amusement, following which there was a cutting lunch.

A lively lunch was served, assisted by Gordon and Louise's two eldest daughters, Mary and Margaret. A wedding cake, adorned with bride and groom, was cut by the happy couple and served by one of the male guests. An offering was taken to benefit the Anglican Church.

FEDERAL AND SEARLE MERGER ASSURES BETTER FARM SERVICE

The recent announcement that Federal Grain Limited and its wholly owned subsidiary, Alberta Pacific Grain Ltd., and Searle Grain Company Limited would merge will mean more than the effective use of financial resources. Consolidation provides greater management depth and puts the three companies in a better position to offer increased services to customers. There are real benefits for every producer . . .

Federal Grain and Alberta Pacific have long maintained an Agro Services Department for the express purpose of providing producers with the best information available concerning latest farming methods, weed and pest control, plant diseases, and the use of agricultural chemicals. This valuable service is now available from all Searle Grain agents.

Searle Grain is widely recognized for its research programs in farming and livestock practices, as well as for the manufacture of pellets and other feed grain products. Now, all Federal and Alberta Pacific customers can enjoy the benefits of these programs.

The consolidation will result in greater efficiency through a better distribution of country elevators, and the new organization's combined terminal elevator facilities at the Lakehead will improve grain handling efficiency there, an important factor in the light of Canada's recent export wheat sales.

The new organization, all-Canadian controlled, will make no immediate changes in operating policies. Management and staff will not be affected by the merger. The three companies will continue business under their present names, offering customers expanded and improved services. Have a talk with your nearest agent or country manager and find out exactly what's in it for you.

Two die, one hurt in 2-car collision

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

Residents of Holden Bruce and district were saddened and shocked by the tragic accident which occurred early Saturday morning about 2:00 o'clock, when two district youths were killed and one badly injured in a car collision on Highway 14 about two miles west of Bruce.

Involved in the accident was Eugene Stefanishen, a son of Mr and Mrs John Stefanishen of the Bruce district who was instantly killed. The driver of the other car was Lawrence Tchir of Edmonton son of Mr. and Mrs Fred Tchir of Holden. His passenger Richard Kawaliak son of Mr and Mrs Joe Kawaliak of south Holden district was dead on arrival at hospital, and young Tchir is in hospital with a fractured leg, ribs and a possible broken arm, as well as severe cuts and bruises

It is not known how the accident occurred. It is understood the car driven by Stefanishen was well over on the right side of the road. He was driving east on his way home and the car driven by Tchir was travelling west

Both vehicles were badly damaged and had to be towed away from the scene of the accident. The RCMP detachment at Viking were notified of the accident and are investigating

Flying to freedom

Ring-necked pheasants from the government hatchery at Brooks were released earlier this month between Daysland and Heisler. The 11-week-old birds were let out of crates in flocks of 100 at each of four points, 50 males and 50 females in each flock and within minutes they flew hundreds of yards away and settled in wheat fields or brush. In charge of bringing and releasing the birds were Dale Jacobson and Sam Porter, employees of the Brooks hatchery, supervised by Bob Hennig, fish and wildlife officer, Camrose.

THE BAD FISHERMAN

Ride 'em, cowboy

Digging in his spurs, gritting his teeth, and fanning for all he's worth, the cowboy does his best to ride out the few seconds he's aboard the bronc someone dumped him on.

And just about the same situation faces Mike Pearson, as the Prime Minister digs in his spurs for the rough ride he's already been getting, and is going to continue getting. The only difference is that somehow or other, Cowboy Mike has to make sure he finishes his ride still in the saddle.

Whether you agree with his proposed legislation or not, Canada would face an intolerable situation of anarchy if he were to be thrown from the saddle during this ride.

We're not Mr. Pearson's warmest supporter, but we're all for him in this move. The jockeying for position seen from the N.D.P. and the Tory chiefs seems ill-considered, at least. The final legislation may differ somewhat from the present proposal, though we doubt major alterations can be made without weakening it seriously. What the Prime Minister has done is to serve notice, not only to the railway unions, but to all unions and indeed to all employers, that there are definite limits to the freedom of operation they may enjoy, especially when this freedom of operation infringes on the higher rights of the public generally.

Only with the most irresponsible, or with the communist, can there be any thought of ignoring the government's order . . . such a step must lead inevitably to major curtailment of rights and privileges now enjoyed by labor leaders.

We applaud the P.M.'s decision to call a halt to the unreasoning rounds of demands completely out of touch with the ability of the nation to pay, for the action which must be construed as applying to other fields as well. The western grain grower, the western stock breeder and the western consumer all know from painful personal experience just how seriously affected they can be.

Centennial Report

1867 1967 by JOHN W. FISHER CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

It is still possible to put a canoe into our Canadian rivers and tributaries and paddle to one of the oceans.

Eric W. Morse, an expert on our fur trade history who has traversed and written about the old canoe routes of Canada, says there are as many miles of inland waterways in this country as in all other nations of the world combined. In fact it is estimated that one quarter of all the fresh water in the world is to be found in Canada.

In an article published a few years ago, called "Canoe Routes of the Voyageurs", Eric Morse suggested that, sometimes, as much history can be learned from a canoe as from a history book. If that is the case—and I believe it is right—many of us are going to learn more about Canada's history when our attention is attracted to the 100-day Centennial Voyageurs' Canoe Pageant next year. From Rocky Mountain House, near the Alberta-British Columbia border, canoers will dip their paddles and follow in the wake of voyageurs and fur traders along the early inland waterways. Their destination — Expo 67 at Montreal, a distance of some 4,000 miles.

The Centennial Canoe Pageant will create considerable excitement because it is to be a "race" between teams chosen by the various provinces of Canada and the territories. The race will be conducted according to rules similar to those of a car rally so that competitive spirits and stops can be made at communities for the team participation in local Centennial celebrations. Like the old fur brigades, they will travel in flotillas and judging will be done on a points system.

While the race will create excitement it also will stir our imaginations. It will remind us how some of our colorful pioneers travelled and developed the early economy of Canada. It is incredible, as Eric Morse remembers it, that in an age before rail travel, in a land devoid of road or rail, on a route beset with obstructions, dangers and difficulties, men burdened with hundreds of tons of fur and trade goods succeeded each year in crossing over half a continent and back again in the scant five months between break-up and freeze-up.

The modern day "voyageurs" who have been chosen for the 1967 pageant have been getting into shape for the big event and this summer they will participate in advance trials. One of the last races will be held in August in conjunction with British Columbia's Centennial celebrations, from Fort St. James down the Stuart River to Prince George and then down the Fraser river through Quesnel to Soda Creek. The crews will portage by trailer to Yale and then paddle on to Hope, New Westminster and Vancouver and across the strait to Victoria.

In the other test race crews will shoot the treacherous Lachine Rapids near the boundaries of Montreal and on to Expo. From Montreal, the paddlers will move up the St Lawrence, down the Richelieu through ecce homo Mohawk country, to Lake Champlain then on to New York for the Labor Day weekend. There, silhouetted against the Manhattan skyline and dwarfed by the sleek and modern ocean ships their journey will end for this year.

Twelve canoes of special design, resembling the old Northern canoe type used by the early voyageurs, are being built in Fredericton, N.B. for the pageant. The first was tested in April on the Ottawa River near Rocky Mountain House, Alberta.

These fears may be exaggerated. The only serious customer at the market at the moment, Finland, has not yet come through with a definite plan to purchase a CANDU reactor. The Finns are reported to be interested in the Douglas Point reactor but are also considering a boiling water reactor from Sweden.

The Douglas Point plant is expected to produce 1.9 kilowatt power. Capital cost of the Canadian reactor is higher, operating cost lower. AECL is confident that the CANDU on balance can stand up against competing types. Its annual report states the Corporation's concern that in an area which can accept reactors with capacity for 500,000 kilowatts or more and remote from undeveloped hydro sources, nuclear power is the most economical. Another factor is the possibility of lowering the cost of power. Capital cost of the Canadian reactor is higher, operating cost lower. ## Centennial report...

The big race in the summer of 1967 will be one of the highlights of the Centennial. Many Canadians who live on the route will be able to witness the pageant and the others will enjoy following the teams by way of press, radio and television reports during the 100 days.

Think of it! — 4,000 miles in 100 days. This includes portages over stony rocks, up mountain sides — lifting their canoes and heavy loads of equipment—sleeping outdoors — soaked hundreds of times—tired, worried, storm-bound; plagued by black flies, mosquitoes, sandflies. Well I have two comments: our forefathers did it; I'm glad I was not invited.

lay at Douglas Point can prove invaluable. The additional year and a half occupied in construction at Douglas Point has pushed costs only about $3 million above the original $81.5 million estimate. This original estimate, however, had already allowed generously for all contingencies. If the reactor had been finished on schedule the cost would have been $5 million to 17 million less than the estimate.

In general terms the major causes of delay are known. Too much time was spent in the early stages of design and planning. If the peak had been moved forward later stages could have been speeded quite considerably. This is something quite common in development in this age of very sophisticated equipment. It was particularly true in Canadian development of the destroyer escort and pushed costs to an astronomical level.

The designer and researcher are continually coming up with new ideas and improvements. No absolute cut-off date is fixed at which acceptance of improvements, however good, will cease. With both AECL and Hydro heavily stalled with technical experts the partnership may have been particularly vulnerable to delay from this quarter.

Another serious problem to overcome is the lack of experience on the part of contractors for components as well as inability to provide close specifications. This, too, is something that dogged the steps of the navy in earlier days but has largely disappeared. In some cases pre-Bombay work by manufacturers has had to be scrapped and started again from scratch.

It is probable that study of the problem will produce improvements on both sides. In any event time will cure inexperience in the later stages there has been some unjustifiable time lag on the part of manufacturers. As the deadline for the entire project was pushed back there has been a tendency to slacken on individual jobs.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE

Rapid strides being made in the United States in development of nuclear power is pushing the clock forward in setting the time when demand for uranium will overtake supply. In the last two months American programs have been started for development of 5,800 megawatts. Westinghouse and General Electric have contracts representing a total investment close to $3 billion. By 1972 the United States will probably again be a net importer with a total demand for 16,000 tons for nuclear power projects. Of Canada's four producing mines, Rio Algom, Eldorado, Denison and Stanrock only Rio Algom and Eldorado are doing any exploration work in preparation for this day. Americans, however, are looking with interest at the field. Kerr McGee Ltd. has recently purchased claims in the Blind River area.

County School Committee meets

Tuesday, August 9th, 1966

In regards to the winch truck, it was stated, that as the bus routes were not set up, it was not known what bus would be available. It was decided that this matter be tabled to a later meeting.

In regards to the alterations at the Holden school, Mr. Symyrozum advised that the plans for this renovation had been finalized, that the staff room adjacent to the Principal's office would be made over into an office and the so-called Conference room would be classified as a staff room. The work was to start next week.

It was noted that one fire exit was to be cleared and the Secretary-Treasurer suggested that in order to avoid any complications with the Fire Commissioner's office this should be brought to the attention of the Fire Commissioner's office for permission to close the fire exit.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted, that the proposed alterations be approved and that the Fire Commissioner's office be contacted in regards to the closing of the fire exit.

In regards to the Secretary for the Holden school, Mr. Symyrozum advised that he had received two applications.

He suggested that hours of work for the Secretaries in the Principal's offices should be from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., that the Secretaries should be full time as they could relieve the Principal of much detail work. This suggestion was accepted by the Committee providing the Secretaries were actually used full time. The matter of rate of pay was also discussed and it was moved that the rate of pay for the Secretaries at the Tofield, Ryley, Holden and Viking schools be $26 per month for ten months of the year for experienced personnel. If full time assistance is not available the payment to be at a rate of $1.50 per hour. Carried unanimously.

It was understood that inexperienced assistants would receive a lower rate of pay and all the Secretaries would be on 60-day probation.

In regards to the construction of treeherages in Ryley, the Committee was informed that the work was progressing very favorably. The lowermost floors were being poured this day and Mr. Otto had stated that the suites would be ready for occupancy on Monday or Tuesday, August 15 or 16. Moved that the report be accepted. Carried.

A letter from Wm. Ogrodnick expressing his appreciation to the School Committee, for making it possible for him to attend the leadership course July 11 to 22, 1966, was referred to the Committee. Moved and carried that the letter be received and filed and the Secretary-Treasurer's action concurred in. Carried unanimously.

A number of items in regards to the "Evaluation of Teachers" submitted by the A.S.T.A. and the A.T.A. was referred to the Committee and it was felt by the Committee that the stand taken by the A.S.T.A. should be supported by the County.

The following resolution was then moved and carried, that:

Whereas, education is a social service and a responsibility of the Provincial Government which represents all the people of Alberta; and

Whereas, control of education is accordingly a public prerogative; and

Whereas, A.T.A. control of teacher evaluations could seriously limit the number of immigrant teachers with drastic accumulative effects on teacher supply; and

Whereas, neither party to salary agreements, the A.S.T.A. or the A.T.A., representing respectively school boards and teachers, should control teacher evaluations; and

Whereas, the Department of

THIS WORLD OF OURS

TWO FOR TEA. In England, practically everyone stops work at 4 p.m. to enjoy a cup of tea. To prove the point, even these two chimps in a London zoo pause for a tea break. Judging from their concerned looks, however, someone jolly-well forgot to add the lemon.—TNS Photo

Modern etiquette

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of candy and nuts placed on tables about the room, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

Q. When eating in a restaurant and small butter pats are served in paper containers, is it proper to let the knife rest on the pat when not in use?

A. Never. The knife should rest along the upper right part of the plate — never with the handle resting on the table.

Q. Is it now considered proper for a woman or a man to shake hands with gloves on?

A. Quite proper — and no excuse for the gloves are necessary either.

Q. I see more and more paper napkins being provided at meals in other people's homes. Is this really proper?

A. While at one time this was considered out of the question, today for all informal entertaining, paper napkins are perfectly proper — and very practical [illegible]

Q. Is it proper to speak inquiring "[illegible]", instead of "Hello", when answering the telephone?

A. Although "Hello" is the more widely accepted manner of answering the phone, there's nothing wrong with saying "Yes?" The most important thing is a pleasant, friendly, manner of speaking.

Q. Is it considered poor form for a woman, at her second marriage, to have three or four bridesmaids?

A. Yes. The second marriage should be as simple and informal as possible, and the bride should have but one attendant.

County of Beaver Agricultural Committee meets

WEED CONTROL

Dry weather until June 30, followed by rains totaling 5.32 inches to date, has created weed problems throughout the County that were difficult to control. Deep rooted perennial weeds made steady growth throughout the dry period while annual weed seeds did not germinate in time to spray when crops were tolerant. Farmers who sprayed for control of thistles did a good job and damage to crops by spraying does not compare with yield losses by excessive weed growth.

Toad Flax and White Cockle is increasing in the district and farmers are urged to report infestations and co-operate in eradicating them. Bladder Campion was found in this County this summer and [illegible] patches destroyed. It is impossible for weed inspectors to cover the district in search of the persistant perennials which include: Leafy Spurge, Hoary Cress, Knapweed, Field Bindweed, Toad Flax and Campion. These weeds are more persistant than Thistles and will spread rapidly if not controlled when first discovered.

Farmers who do not know these weeds are urged to contact us for positive identification.

PESTS

Insect infestations increased during the dry weather, [illegible] in shelterbelts and rape. [illegible] measures and equipment was supplied to farmers who inquired regarding these pests. The Elston Pocket Gopher Poisoning Machine is available for use this fall. Good results were obtained last spring with this machine; 70 to 80 per cent were killed where this poisoning program was carried out.

Farmers are making good use of magpie traps and report up to 40 magpies destroyed in one week. Let's see more of these traps built by farmers and avoid the scramble for our demonstration models. The County is paying a bounty of 5 cents a pair for magpie feet. We will take them any time and send out cheques the end of the month.

Release of Coyote poison pellets has been very low this summer. This indicates that coyotes are not causing a great deal of damage so far. It is possible that 1080 will not be used in this County this winter. It depends on the number of requests we have for 1080 before October 31. Please keep this date in mind.

BRUCELLOSIS VACCINATION PROGRAM

Bangs vaccination for heifer calves within the proper age group will be carried out this fall under the voluntary plan. Our plan of notifying last fall worked out very well and I expect we will have Dr. Bildfeil to do the vaccinating for the entire County. No second calls will be made except under extreme circumstances. Prices will remain the same.

TREE PLANTING

Available trees from Oliver this year are: Caragana, Green Ash, Manitoba Maple, Lilac, Honeysuckle, Siberian Larch, Mountain Ash, White Spruce and Lodge Pole Pine. Ornamentals from Brooks will be available. Trees may be in short supply next spring, and ratepayers are asked to get their orders in early. No rooted North-West or Russian Poplar will be available next Spring.

ROADSIDE AND BACK-SLOPE SEEDING

We will be sowing grass seed on roads again this fall. Farmers who intend to do extra work on backslopes or sow grain on these slopes are requested to contact me before September 30. The County provides free seed for backslopes if properly worked.

I will be away on holidays till September 16. Please direct weed complaints to Chas. Sears or Reg. Meeks. Inquiries regarding other ASB projects may be directed to the County Office.

County Council meets Aug. 11th

Following are the minutes, in part, of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9, held Thursday, August 11th:

P. A Bourree, Gravel and Sand Locator, of 7007 - 142 St., Edmon who had attended the special meeting on August 4th, attended the meeting at this time reporting on his findings He stated that he had checked the aerial photographs that he had borrowed from the office and had also made some field spot checks Twp. 51 20-W4th looked promising to Mr Bourree, this being along Islet Lake with some of the sand and gravel located in the water He stated there was some 20 feet of overburden on the top of the ridge Cr Weatherill stated that he had found sand but no gravel in the vicinity In 50-20-W4th and 51 19-W4th, Mr Bourree stated that there was some indication of gravel. Cr. Weathevill stated that he had taken out gravel in these townships in small pockets but that gravel was not found in any large amount Mr Bourree was borrowing some more township plats and would report back to the Council on any further findings

In regards to gravel deposits on N.E. 35-55-77 W4th, Cr Kropelnicki stated that inasmuch as the M.D. of Lamont No 82 had decided to use this gravel pit as well it would not be possible for the County to take a lease on this land Arrangements were, however, made for the crushing of 15,000 yards of which 12,000 would be stock-piled with some 3,000 yards being used this year.

In regards to Nick Petrowski's offer to lease W 1 2 16-49-11-W4th, the secretary treasurer informed the Council that Mr. Petrowski was now offering $500 cash to purchase this land, Mr Gotoled, who had also been interested in leasing this land had withdrawn his tender Cr Johnston was of the opinion that the land should be sold, but was wondering if Mr Petrowski would want a road into this land, and if so it would be a very costly situation

It was moved and carried that the offer to purchase W 1 2-16-49-11-W4th be accepted subject to the condition that the County be not requested to construct any roads to this land

In regards to the Veterinary Clinic, the secretary - treasurer stated that he had written Dr Bildfell on July 20th but had received no reply to date

J Machonie and J Rudy attended the meeting at this time in connection with the Wakwei Flood Control Scheme They were disappointed about Cr. Kropelnicki not being present, but stated that a meeting had been held with 12 of the 14 farmers affected by this proposed Flood Control Scheme and all being in favour of the scheme which, as mentioned at the special meeting on August 4, would be handled as a Flood-Irrigation Scheme under the P F R A The farmers realized that they would have to make some cash contribution to this scheme Inasmuch as Cr Kropelnicki or the engineer, Mr. Kroeger, were not present, no further action could be taken at this time

L. Kroeger, P. Eng., P.F.R.A Vegreville, attended the meeting later in the day and stated that the meeting that had been held with the farmers affected by the proposed scheme had been generally in support of the scheme. The flood conditions appeared to be getting worse for the past 30 years. He stated that it would cost the farmers $5 to $7 per acre benefit. At the meeting on August 4, Mr Kroeger had voiced the opinion that P.F.R.A. would possibly pay 70% of the cost However, on further examination, he now suggested that the P.F R A. would possibly pay 60% and at the cost of $25,000 this would leave $10,000 to be paid by the County He also mentioned the fact that this system could be extended as time went on No further action was taken

A letter from H. W. Voigt of Holden on behalf of A. F. Steinwand, concerning a drainage problem on S.E. 21-49-16-W4th, south side of Highway 14, was referred to the Council. The complaint was about a culvert under Highway No. 14, and in the opinion of the Council this was a matter for the Department of Highways It was, therefore, moved and carried that this matter be referred to the Dept. of Highways and that Mr. Voigt be so advised

A letter from Selmer A. Hafso of Viking concerning a drainage problem in N.W. 20-47-12-W4th was referred to the Council.

It was moved and carried that this be referred to the Department of Water Resources for assistance with advice that other land could be drained as well.

In regards to the proposed lowering of the water level at Nugget Lake, the secretary-treasurer reported that he had written the Area Manager of the CNR requesting certain culverts. A letter from the Assistant B & B Master indicated that he had inspected the culvert situation and was of the opinion that no further culverts were required. However, Cr. Knudslien stated that, although he agreed the two culverts referred to by the Asst. B & B Master were in good condition, a new culvert was required along the road right-of-way where the railway crosses the road at Dodds Moved and carried that the matter be referred back to the Asst. B. & B. Master with a full explanation as to what is required.

Further, in regards to Nugget Lake, the Council was advised that the Mines Division had been contacted concerning the use of pile driver to drive piles on the west side of the Lake to stop the sluffing away of the road at this point. The Department of Highways pile driver could be made available to drive these piles. The secretary - treasurer had, therefore, contacted the Department and the Assistant Director of Mines, P. Melson, had suggested that Cr Knudslien endeavours to make arrangements for the piles, obtain a cost estimate and refer the matter back to Mr Melson so that it can be taken up with the Minister of Mines and Minerals.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted and action concurred in

In regards to application for assistance under Sec. 3 of the P.F.A. Act, 1939, now referred to the Council, it was moved and carried that the following estimated average yields of wheat per acre be reported 46-10-4, 14 bushels. 47-10-4, 13 bus.; 48-10-4, 12 bus., 46-11-4, 14 bus., 47-11-4, 13 bus; 48-11-4, 12 bus.; 49-11-4, 12 bus.; 46-12-4, 12 bus; 47-12-4, 13 bus., 48-12-4, 12 bus.; 49-12-4, 12 bus; 50-12-4, 12 bus., 46-13-4, 12 bus., 47-13-4, 12 bus.; 48-13-4, 8 bus.; 49-13-4, 8 bus.; 50-13-4, 12 bus.; 46-14-4, 12 bus.; 47-14-4, 8 bus; 48-14-4, 8 bus.; 49-14-4, 8 bus; 50-14-4, 8 bus.; 47-15-4, 8 bus., 48-15-4, 8 bus; 49-15-4, 8 bus., 50-15-4, 12 bus.; 51-15-4, 12 bus; 47 16-4 10 bus.; 48-16-4, 12 bus, 49-16-4, 12 bus.; 50-16-4, 12 bus; 51 16-4, 12 bus; 48-17-4, 15 bus.; 49-17-4, 15 bus.; 50-17-4, 15 bus.; 51 17-4 12 bus., 49-18-4, 5 bus; 50-18-4 15 bus., 51-18-4, 12 bus; 52 18-4 15 bus., 49-19-4, 15 bus, 50-19-4 15 bus.; 51-19-4, 15 bus.; 52-19-4 15 bus.; 50-20-4, 15 bus 51 20-4, 15 bus, 50-21-4, 15 bus.

(Mrs. G. Anderson)

KELSEY — Have you visited the Big Knife Provincial park yet? This is a very lovely new park, just a few miles west of Forestburg. There is a very fine picnic area, children's play area and plenty of camping facilities. This is a worthwhile trip to make, while visiting the large power plant and strip mine that are located a short distance from this lovely park.

Modern etiquette

Q Is it quite proper and acceptable nowadays to type social letters?

A Yes, and it's increasingly popular, too Typed letters should be written on a single sheet, with only one side of the paper used. And be sure that your signature at the end of the letter is written by hand

Q. I have just received an invitation to a bridal shower on a girl whom I scarcely know. Would I be justified in ignoring this invitation?

A. This would be rude to the hostess who invited you. You are, however, justified in telling her that you are very sorry, but that you have another engagement for that particular date.

Q Is it customary to give your nurses a gift when you leave the hospital?

A Although not necessary, it's a thoughtful gesture A private nurse may be given candy, cologne, a book, etc And when you have been cared for by staff nurses, it's nice to leave a box of candy at their station, something they all can share.

Q. For a second marriage, is it permissible for me to have a close relative as my matron of honor, and for my groom to have an attendant?

A. Certainly you should each have an attendant, and each of these, incidentally, acts as a witness, too.

What to do if you shoot a banded bird

Four hundred pheasants were released earlier this month between Daysland and Heisler and another 600 on August 22 between Rabbit and Kelsey. The birds came from the government hatchery at Brooks.

The upland game season opens on October 16 and continues until December 3. It would be appreciated by the Fish and Wildlife Department if hunters who shot down a banded bird would send particulars either to the department in Edmonton or in Camrose They would be number

The upland game season opens on the hand, when and where the bird was shot.

County School...

Education, Government of the Province of Alberta, a neutral body insofar as salary agreements are concerned is the only body which can impartially determine teaching eligibility for the teachers of publicly supported and operated school systems.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Department of Education must retain control of the evaluation of teachers' credentials for salary purposes lest any developing structure make demands upon determining teacher eligibility

The Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to forward the resolutions to the Minister of Education.

A motion carried unanimously that the following teacher appointments be confirmed: Mr Samuel Cwellish, Viking; Mrs. Jean Courchesne, Holden.

Moved that the following bursary applications be approved; L. Arnette Vergette, Rose Marie Hallett, Robert Lysio, Elda Heigeland, Erwin Wiens, Victor Petruk. Carried unanimously.

Howard Giebelhaus of Holden interviewed the Committee at this time in regards to supplying milk for the milk dispensers at Tofield, Ryley and Holden. He would supply the milk at the same rate and under the same conditions as the present supplier. As the Principals at the schools concerned were looking after this matter, the office not having anything to do with it at the present time, it was moved that the matter be brought up by the representatives from the School Committee at the next Principal's meeting. Carried unanimously.

Jeff Bruce suggested that he would like the school to start on September 1, at 9:00 A.M., that the pupils would only be called in for half a day, school being dismissed at 12:00. It was moved that motion 207-66, providing for the schools to open for the full term at 9:00 A.M. Tuesday, September 6, be rescinded and that the schools in the County open on September 1 at 9:00 A.M. Carried unanimously.

In regards to the building program at the Viking school Mr. Pennycook reported that the work was progressing on time and that the building would be ready for occupancy on September 1st.

It was moved and carried that the Superintendent, Mr. Marvin Bruce, be and hereby is appointed Chief Executive Officer for the County's School System Moved that Mr Nestor Semotiuk be appointed to attend the 'Principals' meeting on behalf of the School Committee. Carried unanimously.

County Council holds special meeting Aug. 4

Following are the minutes, in part, of special meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9, held Thursday, Aug. 4.

A letter from the Alberta Centennial Committee, concerning the road over which the Centennial Caravan will travel over the County's roads in October of 1967, was referred to the Council District Highway 3626 would be used to move the Caravan from Viking towards Camrose

It was moved and carried that the Centennial Officer be informed that the County will maintain this road in the best possible condition on the day that the Caravan travels over it but that it be suggested that, if the Caravan went on Highway 26 down to Kil'ian, it could then travel over Highway 13 to Camrose, having a hard-surface road all the way.

An inspection report concerning the general maintenance was referred to the Council. The report indicated that the assessment in the whole was very satisfactory with only some minor items being referred to

Moved and carried that the inspection report be received and filed

A letter from Northwestern Utilities Ltd., requesting permission to extend their present 11/4-inch gas line along the east side of the road allowance north of Tofield, was referred to the Council. The secretary-treasurer stated that, on the instruction of Cy Weatherly, he had informed the Gas Company that the County has no objections to the extension of the gas line with the proviso that, if at any time the road should be widened, the cost of moving the gas line would have to be borne by the Gas Company. The secretary-treasurer reported that the local agent, Dennis Cooper, had indicated that the Northwestern Utilities Ltd would not go along with this proviso and he suggested that the proviso should be removed

It was noted that this road might come into the picture under the Rural Road Study plan and that the road north of Tofield might be constructed with a 22-foot top

Moved and carried that the secretary-treasurer's letter to N.W. Utilities Ltd. be approved to end that no change be made in the provision regarding the moving of the gas line.

A letter from Northwestern Utilities, requesting to cross County roads in S.W. 14-49-16-W4th, N.W. 11-49-16-W4th and S.E. 15-49-16-W4th, was referred to the Council.

Moved and carried that the Council disapproval be given.

A letter from Northwestern Utilities Ltd., requesting permission to place a gas line on the west side of Secs. 7, 18 and 19 in T.49-W.4th to serve certain customers along this road as well as in the Lindbrook Sub-division, was referred to the Council.

Moved and carried that Northwestern Utilities Ltd. be advised that the Council has no objections in the proposed sub-division; however, should the road be widened, the cost of moving the Northwestern Utilities Ltd. would be expected to move the line at its own expense.

The secretary-treasurer reported that the 'Notice of Intent' road north from Holden and mentioned that the local manager of the Northwestern Utilities Ltd. had referred to the N.E. Sec. 30-48-16-W4th where some 680 feet of line would have to be moved to the south side of the road. Reference was also made to the valve house at the south end of this road on the east side of S.E. 22-48-16-W4th and the fact that if the full road was being used on this side of the road the valve house would extend out into the road allowance. The Local Manager had indicated that this would not be acceptable to the Gas Company. It was then moved that a letter, "Notice of Intent", be forwarded to Northwestern Utilities Ltd., advising that the County proposes to widen the road from N.W. 15-48-16-W.4th north 9 miles, that the County will pay for relocating the gas line in N.E. 2-50-16-W.4th if this is the County's responsibility and that it be ascertained who is responsible for relocating this gas line. The Agricultural Fieldman attended at this time in connection with a proposed Agricultural Committee Tour to be held on August 23rd. The date was satisfactory to the Council and it was moved that the annual Agricultural Committee Tour be held on Tuesday, August 23rd, starting at Ryley at 9:30 a.m.

Cr Roddick informed the Council that the Tofield Board of Commerce had appropriated funds for the improvements of the rewet lakes in the area — $300 to Camp Lake and $100.00 to Lake Thomas Inquiries had been made if cottages could be built at Camp Lake on the property owned by the County and reported under the Provincial Parks grant Cr. Roddick had inquired from the Sec. - Treas. whether some assistance could be obtained from the Parks Branch in regards to planning the lay out of the Park at Camp Lake and the reply from the Provincial Parks Commissioner in 1963 was referred to the Council which advised that the Provincial Parks Branch does not have trained personnel to plan parks for Counties and Municipalities in regards to whether or not cottages could be placed by parties unknown and it was felt that some way must be found whereby unauthorized persons BEAVER spec. min con. sons be prohibited from doing any work around the Lake.

In regards to the grant it was moved that the grant of $200.00 from the Viking Chamber of Commerce to improve the grounds on the property the Sec.-Treas. stated that he would contact the Parks Commissioner in his matter. Cr. Johnston referred to the building out of some trees at the Lake which had been done

County Council . . .

ounds at Camp Lake be accepted with thanks and that Crs. Johnston and Boddick be appointed a Committee to work with the Chamber of Commerce on the matter. Cd.

Mr. P. A. Bonpree, Gravel and Sand Locator, of 7807 - 142 Street, Edmonton, attended the meeting at this time and explained how his Company was able to locate sand and gravel Firstly through examining aerial photographs and by seismographic work and drilling He stated that a charge would only be made if gravel in quality and quantities suitable to the Council was found If suitable gravel deposits were found the charge would be $100.00 per section and a basis of not less than a township was required to go ahead with the work. There would be a royalty of 5c per cubic yard, 1c to be paid under the gravel operation has been proven and 4c as the gravel is being used. The Counties of Athabasca, Barrhead and Wetaskiwin have been using the services of this Company and have apparently found quantities of gravel. Whether or not, the gravel, that was located, was in suitable quality and quantity was to be determined by the Council. Mr. Bourree said that he would abide by the decision of the Council. Mr. Bourree was asked to make a preliminary survey from township plats that would be lent to him by the County and report back at the regular Council meeting August 11th if he found this possible.

At this time Mr. A. Browne, P. Eng., Department of Lands Resources and Mr. Hilton from the Department of Water Resources as well as Mr. L. Kroeger, Engineering with the PFRA, al Vegreville, attended the meeting in connection with the Washwei Flood Control Scheme. Mr. Strome indicated that there were poor outlet conditions on this scheme, it was not just a matter of draining the surplus water but a control system further down on the Vermilion River was necessary and the PFRA could possibly handle this under a flood-irrigation scheme. Mr. Kroeger agreed to this and suggested that requests should be made to the VLA to take over this proposed scheme under the Dominion Flood-Irrigation Scheme The Federal Government would possibly pay 70 per cent and the farmers affected would bear the cost of maintenance They would have to form a Water Users Association and work from there. There would, of course, be some benefit to the roads so that the County would have to stand some of the cost

Under the Provincial Scheme the Government would pay 50 per cent and the county 50 per cent through its own funds and through contributions from the farmers affected Under the PFRA Scheme the Government contributions, as stated before, would be higher. Some 725 acres would benefit from a Flood Control Drainage Scheme. It was suggested that Cr. Krupinski should call a meeting of the farmers concerned at which time Mr. Kroeger would attend to fully explain the procedure It was moved by Cr. Weatherill that we make an application to the PFRA for a Flood-Irrigation Scheme on the Washwei Creek. Cd.

In regards to Sec 13-50-18-W 4th Mr Strome explained what he situation was at the present time and that possibly a further survey should be undertaken

Moved that we request a further survey on the drainage problem in Sec 13-50-18-W 4th taking in areas that may be affected to bring this matter to a conclusion Cyd

In regards to the flooding situation in Twp. 50 and 51, Range 17 W 4th referred to at the Krupinski Flood Control System it was suggested that a further survey should be made as the present survey was not satisfactory in some of the land owners and it was moved that a further survey be requested in this regard Cd

Cr. Knudsen referred to a drainage problem in Sec. 11 and 12-49-18-W 4th and Mr. Strome suggested that a request be made for a survey at this point It was moved that the Department of Water Resources be requested to conduct a survey in connection with the flooding problem in Secs. 11 and 12-49-18-W 4th. # To hunt in new Wainwright area

New regulations permit a special season and controlled hunting for deer and sharp-tailed grouse in the Wainwright Military establishment during the coming winter where research indicates certain portions of the range carry high density white tailed deer populations. Following discussions with Department of National Defence representatives agreement was reached to permit hunting in an area virtually not hunted in before. Fish and Wildlife officials view this as an opportunity to develop a specific research and management project in which Alberta hunters will be the principal participants.

The open season for sharp-tailed grouse is the week of Dec. 5th to Dec. 10th. Residents of Alberta who have obtained wildlife certificates and upland bird stamps are eligible applicants. A draw will be made from all applications received prior to Nov. 12th and 40 hunters will be validated to hunt in specified regions for 3 two-day periods, but individuals or parties up to four hunters may hunt for one two-day period only. By this means a total of 240 bird hunters will be accommodated. There will be no additional charge to bird hunters.

Details will be available from the Wainwright district Fish and Wildlife Office at Provost or from the Director of Fish and Wildlife at Edmonton by mid September.

Church at Trondhjem marks 60th birthday

The Trondhjem Lutheran Congregation at Round Hill observed its 60th Anniversary the weekend of August 26-28.

On Friday evening, a former Pastor, Rev. O. H. Haugen (1951-60) was the guest speaker, choosing for his topic "Life With God", the first portion of the anniversary theme, "Redeemed For a Purpose". Special music was a solo by Gregory Pederson, accompanied by Afton Olson.

Saturday evening's guest speaker was another former Pastor, Rev. G. J. Ostrem, who served the congregation from 1944-48 and as interim pastor from 1964-66. He spoke on the second part of the theme, "Walking With God". Music that evening was supplied by Joan Burnstad, Mrs. Doreen Burnstad, Mrs. Mabel Gotheridge and Mrs. Helen Burnstad.

Sunday morning service saw the church filled to capacity. Kevin Quall, trumpeter, played the "Call To Worship". The local Pastor, Rev. A. Dahlen, conducted the opening devotional and liturgy. The Sunday School Chorus sang three numbers, and Kevin Quall and Afton Olson played an instrumental duet. Rev. Haugen preached the sermon, and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson rendered a duet.

After the service, all assembled in the church parlors, where the ladies served a turkey dinner.

In the afternoon service, the president of the Congregation, Fred Gotheridge brought greetings of welcome, on behalf of himself and the Congregation, and thanked all who helped make the Anniversary a memorable one. He especially voiced his thanks to the guest Pastors, Rev. Haugen and Rev. Ostrem, and to Mrs. Hans Bonesa who prepared the History Pamphlet, as she did the History Book for the 50th Anniversary.

Greetings were brought by Lester Severson on behalf of the Bardo congregation; by Ingvald Ness on behalf of the Kingman congregation, and Mr. Burkholder on behalf of the Salem Mennonite congregation. A letter of greetings and well wishes from a former pastor, Rev. S. Bue, was read by Pastor Dahlen.

A choir consisting of former and present members (1930-66) sang two numbers, under the direction of T. Grainger. Other special numbers were: a musical reading by Mrs. Alma Nelson; a musical number by the Dahlen family, and a solo by Terry Grainger. The message was brought by Rev. G. Ostrem, speaking on the third part of the theme, "Laborers With God".

ORGANIZED IN 1906

The Trondhjem Congregation was organized October 29, 1906, at the George Bruce home, with Rev. Bernsvend Anderson as chairman. He chose as the opening devotion Col. 3:16-17 and read the fundamental paragraphs of the Lutheran Church constitution. The name "Trondhjem" was chosen for the congregation, as the majority of the charter members had immigrated from Trondhjem, Norway.

The church was not built until 1929 and was located east of Round Hill. In February of 1934 it was moved to Round Hill, where its spire can be seen for many miles throughout the countryside.

Many former members were "back home" to attend this special occasion.

Broiler Growers Board opens Edmonton office

The Alberta Broiler Growers' Marketing Board, established a few months ago, had their official opening September 1st at their new office at 9808 - 108 Street in Edmonton, with W. J. Landreth the secretary-manager.

Mr. Landreth, until recently with Ogilvie's produce processing plant in Edmonton, comes to the marketing board with 20 years experience in the poultry business.

Howard Falkenberg of Camrose, chairman of the five-member board, told The Mercury that with the opening of the office, they are now prepared to issue producers' certificates to registered broiler growers, and licences to processors and hatcheries. Each producer will be given a basic growing area, he said, in that way protecting the quota allowable to him. For each bird produced, an area of one square foot is the prescribed area; and as there is an estimated area of 2,000,000 square feet in the "growing area", it indicates a high population of broilers to be marketed annually.

The board was established, Mr. Falkenberg said, as a means of maintaining orderly marketing, and equitable prices for the broilers, making it economically feasible for growers to set up their business in a way that would assure a steady supply to consumers.

With the opening of the office, the board will be able to carry on more adequate promotion in the interests of both producer and consumer.

MacDuff Ottawa report

Another election?

OTTAWA—Prime Minister L. B. Pearson's minority government is facing severe tests that could make or break it in the weeks ahead.

Inflationary pressures grow worse as the summer turns into fall and winter looms ahead.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, after he brought down his budget at the end of March, was optimistic that measures he had incorporated in his financial program would curb the spiral of rising costs. But it is now apparent from a study made by the Department of Trade and Commerce on planned capital expenditures that the anti-inflationary provisions have not worked as well as had been expected. The Finance Minister at a press conference immediately after introducing his budget said that if it developed that the anti-expansion measures were not sufficient he would be prepared to take other steps to curtail the boom. It is understood that he was prepared to make a statement of the nation speech in the Commons at the emergency meeting called to deal with the nation-wide railway strike. That speech, if and when he gets the opportunity to deliver it, should disclose whether the Finance Minister is thinking in terms of a baby budget later this Fall.

Such a supplementary budget would obviously mean higher income taxes—both personal and corporate—for Canadians in this fiscal year ending March 31, 1967. It would be a highly unpopular move politically, but it would be a step that any finance minister faced with the set of circumstances now facing Mr. Sharp would be bound to recommend to the government.

In his rags to budget Mr Sharp predicted a deficit for the current year of $150,000,000. That deficit will soar under present planned expenditures.

Large welfare payments mainly are statutory undertakings and have been made already for increased old age pensions, according to means. There has been a promise of medicare by Canada's 100th birthday next year.

If the Government proceeds with these welfare measures and it is now committed to them the expenditures from the treasury will soar even higher. However, Prime Minister Pearson said in a nation-wide television broadcast that some government expenditures may have to be postponed even though they are "very, very good in themselves".

Canadian government spending on public works and other capital expenditures have been curtailed. But still the costs go on and the drain on the treasury continues. Meantime expenditures by provincial and municipal governments have continued at a high level.

These expenditures add to the inflationary pressures. As inflation continues to make its impact felt on the economy various labour segments clamour for higher wages to meet the rising costs. Thus the vicious spiral gains momentum. Such a wage rise calls for even more stringent moves by the Finance Minister. [illegible] Finance Ministers. The tax structure committee which includes some Premiers of the provinces who also hold the portfolio of provincial treasurer in their respective administrations, was scheduled to meet in mid-September.

Thus the Government is confronting a serious economic situation. It was shocked to find that it had difficulty selling its bonds at reasonable rates because the demand for money in North America exceeds the supply and pushes up the price. The price will undoubtedly go higher yet in Canada because it cannot long remain below the U.S. level without attracting American capital homeward and endangering the value of Canadian currency.

Faced with this economic crisis the federal cabinet had no alternative but to take a strong stand on the railway strike. The railwaymen were clamoring for increases up to 30 per cent in wages. The government countered by bringing in an end-the-strike bill that offered an eighteen per cent interim raise in wages. This immediately brought loud protests from union leaders and the strikers. They protested that it was far too low. They said that even if Parliament passed the bill ordering the men back to their jobs there would be many across the country who would defy Parliament.

This posed the dangerous possibility of organized civil disobedience. Government members, however, [illegible] was raised that the [illegible] might refuse to abey [illegible] parliamentary order, should [illegible] was spared as such. But the ramifications of such a situation are "impossible to even consider" and terrifying to contemplate.

Thus the Government is being squeezed. It has to find a solution that will persuade the striking railwaymen to go back on the job and at the same time it must avoid setting the stage for a wage increase which will only aggravate inflation. [illegible] whether the government [illegible] Canada [illegible] strong leadership. [illegible] Pearson's minority [illegible] The railway strike [illegible] momentum is hard [illegible]

3 strikes and out

It's sixteen years since Canada's railroads were shut down by strike action, until last week, but even so it might not hurt to point to the rule in baseball of "three strikes and you're out". Who knows, it could happen in railroading, too.

In many ways, the railroad strike is like an iceberg, with nearly ninety per cent of it below the surface. One feature seems to be the inability of the unions to deliver the labor of their members as a unit. There wasn't any hesitation about being united when it came to walking out, but it was entirely different about going back. Does this indicate the need to penalize unions or workers where wildcat strikes are involved? Shouldn't the privilege of union strength be matched by equal responsibility? And shouldn't the loss of one reduce the other?

Another feature embittering several of the senior employees is the lack of attention paid by the union to their requests, repeated over many years. We are reliably informed these workers didn't ask, or even care about, a pay raise in the order of 30%. But they have many times asked for some type of job security, some kind of sick pay, some assurance they won't be dumped on the street after thirty or forty or more years of service, without having met pension requirements. And they say so far the union seems not to know they exist.

One argument being used by labor forces for justifying the pay raise is the difficulty being faced by the railways in securing adequate trained labor. But nearly everyone knows this situation isn't confined to the railways . . . It's almost universal in Canadian industry. And raising pay isn't going to correct this situation though it might move people around a bit more.

The most dismaying aspect of the situation is that even though the Liberal government passed their return to work bill, it was only after the opposition so altered the original draft as to make it a travesty. Fr'r Diefenbaker to force the rate up from eight to eighteen per cent, and then chortle "we told them it wouldn't work" is simply to use Parliament, the institution he professes to idealize, as an instrument to mock the needs of the Canadian people.

Union leaders couldn't possibly have been happy with a law starting at eight per cent, but neither could they ignore the law except to court anarchy. The tragedy is that so many of their members did so, supposedly without union sanction.

No change ahead

Voters in both Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island this week have the opportunity to decide which candidates, and which parties, are the repositories of desires and their thinking on various measures.

And while anything can happen, we don't really expect to see any major changes in either end of the country.

In all probability, both leaders may lose a little of the strength they have enjoyed in the past session, although voters in B.C. don't seem to feel there is any real alternative in many instances to the solidly established government of Premier Bennett.

This latter may have some bearing on the chances of Social Credit going on to become a national party again.

Whither South Africa?

The tragic situation in South Africa where a remarkably strong man in the person of Premier Verwoerd was assassinated shows just how worse it is for a country to pull down a man and many institutions are the efforts that stands.

We have been cautioned not to think ill of Verwoerd and his racial policy, but right or wrong, it has to be conceded he was a man of exceptional ability, possibly the one man of his time who could have controlled the explosive situation faced in South Africa. There may be strong hands to take over, but there is doubt that the situation will be relaxed due to the change, rather, it would seem likely the apartheid may be intensified.

And surely this would not have been the objective of the killer.

Large welfare payments mainly are statutory undertakings and have been made already for increased old age pensions, according to means. There has been a promise of medicare by Canada's 100th birthday next year.

If the Government proceeds with these welfare measures and it is now committed to them the expenditures from the treasury will soar even higher. However, Prime Minister Pearson said in a nation-wide television broadcast that some government expenditures may have to be postponed even though they are "very, very good in themselves".

Canadian government spending on public works and other capital expenditures have been curtailed. But still the costs go up and the drain on the treasury continues. Meantime expenditures by provincial and municipal governments have continued at a high level.

These expenditures add to the inflationary pressures. As inflation continues to make its impact felt on the economy various labour segments clamour for higher wages to meet the rising costs. Thus the vicious spiral gains momentum. Such a situation calls for even more strenuous moves by the Finance Minister, such as increased income taxes and a stoppage of capital expenditure to dampen down the over-heated economy. The Cabinet will be faced with [illegible] [illegible] budget should be introduced to meet the situation.

Meantime Prime Minister Pearson [illegible] the Commons that the [illegible] of inflation [illegible] between Federal and Provincial Finance Ministers. The tax structure committee which includes some Premiers of the provinces who also hold the portfolio of provincial treasurer in their respective administrations, was scheduled to meet in mid-September.

Thus the Government is confronting a serious economic situation. It was shocked to find that it had difficulty selling its bonds at reasonable rates because the demand for money in North America exceeds the supply and pushes up the price. The price will undoubtedly go higher yet in Canada because it cannot long remain below the U.S. level without attracting American capital homeward and endangering the value of Canadian currency.

Faced with this economic crisis the federal cabinet had no alternative but to take a strong unyielding stand on the railway strike. The railwaymen were clamouring for increases up to 30 per cent in wages. The government countered by bringing in an end-the-strike bill that offered an eighteen per cent interim raise in wages. This immediately brought loud protests from union leaders and the strikers. They protested that it was far too low. They said that even if Parliament passed the bill ordering the men back to their jobs there would be many across the country who would defy Parliament.

This posed the dangerous possibility of organized civil disobedience. Government members, whenever the suggestion was raised that the railwaymen might refuse to obey the parliamentary order, shuddered. One was quoted as saying that the ramifications of such a situation are "impossible to calculate and terrifying to contemplate".

Thus the Government is being squeezed. It has to [illegible] a solution that will persuade the striking railwaymen to [illegible] on the job and at the [illegible] time it must avoid setting [illegible] a wage increase which [illegible] aggravate inflation. If [illegible] cannot resolve the crisis it will be facing defeat and Canada could have yet another election. [illegible] John Diefenbaker [illegible] [illegible] momentum is hard [illegible]

3 strikes and out

It's sixteen years since Canada's railroads were shut down by strike action, until last week, but even so it might not hurt to point to the rule in baseball of "three strikes and you're out". Who knows, it could happen in railroading, too.

In many ways, the railroad strike is like an iceberg, with nearly ninety per cent of it below the surface. One feature seems to be the inability of the unions to deliver the labor of their members as a unit. There wasn't any hesitation about being united when it came to walking out, but it was entirely different about going back. Does this indicate the need to penalize unions or workers where wildcat strikes are involved? Shouldn't the privilege of union strength be matched by equal responsibility? And shouldn't the loss of one reduce the other?

Another feature embittering several of the senior employees is the lack of attention paid by the union to their requests, repeated over many years. We are reliably informed these workers didn't ask, or even care about, a pay raise in the order of 30%. But they have many times asked for some type of job security, some kind of sick pay, some assurance they won't be dumped on the street after thirty or forty or more years of service, without having met pension requirements. And they say so far the union seems not to know they exist.

One argument being used by labor forces for justifying the pay raise is the difficulty being faced by the railways in securing adequate trained labor. But nearly everyone knows this situation isn't confined to the railways . . . it's almost universal in Canadian industry. And raising pay isn't going to correct this situation though it might move people around a bit more.

The most dismaying aspect of the situation is that even though the Liberal government passed their return to work bill, it was only after the opposition so altered the original draft as to make it a travesty. For Diefenbaker to force the rate up from eight to eighteen per cent, and then chortle "we told them it wouldn't work" is simply to use Parliament, the institution he professes to idealize, as an instrument to mock the needs of the Canadian people.

Union leaders couldn't possibly have been happy with a law starting at eight per cent, but neither could they ignore the law except to court anarchy. The tragedy is that so many of their members did so, supposedly without union sanction.

No change ahead

Voters in both Newfoundland and British Columbia this week have the opportunity to decide which candidates [illegible] which parties, generally re[illegible] [illegible] desires and their thinking [illegible] measure.

[illegible] anything can happen, we [illegible] expect to see [illegible] major changes in either end of the country. In all probability, both leaders may lose a little of the strength they have enjoyed in the past session, although voters in B.C. don't seem to feel there is any real alternative in many instances to the solidly established government of Premier Bennett.

This latter may have some bearing on the chances of Social Credit going on to become a national party again.

Whither South Africa?

The tragic situation in South Africa where a remarkably strong man in the person of Premier Verwoerd was assassinated shows just how easy it is for a pygmy to pull down a giant, and [illegible] are the defences the [illegible] commands.

Western [illegible] have been conditioned, [illegible] think ill of Verwoerd and [illegible] policy, but right or wrong, it has to be conceded he was a man of exceptional ability, possibly the one man of his time who could have controlled the explosive situation faced in South Africa. There may be strong hands to take over, but there is doubt that the situation will be relaxed due to the change. rather, it would seem likely the apartheid may be intensified.

And surely this would not have been the objective of the killer.

Lauber-Yoder wedding solemnized on August 6

On August 6th, Sylvia Marie Yoder, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wayne Yoder of Round Hill, became the bride of Murray Leroy Lauber, son of Mrs. Martha Lauber. Rev. Harold Boettger officiated at the wedding ceremony in the Salem Mennonite Church, near Tofield.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She chose a slim, floor-length gown of French lace over taffeta, with a rounded neckline and lily point sleeves. The ensemble featured a coat of nylon net bordered with French lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses on a white Bible.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Beartice Foshaug, as matron of honor; Miss Marion Yoder, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Joan Yoder, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. They wore identically styled floor-length gowns with Empire waistlines, sleeves and bodices of lace over taffeta, and the skirts of chiffon over taffeta. The matron of honor wore blue and the bridesmaids yellow. They carried nosegays of Shasta daisies centered with a yellow rose.

The groom was attended by his brothers, Calvin and Byron Lauber. Ushers were Richard Foshaug, Ben Lauber and Jim Lauber.

An octette sang during the signing of the register.

Mrs. Yoder chose a two-piece dress of pink chiffon over printed cotton, with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Lauber wore a two-piece navy suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held in the church basement for 180 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake, made by the bride's mother and beautifully decorated by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lee Roth of Tofield. Keith Hostetler acted as master of ceremonies.

The happy couple are residing in Camrose, where the groom will be teaching.

Q. For a second marriage, is it permissible for me to have a close relative as my matron of honor, and for my groom to have an attendant?

A. Certainly you should each have an attendant, and each of these, incidentally, acts as a witness, too.

Centennial . . .

the oil industry associated with claims of living dukes, counts and other notables as ancestors

Prevail touches of humor associated with a period 25 to 30 years ago when some families went to great trouble and sometimes considerable expense to have their histories researched Those whose ancestors came from Europe or the British Isles often were hopeful of finding proof of brave or royal blood in their backgrounds Certain y a copy of the family crest on old parchment, framed and hanging in the dining room, was a status symbol of sorts

During the family crest craze various services across the seas published classified advertisements in North American newspapers offering to research official documents and produce bona fide family crests—for a fee. It was with dismay that some on this side of the ocean would later discover they actually had paid for a fictional drawing which came only from the mind of a second rate commercial artist in a foreign land.

Family history research can produce exciting stories, too. One of our young office boys at the Centennial Commission didn't give a hoot about history until he discovered that an ancestor of his figured prominently in the Papineau uprising. His eyes stared in disbelief as he spotted his own unusual French name in Mason Wade's "French Canadians" They widened even more when he read on to find that a troop of the Montreal Volunteer Cavalry had been sent to St. Johns, Quebec, to capture his ancestor The ancestor evaded the Cavalry and fled to the United States.

"Gee, I've often wondered why I have so many American relatives", he said. "Now I know. We're in Canada we had a price on our heads!"

We recommend, as a personal Centennial project for yourself, that you check into old family albums and books lying around the house Ask the relatives, too. There's no telling what interesting Canadian history you might find and a family connection of your own.

Whether they have "treas" or not, families also can play a big part in the Centennial celebrations by making 1967 the big year for those picnics and reunions which long have been typical festive occasions in many Canadian communities

Headquarters dead centre and two branches equi-distant either side could do the job for 20 million people. "I understand Elephant Brand's got a 43% Granular Ammonium Nitrate!"

He should get it right and get it this fall. New 34% Granular Ammonium Nitrate by Elephant Brand is available only through your Elephant Brand dealer. Cominco produces Canada's only granular ammonium nitrate; the only one with 34% nitrogen. It gives more plant food per spreader load, which means fewer stops. It is non-caking and flows evenly for uniform application.

And consider this: New 34% granular ammonium nitrate is now being used in making Elephant Brand 23-23-0 and 27-14-0. Result—products made up entirely of firm, uniform granules that stay uniform and flow evenly through any applicator.

Taken all around, Elephant Brand 34% N is the greatest granular nitrate fertilizer to hit the ground for Pete's, or anybody else's sake!

Mouthy fish

The unusual fish above was twice as easy to catch, Len Blades told The Canadian, because it had two mouths. The lower mouth can be seen clearly in the picture above, complete with perfectly sharp teeth. Mr. Blades found how sharp they were when the fish bit him as he removed the hook.

VOL. 16. No. 3. PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, September 15th., 1966

Direct Distance Dialing comes to local phones

Direct Distance Dialing comes to Tofield on Sunday, September 18th. The exchange here is considered a community dialing office of Edmonton. In other words, it hooks into that city and long distance calls will be handled there. No operator will be necessary in Tofield, a representative of Alberta Government Telephones in Edmonton told The Mercury. The company will install the rural lines and party lines will be limited to four on one line. There will be no extra charge to Tofield subscribers in connection with the changeover.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR DDD

Altogether 29 rural communities will cut over to DDD on the same date, said the AGT spokesman, including Barrhead and Viking

Subscribers have received instructions for the use of this method of calling long distance for in province calls They will dial one and the seven digit number of the party being called

For out-of-province calls they will dial one, the area code and the seven-digit number of the party being called

In the Tofield area, upon completion of dialing the operative will interrupt and ask for the telephone number of the party placing the call

DDD is not without limitations, only station-to-station calls may be made using this system. All other types of long distance calls such as person-to-person, collect, calls from pay stations, hotels, motels, calls billed to a third telephone, conference calls, and credit card calls, must still go through the operator. In addition, it is necessary to obtain long distance charges after the call is completed, this information is only obtainable when using operator assistance

PROPER DIALING IMPORTANT

The most important factor in using Direct Distance Dialing is proper dialing technique After lifting the receiver, listen for the dial tone If this simple step is not followed, part or all of the initial digit may be lost. The digit not when dialed is the access to the DDD equipment.

In the event of a wrong number being reached, just dial "0" (Zero) for the operator. Supply her with the info mation covering the call, your number, the place and number you attempted to reach and the approximate time of the call The operator will then write out a credit ticket that will match the corresponding entry on the DDD tape when the charge will be cancelled.

Direct Distance Dialing will not replace the operator staffs on switchboards but will provide the telephone user with quicker service on long distance calls.

3 D's present Rhyms, Rhythm, Reason

A rising new vocal instrumental trio, the 3 D's, will perform at Convocation Centre at CLC next Wednesday, September 21 at 8 p.m., as part of the campus welcome activities. Comedy, drama, music and rhythm are featured with a range from the pounding of cannon and thundering hoofs of the Light Brigade to the pathetic swoosh of Casey's third strike. Called one of the most creative groups in years, the trio records for Capitol Records. The concert is open to the public, and high school students in the area are specially invited.

Elaine Sorrell scores again as award winner

Word has been received here recently that Miss Elaine Ann Sorrell of the Tofield High School has been awarded an Alberta Hotel Association Scholarship of $500.00. This scholarship will be presented on behalf of the Alberta Hotel Association at the County of Beaver graduation ceremonies which will be held in Viking on Saturday, September 17.

Elaine has obtained all her education in the Tofield School and readers of the Mercury will remember that this clever student was the 1965 winner of the Governor-General's award for achieving the highest marks in the County of Beaver in the June Departmental examinations. For years in High School have shown similar high achievements Against very stiff competition both from her Tofield classmates and from students in the other county schools Elaine has obtained the highest marks in the Grade XII June 1966 examinations. In recognition of this achievement, Elaine has been appointed valedictorian for the graduating class of 1966 in the County of Beaver.

Elaine was born in October 27, 1948 in Tofield. She has had an exemplary record all through her school years. Her chief extra-curricular activity is reading, although she has taken an active part in all school affairs.

This month, she will enter the faculty of Education in the University of Alberta (for teachers) and friends know she will achieve success in her chosen field

Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Sorrell and niece of Mr and Mrs Thomas Jacobs. Her grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Fred Thiessenmann, will be watching proudly when their granddaughter receives the Hotel Association scholarship as will her brother Fred, a grade VIII student in Tofield

The best wishes of the staff and students of the Tofield School go with Elaine as she enters University.

David took 17 years of love from his parents, first class honours from his school and $8,000 from your pockets.

Then he left.

Brilliant high school student dies in car crash said the headline. All that love, all that brilliance, all that money; all gone for nothing.

Automobile accidents kill more young Canadians than anything. More than disease; more than all other accidents put together.

It costs some $8,000 in tax money just to prepare a student for university. A thorough high school driver training program costs $40 per student, and takes 50 hours of instruction. Small costs against the losses.

The automobile insurance industry promotes young driver training. Bursaries, text books and free instruction are given to high school teachers. They in turn teach the students.

The industry also awards cash discounts on auto insurance premiums to students who pass the course.

Driver training isn't a frill. School boards with experience know it's a proven method of reducing accidents. Urge and back high school driver training in your community.

Keep the Davids with us.

Hotel scholarships aid Alberta students

The Alberta Hotel Association's scholarship program was inaugurated in Alberta in 1952, the money necessary for this extensive program is donated voluntarily by the members of the association.

During the last 15 years, over half a million dollars has been awarded to deserving Alberta students through this program. Last year (1965) alone 61 scholarships whose value totalled $20,750 were awarded to Grade XII students in Alberta. In addition to these scholarships, the Alberta Hotel Association donated $2700 to the Banff School of Fine Arts, 30 scholarships to the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary and the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology in Edmonton. As well as sponsoring this program, the Hotel Association administered a special fund to assist 13 students receiving special help and new scholarships were made available to students in Hotel Restaurant Management Courses at SAIT in Calgary.

This year 1966, 71 scholarships whose total value is $38,750 have been awarded to Grade XII students in Alberta. In addition $2300 has been donated to the Banff School of Fine Arts, $4000 has been given to Food Training Courses at SAIT and NAIT, and $1800 in excess of the scholarship program, has been given to help needy students.

All these programs entail a vast amount of office work which is gladly undertaken by the Alberta Hotel Association executive. It is worthy of mention that over 25% of the matriculating students in Alberta apply for Hotel Association scholarships.

To process and evaluate the large number of applications, the Alberta Hotel Association is assisted by men and women prominent in educational, religious, judicial, journalistic and other fields. These public minded citizens give freely of their time that the scholarships may be wisely awarded.

The members of the group who process and evaluate the applications are: Rt. Rev. George Calvert, Bishop of Calgary; C. G. Merkley, Chairman, Students Assistance Board; Rev. H. A. Cantelon, former Principal Alberta College; B. J. Knowles, past president, Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association; Rev. P. O'Brien, Catholic Family Service; Dr. R. M. Hardy, Dean, Faculty of Engineering; Mrs. K. Bobmer, representative of Alberta Federation of Home and School Association; R. B. Wilson, Administrator of Student Awards; D. H. Cameron, Associate Professor and Faculty of Education U of A.; President, W. A. Proctor, Alberta Hotel Associations, G. T. Barr, managing Director Alberta Hotel Association.

The local representative of the Alberta Hotel Association is Mr. Stan Kitchener, of the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Tofield on whose behalf the scholarships will be presented to Elaine [illegible] and former AGT agent.

On entering the room with Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Taylor, the guest of honor was greeted with all in attendance singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow". A lovely rose corsage was pinned on her by Mrs. Heen Tiedemann. Seated at the head table with her were Mrs. Winnie Beveridge and Mrs. Aase Black.

A "bowling" game was played and a game of charades made from the ward Holden with Mrs. Tiedemann in charge. On behalf of her many friends, Mrs. M. L. Campbell made a presentation to Mrs. Sanderson of a purse of money, with a few appropriate remarks wishing her happiness in the years ahead. The evening was brought to a happy conclusion with the hostesses serving lunch

IN MEMORIAM

EATON.—In loving memory of our husband and father, Owen Richard Eaton, who passed away September 24, 1958:

Eight long years have passed and gone
Since that day God called you home,
Tears do not mend heartaches or time remove the pain,
A loving memory of you with us will always remain.
We loved you, Owen, and we miss you so,
What it meant to lose you, no one will ever know;
It broke our hearts to lose you the day God called you home,
But hope and pray to meet you in the Eternal home.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Ellen, and two sons and daughter, Walter and Evelyn Eaton and Family, Leroy and Shirley Eaton and Family, and Rita and Herb Niemetz and Family. 3-nc

CARDS OF THANKS

Since returning to Tofield, I wish to express my thanks to each and everyone I've met for the kind welcome I received since purchase of my home and my intention of living here. Through misfortune, my wife cannot see her friends of the past, but I am here to thank each and everyone on her behalf during her absence for the sympathy expressed. I wish to carry on as duty bound, to all Old and Young Timers my respect, as I see every day from them all. When I moved to Tofield, I was in hospital, and my wife also. I wish to personally thank Mr and Mrs Ross for their kindness in placing my home as it is, and the Legion of Tofield for its kindness to me in hospital and out. I am suggesting that Tofield be called the Friendly Town, as it is today to me. Yours truly,
—Arthur E. Hatton

Holden district news items

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Mrs. Laura Christianson was very pleasantly surprised on Wednesday, Aug. 24, when her brother, Anton Anderson of Milbank, South Dakota, U.S.A., and who is the grand age of 87, Chris Anderson of Revillo, S.D., and two sisters, Mrs. (Cora) Arnt Miller from near the Black Hills and (Viola) Mrs. Herman Storm, also of Milbank, visited with her for two days, also being overnight guests. A nephew from La Bolt was their driver. The visitors enjoyed the Alberta air and country very much.

Mr and Mrs Henry Tiedemann and sons David and Robert spent the holiday weekend on a fishing trip at Lake Mann. Mrs. Tiedemann's brother and wife, Mr and Mrs Alex Morrison of Edmonton, were along with them.

The Earl Hardy were also fishing over the holiday weekend at Lake Mann, as well as Mr. and Mrs John Semotuik and family.

Mr and Mrs. Madsen from California, who have been visiting relatives in Lamont and district, spent a couple of days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don MacGregor.

FAMILY RE-UNION

A family re-union was held Sunday, Sept 4, when Mr. and Mrs Earling Henderson of Taber, daughters Lois and family, Donna, her husband and baby, Mr and Mrs. Hammer and children of Viking, Mr and Mrs. Turnbull and family, also of Taber, and Mr and Mrs. Charles Sizer of Holden visited at the home of Mrs. Mabel Sizer. An enjoyable day was spent visiting and reminiscing.

Mr and Mrs C. Stenarud were recent callers with Mr Ludvig Sandbeck, who is resident at Vialta Lodge, Viking.

Mr and Mrs Lloyd Bell and Mr and Mrs Alfred Sorensen spent Labor Day fishing at Mann Lake. We hear the fishing was good, with a nine-pounder being caught.

Mrs. Ted Anderson and children of Calgary were visitors during the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Barlow. Muriel visited with her husband Friday evening, who was a patient in the Col Mewburn Hospital in Edmonton. The children spent a few days with their aunt and uncle, the Ernie Mertas, at Viking while Muriel was away. Ted had been having numerous tests and a check-up for an undiagnosed ailment.

Mrs. Ted Anderson was a coffee guest with her aunt, Mrs. N. L. Campbell, Saturday morning of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Merta and children were Labor Day dinner guests with Mrs. Merta's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Barlow, bringing back the Anderson children.

County schools graduation exercises held Sept. 17th.

. . . large student body

The 1966 County of Beaver graduation exercises were held in the Viking School on Saturday, Sept. 17

Preceding the evening's program, a banquet, catered to by the Ladies of the Royal Purple, was held for the graduates and their parents

After the banquet, the guests at the head table were introduced preceding Miss Wynona Johnston's proposal of the toast to the school committee, which was replied to by J. Roddick, chairman of the committee. Miss Patricia Brown proposed the toast to the parents, to which Ernest Brown replied. The toast to the graduates was proposed by Bruce Budd, Mayor of Holden, and replied to by Tom Budd

The graduation exercises were held in the gymnasium against a most effective background. A large painting of a Viking ship and the crests of each of the schools represented, set the theme for the evening. The colorful uniforms of the Viking school band, directed by Mr. Hillaker, added much to the occasion, as did the music they offered during the program

J. Hemphill, principal of the Viking school, was chairman of the evening. He was given by Rev McDermott. Mr. Hemphill called on Miss Elaine Sorel from Tofield to give the valedictory address. She chose as her theme "Sailing Into The Unknown", developing her theme by showing how the graduates of '66 must meet and conquer the same type of difficulties as their voyages through life as the Vikings encountered when they ventured into the unknown seas.

Miss Sorensen sang "Just For Today", and the guest speaker, T. Knight, Public Relations Officer for the Alberta Wheat Pool, was introduced by Mr. Hemphill Mr Knight stressed, for the benefit of the graduates, the vital importance of education for modern youth, and emphasized that education provides the safest, surest foundation for their future.

TEN COMMANDMENTS

He gave the graduates ten commandments for living: 1. Speak to people; 2 Smile; 3. Be friendly; 4. Be genuine; 5 Be interested in others; 6 Be generous in your praise; 6 Do not be a critic; 7. Be considerate of others; 8. Follow the Golden Rule; 9. Give service; 10. Be a realist.

Following Mr. Knight's inspiring address, Bob Evans presented two awards to Elaine Sorrel. On behalf of the Alberta Hotel Association and representing Stan Kwasney of the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Tofield, he presented Elaine with a $500 scholarship On behalf of the Beaver Local of the Alberta Teachers' Associa-

Vivian Carlson wins awards

( Mrs. G. Taylor)

HOLDEN — H.R.L. Mason and F.H.L.L. Armstrong visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs Melvin Carlson, Wednesday evening of last week, to present their daughter Vivian with the Annual Scholarship award and certificate which the Holden Lodge OORP give each year to a student attending Holden High School who obtains the highest average in grade 12 departmental examinations. This year they were pleased to present their cheque of $50.00 to Vivian, who had an average of 81.17% in six subjects.

Vivian also is the recipient of a $500.00 bursary from the Alberta Hotel Association's program.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson and Vivian drove up to Edmonton Sunday where Vivian will enroll at the University of Alberta in Education, working for a degree to teach in High School. She is registered at Lister House.

Fluoride possible in Tofield water

Possibility that fluoride may be added to the Tofield water supply developed last week, when a special meeting of Town Council was called Friday afternoon to discuss the question. An enabling by-law was passed at the meeting, and the question will be placed before local voters on October 19th.

No further action can be taken by the council until after the 19th, and then only if the measure is approved by more than half those voting.

Information received from the Department of Health informed the council that 13 municipalities in Alberta are fluoridating their water supply now, and also that four more have had the necessary approval of a fluoridation plebiscite from their voters

Several communities are taking a close look at the question of fluoridation since recent legislation of the provincial government changed requirements regarding the majority needed to approve the measure. Calgary and Edmonton are both surveying the situation, and Camrose will also conduct a plebiscite October 19th on the matter. No discussion has ever been held in Wetaskiwin, where the water is naturally fluoridated to almost the exact amount.

"We have had the Tofield water tested", Mayor Freebury told The Mercury this morning, "and the fluoride content is very, very low". The mayor said he couldn't quickly recall if it were actually nothing, but said there was not enough in do any good.

The situation insofar as children's teeth in the town and district is not at all good, he told The Mercury, saying the council hoped the move would pass in order to improve the mouths of children, many of which are in pretty bad shape right now

This is the first time the question has been considered in Tofield, the mayor thought, and it was brought up at this time in response to some suggestions from parents in the communities. "There hasn't been a lot of interest", he said, adding that as far there hasn't been any opposition either, "and we really don't think there will be much difficulty".

Present at the meeting studying the question were Mayor Dr. Freebury, and Councillors Allan, Herndon, Patterson and Swift.

A table of actual costs of five municipalities was studied. Using the table as a guide, it is estimated that the cost of fluoridating the Tofield water supply would include installed equipment, fluoride chemical, maintenance of equipment and general operation. After the initial cost, the per capita annual cost would be approximately $2 cents

A by-law, covering the proposal, is found on Page Eight of The Mercury this week.

Multiple headed barley

Barley heads found at one spot in a 35 acre field of Husky barley on the Earl Nesvold farm north of Camrose, show some of Nature's oddities. One stem has three heads, the next looks like one head but a join in the middle indicates one head on the end of another head, and the third stem had two heads. Mr. Nesvold said he picked the heads standing in one spot and could not find any others in the field. He plans to keep them, plant the seed in a garden next year and see if either head will reproduce another multiple head.

UAM Convention at Wainwright

(Mrs. O. Taylor)

Lars Olson Councillor and Ray Hovland, village secretary, were visitors in Vermilion Wednesday, Sept. 14th, attending a Convention of Union of Alberta Municipalities of district No. 5, held in the Elks Hall there. The meeting was jointly sponsored by the Urban Secretary-Treasurers Association and the Union of Alberta Municipalities. Chairman was Reg Mitchell, director of district No. 5 and the delegates were welcomed by Mayor E. C. Heckbert of Vermilion. Speakers were E. Newman executive secretary, UAM, and Mr. Wilkinson of Reed, Shaw, McNaught, Ins Brokers. The New Social Service Program was explained by Dale Joslin Dept. of Welfare.

Bruce Ramsay, inspector from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs was in attendance to answer questions on various affairs.

Annual Bible Society canvass is underway

The annual canvass in the interests of the Bible Society is now underway and it is the hope of a former canvasser for many years, Mrs. J. W. Robinson that the response of the people will equal that of last year, which was very creditable.

It is the task of the Bible Society to provide God's word for God's world. The churches, the missionaries and the people of the world are depending on the Bible Society for the scriptures they need. The Bible Society depends on congregations and on Christian people to provide the funds to enable it to do it's work. To provide the scriptures the Bible Society must overcome the problem of language and the problem of poverty. The Bible Society has made great progress in overcoming the problem created by the multiplicity of languages.

The Scriptures have been distributed in some 1,250 languages and are appearing in an additional language every month. The Bible Society is currently supervising some 4,000 translators who are engaged in translation work on some 500 languages. English is the mother tongue of only 9% of the people of the world.

In Asia, Africa and Latin America 85% of all Scripture distribution is linked with the work of the Bible Society. In these areas poverty is acute and the scriptures must be provided at a fraction of their cost or free of charge. Poverty is so real that every three seconds somewhere in the world a child dies of starvation. The Bible Society distributes over 400,000 copies of the Scriptures in some 70 languages in Canada each year.

A Braille Bible for the blind costs $63.00 but the Bible Society provides it for only $9.00 or free of charge if necessary.

In 1966 to pay the cost of translation and for the scriptures which have been requested from some 135 countries the Bible Societies require $8,650,000.00. The Canadian Bible Society has promised to provide $400,000.00 of this amount.

Multiple headed barley

Barley heads found at one spot in a 35 acre field of Husky barley on the Earl Neesvold farm north of Camrose, show some of Nature's oddities. One stem has three heads, the next looks like one head but a join in the middle indicates one head on the end of another head, and the third stem had two heads. Mr. Neesvold said he picked the heads standing in one spot and could not find any others in the field. He plans to keep them, plant the seed in a garden next year and see if either head will reproduce another multiple head.

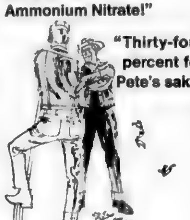
"I understand Elephant Brand's got a 43% Granular Ammonium Nitrate!"



He should get it right and get it this fall. New 34% Granular Ammonium Nitrate by Elephant Brand is available only through your Elephant Brand dealer. Cominco produces Canada's only granular ammonium nitrate, the only one with 34% nitrogen. It gives more plant food per spreader load, which means fewer stops. It is non-caking and flows evenly for uniform application.

And consider this. New 34% granular ammonium nitrate is now being used in making Elephant Brand 23-23-0 and [illegible] Result—products made up entirely of firm uniform granules that stay uniform and flow evenly through any applicator.

Taken all around, Elephant Brand 34% N is the greatest granular nitrate fertilizer to hit the ground for Pete's, or anybody else's sake!

UAM Convention at Wainwright

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

Lars Olson, Councillor and Ray Hovland, village secretary, were visitors in Vermilion Wednesday, Sept. 14th, attending a Convention of Union of Alberta Municipalities of district No. 5, held in the Elks Hall there. The meeting was jointly sponsored by the Urban Secretary Treasurers Association and the Union of Alberta Municipalities. Chairman was Reg. Mitchell, director of district No. 5 and the delegates were welcomed by Mayor S. C. Heckbert of Vermilion. Speakers were E. Newman, executive secretary, UAM, and Mr. Wilkinson of Reed, Shaw, McNaught, [illegible]. The New Social Service Program was explained by Dale Joslin, Dept. of Welfare.

Bruce Ramsay, inspector from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs was in attendance to answer questions on various affairs.

Annual Bible Society canvass is underway

The annual canvass in the interests of the Bible Society is now underway and it is the hope of a former canvasser for many years, Mrs. J. W. Robinson that the response of the people will equal that of last year, which was very creditable.

It is the task of the Bible Society to provide God's word for God's world. The churches, the missionaries and the people of the world are depending on the Bible Society for the scriptures they need. The Bible Society depends on congregations and on Christian people to provide the funds to enable it to do its work. To provide the scriptures the Bible Society must overcome the problem of language and the problem of poverty. The Bible Society has made great progress in overcoming the problem created by the multiplicity of languages.

The Scriptures have been distributed in some 1,250 languages and are appearing in an additional language every month. The Bible Society is currently supervising some 4,000 translators who are engaged in translation work on some 500 languages. English is the mother tongue of only 9% of the people of the world.

In Asia, Africa and Latin America 95% of all Scripture distribution is linked with the work of the Bible Society. In these areas poverty is acute and the scriptures must be provided at a fraction of their cost or free of charge. Poverty is so real that every three seconds somewhere in the world a child dies of starvation. The Bible Society distributes over 400,000 copies of the Scriptures in some 70 languages in Canada each year.

A Braille Bible for the blind costs $65.00 but the Bible Society provides it for only $9.00 or free of charge if necessary.

In 1966 to pay the cost of translation and for the scriptures which have been requested from some 135 countries the Bible Societies require $6,600,000.00. The Canadian Bible Society has promised to provide $400,000.00 of this amount.

ument can easily meet its expenditures under present tax arrangements The provincial governments can not.

Yet the finance minister flatly refused to offer the province another dollar's worth of tax room.

This is basically an unrealistic position. But Mr. Johnson's position is equally unrealistic

The federal government can't keep all its tax rights. But it can't give them all up either Not if we're to continue to have a country

This brings us to Mr. Sharp's basic premise Taxes must be increased That is, total taxes, federal and provincial.

The provincial governments must raise the taxes needed to meet their expenditures The federal government must do the same. There may be some leeway for the federal government to turn over a few more percentage points of tax room, but there isn't much leeway

The inescapable conclusion is that taxes in Canada are not high enough. It would be difficult to get agreement on that proposition from the ordinary taxpayer, but it is a fact. Taxes are not high enough, and they'll have to go higher.

Canadians can't expect to get government services, new and expanded services — free schooling, hospital insurance, medical care, old age pensions, welfare assistance, super highways, airports—without paying for them, money cost, through taxes.

County council meets Sept. 8th

Following are the minutes, as part, of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9, held Thursday, Sept. 8, 1966

In regards to the Tofield Disposal Grounds, the secretary-treasurer stated that he had advised the Town of Tofield that the Council would like to offer a cash payment of $300 per year. He had also, by letter, contacted the secretary-treasurers of the Village of Ryley, Village of Holden and Town of Viking that a similar cash allowance would be made to these local authorities upon request if the disposal grounds were being used by the residents in the County. A reply had been received from the Village of Ryley only.

It was moved and carried that the report be accepted.

In regards to the Wainwright Flood Control Scheme, the secretary-treasurer stated that no further developments had taken place to his knowledge. Cr. Krispinack was asked to contact L. Kissinger of the PFAA Branch at Vegreville to see what further had to be done by the County. The question of the County entering the amount of benefit that this scheme would be to the County, and it was suggested that possibly out of the $10,000 which was estimated to be the cost chargeable to the County $5,000 could possibly be classified as beneficial to the County.

It was, therefore, moved and carried that the County be prepared to pay up to 50% of the cost of the County's share of the proposed flood insurance control.

In regards to the drainage problem in S.E. 21-49-16-W 4th, the secretary-treasurer stated that he had referred this matter to the Dept. of Water Resources and that an inspection would be made by the Department later this fall.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted.

In regards to Block Nugget Lake, the secretary-treasurer reported that the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Dept. of Lands and Forests had approved the lowering of the water level to approximately two feet. It had been suggested that if the water was lowered into a ditch, this should be screened at its junction with the Lake to prevent the escaping of fish. The Council was also advised that the matter of piling at the west end of the Lake had been investigated. The piledriver could be rented from the Department of Highways and the necessary piles could be obtained from that source, the cost being $1.50 per foot, f.o.b. Edmonton.

Inasmuch as a fair amount of engineering was necessary in this case the Municipal Bridge Engineer suggested that the matter be left in abeyance until the bridge requests for 1967 are all estimated and the Engineer would then look over the situation at Nugget Lake and make some recommendations.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted.

Sub-Division Application No. 66-D-301 concerning N.E. 24-5-18-W4th was referred to the Council.

Moved and carried that the Council has no objection to the proposed sub-division provided that the County not be responsible for any road or other improvements in or to the sub-divided area.

It was moved and carried that the proposed extension to Jarrow R.E. Association Ltd. be approved.

Moved and carried that notice under Sec. 300 of the M.D. Act advising of the transfer to the County's control bridges located at WNW 7-49-18-W4th and SSE 18-49-18-W4th be received and filed.

Letter from the Dept. of Highways concerning bridge file 9038-SW 27-49-18-W4th was referred to Council. The letter indicated that as the existing 16-foot untreated timber bridge had collapsed, the Department proposed to install a 30-inch by 60-inch CPM M.T. culvert. This had been discussed with Cr. Knudsen. Cr. Knudsen stated that, after having given this matter some further thought, he was of the opinion that a culvert would not be sufficient at this point and that it actually required a 20-foot bridge. No other road allowances further up on the same creek or dam had been installed, and he was of the opinion that a culvert at this point would hinder the flow from the Round Hill Flood Control Scheme. At the present time this road was blocked and he would prefer to have the bridge repaired so that it could be used for local traffic and then ret a replacement next year.

Moved and carried that this request be made to the Department.

A letter from the Dept. of Highways concerning bridge file 26586-WNW 25-49-16-W4th was referred to the Council. The Bridge Branch advised that this bridge could not be replaced during the current year because of a number of additional requests by the County. Their Inspection Report indicated that the existing bridge of treated timber material should serve until next year without too much of a problem.

Moved and carried that the letter be received and filed.

In regards to bridge file 9038-SE 7-49-18-W4th, the Council was informed that the required survey had been completed and site plan and profiles had been delivered to the Bridge Branch by the County's Surveyors. In this connection, Cr. Reddick stated that a large culvert would possibly be sufficient at this point and inasmuch as he intended to re-locate the road this year, it was moved and carried that an enquiry be made to the Bridge Branch if a large culvert could be supplied at this point rather than a bridge.

The secretary-treasurer reported that under date of August 24 he had received a letter from M. T. Nemiraly, secretary-treasurer of the M.D. of Lamont No. 42 concerning the Ross Creek Flood Control Scheme. This flood control scheme concerned the County of Beaver No. 9 to some small degree, and the secretary-treasurer had requested the Dept. of Water Resources for a copy of the plan and cost estimate The estimated cost was in the amount of $25 900 and according to the report the drainage basin served by the Rock Creek covering approximately 100 square miles. Only about three ratepayers in the County were affected by this flood control scheme and according to Cr Weatherill the drainage would not benefit the County's road to any great extent.

It was therefore moved that inasmuch as the proposed flood control scheme would not be beneficial to the County's roads system, the County is not prepared to enter into any agreement in this connection The Council however, has no objection to the scheme provided that the bridges on this creek are so designed as being adequate and sufficient

Al Bourree, Assessor and Sam Lecaire, Foreman who had attended the meeting on August 11, had presented their assessment in this connection It was noted that the group agreed to Mr. Bourree when he attended the meeting on August 4th, to allow per section for a subdivision of one township, in other words $180 The Agreement called for this amount plus the provision that cabin boundary delineation of deposit or deposits will be paid for by the Client in the Contractor as follows

1. Consulting and instrumentation fee $125 per day
2. Drilling $16 per hour
3. Charge for moving drilling rig and equipment site per mile.

The County would also have to provide rights of entry and access to, on, to and over any land as may be necessary for the proper performance of the Contractor's work Location of bore holes should be considered in that gravel in sufficient quantities were not obtained by the Contractor, and hence no payment payable, if any sand or gravel was taken from any of the deposits located by the Contractor a royalty of 5c per cubic yard would be payable in him

The Council felt that no action should be taken at the present time and it was therefore moved and carried that Mr bourree be advised that the Contract is very much out of line with the verbal suggestions made by Mr Bourree on August 11 and 11 and that the County cannot consider dealing such him under the present conditions.

The secretary-treasurer reported on Henry Field who had called at the office in regards to the he due on S.E. 24-43-15-W4th This bridge had been on a road diversion but had now been straightened out and was thus on private land Mr. Field had inquired whether he or the County was responsible for the upkeep of this bridge No further information was available, and it was moved and carried that Crs Dorn and Johnston investigate this situation and report back to the next meeting.

The secretary-treasurer reported that Hans Jessen had called at the office suggesting that gravel might be obtainable on N.W 20-50-16-W 4th.

Moved and carried that Crs Weatherill and Kardalen investigate this situation

It was moved and carried that a nomination meeting, for the purpose of nominating candidates in Divisions 2 and 3 to fill the vacancies occurring in those divisions in January, 1967, be held in the County office on November 6, 1966, between the hours of 3 00 and 4 00 o'clock in the afternoon

It was moved and carried that the secretary-treasurer, Otto Mousson, be and hereby is appointed Returning Officer for the County of Beaver No. 9 for the forthcoming Municipal Election

It was moved and carried that the following election officials be appointed:

Division No. 2 — Enumerator, Carl Naslund, Viking; Poll No. 1, D.R.O., A. A. Burnham, Viking; polling place, Hillsdale's Hall, Viking Poll No. 2, D.R.O., Frank Phe, Viking; polling place, P. Pho's residence, S.E. 26-48-1-4th Poll No. 3, D.R.O., Eric Erickson, Viking; polling place, Rosegarland Hall, S.E. 2-50-15-4th

Division No. 3 — Enumerator, Paul Ouellette, Bruce Poll No. 1, D.R.O., Irvin Fredericks, Bruce, polling place, Bruce Community Hall Poll No. 2, D.R.O., Wesley Barber Bruce, polling place, W Barber's residence, N.W. 4-47-14-4th

In regards to Northwestern Utilities Ltd. request to extend the gas line north of Tofield, the secretary-treasurer stated that the Gas Company was now prepared, instead of putting the gas line three feet inside the 20-foot easement, to put the gas line six feet inside a 50-foot easement This was considered safe for any road widening program that might involve this road, and it was moved and carried that the request from Northwestern Utilities, to extend their gas line north of Tofield under the circumstances outlined in their letter dated August 30, 1966, be approved.

C. H. Weir, Consulting Engineer, attended the meeting at this time in connection with the Rural Road Study The minutes of the meeting of the East Central Rural Road Study Area No 13, August 17, 1966, were read and contents noted

Mr Weir at that meeting had presented the outline of roads recommended for black topping and how they fitted in with surrounding Study Areas to the South

Some considerable discussion followed, and it was then moved and carried that this Council goes on record as approving the proposed system with deletion of the proposed road from Bruce South to the correction line and adding road from Highway No. 14 at N.E. 7-49-20-W 4th south via Mequon Lake to connect with the Camrose road

The standard of construction was discussed and the following points were decided upon in order of priority.

1. D H 345b — Correction line towards Camrose
2. D H 345K — Ryley north towards Mundare
3. D H 345A — North and South of Kinsella

Railways raise freight rates by ten percent

Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways announced last week they will increase freight rates by 10% on all rail traffic moving under so-called competitive rates and agreed charges.

The move will affect approximately 30% of the freight traffic handled by the two railroads.

The first increases will take effect October 1st for competitive rates Adjustments in agreed charges will follow. The action is being taken to help offset rising costs.

The two areas of traffic that will be affected by the 10% increase now move at rates which are below the general freight rate structure imposed by law and frozen by government action in 1958 Both competitive rates and agreed charges are set at levels to compete for traffic with other modes of transport. To arrange an agreed charge, however, a shipper must guarantee to ship a specific percentage of his traffic by rail for the period of the agreement.

National dog trials come to Nugget Lake

Nugget Lake in the Ryley-Tofield area has been selected as the site for the Canadian field trials for retriever dogs. Upwards of 40 dogs are expected to gather here next week, when trials will be run October 6, 7 and 8.

Dogs are already entered from all provinces except the Maritimes, The Mercury was told today by Dr. Dunsworth of Edmonton. Dr. Dunsworth is president of the Edmonton Sporting Dog Club, which are acting as hosts, and making arrangements for the national event.

Tofield dog takes second in trials

One local dog, a black Labrador retriever, owned by Les Burka, will be entered in the trials. All other Alberta dogs came from Calgar and Edmonton, the chairman said.

Only top dogs in each province are accepted for the national trials, and dogs must qualify earlier in the season for entry.

The Nugget Lake location was chosen after intensive study by the field trials committee, reported Dr. Dunsworth. Members spent considerable time assessing all areas in the province, he said, paying particular attention to those which would provide the most comprehensible overall demanding tests for dogs in prairie style hunting. After much research they concluded the best challenge came from this area, partial ybecause of the depth of water provided by the dredging of the coal mine. This depth is not established in a great many sloughs, they pointed out.

Actual locations of the tests are established by a committee of three judges, including Kent Powell of Edmonton, Dr. T. Williams of Eastern Canada, and Dr. William Crowell of Winnipeg. A minimum of ten tests will be required to select the winning dog.

CO-OPERATION

The committee has found wonderful co-operation from both the

Mayor Freebury returned for sixth straight term

Dr. W. H. Freebury was returned to office as mayor yesterday by acclamation as voters of Tofield gave him the sixth straight vote of confidence since February 28th, 1958. He has held office as mayor without interruption over the ten year period.

However, a combed loomed up for the two seats on council which are vacant. Retiring Councillors J. G. Allan and B. A. Everett are both running again, while T. Rabl, Nahrebecki and G Pittet are also seeking the seats. As a result, reports Returning Officer Rita E. Haverson, an election will be held on Wednesday, October 19th

Voters will also face a plebiscite on the question of adding fluoride treatment to the town water supply on October 19th The question was introduced two weeks ago at a special meeting of council, and requires a majority vote to pass.

Lions canvass for the CNIB

Tofield Lions Club has again taken on the sponsoring of the CNIB canvass for the Town of Tofield for this year, and members of the Club will call on residents of the town after their next meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 11th

Blind children look to you and the CNIB for their chance to build a future You share in their future when you provide them with healthy outdoor activities, counselling and encouragement through your CNIB donation.

Ladies nominated to Ryley council spark lively interest in election

The ladies of Ryley would seem to be setting an example to their sex elsewhere by taking a lively interest in civic affairs. Three of them were nominated yesterday to serve on the town council. They are: Mrs Barbara Harbak, Mrs. Jean Kondrawski, both newcomers to the nominations, and Mrs. Gertrude Minera who has run for office in the past three years Also nominated were Jack Stumbo and Reg Dyer, both of whom were on the council in the past year.

There are two vacancies to be filled this year. Returning Officer Garnet Burnstad told The Mercury, "The residents of Ryley are really interested in the election which will take place October 19".

Holden civic vacancies filled by acclamation

The Village of Holden will not be holding an election for mayor, councillor or hospital board member. The Mercury learned this morning these vacancies were filled by acclamation yesterday.

Mayor Budd continues in office. Lawrence Kaharic remains on the council and Don Allen on the board of Tofield Municipal Hospital. All were elected by acclamation.

Asked about new projects in the village, Secretary-Treasurer Raymond Hovland said a medical centre is one of them The village has been without a doctor for several years and the village council plans to rent or buy the old AGT Exchange building for its medical centre. The Chamber of Commerce has been trying to locate a general practitioner for the village and there is a possibility of one taking over the practice in October this year.

Miss Sorell is now attending the University of Alberta in the Faculty of Education.

Community League helped by major cash donations

From the September meeting of the Tofield Community League emerged several items of interest to League members and to the community in general

The League has received financial aid from two public-spirited citizens whose donations amounted to $110. The League is very grateful

Also several holders of notes from the League have refunded their notes to the extent of $1,050 thus considerably reducing the debt on the Community Centre. The League has also refunded $1,200 to other holders of notes.

In the future, the roof on the Community Centre will be repaired, and it is hoped the Centre will be re-painted. Money for the latter project has been saved from the theatre rentals during the past two or three years.

To increase the League's funds, a Thanksgiving turkey bingo will be held in the Community Centre on Wednesday, Oct. 5. Since the debt on the Centre is still over $17,000, it is hoped that this, and other League projects in the coming season, will further reduce this amount.

Mrs. Margaret Dickson was the September winner of the League's $100 bill.

In November, the Theatre Committee hopes to be able to present "Mary Poppins", starring Julie Andrews. Since this excellent movie is sure to draw large crowds, the Theatre Committee plans to have three showings, so that everyone may have a chance to see this award-winning show.

Whose money?

There's always a tendency for public officials to forget whose money they are spending, claims The Fairview Post, and try to claim it doesn't belong to the taxpayer. The Post's beef developed when either the provincial or federal government complained that no credit had been given the two governments for financial aid to the new swimming pool, built as part of the Centennial Program. No other complaint was offered.

"As the government gets all the money from the people in the first place," points out The Post, "it appears mighty highhanded to want to be thanked for giving money that belonged to the public in the first place." It concludes with the pithy comment "This Centennial business is great stuff but our grandchildren will go mental trying to pay the bill."

Free market

Recent cutbacks in the prices of two American-made autos indicate the power of the free market, when price competition is allowed to exercise its full effectiveness. Even among such giants as the big three in the auto industry, there is still so much competition that competitive market situations obviously are more essential than any other single ingredient. At least the manufacturer has demonstrated that this is what he feels the buyer thinks.

It's interesting to speculate on what happened. It's hard to imagine that either Ford or Chrysler set out to "gouge" the public . . . they know what a tight market it is, and how big a $10 bill looms on the customer end. On the face of it, it would seem each firm must have calculated the price it would need to get. Did General Motors, then, manage to cut costs to this extent? Did it experience a similar increase but decide to try a market squeeze on the other two by outguessing them? Did someone, possibly a giant computor, commit some major blunder and overlook some vital area?

No matter how necessary the higher price may have been, no matter how justified it was . . . and we have no way of knowing this . . . in the end it was the free play of the market that set the price. Anyone who doubts the effectiveness of free enterprise as opposed to state control should give this situation some serious thought.

A new approach

Dalton Camp's new approach to the question of leadership of the Conservative party poses a most interesting new picture for many Canadians, both in and out of the party. Whether the national president of the association should have the power to take issue with the party leader in the House of Commons has certainly not been questioned for many years, if ever.

To us, it seems ridiculous that any effort should be made to muzzle the president of the national association. Certainly he has not before been seen on the political stage, and this move may not be taken with this in mind. However, there surely must be some heavy responsibility on any president of any group. Mr. Camp feels the best interests of the association as a whole would be served by the replacement of Mr Diefenbaker, and had the courage to face his duty as he saw it.

We think he has done the Conservative party a service by his action. Whatever else you think about it, at least the party is still highly controversial. [illegible] thing could be worse than to allow it become a dead issue.

MacDuff Ottawa report

OTTAWA. — Dalton Camp, the stocky, dynamic and forthright president of the National Conservative Association, has at last brought into the open the subject that has been a private conversation piece in Ottawa for months. He has called for a re-confirmation or otherwise of present national leadership, adding that national leaders have no lifetime contract.

Mr. Camp's Toronto speech which he is repeating elsewhere has been taken as opposition to his own leader. This is true. The Tory president has never tried to hide his feelings that Mr Diefenbaker should step down though he has never used his official position to lead a revolt. He took over national directorship of the party in 1962 after an election which was the writing on the wall for the Diefenbaker government but in the months that followed kept himself clear of open dissensions.

His outspoken words following closely on Mr Diefenbaker's clear indication that he was not stepping down stemmed undoubtedly from a conviction that the time was ripe to cross swords with his leader and the results will be seen when the Association meets in November. So far Mr Diefenbaker has bested all enemies though hardly in the Lincoln tradition of making them friends. He could do so again.

But Mr Camp's remarks were not directed solely to his own party and leader. His words will also be heard by Liberals who meet in Ottawa on October 10. The leadership issue may not come into the open—certainly not for the same reasons that inspire dissident Tories. It would be hard to find a greater contrast in politics than the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition. But for very different reasons and from very different motives one characteristic has dogged both their governments—the stamp of indecision.

Mr Pearson, unrivaled as a leader in diplomacy and democracy, finds it difficult to force his will on anyone. Not only has this quality influenced his attitude to his own cabinet, it has influenced his cabinet's attitude [illegible] former Liberal government, more through the influence of its dominant figure, the late C. D. Howe, than that of Louis St. Laurent, was destroyed by its contempt of Parliament. The Pearson government if it continues in the direction in which it has been going, could be destroyed by Parliament. It is not alone its minority position in the House of Commons that has brought a super-sensitiveness to the will of Parliament though as Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp has said, lack of a strong majority has led the government to emphasize the responsibility of the opposition. It is a deep feeling that Parliament reflects the voice of the people which, of course, few Parliaments ever have.

The result is that the Liberal caucus rather than Cabinet is often the dictator of Government policy. The result has been legislative delay and the appearance of indecision, never seen more clearly than in the bill revising the Bank Act. Three times the Bill or its main points of controversy were shuttled between caucus and Cabinet before the Government could make up its own mind. To a lesser extent the same applied to Mr [illegible]gill's transportation [illegible]. And even when it [illegible] gained the blessing of Liberal members Government legislation is often little more than a [illegible] from which the Government will retreat in face of opposition.

There are reassuring indications that a change may be in the offing. The latest issue is Medicare. When Mr Sharp announced Government plans for containing inflation which included a one-year delay on Medicare he had the audacity to do so without having his speech approved in advance by the Liberal members. An open howl of protest from the back benchers followed. Then came demands addressed to the Prime Minister that a special meeting of caucus be called to decide whether the Government should or should not retreat from its Medicare stand. Those demands so far Mr Pearson has resisted. The battle has still to be joined. The regular meeting of caucus has been called for October 4 [illegible] can stop Medicare being the chief topic of discussion. But this time the Government may want the back benchers know that they are not running the country.

The federal government's stand on tax sharing with the provinces expounded to the Tax Structure committee of finance ministers last week is a complete reversal of the principal on which the proposals of 1964 were based. Following the recommendations of the Rowell-Sirois Commission the government of that day took the position that to use fiscal policy effectively in regulating the national economy it must have control of all direct taxation (personal income, corporation and estates taxes). It was ready to share the proceeds with the provinces but levels of taxation must be decided in Ottawa. When tax rental payments were replaced by tax abatement it was still on the assumption that it was one pie. Today the provinces get 25 per cent of personal income tax (Quebec 43 per cent) and about one quarter of corporation tax. The government has said there will be no further abatements, that Ottawa will not lower its taxes so that the provinces can raise theirs. But at the same time it [illegible] a gospel of fiscal independence with each province setting its own tax levels which is a complete denial of the economic theories of 20 years ago.

Trotter-Francis vows exchanged on June 25

Tofield United Church was the setting for a very pretty wedding Saturday evening, June 25th, when Josephine Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Francis, became the bride of Ward Barrymore Trotter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Trotter of Apsley, Ontario. The Rev. W. Klassen of Wetaskiwin officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave his daughter in marriage. Her floor-length gown was of white nylon chiffon over taffeta, with round neckline and lily-point sleeves. Pearls on lace medallions decorated the skirt and bodice. Her head-piece was a pearl and crystal crown with waist-length veil. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a white Bible on which were red roses with white ribbon streamers entwined with rosebuds.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Marian Foster of Belleville, Ontario, a close friend of the bride and bridesmaid was Miss Sharon Francis, the bride's cousin. They wore identical floor-length gowns of turquoise satin, with round necklines, fitted bodices, straight skirts and short sleeves. They wore long gloves, and their headpieces were pearl and crystal tiaras with turquoise net. They wore single strand pearls, and they carried white Bibles with Talisman roses with white ribbon streamers.

The groom's attendants were Neil Wease of Apsley, Ontario, friends of the groom as best-man and groomsman was Jack Francis of Edmonton, brother of the bride. Ushers were the bride's cousins Charles Rude and Glenn Francis.

Organist was Mrs. Reed Francis, a sister-in-law of the bride and soloist was Mrs. Garry Francis also a sister-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a two piece dress in figured beige with aqua and beige accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Grace King of Edmonton wore a grey suit with black accessories and corsage of white roses.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church parlors and was catered to by the United Church Women's Evening Group. Master of ceremonies was Lindsay Vogen of Edmonton, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Keith Francis had charge of the guest book and Mrs. Jack Francis of the gifts.

Great Williams of Calgary proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Jack Francis proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. During the reception two duet were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Garry Francis, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. Francis.

Out-of-town guests were from Apsley, Belleville and Mitchell, Ontario; White Rock, B.C., Calgary, Edmonton, Camrose, Wetaskiwin, Red Deer and Olds.

Mr. and Mrs. Trotter are making their home in Apsley.

Seven-tenths of a second

Photographed at 1,000 frames a second, motion pictures were made of an automobile striking a tree at 55 miles an hour, a speed most motorists consider "safe."

It's the kind of a crash that could happen to anyone. It's the kind that can be prevented.

In the test crash, dummies were used in the car. Their actions provided a vivid frightening picture.

The story below paints that picture of what happens in the split second when the car hits the tree.

Read it aloud for best effect.

ONE-TENTH OF A SECOND — Front bumper and chrome fronting of grill collapse. Hood slivers penetrate iron one-and-a-half inches.

TWO-TENTHS OF A SECOND — Hood crumples, rises, smashing into windshield. Spinning rear wheels leave the ground. Grill disintegrates. Fenders come into contact with the tree, forcing parts to splay out over the front door. Driver's body continues to move forward with a force of 30 times that of gravity. His body now weighs 3,300 pounds. His legs, held straight out snap at the knees.

THREE-TENTHS OF A SECOND — Driver's body now off the seat, torso upright. Plastic and steel frame of the steering wheel bend under his death grip. His head is near sun visor, his chest above steering column.

FOUR-TENTHS OF A SECOND — Car's front 36 inches is completely demolished but the rear end is still travelling at 25 mph. The half-ton motor block crunches into the tree.

FIVE-TENTHS OF A SECOND — Driver's hands bend steering wheel shaft. Lungs and intercostal arteries are punctured.

SIX-TENTHS OF A SECOND — Driver's feet are ripped out of laced shoes. The brake pedal shears off at the floor. Chassis bends in the middle. The driver's head smashes into the windshield. Rear of the car begins falling.

SEVEN-TENTHS OF A SECOND — The entire body of the car is forced out of shape. Hinges tear, doors spring open, seat frame forward pinning driver against steering shaft.

He is dead.

Dog trials . . .

Fish and Game Association and the County, reported Dr. Dunworth, and are very grateful. He pointed out the need for consideration and cooperation of the hunters, in order to be fair to all dogs, and observed the sudden instinct of a motor boat or other unnatural condition could upset some dog and destroy its chances.

Apart from this, the president said, visitors are welcomed at the meet, and breeders would be pleased to see a number of onlookers view the trials. In the main, he said, the association is composed of a number of pretty dedicated individuals, interested chiefly in improving the strains of retriever dogs, and in conservation of wildlife. There is no monetary prize for the winner, he pointed out, and only one dog is chosen . . . there are no seconds or reserve champions.

Last time the field trials came to Alberta was in 1958, when they were held at the Edmonton Beach area west of Edmonton. The trials move from province to province each year.

School committee meets Sept. 6

Following are the minutes, in part, of the meeting of Beaver No. 9 School Committee, held Tuesday, Sept 6.

In regards to the alterations at the Holden school Mr Bruce reports that the extensive renovations as contemplated had not been carried out and that the five will now had not been closed off. However permission to close the door had been received from the Fire Commissioner's office

It was moved and carried that the report be accepted

In regards to the teachers at Ryley the Committee was informed that the main part of the buildings were ready for occupancy Mr B uce stated that, as he did not think at the time that the basement suites in the duplex would be needed, he had told the contractor to proceed on the balance of the buildings. Some earth had been handed into the grounds around the buildings, but more was needed

Moved and carried that the report be accepted

In regards to Teacher Evaluation, the secretary-treasurer informed the Committee that an acknowledgement of the resolution had been received from the Hon R H McKinnon, Minister of Education.

Correspondence

A letter of appreciation from Miss Lou Riediger of Tofield for the opportunity of attending United Nations Seminar Seminars was read to the Committee.

Moved and carried that the letter be received and filed.

In regards to the Viking School Building Project, Mr. Symptomm and Mr Bruce reported that the " spec s as almost completed and only minor details remained to be taken care of and that classes had opened in the new rooms as scheduled on September 1.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted.

Garnet Barnstad, secretary-treasurer of the Village of Ryley, interviewed the Committee at this time regarding the skating rink This rink had been used quite extensively by the students of the Ryley school during the past few years Mr Barnstad stated that the rink was being rebuilt with an entirely new fence and was being levelled and built almost to standard specifications The cost of the material for the fence —8-inch plywood being used— would amount to $500 and on behalf of the Village Mr Barnstad requested some assistance from the County on this regard Members of the Lions Club would erect the fence and do the other work. The matter was fully discussed after Mr Barnstad retired, and it was decided that, if assistance was given to the Village of Ryley, assistance would also have to be given towards the operation of the skating rinks in the other Towns, Villages and Hamlets within the County if they were used by the Schools during Physical Education periods.

It was moved and carried that a grant of $200 be given to the Village of Ryley, Tofield Lions Club, Elks Club in Holden, Bruce Curling Club, Elks Club in Kinsella and the Viking Curling Rink Curlers to be used towards the operating cost of the skating rinks, providing the rinks are made available to the students of the various schools free of charge during school hours

The secretary-treasurer informed the Committee that Bill Landfair of Lavoy was offering $230 for the Woodside School located on N.E. 22 - 49 - 16 - W4th. This school had in 1956 been given to the Westside Committee and in January 1958 a Transfer of Title had been completed by the Holden School Division No. 17 and forwarded to the secretary of the Association However, the Transfer had never been registered. The secretary-treasurer had been contacted C. Bracha of Bruce, and a letter from him indicated that the Committee did not wish to retain the building and that the County could sell it.

However, it was felt that further information should be obtained from other people in the area, and it was moved and carried that the matter be referred to Cr. Dorin so that he may contact other people in the Community before a decision is made.

Messrs John Skolney, John Kalita, Peter Stefankyra, Peter Kryaka, Peter Kuiak and Joseph Kawaliak attended the meeting at this time in connection with the new bus routes at Bruce. The Superintendent mentioned that Mr Mueh au had discussed these routes with him and Mr Mueh au had been very strongly opposed to the bus routes and the busing arrangements as they had been set up. Mr. Skolney stated that the basic complaint was that the routes were too long; however, he stated that the people were prepared to see how the routes worked out. It was felt, though, that the buses that are taking the high school students in Holden, were having too long a route. Cr Dorin was of the opinion that some miles could possibly be cut off from one of these routes by using a small pick-up vehicle.

After some further discussion, it was moved and carried that the matter of the school bus routes in the Bruce area be left to Cr Dorin, the Superintendent of Schools and the Bus Supervisor to arrange the routes in a satisfactory manner.

The Superintendent of Schools' Report for the month of August was received in the Committee, the report being submitted in written form.

The following items were dealt with

Release from teacher contract Clement Power of Ryley and Dave Lockerbie of Bruce

Moved and carried that the release for these two teachers be approved

Moved and carried that transfer of Miss Susan Smith from Gr. 5 and 6 to High School in Ryley be approved, and transfer of Miss Eugenia Marquez to Gr. 5 and 6 in Ryley be approved

Moved and carried that the following appointments be approved: Mrs. Jean McGrory, Gr. 2, Viking; Mrs Carol Maxwell, Jr. High School, Viking; Floyd Irwin, Bus. Ed., Tofield.

The Committee was also advised that Miss Teresita Encarnacion, who was to arrive from Manilla to teach at Bruce school, had not yet arrived, and that Miss Norma Zwiers who was taking her grade until she arrives.

The report referred to the High School Programs, and Mr Bruce elaborated further on his suggestions in the correspondence in this regard.

He requested that the following action be taken

1. Removal of [illegible] upon Industrial Arts in Grade 9.
2. Approval for broadening the experiential offerings in Industrial Arts and Home Economics in High Schools. This action would affect to some extent the range of offerings in Junior High School

Moved and carried that the requests be approved

Permission was requested for sponsoring an Audio Visual Workshop in the County as early in the 1966-67 school year as possible. The Workshop would be of one day's duration with one or two teachers from each school attending the Workshop. It was also suggested that the County would provide the noon lunch and mileage for two cars

Moved and carried that permission be granted for the sponsoring of the Audio Visual Workshop as suggested by the Superintendent

Inquiries had been received from two parents inquiring into the possibility of their children attending the Veegreville Vocational High School It was decided that if these students are attending the Vegreville Vocational High School the County would pay the tuition fee plus $1.50 per day attended

Moved and carried the following bursary applications be approved: Charles Alexander Matheres, Ryley; Vivian Diane Carlson, Holden, Earl Lionel Hjelter, Ryley.

The Superintendent informed the Committee that Lorraine Stelwandt and Daniel Hart had asked permission to attend school on a half-time basis so that they could get the required number of credits. Mr. Bruce stated that he was aware of the fact that this had not been permitted up to this time, this being a policy of the School Committee It was mentioned that this had been established as policy because it was felt that if a student had some periods in the forenoon and some in the afternoon he could cause some disturbance to the other students, however, in the cases in question all the periods would be in the forenoons, hence, this factor would not enter into the picture

It was moved and carried that the motion, providing that students may not attend on half-time basis be rescinded, that each case be judged on its own merits, but that no student may remain at the school after his periods are completed.

Moved and carried that W. Coates be re-appointed as Band Master at Tofield for the current school year

Cr. Reddick reported in regards to the Viking school grounds; that they were now in fair condition, that the estimated cost of seeding the boulevards was some $1,100, and that he had only had part of it done this year at an approximate cost of $400.

Mr. Bruce reported that the roof on the older part of the Tofield school was leaking very badly and should be repaired

Moved and carried that the Maintenance Foreman be authorized to have the necessary repairs made

Moved and carried that Mr. Stinson be appointed to attend the Principals' meeting on September 28 at 2:30 p.m.

It was suggested that, as in prior years, school buses should be allowed to be kept on the farm where the bus driver as a farmer during harvest season.

Moved and carried that school buses operated by farmers be allowed to be kept at home during the months of September and October

F. Forre dies on Sunday

The sudden death of Ferdinand (Fernie) Forre occurred on Sunday, Sept. 25, at his home in Tofield. Death was apparently due to monoxide poisoning. He was 70 years of age.

Farming in the Palmer-Earling district for many years, Mr. Forre retired to Tofield three years ago. He is survived by his wife Annie and two sons, Clifford of Ryley and Harvey of Camrose, numerous other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral service for Mr. Forre was held Wednesday at the Skudesness Lutheran Church in the Earling district, with Rev. Palmer Olson of Bawlf officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. Hoveland's Funeral Home of Camrose was in charge of arrangements.

Zazula-McLachlan vows exchanged on July 29

A mid-summer wedding was solemnized at the Norwood United Church in Edmonton on July 29, when Lorraine Rae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McLachlan, became the bride of Sylvester Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zazula. Rev. Morrison officiated.

The bride approached the flower-decorated altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was a semi sheath of satin bonded net, with a train attached at the waist, and lily-point sleeves. A motif of lace was appliqued at the neckline and down the center front to the hem. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a flower, and her jewellery was a pearl necklace and matching earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of open-heart red roses, with streamers and rosebuds entwined.

The bridesmaids were Sharon Reinhardt, Betty Eglinski and Gayelle McLachlan, who wore identical gowns of turquoise green organza over taffeta, fashioned with an empire waist line with white lace top. Their matching headpieces were of flowers and net and jewellery were pearl drop necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride.

The groom was attended by Barry Trudgeon, Marvin Sawtski and Ernest Seminiuk.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McLachlan chose a dress of transparent organza over blue and aqua figured taffeta, with a matching coat. White accessories and a corsage of pink roses completed her ensemble. The groom's mother wore a two-piece dress fashioned of pink lace, with a corsage of pink roses and white accessories.

A reception was held in the Chipman National Hall for about 450 guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-layer cake, decorated to resemble a church, with red velvet steps, and a bride and groom at the steeple. This was flanked with white candles with red roses attached. Norman Schwartz acted as master of ceremonies, and Graham Snider proposed the toast to the bride. An evening of dancing followed.

Out of the province guests were the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jensen of Zeballos B.C., and the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Casmar Nonaricka, of Bosenger, Manitoba.

After a two-week honeymoon spent at Banff, Penticton and Kelowna, the happy couple took up residence in Edmonton.

On the Provincial Scene

By JOHN WARREN

I suppose it's about time to write something about what's going on in government and politics in Alberta since that's what this column is normally all about— and since I've ignored the subject for a couple of weeks to discuss strikes and holidays and things.

Maybe not surprisingly, a fellow finds out that there hasn't been all that much excitement in the conduct of Alberta's public affairs during the last month of summer.

However — a few items worth noting:

—The Alberta Automotive Retailers Association will ask for legislation to divorce oil companies from the service station business. The association has charged that oil company policies are discriminatory when it comes to prices and there is a wasteful over-investment in service stations.

—Four candidates have been nominated to contest the October 6 bye-election in Pincher Creek-Crowsnest. The vote will determine a successor to Bill Kovach who died this summer after nearly 20 years as the Social Credit member of the riding. Those trying to win the seat are: Garth Turcott, 38, a lawyer who will run under the New Democratic Party banner; Joseph Hanrahan of Lethbridge who will try to retain the riding for Social Credit; Benton Murphy of Cowley who represents the Liberals, and Alex Wells, 35, a chartered accountant from Blairmore who is the Progressive Conservative candidate.

—The Agriculture department says crop yields and quality in the province will be better than was expected. Grain harvesting is going well and the major problem seems to be one of storage. One southern farmer reported an unbelievable yield of 90 bushels an acre on one 15-acre field.

Weight limits that were increased on several provincial highways during the railway strike have been reduced again to normal.

—The public utilities board is hearing the Alberta Government Telephones' bid for its first rate increase in 40 years. The AGT expects to borrow $30,000,000 a year for the next five years to buy equipment and it predicts a loss of $4,000,000 for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

—Blackfoot Indians have voted 100 to 8 in favor of allowing liquor on their reserve. However, 382 potential voters abstained (from voting) or were absent so the result will be referred to Ottawa to see if it is binding.

—Premier Manning says the government will encourage any Alberta municipality to make a determined bid for the 1969 Canadian summer games. He didn't say whether financial aid would be given.

—Arthur H. Wakefield has been appointed Supervisor of Pensions by Labor Minister Ray Reierson. He will be responsible for the Pension Benefits Act which requires all pension plans to be registered and which will ensure stability in plans.

A public hearing is to be held in Camrose into the CNR's application to abandon passenger service between there and Drumheller.

—Mrs. Ethel Wilson, who is both an Edmonton alderman and a minister without portfolio in the Alberta cabinet, has decided not to run again for the city post. The decision has given rise to speculation that there may be something bigger in store for her in the provincial government.

—Dayliner service will be introduced on the Northern Alberta Railway between Edmonton and Dawson Creek this week and will soon be extended to McMurray.

—The deputy minister of health, Dr. M. G. McCallum, will retire next month.

We ought to get away from the stress and strain of every-day work to a place of quiet where the soul finds rest in communion with God.

Forty trailriders enjoy outing

Sunday morning a trail ride sponsored by the Tofield Gymkhana Club started at the East Gate of the Reserve near Jack Johnston's, at 9 a.m. with about 40 trailriders from Tofield and Camrose and district attending. They rode one trail across the reserve to the West side where they had lunch and a rest before returning by another trail through the reserve back to the starting point. The day was perfect for the ride and all report an enjoyable outing.

Newlyweds go to India on a CUSO assignment

Pink and white peonies graced the altar and white satin ribbons marked the pews of St. George's Anglican Church in Edmonton on June 25th, when Phyllis Lauber exchanged vows with Geoffrey Eaton Milligan of Bon Accord, Alberta. The Rev. Murdith McLean officiated, and Miss Barbara Kuhnke was at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother Leo Lauber, the bride was radiant in a traditional full-length gown of peau de soie with lace panels and fitted with a small train and lily-point sleeves. She wore a chapel-length veil and carried white rosebuds with stephanotis and ivy on a white Bible.

Miss Kay Kuhnke, maid of honor and Miss Shirley-Anne Knippleberg, bridesmaid were attired in full-length pink satin gowns with white lace overlays. They carried pink rosebuds on white Bibles. Miss Laurie Jane Macgregor, niece of the groom was the flower girl. Her full-length gown matched those of the maid of honor and bridesmaid, and she carried a basket of pink rosebuds and white baby 'mums.

Attending the groom were Micheal Stewart and Melvin, Stickland, both of Red Deer. Byron Lauber, brother of the bride and Richard Milligan, brother of the groom performed ushering duties.

During the signing of the register the soloist, Ben Lauber, brother of the bride sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride's mother was attired in a navy dress with pink roses en corsage and matching accessories, while the groom's mother chose a sky blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Following the ceremony many friends and relatives gathered at the Ryley Legion Hall for the reception. The bridal table was centred with a round, four-tiered wedding cake decorated by Miss Edith Wideman, aunt of the bride. Micheal Stewart acted as Master of Ceremonies and Murray Lauber, brother of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

For going away, the bride chose a three-piece suit of navy blue with red roses en corsage and white accessories.

Ejection major factor in auto crash deaths

Ten years ago, it was generally believed that a passenger in [illegible] had a better chance of escaping injury or death if he was thrown out of the vehicle on impact.

Police and crash crews from their experience at crash scenes, began to doubt this assumption and many came to the conclusion that it was less lethal to be "trapped inside" rather than "thrown clear".

Consequent research into this field, carried on by Cornell University, confirmed their suspicions and revealed some definite proof of the fallacy of earlier beliefs.

In a brief supplied to Dominion Automobile Association, these pioneer researchers give information which has changed thinking on this vital matter, and the Association's Mr. W. S. Chalmers, Director, Members Services, passes on this information to the Canadian motoring public.

Research definitely showed that the chance of injury or death in an auto crash is multiplied several times when a passenger is thrown out of the vehicle. Statistics divulge that the rate of fatalities as a result of ejection from a vehicle is approximately 16% while the rate for other accident causes (steering wheel, instrument panel and windshield) show a fatality rate of around 4% in accidents covered.

These findings have prompted auto manufacturers to institute ways and means to keep the passenger in the car following a crash and this has resulted in the almost universal use of Seat Belts and the installation of open-proof door latches on vehicles.

Mr. Chalmers points out that these findings give still another good reason to use your Seat Belts, which will keep you in Belts, which will keep you IN the vehicle in an accident, with only one third the risk of a fatal accident compared to an ejection from the car, in the same circumstances.

Gun Club notes

The Tofield Gun Club held their first annual shoot-off for the Warner-Thiessen Memorial Trophy on Sunday Sept. 25.

This trophy, donated by the members in memory of two deceased former members, is to be presented annually to the best all-round shot in the club. There are four divisions in the competition — shotgun, rim-fire rifle, handgun and big-game rifle, with equal points possible in each class.

Gordon Garford emerged as over-all winner, very closely followed by Arnie Klassen. These two members were tied at the end of regular scoring, and it was only on the fourth tie-breaking round that a winner could be declared, as the two competitors continued evenly matched through the first three tie-breaking circuits of the course.

An interesting highlight of the competition was the fact that Mr. Garford did not win a clear title in any one of the divisions, tieing for first in the big-game rifle class and placing lower in the other divisions. However, his high average over-all gave him a tie for first in the aggregate and he went on to win the beautiful trophy.

Another highlight of the afternoon was an informal competition between two of the club members shooting their muzzle-loading pistols, and two local archers. Larry Willson and Alan Warner edged out the archers, Reed Burchard and D. W. (Mudge) Jacobs, but after learning that it was the first time the bows and arrows had been used for 15 years, they conceded that with a bit of practice, the archery fans could make it really tough for the old guns. It is hoped that another such competition could be held in the future. Perhaps others with a yen for bow and arrow shooting will get together with Mr. Jacobs and Mr Burchard and revive the interest in archery that started here some years ago.

Several of the gun club members had a try with the longbow and found it to be quite interesting. Perhaps the club could expand its interests to include this sport, sometime in the future.

In the trapshoot that wound up the day, Geo. Thiessen scored a perfect round of 25 straight hits, the first time a local member has ever hit this magic number. George will be receiving a crest from CIL for his achievement.

The County of Beaver No. 9 has made a grant of $200.00 to the Tofield Lions Club providing that school pupils are allowed free skating during school hours. This is also being done for Clubs in all the towns and villages in the County.

Right to s trike

OTTAWA. — The Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act has been on the Statute Book unchanged since 1948. Of few things affecting the Canadian way of life can that be said and above all anything which purports to affect relations between management, labour and the general public.

The principles of law embodied in the Act is actually older than the statute. The 1948 legislation was, in most respects, almost identical with the wartime regulation controlling industrial relations. Both regulation and Act, in turn, embody the principles contained in the Act of 1907 when the late Mackenzie King was Federal Deputy of Labour. These can be summarized as follows:

1. The public should not suffer from hasty or ill-considered strikes or lockouts.
2. There should be no strike or lockout until the process of compulsory conciliation has been completed.
3. Public opinion is the strongest influence in bringing reason on both sides.

But through the 60 years of labour legislation Canadians have protected the right to strike until it has become sacrosanct. Only by special acts of Parliament have strikes been prevented or stopped and by these on very infrequent occasions.

A task force is now being formed by the Government under Dean H. D. Woods of McGill University to look at labour relations and labour laws in Canada and to modernize principles and processes. The big question that Dean Woods and the task force which he has still to gather around him must answer is how long or how widely the right to strike can be retained.

In Mackenzie King's day the answer was much simpler. The late Prime Minister held strongly that private rights must cease when they become public wrongs, but in those days the field in which this was likely to happen was very narrow. By 1948 it had grown considerably, but [illegible] in essential [illegible] still considered to be controllable. The most essential of industries, the railways, had been able to settle dispute with one exception, though a pattern of Prime Ministerial intervention had emerged which was often costly to the taxpayer and CPR shareholder, if not to the economy. It had almost been [illegible] that there would never [illegible] a general rail strike when, through bungling by both sides, it happened in 1950. Parliament was called, [illegible] to work [illegible] compulsory arbitration imposed.

The 1950 legislation set the precedent for that of this year. The 1966 bill, passed again in record time by an emergency session, has convinced thoughtful labour leaders that no lengthy rail strike can or will be allowed. But the 1966 legislation has shown three things, all of them disturbing:

1. Public opinion is not a strong influence in bringing reason. If it exerts any influence on labour leaders it exerts none on the rank and file. Wildcat strikes preceded the general walk-out. Wildcats continued after Parliament had ordered the men back.
2. Parliamentary authority may be far less than we think. It was fear that the men would not obey the order, not fear of Opposition within Parliament which led the Government to write an inflationary settlement into the law before providing machinery for an arbitrated further wage increase.
3. The whole procedure for conciliation written into the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act is entirely outmoded. It is designed to delay and provide an orderly road to the final strike action. Experience has shown that the frustrations [illegible] in the [illegible] merely to deadlocks and increase the chances of illegal walk-outs. Conciliation boards can take an interminable time, sometimes deliberately, to report.

[illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible]. This has [illegible] of automation by job security, a very vital factor in the rail dispute and one which is not covered in the present law. There are a number of other matters bordering on social security that, so far, have been left [illegible] bargaining but which can bring stalemates and [illegible].

Within the [illegible] the Federal [illegible] service the Government is dealing courageously and imaginatively with the basic issue of the right to strike. Bill 170 [illegible] has passed second reading in the House of Commons and is now before a Parliamentary committee has denied the right to strike to any public servant whose services are necessary in the interest of the safety or security of the public. To other civil servants it gives the option of conciliation procedure and possible strike action or referral of the dispute to arbitration, but this option must be exercised when the bargaining unit is formed and the agency certified and cannot be changed later.

The legislation also gives authority to the Public Service Staff Relations Board (counterpart of the Canada Labour Relations Board) to determine appropriate units for collective bargaining and an appropriate bargaining agency. The same power is given the CLRB but has never been used. If the union can show a majority membership it is certified.

Dean Wood and his team will undoubtedly take a long look at this legislation in seeking a pattern for new labour law.

History repeats

You almost have to have reached middle age to be able to recall when Alberta levied its own income tax, separate from that of the Dominion Government. Yet history repeats itself, and citizens can gear for the unwelcome and possibly complex program of filing a separate return to Edmonton next year.

This was revealed last night in an announcement by Premier Manning that an emergency session of the Legislature would be called likely in November to discuss special legislation covering income tax. The provincial agreements with Ottawa are running out, and it seems there is little likelihood of renewing them.

Thus do we move into our centennial year, facing a nation bound on weakening the central authority, and beefing up the strength [illegible] provinces. Whatever else it spells, the taxpayer can be certain of at least one thing . . . it doesn't spell any reduction in taxbills.

Human nature

Doesn't it seem odd that in a period when so many Canadians are enjoying the highest standard of living they have ever known there should be so much and so general unrest on the labor front?

Is it just human nature that everyone wants to get on the gravy train? Is it a case of "gittin' all you can while the gittin's good?" Or is it perhaps part of the deterioration of civilization so long foreseen by the communists and others, of history repeating itself?

The malaise covers just about the entire scope of the community: tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor, doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief, . . . It isn't only the postmen, or the seaway workers. The electricians want more, too. So do the television program crews. Teachers are reaching up and up. And the doctors, who for years have headed the national income scale, have to increase fees to keep their lead.

Surely the government can't heed the request of the labor unions to legalize mass violence in picketing, which is the only meaning the public can derive from the insistence on the elimination of injunctions restraining pickets. Surely the government has an obligation to the other citizens in any community or the country as a whole, to see that their legal rights are not infringed on by unprincipled or wanton actions.

Where the strike weapon used to be considered the ultimate, dread implement to be used only as a last resort, now it is considered little more serious than signing a new contract, or possibly changing jobs.

When services to the nation as a whole can be withdrawn with so little real provocation, and often on minority vote, should the government not protect the rights of citizens by seeing to it they have access to other channels of supply, even if on occasion this means the import market. Manufacturers are being urged to govern their operations in accord with the national welfare, as witness for instance the steel industry, and also the automobile parts industry.

It seems logical the restraint should also be on some other members of the team.

Deathknell for scooters?

Is the scooter craze likely to wind up as a memory of just one more short-lived fad? Suggestions that the age for licensing be raised to 18 would make us guess this would be their fate. By the time young people reach 18, they're more interested in the extra carrying capacity of four-wheeled vehicles, and, of course, they're well past the legal age for operating one of them.

Biggest problem with the small motor bikes is that the public refuses to let them be small. On their first introduction, they were hardly faster than a good cyclist could get out of his bicycle, but they introduced a vastly different concept, particularly for getting around suburbia in the larger metropolitan centres.

As the move spread, so did the demand for more power, more speed, more thrills, until the inevitable happened, and they developed into a community menace. The record of tragedy isn't nearly so serious in Camrose as it is in either Calgary or Edmonton, but goodness knows it's serious enough.

The hue and cry over the problem has prodded the government into taking a long look at them, and there seems little doubt the legal age will be raised, so that insistence will be placed on less power, possibly coupled with speed governors.

It doesn't seem likely the noise problem will be reduced, but it's probable fewer accidents will follow in the end . . . and that's the chief concern.

Preventing strikes

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture and other groups have petitioned the federal government to introduce a method of adjudicating and settling labor disputes without permitting stoppages of work in key industries vital to the welfare of the people as a whole.

This is not an unreasonable or biased idea aimed at the rights of either labor or industry but a sensible suggestion that could bring results beneficial to everyone.

When two individuals or organizations become involved in a dispute, no matter how vital the issue is to either one, they are not permitted to conduct their differences either verbally or physically in a manner or place that will interfere with the affairs of others. They are forced to use [illegible] process of law that will make [illegible] and binding decisions.

Most corporations and their employees are servants of the people commissioned to perform certain services and functions vital to the nation. Their involuntary cessation of these functions inflicts serious and unwarranted [illegible] and hardship upon the innocent bystanders of the nation.

It is only normal to the supposed intelligence of modern civilization that such disputants, like any other, be ordered to submit their disagreements to a competent court where their merits will be decided by their peers. Both sides should be subjected to equal economic penalties pending the settlement of the case so that it is to the advantage of both to reach a settlement.

RIMBEY JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS

represented by

BERNIE BARTKO and GREG TROITSKY

The enterprising Rimbey Junior High School students spend many hours selling magazine subscriptions — but not for their own profit. They are earning money to help children in Korea, Italy and Zambia. For six years they have shown an exceptional sense of responsibility in supporting two foster children, Kim Jung Kun of South Korea and Ottavia Tollis of Italy. Also, for the past two years, they have provided the money for six Zambian children to continue their education. In the past year alone they have contributed nearly five hundred dollars to these needy children.

This unselfish giving of their time and money makes these boys and girls worthy winners of this year's Junior Citizen of the Year Group Award.

We congratulate the Rimbey Junior High School students and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor owned electric utility companies.

Centennial report

by JOHN W FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

A few weeks ago I wrote about the Confederation Train and the Centennial Caravans which will be criss-crossing Canada during the summer months of 1967 with exhibits of Canadiana.

During the second week of June we had test-run, set-up and dismantling trials for the Caravans at communities in the Ottawa area. It was quite an exciting operation—almost like a big army test exercise.

The first eight enormous tractor trailers—the largest vehicles ever to be used extensively on North American roads—travelled all the way to Ottawa from Calgary where the vans were made by the Alberta Trailer Company. The eight 73-foot vehicles represented one of the eight Caravan units which will visit more than 700 Canadian communities in Centennial Year.

While the trailers were not decorated on the outside nor did they contain interior exhibits for the trials there was much exacting work to be done.

The setting up of a Caravan on site is like putting a giant Mechano set together. First the drivers must be able to bring the huge vehicles to the site, squeezing around tight corners, through underpasses and under wires, move the vans into a quadrangle formation on site and then move the tractors.

Drivers — there will be 32 of them specially trained and under contract for the eight Caravans in 1967 — must be able to park the vans with the skill of a precision machinist so that matching ramps and bridges can be placed quickly to connect the vans on site. (This ramp arrangement allows Centennial visitors to move easily through the huge trailers and view the exhibits in a complete sequence).

Outside the trailers, in the quadrangle, large tridesic forms go up next (tubular steel triangle construction) on which will be placed the external exhibits. When the set-up job is done—in about two hours' time—the complete set is on site ready for a colorful Centennial community fair.

On hand for the trials at Ottawa were observing officials of numerous organizations which will be involved with the Caravans—provincial police of several provinces, the RCMP which will have security officers with the units in 1967, fire marshals, members of the Defense Production Department, the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, the St. John Ambulance Corps, the Chrysler company which provides the tractors, and so on.

On the highways the Caravan units will travel in convoy 300 feet apart to allow traffic to pass easily. In convoy travel they will be under police escort at all times. A convoy will be a mile long. One tractor alone with trailer is almost equal to eight car-lengths.

So the arrival of a Centennial Caravan in your community must go unnoticed very easily. Your local Centennial organization will be announcing the date of arrival well ahead of time anyway.

Be sure to visit the Caravan for a great display of interesting and entertaining exhibits about Canada. There is something for the whole family to see.

Gilchrist-Nord wedding solemnized August 6th

Vases of summer flowers decorated the altar of Calvary Lutheran Church, Edmonton, August 6, for the candlelight wedding of Carol Elaine Nord and Garry Robin Gilchrist.

The bride, who is the elder daughter of Mr. Carl Nord and the late Mrs. Violet Nord of Ryley, attended the University of Alberta and is presently on the staff of Parkdale School, Edmonton. The groom, who is the younger son of Mrs. Lela Gilchrist and the late Mr. Donald Gilchrist of Castor is completing his Master of Civil Engineering degree at the University of Alberta.

In a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. H. Olson, Pastor, Elaine was escorted to the altar by her father. She was beautiful in a simple floor-length gown of silk norganza with a semi-train, featuring lace and seed-pearl tiara and waist-length veil. Her only jewellery was a pearl pendent and matching earrings, a gift of the groom, and she carried a massed bouquet of American Beauty roses, trailing white streamers and rosebuds.

Elaine was preceded down the aisle by her three attendants. Acting as bridesmaid was her close friend, Gail Lauber, while Gayle Gilchrist and Dolores Nord sisters of the groom and bride, respectively, were bridesmaid and maid-of-honor. They were dressed in identical pink silk worsted floor-length sheaths with Kabuki (lantern) sleeves, featuring split-front court coats accented by shoulder bows. Each wore a sterling silver and pearl pendent with matching earrings, a gift of the bride, and carried a bouquet of summer daisies.

Peter Dibski, friend of the groom was best man, while Donald Gilchrist, brother of the groom, and Dale Wetter, friend of the groom, both from Calgary acted as ushers.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Gilchrist chose a three-piece sky blue lace suit with white accessories, and pink rosebuds and baby chrysanthemums on corsage.

The Wedding March was played by Bonnie Bap'iste, and during the service Sharlene McColl sang "The Wedding Prayer". Later, during the signing of the register, she sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Perfect Love". [illegible] hundred guests passed through the receiving line at the Faculty Club, on the University of Alberta Campus, prior to the reception. Mavis Graftaas was in charge of the guest book. A cousin of the bride, Rev. Laverne Hoveland of Lake Alma, Saskatchewan, asked the blessing. Master of ceremonies was Bryce Woodrow of Castor, who read several congratulatory telegrams and called upon Roy Findlay of Calgary, Elaine's godfather, to propose the toast to the bride. The groom responded excellently following which Peter Dibski proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. Elaine and Garry then cut their three-tier wedding cake made and decorted by Elaine's godmother, Mrs. Ruth Bratrud, and served it to their guests.

Out-of-town guests were present from Castor, Ryley, Tofield, Hinton, Elk Point, Camrose, Lethbridge, Holden, Westlock, Bawlf, Carstairs, Red Deer, and Calgary.

For their wedding trip to California the bride donned a medium-blue Italian knit suit, with navy blue patent accessories, and yellow sweetheart roses on corsage. Following their return, the happy couple will reside at Apartment 203, 3806 - 87 Ave., Edmonton.

BUTTER TIPS

Salted butter is best for savouries but unsalted is preferable for sweet dishes. Some recipes call for melted butter. Melt it by leaving the butter in a small pan near but not actually on the heat, so that it melts gently.

A few spots of cooking oil added to butter when frying foods will prevent the butter from becoming dark in color.

Fluoride safe, sound says Health League

Following several questions raised about fluoridating the wawter supply of Tofiled, and objections forwarded by some people, The Mercury sought authoritative answers either to support or refute the objections. The Health League of Canada was asked to answer three questions; specifically, whether there is any significant difference for human consumption bteween sodium fluoride and calcium fluoride, whether there is any difference between naturally or artificially fluoridated water, and whether there is any known long-term deleterious or toxic effects on humans from the drinking of fluoridated water. The Health League's answer follows:

Dear Mr. MacLean:

I acknowledge receipt of your letter and note that Tofield is facing a fluoridation plebiscite on October 19.

It is good to know that The Tofield Mercury supports this well-proved public health measure and that you have been using our release of June 30, 1964 quoting Dr. Gordon Bates.

Since that date new facts have come to hand and these, together with the old, have been compiled into a kit of fluoridation information. One of these kits is going to you under separate cover today. It is hoped that it will provide much of the background material you require. However, I will deal briefly with your three specific questions.

(a) Sodium fluoride is much more easily dissolved in water than is calcium fluoride and is often used for fluoridation, especially in the smaller places. Two other compounds of the element fluorine widely used for this purpose are sodium silicofluoride and the liquid fluoride H2SIF6. There is no difference in effect among these compounds when used for fluoridation as it is the fluoride ion which has the physiological effect, and this electrically charged particle is only given off after dissolution. The choice among compounds is governed by accessibility, ease of operation and various cost factors.

(b) From the above it will be seen that there is no difference in the effect on people when fluoride is added to the water supply by nature or by man. Nearly all water contains some fluoride naturally present, but most waters are low in it. Fluoridation is simply an upward adjustment of the fluoride content to the recommended level of one part fluoride per million parts of water.

(c) There are no known deleterious effects or toxicity on humans from the long-term drinking of water containing fluoride at one part per million. I have as authority for this statement a research advisor to this committee: Dr. Ralph C. Burgess, Research Associate in the Division of Dental Research and Assistant Professor in the Department of Preventive Dentistry, Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. Dr. Burgess is holder of a dental research scholarship of the National Research Council of Canada.

Yours sincerely,
Lloyd H. Bowen,
National Fluoridation Committee,

Executive Secretary.

Modern etiquette

Q. I would appreciate your comments on the art of correct handshaking.

A. Avoid the limp, "wet dishrag", or "dead fish" type of handshake — but avoid also the bone - crushing, vise - like handshake which can be painful to the other person, and especially if he is wearing a ring. Also to be avoided are the pump - handle technique, and the refusal-to-let-go manner which is supposed to express great ardor. A good solid kind of handshake is at elbow level, and is firm, but brief.

Q. What sort of gift does a bride give to her groom?

A. She usually chooses something permanent and handsome for his personal use — a watch, cuff links, or a smartly - fitted travelling case are all useful and important gifts.

Q. Should the used silverware be gathered up before removing the plates from the dinner table?

A. No; the silver should be left on the plates, and all removed from the table together.

Q. Is it all right to phone one's thanks to a person for sending flowers?

A. All right, if done promptly—but still better is a handwritten note.

Q. What general rule of good taste is involved in a well - set dinner table?

A. Simplicity. The well - set table bears the least number of pieces possible. The over-burdened table is in poor taste, as is also the table that is over-decorated.

HINTS ABOUT HATS FOR WINTER WEAR

According to experts who judged the millinery at the CNE this year, the latest styles are tailored and feature bright colors and plush fabrics like velvet. Long-haired fabrics are out, but fur hats will again be popular this winter. They look best with fabric coats. Fur coats need the lift of a colored fabric for contrast.

Winning entry at the CNE was a turban in swirls of white peau de soie and white/gold brocade.

He should get it right and get it this fall. New 34% Granular Ammonium Nitrate by Elephant Brand is available only through your Elephant Brand dealer. Cominco produces Canada's only granular ammonium nitrate; the only one with 34% nitrogen. It gives more plant food per spreader load, which means fewer stops. It is non-caking and flows evenly for uniform application.

And consider this: New 34% granular ammonium nitrate is now being used in making Elephant Brand 23-23-0 and 27-14-0. Result—products made up entirely of firm, uniform granules that stay uniform and flow evenly through any applicator.

Grads of '14

More than half a century ago this Bardo group formed nearly half the second graduating class at Camrose Lutheran College. Meeting in Camrose recently when Herman Peterson, right, returned for a visit, the group renewed memories of the class of 1914, which had only nine members, all of whom registered first in the old Heatherbrae Hotel before the College building even was commenced. Left to right are George Hendrickson, Camrose; Mrs. Minnie (Olafson) Olson, Camrose; Mrs. Carol ne (Olafson) Hall, Camrose, and Herman Peterson, Everett, Washington. Both the Hendricksons and the Olafsons lived in the Bardo district where they were among the first families to settle. Mrs. Hall was the first girl ever to register at the College, while her sister, Mrs. Olson, was second in line.

Commons box office

OTTAWA—The House of Commons, now starting the last lap of the session, may revive some of the box office appeal that brought long waiting lines outside its doors during earlier debates. The Munsinger affair, top attraction so far, is still with us. Far from bringing any finality to the case the Spencer report has merely produced another political hot-bed.

For John Diefenbaker, his leadership severely challenged within the Tory ranks, the report could prove a two-edged document. He has exercised the limits of a royal commission by asking the Supreme Court of Canada to answer several perplexing questions that would make it easier for him to leave the whole thing alone. But, more than a lifetime backbencher under pressure, stands a much better chance of getting off the November hook.

However, Medicare and other issues take the spotlight on centre stage, however, the real work of the session will, more than usual, be carried on in the wings. Three major Parliamentary committees will be working—and time, two of them all-important, may be the most valuable day for the next two months.

The joint Senate-House of Commons committee on Consumer Credit, transformed, at least until October 25th, into a Prices Committee is going to have an interim report before the end of the year. It is starting out with a very sense of urgency in the light of rising living costs which are likely to rise for at least another six months. Its examination of price and mobility by commodity will be interrupted when the Economic Council of Canada makes its annual report late this month. The theme of this year's review is price stabilization in years of prosperity and it will be referred to the Committee for study. At that point it is expected that labour, industry and consumer organization will be heard.

A former committee of the Senate in 1959 produced a report which concluded that objectives of high employment, price stability and adequate growth were not fully compatible. Until the early part of the year this conclusion appeared to lend water. Then the Commons Prices rose sharply followed by a series of wage settlements in real or avoid strikes, which were not conducive to containing inflation. The Senate - Commons committee will have to come forward with something more constructive than its predecessor.

A second committee that will be holding almost daily sittings will be that on Transport and Communications under the chairmanship of the energetic 25-year-old Hamilton lawyer, Joseph Usarchuk. Here the issues raised by Transport Minister Pickersgill's revolutionary five-part bill dealing with railways, interprovincial trucking and commodity problems will be thrashed out. A lively the stack of briefs is piled high and it will take at least two months to hear witnesses. Organizations to be heard range from the railways to farmer's unions, from provincial governments to truckers, from the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to Shell and other oil companies concerned over the regulation of future east-mountain pipelines.

So far there are only seven of these pipelines operating. The largest, 34 miles, is in Wes ern Canada and uses natural gas to carry hydrogen sulphide Anstaur at Copper Cliff, Ontario, carries concentration in a water mixture But commodity pipelines are a coming form of transportation and Canada's new Transport Commission will have the job of regulating them.

The main section of the Bill dealing with railways may have less opposition than had been expected. Line abandonment as the West, the most controversial issue, may have been resolved by the Government's decision to freeze a 17,000-mile network of lines on the Prairies against abandonment until 1975. This means that, until then, applications can be made for abandonment of only some 1,000 miles of line by the committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs will be tackling the massive revision of the Bank Act, a job that will keep it busy for at least two months.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULES

Payments to Western farmers for wheat in the first six months of 1966 constituted 64 per cent of all Canadian farm income from crops and nearly 25 per cent of farm income from all sources. At $358.8 million for the three Prairie provinces they were well ahead of the same period last year and only 94% million below the 1964 record. Saskatchewan farmers alone collected $218 million during the six months.

The Prairie wheat crop is now officially estimated at 410 million bushels. Saskatchewan with 65 per cent of the Prairie crop produced 268 million bushels; Alberta, 109 million bushels, and Manitoba, 35 million bushels. Average yield per acre is 27.5 bushels.

Canada's exports of fully manufactured goods for the first six months of 1966 totalled $622.4 million, 46 per cent higher than last year. They now account for one-fifth of Canada's total exports.

Latest available estimates of unemployment (August) indicate that jobs are becoming slightly harder to find. While the exodus of teen - agers from the labour force returning to school kept the figure below the previous months, there was an increase of 6,000 among job seekers over 25 and an increase of 12,000 above August last year. The winter is likely to bring higher unemployment than has been seen in the past two years.

Centennial report

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

For a long time I have been making casual use of the term "birthday party" when talking about our Centennial of Confederation in 1967. Let me warn you one must be careful.

I haven't heard from the Vikings of course but at least one member of every other race or cultural group which has had pre-Confederation roots in Canada has been my ear on the subject of the true birth date of Canada. They include English, Scottish, Jewish, Irish, French and American Canadians. They were all here before 1867.

There was a Canada, the argument goes before Confederation. The fact is there was more than one.

When in Newfoundland one also contends that John Cabot discovered Canada in Quebec the view that Jacques Cartier did, drawn considerable support from Nova Scotians and New Brunswickers remind us that Champlain came here before he visited Quebec. Canadian Indians, of course, can discount the lot of our claims.

Most disputes I have heard are good-natured ones. I am happy to say it is only to a few that I need explain that the "birthday" celebrations next year are to mark the 100th anniversary of the Confederation that made Canada a federal state. Viewed in history when Canada really was "born" perhaps can be discussed with any real logic by geologists and astronomers — separately of course.

When that step was taken in 1867 to make Canada a single federal state out of the colonies of Confederation part are arriving to do penance that Holland and Belgium and Hungary Denmark, Germany, Russia and Poland) only accomplish by attempting to see not great deal of thankfulness that we have found a better way? Can there be a history find a parallel?

In this world there have been a few other federal states formed, without war, since our Confederation in 1867 — none of the modern examples unfortunately have come apart again.

The birth of our Confederation was an event like no other in history. Confederation has continued successfully for 1st years and the 100th is worth celebrating. I'm sure

When I stopped you for speeding-

(By a Traffic Cop)

I am the kind of cop you don't like. I'm touch. When I stop you on the highway I don't give you a break.

Why? Because I know that the easiest I let you off is costs you the ...

Take this lady I just stopped. She was going 75 miles an hour in a 55 over the limit. By the time I pulled into the parkway and got my patrol car up to her speed, she had a big lead on me. It took me 10 minutes to overtake her.

She was a middle-aged woman in her early thirties. She smiled at me and said, "Oh, officer I'm sure I wasn't speeding."

"You were 15 miles over the limit," I said. "I'd call that speeding, wouldn't you."

Well you ought to be, to act like I did. I look back on it as the most ... I've ever had to do in my career.

I handed her my ticket. "Oh, what a terrible thing to do," she exclaimed. "But you will please ..."

"Lady, you're wasting your breath," I told her.

"Why be so harsh?" she said. "I mean I've got passengers were supposed to be on time."

"Oh, lady, I'm a touch cop ... I'm a cop who ... I'm a cop who ... I'm a cop who

Ferdinand Forre passes suddenly September 25

(Mrs. Joe Knudsen)

PALMER-EARLING, Oct. 7th —The family and community were shocked Sunday, Sept 25th, by the sudden passing from a heart attack of Ferdinand Julius Forre, better known as Fernie. He was 70 years.

He was a prominent farmer in the Palmer-Earling, Gladstone and Likeness districts, until two years ago when upon retirement he moved to Tofield to reside.

He was a hard worker and a son of the soil, turning many a new sod with eight horses and later on with tractor; and as a thresher, threshed the golden grain for himself and neighbors. He had many friends due to his friendly disposition.

In 1918, Mr. Forre served with the Canadian Army in Calgary. Later he was employed in Saskatchewan for Pastor S. Westby who also farmed. In 1919, he homesteaded in Grande Prairie, walking all the way from Edson to Valhalla Centre, to file his claim, there being no train service then.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Anna Forre, two sons and their wives and five grandchildren, three brothers and two sisters; plus many nieces and nephews, and a host of friends.

Sympathy goes to the bereaved family from the entire community.

It doesn't pay to get up too early in the morning! You may think that it's the early bird that gets the worm and all that, but in the Provost district all you end up with is a wrecked car. At 7.30 one morning Councillor L. Hochhausen of Provost was out checking up on the clean-up of a gravel pit and while he was talking things over with the foreman in charge of the job, the operator of the big "cat" misjudged his distance from the councillor's car and while attending to many other details in the clean-up operation walked his "cat" up one side of the councillor's car. To say that it scratched the paint job would be an under-statement. The Councillor says he didn't expect it, because after all the car and the "cat" are supposed to be on the same side. The Provost News says, "We would dearly love to report with a straight face that the "cat" driver's comment was "Sorry about that, Chief"".

The Brooks Bulletin recently reported that the gallant conduct of two gentlemen turned out to be not quite as gallant as they had hoped. Andy Ulrick and Jack Hale were escorting Mrs. Hale to the Bassano wedding of the Hales' granddaughter and being a bit late they did not inquire where the church was located but drove around until they found a church with a lot of decorated cars in front and marched in and took over some choice seats. Things went well until the bride's father went up to give the bride away and they discovered it was not the bride they came to see nuptialated—nor yet the son the Hales had come to see give the bride away! After a three-way whispered conference they decided they were at the wrong wedding in the wrong church—but how to get out, gracefully or otherwise? ? Fortunately the minister gave out with a long and forceful prayer during which the "Terrific Trio" made their exit with bated breaths and red faces, and arrived at the right wedding just in time to be too late to see the right bride given away.

"Nobody has explained to our satisfaction the fact that each Friday night is 'social night' in the farm areas of this district", comments The Innisfail Province. "It is a fact, however, that in the farming areas there are more dances, meetings and family gatherings on Friday night than any other night of the week. We like to think that the establishment of Friday as Social Night in the farming areas is a throw back to the days of the 'Little Red School House'. It is easy to imagine the young teacher and her senior pupils each Friday afternoon preparing the Little Red School for an evening shindig. The desks had to be moved, wax placed on the floor for dancing and, in the winter, extra fuel placed in a handy spot. Many of the old-timers can well remember the excitement of a dance, meeting or social evening in the 'Little Red School House' on Friday nights about a quarter of a century ago".

It was too good to last, but while it did the students of Alix High School were content. Arriving on the first day for another year of study the pupils were greeted by a sign which read: "To Students—POSITIVELY No Admittance at any time for any reason. Signed, The Principal". The Lacombe Globe explains that the reason lay in the fact that the contractor had not been able to complete the new school on time, but by the following Tuesday "classroom studies started in earnest".

AND UNTIL NEXT WEEK: —

The only trouble with this four-day week they keep talking about, is that some of us don't want to work that much.

The Best Laid Plans

by C. J. Harris

A bureaucrat is a hard man to unseat even at the lowest level, the Soviet government is finding out. More than a year ago to put more food on Soviet tables Moscow ordered a change in agricultural policies. That decision, complains the party magazine Kommunist, is still being sabotaged by local, old-line officials.

While he was in power, former Premier Khrushchev proposed to double farm production by a vast expansion of the country's chemical fertilizer industry. At the same time, however, he imposed some restrictions on the use of private farm plots. Khrushchev's successors reversed that latter ruling and ordered that, after finishing their chores on the state's collective farms, farmers should be allowed to work on their own small holdings. The more they could raise and sell from their own plots the more they could profit and the more food that would be available to the public. In effect, this was a reinstatement of a right won by farmers back in 1939 — a policy that has been embarrassing to Communist officials because the private plots have always produced more food per acre than the state's collective farms.

But the best laid plans, the party magazine reveals, can easily go awry. Farmers who legally sell products from their private plots have been denounced by local officials as economic speculators. In other cases local officials have illegally restricted farmers from obtaining the fodder they need for livestock raised on their small holdings. Some farmers have been illegally forced to sell products from their own plots in order to fulfill state farm quotas.

Once entrenched, a bureaucracy does not easily forego its position of power and privilege

Modern etiquette

Q. My wedding is to be a very small and informal one, with only a few relatives and friends in attendance. Under these circumstances, would it be proper for me to wear the traditional white bridal veil?

A. The white bridal veil is always in order, no matter what the size of the wedding—provided, of course, that it is the bride's first marriage.

Q. One of my women friends recently had new personal stationery printed, which includes not only her name and address, but her phone number. Is this considered proper?

A. Telephone numbers have no place on personal stationery—only on business stationery.

Q. Is it correct to pour gravy from a gravy pitcher, or must one use a gravy ladle?

A. Either way is correct.

Winning battle on the 'Drip'

Materials for sheathing the inside of the curling rink have arrived, the scaffolding is built—now the cry is "Give us the men, and we'll finish the job", says 'boss carpenter' Sam Mostowich.

Any and all able bodied men are asked to get in touch with Gabe Pittet or Elmer Googlein to arrange for working time schedules. In addition to hammer and saw men, others are required for painting and clearing away for the deadline which is set for November 15th.

Solve a Crime

BY A.C. GORDON

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You have been working hard for the past several weeks in an effort to track down a ring of jewelry thieves. Late this afternoon an employee of a car-parking garage has phoned you with the information that while servicing a car brought in earlier this afternoon he has discovered a package fastened with tape under one of the rear fenders. Upon arriving at the garage, you find that the package does contain some stolen gems—but none of the employees of the garage is able to tell you anything about who drove the car into the place. So, you decide to stay and keep watch over the vehicle and its incriminating cargo.

When midnight arrives, no one has come to claim the car, and Sam Borden, the manager of the garage, comes to your hiding place behind one of the other cars and tells you he is closing the place for the night, and he suggests that you return the following morning when they open. You state you will remain there for the night on the possibility that the criminal might return and break into the place.

After an hour or so in the inky darkness, you suddenly hear the one big door leading into the room grate eerily as its slides slowly open, and then just as noisily close. Footsteps approach! You flash your light suddenly on a man's startled face. He whips out a gun and fires a shot that whistles uncomfortably near you.

"Hold it! I've got you covered!" you shout as he blinks in the blinding beam of your flashlight. He drops his gun and peers silently in your direction.

"What's going on here?" The sound of running feet, and then Sam Borden trots into the circle of your beam.

"I decided to come back to the place here," he explains hurriedly. "Just as I came in the front door I heard the shot in here, and came on back into this room." He points to the man you've just apprehended. "This is Joe Simms, our night watchman. I forgot to tell you about him. I'm sure he's not the man you're looking for, but maybe you'd better take him along with you for questioning. I'll stand watch here for the rest of the night and let you know if anything happens."

"No," you shake your head slowly. "I think you're the man I'll be taking in with me for some questioning."

Why do you suspect Sam Borden?

SOLUTION

You heard the grating of the door when it was opened and closed by the watchman — but you did not hear it the second time when Sam Borden claims he entered the room. This leads you to believe that he was in the dark room with you all the time, possibly hoping that you would come to grief when accosted by the watchman. Then, there is his eagerness for you to take the watchman in while he stood watch over the car and its precious bit of luggage — this leading you to suspect that he wanted to dispose of the incriminating jewelry and that he is in some way linked in with the theft ring.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Should a businesswoman rise to greet a man who enters her office, and she is already talking with someone else?

A. This depends upon circumstances. If seated at her desk with others around her, she would be unlikely to rise, but would merely motion to an empty chair. If, however, all are seated casually, she could rise, shake hands, introduce him, motion him to a chair, then reseat herself.

Q. Should the male members of a formal wedding party wear white handkerchiefs in the breast pockets of their coats?

A. This is always an attractive touch to a man's appearance.

Q. At which side of a person seated at a dinner table are the beverages placed, filled, and removed?

A. At his right.

Q. Whenever we are invited to dine in a friend's home, I usually join our hostess in her kitchen while she is finishing her preparations for the meal. My husband claims this is improper. What do you say?

A. You may join your hostess in the kitchen ONLY if she specifically invites you to do so. Otherwise, you should remain in the living room.

Q. How are invitations to bridal showers issued?

A. Since these are informal parties, invitations may be extended by phone, note, in person, or by one of the little special cards found in stationery stores.

Q. When one has already sent a gift to a newborn baby, and is then invited to the christening, is another gift in order?

A. No.

Have you ever wondered...

...what skills are necessary for a successful farmer?

Agriculture needs mechanics, engineers, horticulturists, bookkeeping, welding, to name only a few. And his wife has to be part secretary, part cook, part homemaker, part ... referee on call from her Future farmers and future wives of farmers can be in all these skills at the Alberta Agricultural and Vocational Colleges at Olds, Vermilion and Fairview. In addition to courses which teach the skills and knowledge required for a career in farming or a related occupation, the Colleges also offer

...how being a good technical or vocational student can help you with the finances?

Being at the top of the class means more than honor and glory to students enrolled in the Alberta Institutes of Technology or the technical or vocational sections of an approved Junior College. It means money. On the basis

...what keeps Alberta air so clean?

As much a part of Alberta as her mountains and prairies is clean, fresh air. To see that it remains that way, many thousands of tons of pollutants are removed by the Sanitary Engineering Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Health. Under the regulations which the Branch administers, all industries and municipalities must operate an effective control of pollutants, not only of air, but of water as well. Sanitary Engineering experts keep a sharp eye out to make sure these rules are observed. Possible water and air pollution sources are under constant surveillance. Regular sampling programs are carried out to ensure that the effluents released to the air and to the rivers are kept within the approved limits and that the quality of the air and water is maintained at a good standard.

...how Alberta can have its forests and cut them, too?

Although lumber production in the Province is increasing every year, the green gold of Alberta's forests is NOT being depleted. Thanks to the scientific yield policy maintained by the Forest Management Branch of the Alberta Forest Service, Department of Lands and Forests. Supply spring "must not yield" means that for every tree felled, one, and even two, should replace the original and that the yearly cut in any area should not exceed the yearly growth. To assist in maintaining forest growth and to help ensure a perpetual supply of timber for the Province, the Alberta Forest Service has planted over one million tree seedlings in the past few years.

...why there are fewer accidents at highway intersections in Alberta these days?

The answer's easy! Because there are fewer highway intersections, and the Planning Branch of the Alberta Department of Highways is working continuously to improve the number still remaining. Elimination of private access roads to highways, and the replacement of public access roads by interchanges—not only bring greater safety for the motorist but also prolongs the life of the highway and increases its capacity. Access control is just one way in which the Planning Branch fulfills its basic function, to ensure the maximum return to Albertans for each dollar invested in highway development.

...how you could turn back the clock and "unbuy" an unwise purchase?

Albertans who used to regret after buying an item from a door-to-door salesman need have four days in which to ponder the wisdom of that action before being committed to a sales contract. Anyone within 96 hours of signing the contract, the purchaser can cancel it, under the terms of the Alberta Direct Sales Cancellation Act. The contract can be cancelled within a year if delivery is not made within 30 days of the date specified, or 120 days of the date of purchase if no date is specified. The same privilege applies if the seller was not properly licensed when he made the sale. If a cancellation notice brings no results, the purchaser may lay his claim in writing before the Alberta Minister of Industry and Development through the Lovemong Branch. The Direct Sales Cancellation Act does not apply to transactions where the goods are delivered and prices paid on the spot.

When I

the terrifying things human beings do to themselves, and to the people they love, when they get behind a wheel.

"Most of you are decent citizens who ordinarily wouldn't dream of committing a crime. But here on this strip of concrete that I patrol, some of you turn into wanton killers. There's no way to reason with you.

"A couple of days ago I flagged a guy in a big four-door sedan doing close to 80. His wife sat beside him and three little children were in the back seat.

"In heavy traffic like that, I told him, you should have some regard for your children's lives even if you don't value your own life.

"Listen," he said, "just give me a ticket and mind your own business. If I want to kill those children, it's my affair."

"Does that shock you? Well, consider that mild compared to some of the things motorists say to me. And yet they're the same guys I pull out from behind the steering wheel with their cheeks caved in, their faces bloody, their bodies broken.

"I still remember the night a group of high school students were having fun in a hayride. The big hay wagon was going slowly along the road, a couple of big red lanterns swinging behind it.

"A powerful sedan came roaring along and smashed into it, scattering the youngsters all over the road. It took a dozen ambulances to get them all to the hospital. I helped to load those poor mutilated into the ambulances that night.

"Afterward I put the driver of the sedan in my patrol car. He was a prominent citizen who had been on his way home from a cocktail party. His breath was thick with his legs unsteady. My testimony helped convict him and he spent a year in jail. But that didn't help the students who had skulls fractured and arms and legs broken. And you want to know why I don't smile and act pleasant when I give you a ticket?

"I wish some of you speeders could have been along with me on an accident I investigated recently. A man, his wife, and their four children were driving in a car that had a blow-out. The man rolled it as he fought to the right as he could and with his 10-year-old daughter began to change the tire.

"An automobile that must have been going close to 80 came zooming along the road. But the man and his daughter, and carried them 150 feet across the center esplanade.

"I had to take pictures of these two corpses. The young girl's insides had been torn from her body, the man's head smashed. The driver of that car had spent the evening in a bar . . . and wound up with a prison sentence.

"And what about the widow and her three children? They had received a sentence from which there is no parole.

"Speeding has become a kind of game for maniacs. With one eye on the rear-view mirror the driver tries to outwit the policeman. If he is caught, he subverts the policeman to maintain the spirit of the game; if the policeman doesn't he's a spoilsport.

"Dying a woman from a wrecked car, her hip and skull fractured . . . that's no game.

"A man burning to death in a car, whose windows have been frozen by the impact, screaming to me for help I can't give him . . . horribly a game.

"A dead child curled in the grass 100 feet from a collision . . . a truck driver crying with pain while acetylene torches work to free him . . . dead servicemen who tried to get long stretches on short passes . . . a wife awakened in the night to be told her husband is dead . . . no game. I tell you my game . . . so when I stop you for speeding and give you a ticket you may think we're some kind of lame excuse and smile pleasantly, because I'm looking at you with eyes that have seen what has happened to motorists just like you.

"And although you may think that it's just your own life that's in danger . . . I know better"

—From The Canadian Mounted.

Early graduates invited to SAIT

Canada's oldest technical institute, the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology, is sending the country for a graduate of the 1916 class to help celebrate its 50th anniversary, October 13th. Donald Fleming, principal of the institute, is confident that, somewhere in Canada a graduate of the first courses began in 1916 at the Colonel Walker school will be found. The first graduate will receive a prize and an all-expense paid trip to Calgary for the jubilee celebrations.

At the outset, the school was called the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art and the principal was Dr. J. C. Miller, Alberta's first director of technical education. In 1923 the offices and classes of about 600 students enrolled at the institute were moved to a $1.5 million building, which still serves the institute.

Since the founding of the institute in 1916 when five st idents registered for classes under seven instructors, more than 30,000 students have enrolled for technical courses. Nearly 7,000 of them are enrolled at the institute today.

A warm invitation is extended to all of the earlies, graduates to return to the campus for jubilee celebrations. They are asked to write or phone Mr. Fleming at the institute.

On the morning of Jubilee Day an Open House will be held for former staff and students who will be able to see the many changes over the years and the current construction of the institute's 12 million dollar Tower Building. Dr. Grant MacEwan will give an official address in the afternoon and a banquet and dance at the Calgary Inn will take place in the evening. Guest speaker will be F. C. Jorgenson, formerly principal of the SAIT and now principal of Toronto's Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

Pay-day after over 50 years

After over half a century since earning the money for services rendered in a coal mine, two Camrose men have finally been paid off.

Ed Wilcox visited The Canadian one day last week, bringing a long list of men, many of them deceased or moved away from this area, who had been employed by the Battle River Collieries, when it went bankrupt in 1915. He had been engineer at the mine when it "went broke", while still owing him $200 in wages. Emil Sigmund is the only other Camrose man still on the list, who is in the area, and he received $77.00 back salary.

Originally owned by a partnership of Rosenroll and Anderson, the Battle River Coal mine was located three miles east of Ohaton, near what is now Highway 13, and mounds of earth in the area still mark the scars of the venture. With the passing of the years, a Saskatoon buyer tried to put the mine back on a paying basis, but he, too, went bankrupt and abandoned the business.

It was through the National Trust Company that the preferred creditors were finally paid the back wages, from coal and mineral rights which had been retained by the Rosenroll estate, and for which the National was the solicitors.

Anyway, as Mr. Wilcox remarked, "It's a long time to wait for pay-day".

Tie for Tofield Council

Tofield experienced an unusual development in yesterday's election, when two candidates tied for second place. With two seats on council open, B. A. Everett headed the polls with 122 votes, and was returned to office for another term. However, J. G. Allan and G. Pittet tied for second place with 113 votes each.

In accordance with Section 187 of the Act governing elections, Returning Officer Rita Halvorsan conducted a draw, with the result that Mr. Pittet was declared elected.

Mr Allan was seeking re-election, while Mr. Pittet had not previously held office. Another new candidate, T. Holst, Sabrebeks ran fourth with 100 votes.

288 voters turned out to the polls, out of a possible 420, making 31%.

Fluoride defeated

Fluoride treatment for the Tofield water supply was turned down by a narrow margin yesterday, when 114 voters opposed the program, as compared with 112 in favor. A simple majority was needed to pass the measure.

An unusual incident took place Tuesday evening. The Mercury was told. Following a comparatively uneventful period leading up to the plebiscite, a group of visitors circulated through town about 10:00 o'clock Tuesday evening, leaving pamphlets at each home.

"They simply rang the bell, dropped a pamphlet and disappeared into the darkness", reported one citizen. "We had no chance to question them or even see who they were". It was felt afterwards that the doubts developed by the pamphlet probably swung enough of the votes to defeat the measure.

Holden student wins Gov.-General's medal

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

Gary Bilyk, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bilyk received the news last week that he had been awarded the Governor-General's medal for highest marks in grade nine departmental examinations in the County of Beaver.

He was advised that this had been sent to Mr. Bruce, Superintendent of Schools for County of Beaver and would be presented to him at a future date. Gary is to be congratulated on his achievement as he has taken a three year course in two years.

Ryley voters turn out in force; elect Stumbo, Mrs. Kozdrowski

There has not been a lady on Ryley Village Council for a long time, but Mrs Joan Kozdrowski was elected, October 10, to fill one of the two vacancies. She is one of the three ladies who were nominated this year and added zest to the election, the others being Mrs. Barbara Harbak and Mrs. Gertrude Minors. Jack Stumbo was re-elected to fill the other vacancy and the only other nominee, Jack Dryer, was defeated.

Votes cast gave the following results: Stumbo, 107; Kozdrowski, 61; Minors, 57; Harbak, 46; Dryer, 39.

HIGH PERCENTAGE CAST VOTES

The voters turned out in force as a total of 208 votes were cast out of a possible 216 who were eligible to vote in the election.

The Mercury was informed by a Ryley citizen that Mrs. Kozdrowski and her farming husband are extremely community-minded people. They have a grown-up family, one son being employed by the Treasury Branch in Edmonton the other at Beaver Motors, Holden, and their daughter is married. Until recently, Mrs. Kozdrowski operated a garage business in Ryley. She was active in getting the curling rink built in the village.

Mr. Stumbo owns the trucking business in Ryley, known as Jack's Transport, and he has been on the council for a number of years.

The organizational meeting of the Village Council will be held October 24, when members will vote for the position of mayor from among themselves. Bob Cruse is the mayor of the village at present.

Carl Nord was returned to the school board by acclamation.

Holden OOR lodge has October meeting

(Mrs. G. Taylor)

Holden Lodge OORP held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Oct. 11th with a good turnout of members.

Regular business was attended to and committee reports received. A report of the Chamber of Commerce supper held Tuesday, Oct. 18th was given. The project for the year was discussed and tentative plans made regarding this endeavour, which will be to supply some equipment for the Tots Playground in the near future. Final plans were discussed for the rummage sale and tea, Saturday, Oct. 15th. Lunch hostesses were ladies Campbell and Hardy.

Ryley High School news

After a week of nominations, a new executive council for Ryley School was elected, as follows: Gail Lyons, president; Charlotte Rak, vice-president; Dolores Nord, secretary; Yvonne Vergette, treasurer; Tommy Anuebo, social convener; Ethel Kopf, girls' sports representative; John Boody, boys' sports rep.; Dolores Nord, reporter.

Once again the R.H.S. Yearbook is going to be published, and anyone wishing to buy one must order now. The editors are Sharon Miners and Darlene Kuhn. The annual Curtis drive began the middle of September and ended the first of October.

INITIATION RITES!

On Sept. 24, Ryley Grade 10's had the honor of being initiated. Outsiders coming into the school saw Grade 10's as diapers, bibs, mothers, maternity smocks, baby dolls, boys in skirts, girls in wet pills, etc. That night a party was held in their honor, and on coming into a dark gym they found themselves being hit with papers by their superiors. After being put through a Kangaroo Court, a dance was thoroughly enjoyed.

During September, Ryley students took part in "Cross Country Trials". The track was set up in a nearby field.

House leagues are now being planned for both Senior and Junior High Students are enjoying Sack Hops, held during the noon hour.

Tofield Community League planning masquerade ball

Bill Davison and Peter Nickel of the Tofield Community League have completed arrangements for the League's Masquerade Ball on Hallowe'en.

This revival of the Masquerade Ball at Hallowe'en will arouse nostalgic memories for many of the people of the Tofield community as it used to be the high light of the fall season.

Once again, everyone will have a chance to dress in the costume of his heart's desire, and some really excellent ones will be seen. Anyone in costume is admitted to the Ball for 75c, those without costume will pay $1.00 each.

All types of music will be played, so that old-timer and "young-timer" alike will be able to dance to his favorite type of music, beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

So the committee urges everyone to let his imagination run riot and find expression in a really fantastic costume. Of course, prizes will be awarded for several classes of costumes So, whether you come in dance or to be entranced by the costumes, you are assured of an enjoyable evening.

Elections at Holden by acclamation

All vacancies in the Village of Holden were filled by acclamation on nomination day, September 26, reported Secretary-Treasurer Raymond Hevland.

Three posts were open for nomination, including mayor, councillor and hospital board representative.

Bruce Budd continues in office as mayor, Lawrence Kaluzny retains his seat on the council and Don Allen continues on the board of Tofield Municipal Hospital.

Should be legal

Within an hour of the running of the Irish sweepstakes last week, we were fascinated to hear reports broadcast over the location of major wins in Canada, and news sources seemed also to know the names of many of the winners. We found it a fascinating division of rapid news gathering.

But more important, it shows how open and easily the law on sweepstakes is being flouted. Large numbers of Canadians are laughing at the law, and this is not a good situation nor one which we should allow to continue. If the law cannot be enforced, then it should be changed, and certainly we don't enforce a law which doesn't have public support.

We well know that many people in our society frown on sweepstakes as immoral, and we can sympathize with their viewpoint. All the same, you cannot legislate morality, if people aren't willing to support the legislation. Nobody who doesn't want to has to buy a sweepstake ticket, and those who oppose sweeps need not have their personal morality offended.

But we should recognize that people are going to buy lottery tickets, and some will buy them especially for the vicarious thrill of doing something undercover or mysterious. We should provide lotteries run by the government, without the abuses of private or illicit operators, in the same way we have turned the liquor traffic and the pari-mutuels over to the government.

Controls inevitable

Two sets of figures reached our desk this week which, when put together, indicate the inevitability of some sort of control on motor scooters due to the fast rising rate of accidents from them. One was an official record of accidents released by Alberta Minister of Highways Gordon Taylor, the other a somewhat dramatic but very persuading piece from the Alberta Safety Council.

While there were 421 scooter accidents last year, according to the council, there have been 408 in the first seven months alone of this year, according to Mr. Taylor. Partly, of course, the reason lies with the very rapidly rising number of machines registered. They have more than doubled from 4,879 four years ago to 10,860 at the end of last August.

But here's the rub . . . 408 accidents means an average of one to every 23 bikes registered to automobiles, we would think this is an appalling record. Mr Taylor says we one interesting light here in that in only 43 or well under half of the accidents did the accident appear to be the fault of the scooter rider, with other parties apparently at fault in the larger 57.

While estimates may be hard to exact, more information

By far the worst age group is the 15 year-olds, with 124 accidents, followed by the 16 year-olds, then the 14 year-olds, and older groups.

And four out of five accidents took place in daylight.

According to doctors studying the accidents, an incredible ninety per cent of major injuries affected the lower extremities, single or multiple fractures of tibia, femur or pelvis. They point out there is a serious exposure to crushing forces, and urge that those who intend to ride motorcycles (including scooters) first receive special instruction and then demonstrate proficiency in handling what doctors say is "basically an unstable vehicle" before using one in traffic.

Those old enough to recall the pattern in the last world war will also recall the incredible frequency of serious accidents among motorbike riders in various wings of the army, so that the phenomenon is nothing new. The Safety Council points out the bikes are definitely ... following the introduction of low priced foreign makes offering even modal transportation at great glamor for the young set.

But there also point out a motorcyclist skilled in safety can necessarily capable of safely letting a friend on his machine, and the coordination of steering, starting, cranking, accelerating and so on are definitely different

One thing seems sure . . . there is bound to be a tightening up in Alberta, and many citizens will rejoice when it develops. They seem to cause an alarm out of proportion to their number

Bullying

The public is quick to object to the big salary who rises on little chaps and knocks them around, but what do you do when the little fellow gets mean, packing up and follows, and dares them to hit back.

Also for instance look at the railroad strike . . . Northern Ireland civil unrest where the ascendancy of many Protestants is strong and many Catholics has been knocked for a loop by the strike of only 400 non-operating employees of the railway. Some of these people and many businesses have been crucially affected.

Sure the non-ops have rights just as any other laborers. But they've outnumbered more than 100 to one by the people who have been injured. Don't you 100 have rights too?

Centennial report

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

You've heard of the population explosion. Have you heard about the information explosion?

In this fast age, I am told, mankind's total knowledge is increased daily by thousands of items of new information produced by scientists, engineers and other professionals. The problem is how to get the information out to people who can use it. It's no good filed away in [illegible]

In a way we are faced with problems of an information explosion at the Centennial Commission. The Confederation Exhibition Train and Caravans touring Canada from coast to coast next year, for example, will be stopping at more than 800 communities. That means more than 800 place names and more than 800 sets of dates and we want all the people in the 800 communities to know about them.

The Train and Caravans represent merely one chal enge in the business of Centennial information distribution literally for the 1,100-mile Centennial Canoe Pageant, the Armed Forces' Military Tattoo, dates for the naval assemblies in coastal ports, air shows, Festival Canada performances across the land—travelling exhibits of paintings and sculpture and world sport championships—people want to know what, where and when about all these and the many more national events of Centennial year in addition there are still more planned by the provincial and territorial, plus local activities sponsored by communities and private organizations.

Advertisements in the press and over television and radio, of course, will herald events in the cities and towns in the weeks before the occasions. But to let all the people in all of Canada know months in advance about every date and every location for each event, we believe, would create an information explosion on the order of about six megatons. Our theorists at the Centennial Commission also advise that it couldn't be done!

It's a great challenge to get information out across the and to all the people, especially when some of the projects are still in the planning stage

I think one member of my listening audience recalled that when she asked a question in an [illegible] Sweepstakes.

"I'm from White Rock, British Columbia, and I'm having friends from the States visiting in the middle of May. Can you tell me what is happening in our area then?"

Well, fortunately, I had a set of our computerized data books with me and was able to answer, after a little searching. One of the Confederation Caravans would be stopping in White Rock for two days in May, the 13th and 14th.

Not that we can come up with all the answers all of the time, but I realize that a lot people in many places h[illegible] questions in the y[illegible]

May I suggest, if you [illegible] find the right answers, that you try the Information Services, Centennial Commission, P O Box 1867, Ottawa. We'll try to beat the information explosion yet!

NINE ROBED JUDGES

OTTAWA — On any ordinary day there is little human drama in the packed rooms of the Supreme Court of Canada.

There is a set pattern to the [illegible] which seem where every [illegible] and [illegible] is compressed [illegible] the frailness of [illegible]

But early in October, all that [illegible]

The September Court opened an [illegible] review of the case of Steven Truscott, and the drama [illegible]

There were witnesses in the [illegible] Semi-stars were high [illegible] by opposing counsel, tough [illegible] examination and [illegible] cross-examination bursts of anger and tension.

The [illegible] presented review by the Supreme Court of Canada has not yet been completed.

But by Christmas Steven Truscott should know whether or not he [illegible] appeal has been [illegible] whether he'll be a free man or whether he'll continue serving a life sentence for the rape and murder of 15-year-old Lynne Harper, near Clinton, Ontario, in June of 1959.

This is a chance not many convicted murderers get. Steven Truscott was convicted in 1959, sentenced to death for the crime.

He appealed to the Supreme Court of Ontario and the appeal was dismissed. He appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada and the appeal was refused.

His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in January 1960 and he has been serving that sentence ever since.

We have it on the authority of the Hon Prime Minister John Diefenbaker that had Steven Truscott been 18 or 20 or [illegible] when he would not be now today to plead his case before the Supreme Court of Canada.

The death sentence would have been carried out.

This fact alone gives point to the revival of the Steven Truscott case seven years after the event.

It was the publication of a book by Mrs Isabel Lo[illegible] that first aroused [illegible] to the fact that Steven Tr[illegible] may have suffered [illegible] trial, that led the Government to act.

The Government asked the Supreme Court of Canada to review the whole case, receive whatever new evidence was available and deliver a judgment.

That set off a determined effort by those who [illegible] Steven Truscott, who has always protested his innocence of the horrible crime, is really innocent.

At the same time the Ontario Attorney General's Department, while equally determined not to [illegible] an innocent man, set out to prove that the trial was fair and that the convicting evidence was valid.

The [illegible] which made it clear from the beginning that the Truscott family was not responsible [illegible] for defence costs at the Supreme Court hearing, has spared no expense.

Arthur Martin, probably Canada's top criminal lawyer, is acting as Truscott's chief counsel. Defence witnesses, medical experts have been brought in from London, the United States and many parts of Canada.

During the hearing of evidence in early October the defence bent every effort to support Steven Truscott's own description of the events on June 9, 1959.

Steven himself testifying for the first time on his own behalf, never before the Supreme Court, will assert that he was innocent of the crime.

He testified that he had met Lynne Harper shortly after 7 00 p m. on June 9, 1959, and at her

IT'S A GIRL

Mr and Mrs. Geo. H Taylor received word by wire, Thursday evening from England, that their son Brian and his wife Dawn were the proud parents of a baby girl, born October 11th, a sister for their two sons, Ervest and Ronald. Mr. and Mrs. Brian Taylor are presently residing at Godstone, Surrey, England.

Mrs. Olaf Chesney was an Edmonton visitor, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, with her husband Olaf, who is a hospital patient. BAPTISM

Grant Donald, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maxwell of Viking, was baptized at the Thanksgiving Service in the Holden Lutheran Church on Oct. 9th. After the service a family dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Maxwell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Herman.

Nels Hvid was visiting around the village for a couple of days, last week.

request, had given her a lift on his bicycle to a highway.

He said he had then returned to a nearby bridge from which he had seen Lynne Harper enter a grey, 1958 Chevrolet with yellow licence plates. That was the last time he had seen her.

He himself returned home shortly after 8:00 p.m. to babysit with the younger children in the family.

Th simple reconstruction of events was of supreme significance. Doctors at his trial estimated the time of death of the Harper girl at between 7.00 and 7.45 p m

Steven had been seen in her company just before then.

At the Supreme Court hearing defence witnesses with impressive medical qualifications testified that their examination of numerous photos of the body and of the autopsy report convinced them she had died much later

Crown witnesses with equally impressive backgrounds said they were sure she had died within two hours of her last meal, in other words, before 6 00 p m

A mass of evidence on the possible time of death, the place of death, and the cause of death, was placed before the Supreme Court. Each side had impressive arguments, impressive witnesses

Now the judges of the Supreme Court will have to weigh the arguments, assess the evidence, and decide whether one young man was properly or improperly convicted

At the same time they will be deciding issues central to our legal system Is there a reasonable doubt about Steven Truscott's guilt" Was he given the benefit of doubt" Or was this slim, unemotional young man demonstrably guilty of a terrible crime" What are the possible margins of error in any legal proceeding, and what are the chances of any person being wrongfully convicted in a Canadian [illegible]

Even our Supreme Court judges may not be able to give all the answers What is important, however, is that the questions are being asked

MR. AND MRS. C. GALLINGER

Gallinger-Schultz wedding solemnized on October 1

The Tofield United Church was the scene of a pretty candlelight ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 1, when Betsy-Ann Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schultz was given in marriage to Claude Gallinger Jr., son of Mrs. Dorothy Gallinger and the late Mr. Wilmar Gallinger all of Tofield.

Performing the double-ring ceremony was Rev. W. H. McDonould. Mrs. J. E. Stinson was organist and Master David Schultz was candlelighter. Mrs. R. Sitka sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and while the register was being signed, rendered 'I'll Walk With God".

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length gown of peau de sole featuring an empire waist and half sleeves edged in white lace. The separate train which flowed from the waist accented the graceful line of the gown. Her shoulder length veil cascaded from a coronet of pearls and her bouquet was of talisman roses.

Floor length gowns of peacock blue peau de sole with matching headpieces and gloves were worn by the bride's attendants. Each of the girls carried bouquets of coral carnations and yellow daisies. Miss Frances Schultz was her sister's maid of honor. Misses Marion Hardy and Janet Stuebner were her bridesmaids.

Attending the groom were Mr. Michael Gallinger, Harold Ferguson and Roy Reem. Ushers were Brian Schultz, the bride's brother and Alex Martin, friend of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schultz chose a gold two-piece silk knit suit with matching feathered hat and gloves; black patent accessories and talisman roses en corsage. Mrs. Gallinger mother of the groom, wore a jacketed dress of gold and turquoise brocade, with gold hat and bone colored accessories. Her corsage was also talisman roses.

Following the wedding, a reception for 170 guests was held in the church parlors. Kenneth Appleby was master of ceremonies and Miss Margie McGarvey was in charge of the guest book. Cal Annis proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom happily responded. Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Wood of Clonaida rendered a sacred duet, and Keith Appleby sang two solos.

An evening of dancing was held in the community centre later.

For going away the bride chose a mustard wool suit with brown accessories and talisman roses en corsage. Following a honeymoon to Oregon and the West Coast, the happy couple are making their home in Tofield.

Open house was held on Sunday afternoon and evening at the home of the bride's parents to view the wedding gifts.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. D. W. Jacobs, Mrs. Lloyd Cribb, Mrs. Laurie Blades and Mrs. Lief Foshaug. Misses Phyllis Foshaug and Donna Jacobsen were in charge of the guest book.

During the evening, Mrs. Michael Erickson, Mrs. Conrad Patterson, Mrs. Annie McGuttie, and Mrs. Bert Everett poured tea. Mrs. Lorne Lee and Mrs. George Niemetz were in charge of the guest book.

I like the man whose life teems with action — action that makes the world better for all of us.

Have you ever wondered...

...which of Alberta's resources is most important to industry?

Alberta's people. Industry needs people . . . trained people . . . to make it go, and skilled labour is vital to industrial progress. To help the supply keep pace with the demand, the Vocational Education Division of the Alberta Department of Education operates three Vocational Centres for adult training, in Fort McMurray, Edmonton and Calgary Here, people learn those skills industry requires most, and which will allow them to take their proper place in the labour market. To be sure each trainee is in the right trade, each is given personal, skilled counselling before enrolling.

...where would you start if you decided to complete your high school education?

Remembering the grade at which you left high school doesn't mean that you retain all the knowledge taught to you in that grade. To help you decide just how much you DO remember, and where you should begin to complete your high school education, the Correspondence School Branch of the Alberta Department of Education provides placement tests which will indicate your starting point, between grade 1 and grade 12. Once this is established, you can enrol with the Branch for a correspondence course which will count for credits toward a High School Diploma on the same basis as students who attend a regular school. Correspondence courses are also available for the lower grades, from 1 to 8.

...if there's a market for footwear in Alberta?

Ask the Alberta Bureau of Statistics, a Branch of the Department of Industry and Development. This is where you'll find all the answers to statistical questions on economic activity in Alberta. If they're not in the comprehensive library of statistics, you'll probably find the facts you need in one of the Bureau's publications, such as the annual "Salary and Wage Rate Survey"; the monthly "Summary of General Statistics"; "Alberta Industry and Resources"; or "Review of Business Conditions." If you want details on the market for a specific item, the Bureau of Statistics will carry out a special survey provided there is an indication that such a market exists.

...where the parents of a cerebral palsy child can turn for assistance?

Understanding is a vital part of the treatment of cerebral palsy and, to help parents recognize and understand the problems of a child stricken with this disease, counselling services are provided at cerebral palsy clinics maintained by the Alberta Department of Public Health. Here, qualified specialists examine suspected cases and recommend treatment in the clinic or at home. Where home treatment is decided upon, parents are instructed in the necessary techniques and provided with literature and equipment required for the treatment prescribed. In addition to cerebral palsy clinics, the Department also maintains clinics in which free diagnostic services and treatment are available for victims of rheumatoid arthritis and cancer.

...if preventive medicine applies to Alberta animals?

The wealth of Alberta depends partly on the health of the Province's livestock and, with animals, as with people, it is easier to prevent disease than to cure it. The preventive medicine program for Alberta animals is carried out by the Veterinary Services Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. One facet of the service is inspection of all animals passing through the public auction marts. Approximately 1,000,000 are carried out each year and, over the last five years, 55,000 head of cattle, sheep and swine were removed from public market channels because they were suffering from infectious or contagious diseases that could spread to the buyers' herds!

...about the significance of those little round window stickers being worn by some Alberta cars?

Those are symbols of safety, proof that the cars which carry them have been tested and passed the requirements of the vehicle testing centres of the Motor Vehicles Branch, Alberta Department of Highways. The Branch operates two of these units which test, free of charge, headlights, brake and wheel alignment and front end emission. These facilities are available to any driver who would like to have the roadworthiness of his car tested. If defects are discovered, the owner receives a report indicating the problems, and can apply to have the vehicle re-tested when the trouble has been corrected. The testing units are easily transportable so that the service can be provided in communities throughout the Province.

A local farmer was disgusted when a gust of wind caught the cheque he had just received at the post office and wafted it away. Somebody said it was last seen going south with the geese. It may still be able to cover a big bill.

Over Thanksgiving weekend I visited at several ranches in southern Alberta. Children were always the first to spot my arrival. Invariably they ignored me and greeted my dog, Bruce. He's very popular.

A speaker at the ATA convention last week asked the teachers some questions. It reminded me of my schooldays and I felt safe to let my thoughts drift, solitary and at home in a front row—where the dunces used to sit. He asked them what a certain picture represented. Subconsciously, I mouthed the word, "ranch". His eye fixed on ME. "How do you know it's a ranch?" he asked.

I almost replied, "slightly curly, brown with a hint of red", having been deep in contemplation of his cute, little beard. But I managed to get out, "Because I've seen ranches before".

Funny how simple, truthful answers flour teachers. He wanted a much more specific one and had to start again.

The incident reminds me of an occasion when a teacher wished information about oysters from a class with one of my family in it. The child identified them as something Mummy ate, "when she went out to dinner with a man". True, but misleading, I [illegible].

Meeting Creek Home and School members have a good project for the Centennial. They're to add books to the school library. The remark has been made that more comprehensive libraries in schools would be more educational than some of the elaborate equipment provided today.

Sandwich breakfasts

If cool weather heightens morning appetites, switch to sandwiches for breakfast.

Cheese sandwiches for last-minute toasting or grilling can be assembled the night before and refrigerated overnight. Toasted lettuce and tomato sandwiches are fresh and crisp to start the day off right. Scrambled egg with crisp bacon pieces eat easily as a sandwich between buttered toast slices. For a special weekend morning, dip ham sandwiches into egg and milk and fry them golden brown in a hot skillet. Fruit or juice and milk or a beverage will make any of these breakfasts complete.

Tofield Farmers' Union harvest home supper

At the first meeting of the season of the Tofield F.U.A., held October 11, the president presented a map prepared by Mr. Gordey, MLA, showing all the gas wells in the district, with a view to seeing if a suitable pipe line route could be linked up to supply local farmers with natural gas, and a committee was formed to look into this. Are you interested? If so, any suggestions will be welcomed. May we depend on you?

The question of a supper was discussed, and the secretary disclosed there would a considerable sum of money available from savings in the administration charges of M.S.I. for the first year; this, together with donation from the local, will make possible this get-together at $1.00 per plate at Community Centre on Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 7:00 p.m. sharp. One of the church groups will do the catering, for members and their wives only. A limit of 150 tickets will be sold. As the caterers have to know in advance how many will attend, members are asked to get their tickets before Oct. 25, either from ticket sellers, or get in touch with Reg Crispin, phone 662-2307. There will be turkey and all the trimmings. It is hoped to have Hon. Grant MacEwan, lieutenant - governor, as guest speaker.

Your attention is directed to the Sept. 25 "Organized Farmer" regarding the offer of a trip to Expo '67 in Montreal. Any F.U.A. member who mails his name and number to Central Office, 9934 - 106 Street, Edmonton, has an equal chance of being selected for this trip.

23 days left for 'Battle of the Drip

The project to completely line the inside of the curling rink prior to this year's curling season is "Ready for Action", says president Gabe Pittet. All materials have arrived, the scaffolding is made and foreman Sam Mo[illegible]wich is awaiting manpower to "finish the battle".

In order to properly handle the large sheets, a six-man crew is required for each shift, with the afternoon curlers supplying crews for daytime labour and the town curlers arranging for evenings, the job will be completed in short order.

All curlers are asked to contact Elmer Greenlien or Gabe Pittet so that scheduling of crews can be arranged.

Have fun food for Hallowe'en

Just in case you're planning a special celebration for family or guests at Hallowe'en, cheese 'n pizza on buns or slices of enriched bread makes wholesome eating. It will appeal to the young merrymakers, too.

FUNNY FACES

- 1 cup (½-lb.) ground beef
- 2 tbsp. finely chopped onion
- ⅔ cup tomato paste
- ½ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. ground oregano
- 6 hamburger buns
- 12 slices Canadian process cheese

Combine ground beef, onion, tomato paste, salt and oregano to make meat mixture. Spread two tablespoonfuls pizza over cut side of each bun half. Place buns on baking sheet and brown in a hot oven (400° F.) for 12 - 15 minutes. While those are baking, cut smiling faces in the cheese slices, just as in a Jack-O-Lantern, using a sharp knife. Place a "cheese face" over the browned meat on each bun. Return all to the oven for one or two minutes, just until the cheese begins to soften, but not long enough to spoil the face features. Serve hot.

Yield: 12 servings.

5th Annual A.J.C. Awards

Calgary Power is proud to announce 1966 Award Winners

KEITH WRIGHT, Edmonton

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

You'd think one heroic deed a year was enough for any 11-year old boy — but not for our award winner, Keith. Last summer Keith and his friend Kenny Beisel were walking along Mill Creek. Attracted by the cries of some children, they discovered 2-year old Debbie Shulz lying face down in about three feet of water. Keith waded into the water, pulled the child out and handed her to Kenny. After making sure she was breathing, they took her home. The other heroic deed? Last April when Keith was on a Boy Scout hike in the Rainbow Valley area, he courageously used his windbreaker to extinguish a menacing grass fire. The windbreaker was burned, but the fire was put out!

We congratulate Keith and his enterprising friend Kenny, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

Bonnie Bowick feted at pre-nuptial shower

Miss Bonnie Bowick, whose marriage to Mr. Nick Antonenko will be solemnized on November 12 at Central United Church in Edmonton, was guest of honor at a bridal shower in the social room of Tofield United Church last Friday. Hostesses for the occasion were Faye Dodds, Marie Worton, Ingrid Jacobs, Joyce Swift, Joan Sears and Winnie Christensen. On behalf of the hostesses and guests, Marie Worton presented corsages to the bride-elect, to Edna Bowick, the bride's mother, to Mrs Shaw, the bride's grandmother, and to the maid-of-honor, Ruth-Ellen Sears. Bonnie and Ruth-Ellen were seated at the bridal table, which was placed under a canopy of wedding bells and streamers.

The many beautifully-wrapped gifts were opened by Bonnie and Ruth-Ellen, assisted by Miss Tannis Shaw, cousin of the bride-elect, and were passed around to be admired by the 70 ladies present.

On behalf of all the guests, Faye Dodds wished Bonnie much happiness in her married life. Bonnie's reply included gracious thanks to the hostesses for planning the shower and to the guests for attending. She concluded with a warm invitation to visit her in Edson where her new home will be.

Following the presentation of the gifts, a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Olive Pollock, Margaret Dickson, June Christensen and Shirley Swift.

Out of town guests present for the occasion included Grace Scott, Linda Shymka, Linea Darling, Annie Phillips, Susan Komarnisky, Diane Bjork, Marlene Sutton, Kay Fraser and Judy Finn.

Bonnie is the daughter of Mrs. Edna Bowick and the late Harry Bowick. She was born in Tofield and received her early education here, and advanced education at Alberta College, where she took a commercial course.

Signs of slowdown ?

Has Canada's long boom lost its momentum? Have the brakes been applied enough to slow down any race-away trends? Yes, in the opinion of some leading financial experts in Ontario, who say now many of the key indicators of business activity are declining exactly as they did before the recessions of 1954, 1957 and 1960. According to these experts, the figures seem to say the peak of the expansion may have been reached in June, and a new and exceedingly sharp examination is warranted now.

They offer high praise to the economic managers at Ottawa in slowing down an economy which was beginning to overheat, but suggest that prudence might indicate a slight easing up on the brakes, especially in the field of credit and money, in order not to promote the slow-down into more of a recession.

Even in the face of highly inflationary wage demands found in 1966, say these experts, consumer prices rose less in the past three months than in any of the three quarter years before.

The theory is interesting especially in the light of the keen desire of citizens all across the country to see some easing in the spiralling upward costs they are now facing. At least it is gratifying to learn that the money managing efforts of Finance Minister Sharp, and the Bank of Canada may have been able to head off worse troubles, like dieting to control overweight In dieting, however, the question always comes up: how much weight to lose. Today it would seem to be: how much deflation in the right amount? And who decides? On what basis? Something else that is not too clear is whether Canada alone can swim against the tide, financially, or whether that's what we were trying to do before. Are current efforts only swimming us back into the mainstream once more?

To listen to reports, most Canadian businesses would like to see a little more steam taken from the economy to bring food prices at least back into line. Certainly farmers would like to see less spread between what they get for their products, and what they have to pay for the processed article.

Two views on lotteries

Last week the Irish sweepstakes prompted us to suggest once again the establishment of a government-operated sweepstakes in this country.

During the week, we ran across the comments of another writer which are highly interesting. The opinions of a newsman, Bob Hunter, who has done considerable investigating into operations in centres in the United States, make interesting reading. Some of Mr. Turner's comments follow: "Legalizing gambling in Nevada was supposed to clean it up. But performance has fallen far short of hope. The crooks are in positions of influence; so is the Mafia. Moreover, they have gained respectability.

"When gambling is kept illegal and occasionally is swept under the rug in such ayals of moral reform this gambling has slight opportunity to work its colors into the permanent pattern of American life. But when given a base of legality, as has happened so spectacularly in Nevada . . . the morals and ethics of the gamblers become a part of the accepted pattern of life. . . . At the very least, the gamblers must be contained. They must never have the feeling that the general morality has been dragged down to their level."

Two points should be made, however. There is a major difference between legalized lotteries (run by the syndicates) and state or government-operated lotteries. In the latter case, the criminal element would have no entree, and indeed, a responsibly run alternative would be presented. In the second place, we did not suggest the government should step into the field as a source of revenue, although this undoubtedly would develop, or to condone the practice. The point was simply to recognize a fact: and it is a fact that many thousands want to bet on the sweepstakes.

Trick or treat

A round orange moon shines down from a black October sky lighting the way for witches on broomsticks Small goblins walk the streets with large bags of goodies as they run up the steps of houses shouting "Trick or Treat."

The familiar scene means it's Hallowe'en a favorite for youngsters who on this one night, can dress up in fanciful costumes, roam shopping bags with the makings of an awful tummy ache and stay up long past their usual bedtime.

But too often, the excited youngsters, vision obscured by ill-fitting masks, dash out of shadows and into the street.

There's a screech of brakes a cry a pitiful jumble of candy and cookies strewn about a limp little form on the pavement.

The vision problem is something that parents can do much to solve, points out the Alberta Safety Council, who urges a little imagination, possibly a few ordinary cosmetics, rather than masks to help make life safer for the children.

Centennial report

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

What inspires me most, of all Centennial plans and projects, is the fresh, enthusiastic approach of many local Canadians to our 100th anniversary of Confederation.

At the Centennial Commission, we receive hundreds of letters from individuals or families, asking for no praise or assistance, merely telling us about their plans to celebrate the Centennial, and offering genuine expressions of their own pride in being Canadians.

It is fortunate that we cannot do much about the pessimists — the knockers and the moaners In Canada they seem to get far too much publicity. I think we should try to turn our attention away from them as much as possible and join with those who have positive ideas about Canada's future, and for that matter, the welfare of all mankind.

It gives one a warm, happy feeling to think about the Gairns and family from Callendar, Ontario, for example, starting off on a world trip in a Model T Ford all painted up with Centennial crests and flags. Their motivation was simply a desire to advertise Canada's Centennial. Mr. Guignard, who is travelling with his wife and daughter, says, "I spent six years fighting for Canada. Why not spend one year advertising it?"

We received a straightforward description of his plan in travel from a announcement in a letter from J. Ward Lowrys of Derval, Quebec coast to coast during this and next summer.

This summer Mr Lowrys is motoring to Prince Rupert, B.C., sailing to Skagway, Alaska, then driving down the Alaska Highway and Mackenzie Highway south-east through the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Next summer he'll complete his Centennial trip with a tour of the Atlantic provinces.

Then there are the two young Canadians, one a native, the other an immigrant, who together are crossing Canada on a 20,000 mile back-roads trip writing about their experiences, impressions and what they hope from other Canadians who are planning to celebrate Centennial.

One is Paul Page, 26, a forester and painter who was born in Orillia and lives in Toronto. The other is Marc Chaumard, 27, who was born in Algeria and has been living in Montreal and Toronto since coming to Canada three years ago.

They first discussed the idea of a Centennial trip in Toronto where Paul, a graduate of the Ontario College of Art has an art studio and where Marc has been working as a French instructor They started out with a car and a tent and up to mid-summer, have covered Newfoundland, P.E.I., Nova Scotia and most of New Brunswick. The Kingston Whig-Standard and the Telegram in Toronto have been publishing writings and sketches they have produced during their travels. What pleases me most of all, of course is that they are staying interested in the Centennial among all the people they meet.

Without prodding by government agencies and without publicity, many Canadians are making a great contribution to the Centennial celebrations already. It is their kind of enthusiasm that will make 1967 a success. It is people like them who will make the futer of Confederation a success too.

On the Provincial Scene

By JOHN WARREN

It was a week for everything from storm sewer bylaws defeated in Bonnyville to fluoridation plebiscites approved in such centres as Drumheller, Edmonton, Elk Point, Drayton Valley, Vegreville and St Paul, defeated in Penhold, Camrose, Calgary, Tofield and High Prairie, to Sunday sport generally approved.

There were mayors, aldermen school trustees to boot in other words Alberta went to the municipal polls last week—and won't do so again until next October—a fact that gives considerable relief to electoral officers, campaign workers and newsmen.

While the municipal politicking may have taken some pressure off premiers, government execs, there was a number of important civic crucias emanating from the capital. Inside from Vincent Dumont's victory over former mayor William Hawrelak for the post of chief magistrate in Edmonton.

The minister of youth, Bob Clark, figured prominently in answers; new bodies.

For instance he announced in a speech that the new area would probably take action next spring to establish the position of ombudsman in the province The new appointee's job would be to act as something of a public defender for citizens involved in disputes with the government and government boards

Mr Clark also met with a delegation from Ontario that will be doing some of the same type of work as his Alberta department And he planned a general meeting with welfare and youth groups for sometime this week as an major

CALLING UNKNOWN CITIZENS

Last Friday night three stalwart, sprightly, ouncandrag young men made their play for the Citizens of the Year Award in a unique and surely and very original show of independence they made two gestures

First they discovered that three beer bottles were not enough for Bowen' By using brain and brawn they took counsel together and chose rocks instead Undaunted by a smaller screen they made their mission a complete success They vindicated their sturdy original sense of self-reliance and independence and succeeded (imagine that!) in smashing a double plated glass window in the town hall What point is proven is not known. The Tax-Payers of Tofield love these fellows and will cheerfully spend $75.00 out of public funds as a memorial to this brave and manly show of independence. Come on Men !!!, come out of the darkness and identify yourselves and receive the plaudits from our fellow citizens that you have earned

School committee meets Oct. 11

Following are the minutes, in part, of the County of Beaver No. 9 School Committee meeting, held October 11th:

The minutes of the Zone 3 A. S. T. A. Meeting, August 29, were referred to the Committee It was noted that a resolution was endorsed by Zone 3 requesting that provision for grants for construction and operation of swimming pools be made available at least jointly or severally, to local authorities under facilities planned to meet the needs of the school and community. Cr. Wetherill stated that he was opposed to this resolution as he felt that the matter of showers should be given precedence, and it was moved that the School Committee does not support the resolution requesting aid for swimming pools.

The motion was lost on a vote of 1 for and 3 against.

It was then moved and carried that the minutes of the meeting be accepted.

W. R. Myers, contract bus operator at Viking, attended the meeting, together with his son, Wallace O. Myers. The Committee was informed that W. R. Myers had sold his fleet of buses to his son, Wallace O. Myers. Mr. Myers requested an increase in rates for operating the buses. He also mentioned that some of the roads were quite rough and that beavers were causing damage to some of the roads over which the buses are travelling. Mr Myers was informed that his request for an increase in rates would be discussed by the Committee and he would be advised in due course of the decision in this regard.

After Mr. Myers left, some discussion ensued and the Board was advised that on the basis of the 1965 cost of operating the contract buses an increase of 3c per mile would mean an increase of approximately $3,800 per year. It was also noted that Myers should have applied for permission to sell or to transfer the buses before doing so, and it was moved and carried that Mr. Myers be made aware of this regulation, but that the transfer be accepted

In regards to the request for an increase of rates, it was moved and carried that the secretary-treasurer obtain some information from surrounding

Have you ever wondered...

...what happens to government materials and machinery when they reach pensionable age?

Three possible fates await furniture and equipment that have outlived their usefulness to a government department: retirement, transfer and the auction block. Which it will be is decided by the Alberta Commercial Branch, Department of Industry and Development. Last year, in a series of bargain sales, this agency recovered over $400,000 for a selection of items varying from horses to windows, tractors to furniture, which were still usable but no longer of use to the government. In addition, many items were sent back to work with another department where they still had a useful future.

...how far you are from a provincial park?

In most populated areas of Alberta, not more than 50 miles. As public need dictates the location of the parks, the majority are located in or near heavily populated areas and, as the population increases, so do the number of parks. Altogether, there are 41 of these playgrounds in the Province, each established and maintained by the Parks Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. It takes a staff of 300 employees to provide the parks with all the facilities and services required, such as approximately 1600 cords of cut wood supplied free each year. In addition, the Parks Division maintains 23 historic sites across the Province, ranging in size from one-quarter acre to 107 acres.

...how bridges add to Alberta's beauty?

Next time you drive Alberta's highways, watch the bridges and overpasses and see how many different designs you can count. This variety of shape and color is a contribution to the beauty of our Province by the Bridge Branch of the Alberta Department of Highways. Each year, this Branch builds or rebuilds approximately 400 bridges, and each of the major ones is a part of the program to add to the interest and appearance of Alberta's highways by using varying designs, colors and materials. There are approximately 10,000 bridges under the jurisdiction of the Branch, of which about 700 are steel, 2,200 concrete, 4,300 of timber, and 2,800 large culverts installed in lieu of bridges.

...what a high speed digital computer is doing down on the farm?

Actually, it isn't ON the farm. It's a part of the Data Processing Centre of the Provincial Government.

However, it does contribute greatly to a comprehensive farm analysis program being undertaken by the Farm Management Branch of the Agricultural Economics Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Under this program, the Branch assists any farmer who so desires to maintain an accurate record of his physical and financial operation. Armed with these figures (this is where the computer comes in), economists can measure the efficiency of the farm, determine the problem areas and suggest possible solutions. Over 400 commercial farmers in Alberta are being assisted under the program, and the only costs to each participant are a $10.00 processing fee and $1.00 for the account book in which the records are kept.

...how education can be made more interesting?

Aesop taught many a valuable lesson with his "Fables", because he knew that education was far more palatable when it was presented in a dramatic form. Today's version of this combination is in the radio and television broadcasts to schools by the Audio-Visual Services Branch of the Alberta Department of Education. Twice a day, during most of the school year, radio school broadcasts teach dramatic, entertaining and effective lessons in classrooms across the Province, and a number of television programs are provided each year as well. These have a two-fold purpose: to explore the value of television in education and to supplement classroom work on key subjects. In addition to the broadcast media, the Audio-Visual Services Branch provides sound films, tape recordings and filmstrips and advises teachers and administrators in their uses.

...what became of the old-fashioned, travelling dentist?

He's still here, still travelling, but no longer old-fashioned. Today, the dentist who provides service to the outlying areas of the Province has the most modern equipment, provided by the Dental Services Division of the Alberta Department of Public Health. This Division has three complete units of dental equipment which are transportable and available to those practitioners who volunteer to serve rural communities where dental services have not been established. Approved local organizations such as the Home and School Association or the Chamber of Commerce can apply for this service through the local health unit, the Alberta Department of Public Health, or the Alberta Dental Association.

Minutes of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No 9, Thursday, October 13, 1966.

In regards to the disposal proposals, the Council was advised that the Town of Tofield did not feel that the annual cash payment of $300 00 was sufficient and he offer had not been accepted; he offer had, however, been accepted by the Village of Holden and the Town of Viking.

Moved that the report be accepted and that the payments of $200 00 for 1966 be made to the Villages of Ryley and Holden and the Town of Viking Cd.

In regards to the Westview Flood Control Scheme, the Sec-Treasurer advised that he had at the request of Cr. Kropelnicki forwarded a letter to Mr L. Creasor, P. Eng., with the P.F.R.A. Vegreville, advising that he Council had decided that the County would accept the responsibility of up to 8% of the cost not paid by the P.F.R.A., in connection with the proposed work concerning the Westview Flood Control Scheme Moved that the report be accepted and action concurred in. Cd.

In regards to Bridge File 3038, the Sec-Treasurer informed the Council that the Bridge Branch had agreed to the request that the installation of the proposed 72 inch by 68 inch culvert be deferred and that a request be made for a 30 foot bridge for 1967.

In regards to Bridge File 7668, the Council was informed that the Bridge Branch had stated that due to difficulty in obtaining delivery of culverts, a culvert could not be supplied for this location but would have to be deferred to 1967, however, the County's Public Works Foreman had suggested that the culvert that had originally been delivered for Bridge File 2176 NW 2-51-16-W 4th could be used at the Bridge File 7668. This had been referred to the Department and the suggestion had been accepted, the culvert had been moved and was in the process of being installed at the time of the meeting

Moved that the report be accepted and actions concurred in. Cd.

In regards to the Bridge in S.E. 24-49-15-W 4th, Crs. Johnston and Davis stated that they had not been able to get any information as to when this bridge was put in and who was responsible for the bridge; this apparently was not a bridge supplied by the Department and it appeared that former Councillor E B. Starky had made a stream diversion and put this bridge in at his own instigation. The Sec-Treasurer stated that he would endeavour to ascertain when this work was done and it was moved that this question be tabled for further information. Cd.

The Sec-Treasurer informed the Council that the sale of Pt. W 1/2 16-49-15-W 4th, had been approved and it was moved that report be accepted. Cd.

The County would have to provide the culvert size to ascertain when this work was done and it was moved that this question be tabled for further information. Cd.

LARRY BOTA, Fort Macleod

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

It was December 26, 1965 -- Boxing Day! Larry's his father had gone to their cabin at Lee Lake near Burmis. 14-year old Larry was following his father into the cabin. Suddenly, the cabin was rocked by an explosion. Larry swiftly pulled his father back, down the stairs and outside, where he extinguished his burning clothes by rolling him in the snow. Mr. Bota was severly burned, and but for Larry's initiative and courage the day might have had a tragic ending.

We congratulate Larry and wish to thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

and carried that the following bursary applications be approved: Sharon Theresa Hawrish and Eileen Ann Smart, both of Holden, and Doris Linda Hulse of Viking.

It was moved and carried that bursary withdrawals submitted by Earl Lionel Hafter and Ellen Horton be accepted.

The matter of the Edmonton Symphony Concert, "Adventures in Music", to be held October 29, 1966, at the Jubilee Auditorium, Edmonton, at 1:15 p.m., was referred to the Committee. The requested action was:

1. That the School Committee agree to participate in this program
2. That the School Committee provide school buses to transport pupils.

It was also mentioned that School Committee members and staff were invited, and that forms must be submitted to the Superintendent prior to Oct 21 if anyone wishes to attend

Mr Bruce stated that it appeared that some 10 buses would be required.

Moved and carried that the necessary school buses be provided for transportation of pupils to the Edmonton Symphony Concert on October 29

The report indicated that Nov 10 had been set as Parent-Teacher Interview Day and that the schools would be closed on that day.

Moved and carried Nov 10 be set as Parent-Teacher Day, and that the County schools be closed on that day.

In regards to Industrial Arts, the report indicated that two courses from the Assistant Supervisor of Industrial Arts had been received as a result of his visit to Ryley and Viking on September 23. The major recommendations were:

1. An increase in the size of each existing shop to 2,000 square feet, and possibly 3,000 square feet.
2. Supply equipment for offering plastics, power mechanics and leather.
3. Provide dust collectors at each point.

In regards to the dust collectors, Mr. Bruce suggested that he would discuss this with the Maintenance Foreman to see if something could be done locally on this matter.

In regards to equipment, he suggested that equipment for offering plastics could be very acceptable, both Mr Evans and Mr. Bruce had requested this, and it was suggested that the cost would be in the neighborhood of $1,200 for each shop

Moved and carried that the necessary equipment be supplied for offering a course in plastics and that the Maintenance Foreman be contacted in regards to the dust collectors.

The Band Leader at Tofield had requested a considerable amount of music instruments and it was considered that the cost might reach $1,500 Mr. Bruce stated that he had written a Company for prices but had received no reply. The question was whether the program would be continued in the future or would it possibly be discontinued in a year or two. It was, however, considered if the instruments were not being used at Tofield they might be used at some other point.

Moved and carried that the request for the purchase of the instruments be approved.

The Superintendent's report mentioned that three schools requested permission to allow photographers to take individual pictures in the schools This practice is contrary to present policy and the Superintendent wondered if there was not a need to reconsider this policy He felt that the permission should be allowed to take individual pupil pictures under certain circumstances. The individual pictures were needed for the year books which most of the schools were now starting to publish. At the present time the onus was on the School Committee whether individual pictures should be taken or not and, in the opinion of Mr Bruce, this should be the responsibility of the parents

After some further discussion, it was moved and carried that permission be granted for photographers to take individual pupil pictures, and that the previous decision in this regard be rescinded

In the matter of the Policy Handbook, the report indicated that the Principals' Association had appointed its president, Earl Kindley, as the representative on the Policy Handbook Committee It was requested that a representative of the School Committee be appointed to work on the Committee to prepare a rough draft of the Policy Handbook; also, that the Supt. of Schools should sit in on this Committee

Moved and carried that the Policy Handbook Committee consist of Cr Raddick, Earl Kindley and the Supt. of Schools, Marvin Bruce.

The Superintendent's report further contained the statement that requests had been received from two schools for a later than 3.30 closing. The requests had been refused by the Supt. until the School Committee had an opportunity to discuss the matter. The two schools concerned were Viking and Ryley, and they wanted permission to close at 3:45 rather than the present time of 3:30. With the school closing at 3.30 there is no provision for recesses in the Jr and Sr. High. It was felt that it would not be in the best interest of the schools as a whole to allow the 3:45 closing, and no action was taken on the request

The secretary-treasurer reported that the County had received a merit rebate in the amount of $696 14, representing a 25% rebate for the year 1965 from the Workmen's Compensation Board

Moved and carried that the report be accepted

This being Mr Stinson's last meeting he, in a few words, expressed his pleasure of having had the opportunity to work with the School Committee He wished the Committee all success in the coming years, and he also expressed his hope that he might return after a year's absence. The Chairman, Cr Raddick, thanked Mr Stinson for his interest in the school matters and for the valuable work that he had done in the School Committee.

TSU plans yearbook

At a meeting of the Tofield Students' Union held last week it was decided to publish a centennial yearbook, the theme being "The School — the Centre of the Community". In addition to all students and their yearly activities the yearbook will include a history of the Tofield community. Plans are being made to contact all business and service organizations as their story will be preserved for the future.

As a result of this decision questionnaires were sent out to all parents on October 13, enquiring whether they wanted their pictures to be taken by a school photographer. The results of this poll was 30-19 in favor of pictures being taken, therefore arrangements are being made to have this service available to the community.

step towards putting together the program he will be launching soon.

Finally, he said that Alberta needs a program for what he calls, "senior adolescents" — people in their early 20's

o o o

It was also a week just full of ribbons and ends.

For instance, the government announced that tenders have been called for construction of the final section of the Alberta Resources railway in the Smoky River area. The work is on the final 11 miles of the line that runs 111 miles north from its junction with the CNR main line west of Hinton.

The provincial treasurer, Mr. Aalborg announced that Alberta civil servants have been offered pay increases totalling $6 000 000 a year. The employees and the government are still thrashing out a final figure.

The provincial fire commissioner Austin Bridges, released statistics on Fire Prevention Week. There were 37 fires, resulting in $18,800 damage and one injury. He pointed out that this figure projected over a year would reduce total damage from $18 000 000 to $1 000 000.

Premier Manning and Mr. Aalborg are in Ottawa this week to meet the other provincial leaders and discuss the proposed tax sharing program between the two levels of government. It's less than a month before the special session of the Alberta legislature is called to deal with the changes.

Five new positions have been created to aid the "human side" of Alberta's ARDA program, Agriculture Minister Strom announced that these would include a guidance counsellor for those on farms who are thinking of going into other occupations. There will also be a farm adjustment specialist, a home development agent, and male and female community advisors.

Mr. Strom also said the province would continue to expand the crop insurance program from the five areas in which it is now operating. And he said that the government is working on a new irrigation policy.

Ryley football club pulls hat trick for third county championship

After a shaky start, this season, the Ryley High School football team came back to win the county championship by defeating Tofield 22-19 in a 9-game total-point series.

In the last two years Ryley has had little trouble gaining the championship; however, this year they did it the hard way. Being defeated in their first three games by Tofield, Holden and Viking, did not dampen their spirits. They proved this by defeating these same teams in the next three games. These three wins put them in second place, thus pitting them against Tofield for the championship.

Tofield came on strong, with their usual strong running attack, and led by 5 points going into the second game, which was played in Tofield on Wednesday, Oct. 26. Tofield played hard to keep this lead, but the Ryley boys proved to be too much for them and walked away with a very proud victory 16-8, thus winning the series and championship 22-19.

Basketball practice started this week for Junior and Senior High teams. The turnouts for the teams are the largest in the history of the school. Mr. Rurka is coaching the Junior High teams, assisted by Mr. Pullen and Mr Ronoghan. Mr. Eastlick will coach the Senior High team with aid from Mr. Ferguson.

Report cards will be sent home on November 8 and are to be returned by the parents on Parent-Teacher Day, November 10. A number of incomplete grades will appear on high school report cards due to absences of students who have not made up for tests missed. Incomplete grades will be represented by an "I", in place of a grade.

Magazine sales will not close until Friday, due to the indifference of students this year and the number of people who have not yet been contacted.

The yearbook kit arrived Monday and work is progressing on it.

Unique costumes at Hallowe'en

(Mrs. J. Roddick)

MINISTIK — The Hallowe'en dance sponsored by the Community Club was well attended and enjoyed by all.

Best costume prizes went to Keith Williams as a bride and Margaret Jeske as his groom. Costumes for the most work were: Turkeys, worn by Bruno Jeske and Betty Williams; best man, Frank Swabey, as a little old man; best lady, Carol McEwan; boy's best, Keith Horricks, as a pirate; girl's best, Brenda Roddick, as an Indian girl.

Honorable mention goes to Glenn Ferguson and Richard Heilman, as Robots, complete with lights that went on and off. These boys spent many hours preparing their costumes, as did Betty Williams and Bruno Jeske, as Turkeys.

Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year.

Calvin had been sent out to look for his brothers and sisters. He thought they might be down by Bearberry Creek. As he was walking along the creek he suddenly spotted little 22-month old Jacqueline Bateman. She was completely submerged in the water — caught under a board. With great presence of mind and no thought for his own safety, 13-year old Calvin plunged into the creek. After freeing Jacqueline and making sure she was breathing normally he rushed her back to her home. As Mrs. Bateman says, "What can you say? 'Thank you' doesn't seem enough." Calvin's courage and quick action undoubtedly saved the little girl's life.

We congratulate Calvin and wish to thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

New alderman sworn in

At the first meeting of the Town Council on October 24, following the October 19 civic election, the main matters dealt with pertained to the report on the results of the election by the Returning Officer.

Returning Officer's Report

Dr. W. H. Freebury was re-elected as Mayor of the Town of Tofield by acclamation. Of a possible 420 eligible voters, 244 cast ballots, resulting in B. A. Everitt receiving 122 ballots, while J. G. Allan and Gabe Pittet each received 113. A draw named G. Pittet as Councillor for the next three-year term. T. Robt. Nebrebeski polled 100 votes.

Fluoridation

The fluoridation bylaw, which required a majority to pass, was defeated, with 116 electors voting against fluoridation and 112 voting in favour; seven refused to vote on the bylaw, and nine ballots were spoiled.

Oaths of Office, administered by Const. Wall, were subscribed to by Dr. W. H. Freebury for a two-year term as Mayor and B. A. Everitt and G. Pittet for three-year terms each as Councillors.

It was moved and carried that the Committees remain the same as the past year, with Clr. Pittet replacing Clr. Allan. Clr. Swift was appointed Deputy Mayor.

M. Bruce, Superintendent of Schools in the County of Beaver, and K. Eastlick, Principal of the Tofield School, were present and wished some indication as to whether or not Council would consider reserving the land south and east of the school for future school expansion programs. After discussion, Council decided to give favorable consideration to this request if approached formally by the County of Beaver No. 9 at a later date.

Mayor Freebury instructed the secretary-treasurer to arrange a meeting of representatives from local organizations to discuss Centennial plans. Clrs. Everitt and Pittet were appointed to represent the Town at such a meeting. Mrs. Grace Phillips is to be invited to represent the school.

No injuries when blaze levels home near Lindbrook

Fire of undetermined origin, that apparently occurred in the basement, destroyed the frame and stucco dwelling immediately east of the Lindbrook hall Saturday afternoon. H. B. Garland of Edmonton was the owner of the house which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Herring and family of small children. Mrs. Herring was alone at home at the time with the children, one being a baby seven weeks of age. Information is that they miraculously escaped uninjured. Mrs. Herring dropped the baby out of the ground floor window and jumped out herself. The Tofield fire department responded to the call for help but were unable to do more than control the fire. Fireman Jock Tiedemann had a narrow escape when a tall chimney toppled brushing his left shoulder. Various organizations assisted the family and they are now living in the Hotel in Tofield as vacant dwellings are very scarce.

Tofield High School news

There will be a contest in the near future for the selection of the best name for the yearbook, the school newspaper, and for the column in the Tofield Mercury. The purpose of selecting one name for all three productions is to establish an identity for the Tofield School.

Names will be submitted by the school students, and judged by an impartial panel.

The school paper was published Tuesday and a copy was distributed to each family. In the future it may be necessary to charge a small fee for these newspapers in order to cover the cost of paper and stencils.

The magazine sales came to a close last week after a final splurge. The sales totalled about $1250, giving the TSU a profit of approximately $430. The students would like to thank all members of the community for supporting this fund raising activity.

MacDuff Ottawa Report

The agenda problem

OTTAWA. — On the innocuous-sounding Conservative conference agenda dispute could rest the future of John Diefenbaker's leadership.

The battle is being fought before the Party's annual meeting Nov 14 - 16. Its outcome may decide whether the leadership review issue ever comes before the conference floor.

The protestants are the party's two senior leaders.

Mr. Diefenbaker is battling for control of the annual meeting with his right arm—the Conservative national headquarters headed by his appointee, National Director James Johnston.

National President Dalton Camp is fighting back personally and publicly. His stated object is not Mr. Diefenbaker's head, but a more democratic Conservative party.

Normally, there would be no agenda problem. The order and time of speeches and votes is usually drafted by the Party's national headquarters in consultation with its national president. The schedule is then submitted to the national executive for alterations. Finally, it goes to the annual meeting for formal approval.

The trouble this year derives from the breakdown in communications between the Diefenbaker-controlled headquarters and the president. It hit the headlines when Mr. Johnston simply tossed his own agenda for the meeting.

Mr. Camp charges that the agenda is invalid because he was not consulted in its preparation. He promises to call a meeting of the national executive to make a proper agenda.

Mr. Johnston responds with the charge that the Party president ignored his request to help in the preparation of the agenda. Mr. Camp counter-charges that the national director tried to blow his overtly to encourage pro-Diefenbaker resolutions.

The reasons for Mr. Camp's anger are readily appreciated in a reading of the Johnston agenda. First, it schedules a "keynote" speech by Mr. Diefenbaker only one hour after his two-day meeting is scheduled to open.

The Party president admits it is normal for the leader to make a speech at a time of his own choosing. But he says it is highly unusual for the address to come so early. And never before has the leader been cast in what he calls the role of "opening pinch-hitter".

Though Mr. Camp hasn't spelled them out, it is clear what he considers the Diefenbaker-Johnston tactics to be. The Party-wide leader would, of course, make a rousing speech. A "confidence vote" vote of confidence would then be moved from the convention floor. Obviously it would be

Why wear a poppy?

By Don Crawford

(Reprinted from The Legionary, October, 1964)

"Please wear a poppy," the lady said
And held out forth, but I shook my head.
Then I stopped and watched as she offered them there.
And her face was old and lined with care;
But beneath the scars the years had made
There remained a smile that refused to fade.

A boy came whistling down the street,
Bouncing along on care-free feet.
His smile was full of joy and fun.
"Lady," said he "may I have one?"
When she'd pinned it on he turned to say,

"Why do we wear a poppy today?"
The lady smiled in her wistful way
And answered, "This is Remembrance Day,
And the poppy there is a symbol for
The gallant men who died in war,
And because they did, you and I are free —

That's why we wear a poppy you see
"I had a boy about your size,
With golden hair and big blue eyes.
He loved to play and jump and shout,
Free as a bird he would race about.
As the years went by he learned and grew

And became a man — as you will, too.
"He was fine and strong, with a bright smile,
But he'd seemed with us such a little while
When war broke out and he went away
I still remember his face that day
When he smiled at me and said, "Goodbye.

I'll be back soon, Mom so please don't cry.'
"But the war went on and he had to stay,
And all I could do was wait and pray.
His letters told of the awful fight.
I can see it still in my dreams at night,
With the tanks and guns and cruel barbed wire,

And the mines and bullets, the bombs and fire.
"Till at last, at last, the war was won —
And that's why we wear a poppy, son."
The small boy turned as if to go,
Then said, "Thanks lady, I'm glad to know.
That sure did sound like an awful fight,

But your son — did he come back all right?"
A tear rolled down each faded cheek;
Sher shook her head, but didn't speak.
I think away in a sort of shame.
And if you were me you'd have done the same;
Four one thanks, in giving, is oft delayed,
Though our freedom was bought — and thousands paid!

And so when we see a poppy worn,
Let us reflect on the burden borne
By those who gave their very all
When asked to answer their country's call
That we at home in peace might live,
Then wear a poppy, Remember — and Give!

How about the Legion?

Remembrance Day tends to bring the Royal Canadian Legion to the forefront of the community even more than at any other time of the year, so the timing may be correct to wonder how far Canada's current trend to cut loose from Britain will go.

It now seems probable that Canada's service men are soon to drop the "Royal" portion of their name, possibly coupled with some other move to identify them all under some such name as Canadian Armed Forces.

Possibly Mr. Hellyer's authority wouldn't stretch that far, but what would this tend to mean for the Royal Canadian Legion? Many members will remember it was only a short time ago the 'Royal' was added to the Legions' name . . . would that now come down . . . possibly for the sake of uniformity? Or would anyone care very much!

And the Mounties?

Apropos the note above, is it likely Canada's famous Mounties may soon become just the CMP, dropping the 'Royal' too? We've always thought RCMP had a very balanced, satisfying ring of substance to it, but CMP sounds a little thin and hollow for some reason.

That brings up another point. Since the horses are gone now, why not drop any reference to them and just call the force Canadian Police. That way the initials could easily tie in with the new design (very unofficially) for the Postes Canada, or is it Canada Post. And all the other CP designs. Think of the efficiency. Think of the money we'd save. And think of the confusion.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

By JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

Youth travel programs and cultural exchange visits between communities and ethnic groups are organized and financed by the Centennial Commission to help promote communication and understanding between Canadians separated by our country's great distances.

The idea behind such programs, of course, is that 1967 is a good time for everyone to get to know Canada better and to learn more about its peoples, its varied geography and history. But government programs, as in most other cases, act merely as catalysts. The idea will become a complete success only if Canadians, motivated from within themselves and on their own initiative, get on the move in '67 to see more of Canada and to learn more about it.

Many of us don't take the opportunity to do a little amateur research on Canada even at short distances. I met a middle aged man, for example, who lived most of his life 30 miles from Niagara Falls and had never seen that great wonder of the world, even though he had toured the United Kingdom and half of Europe during the last war.

For the affluent, a trip across Canada could well replace a European holiday with a saving to boot. Though the distance is as great, the fare is less. For those of us who can't afford such a trip next year we don't only choose a travel radius of one or a few hundred mile , to fit the pocketbook, and pick an interesting spot over there. And then before

We have no shortage of fascinating communities, historical sites and natural wonders in our own. I'll wager that many Nova Scotians and other Maritimers have not yet visited the old French Fortress of Louisberg, now being restored near Cape Breton Island, whose history on the mere printed page stirs excitement and wonder. How many B.C. mainlanders have really explored the beauties of Vancouver Island and met the interesting personalities who live around the island ports and towns?

Anyone I could pick anyone at random on the main street of any Ontario town and find that he had not explored unbeaten paths around the province's country

Have you ever wondered...

. . . how nursing home facilities are controlled?

Albertans requiring the services of a nursing home are able to enjoy the finest facilities for their care and comfort at a cost well within their reach, thanks to the Nursing Home Plan of the Alberta Department of Public Health. The Province contributes $4.50 per day to the cost of care given in a home operating under the plan which provides facilities considered adequate by the Department's inspection staff. In addition to the essential services such extras as dining rooms, beauty and barber shops and areas for recreational, divisional and religious activities must be included.

. . . where an Alberta farmer can borrow money to increase his land?

Any Alberta Farmer who has the opportunity to improve his operation by the addition of new land needs only 20 per cent of the purchase price in cash. The rest, up to a maximum of $24,000, he can borrow from the Alberta Department of Agriculture Farm Purchase Board, if he meets the requirements set. All it costs him is his application fee to one of the Province's 71 local Farm Purchase Advisory Committees, and an interest rate of 5 per cent which includes life insurance. Up to the end of 1965, the value of credit extended to farmers is estimated at $24 million and the value of the land purchased at $42.5 million

. . . what is the common denominator in "invest" and "investigate"?

Possession of "all the facts, ma'm" is as vital a factor in investing as it is an investigation. To make sure that Alberta investors have this protection, each individual or company desiring to sell shares or debentures within the Province must first register and file a copy of their prospectus with the Alberta Securities Commission of the Attorney-General's Department. The Commission ensures the prospectus gives a full, true and factual picture of the company and that each prospective purchaser receives a copy before the transaction is complete. In addition to these precautions, the Alberta Securities Commission is continuously conducting audits and has full authority to investigate complaints lodged with it by the public. To maintain contact with native and international securities fields, the Commission works in co-operation with similar Commissions in other provinces and the United States.

. . . how old a boy should be before he starts learning the practical side of forest conservation?

Ten, according to the Alberta Forest Service. Deputies in of Lands and Forests. That's the minimum age at which a boy can become a member of the Junior Forest Wardens, an organization originated by the Training Branch of the Service, and now administered by the Department of Youth, which teaches proper conservation needs and procedures. A year bound program of learning, engaged by ten days of practical experience at camp. When a Junior Forest Warden reaches the age of 17 or 18, he can apply for work as a Junior Forest Ranger. As such, he will attend a two month summer work camp where he will be actively engaged in forest conservation projects. Such practical experience helps him decide if he wants to enter this profession. If he does, he is trained in advanced forest technology course provided by the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology in conjunction with the Department of Lands and Forests.

. . . what is the source of Alberta's school books?

From Grade One's "Seeing Through Arithmetic" to Grade Twelve's "Mathematics 33", all text books used in Alberta schools are distributed to dealers, teachers and school boards by the School Books Branch of the Alberta Department of Education. School boards may sell the books to students at cost, they may rent texts or make them available free of charge. A discount of 10 per cent off list price is allowed when books are provided free or are rented to students at a cost of not more than one third the price of the book. A total of $1.5 million worth of texts will be distributed during the school year.

. . . if accidents are the greatest menace to the health of Alberta's industrial workers?

They're not. Health hazards such as noise, dust and noxious fumes present an even greater threat and they must be controlled if the efficiency of Alberta's industries is to be maintained. Investigations into the causes and cures of these insidious and dangerous problems are carried out by a team from the Industrial Health Services Division of the Alberta Department of Public Health. A doctor, a chemist and an engineer work together to determine the reason for health hazards in industry and to recommend methods of control. These services are available to any employer who is interested in maintaining a high degree of health safety and preventing a harmful working environment.

Ozubko-Niemetz vows exchanged on July 30

In a candle-light ceremony at St. J... Cathedral, Edmonton on Saturday July 30, Gail Sha... daughter of Mr and Mrs. Geo... Niemetz of Tofield, became the bride of Robert Ronald Ozubko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ozubko of Tofield. Rev. Father Gartner officiated at the double-ring ceremony

The bride, escorted on the arm of her father who gave his daughter in marriage, was beautiful in her floor-length gown of chantilly lace "Romance of Roses", featuring a chapel-length train, and was styled with lily-point sleeves, a scalloped neckline with pearls and sequins and scalloped hemline. Her headpiece, a crystal crown with a bouffant finger-tip veil touched with lace appliques completed the ensemble Gift of the groom was a pearlized prayer book on which philodendron orchids tipped with green ivy were arranged.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Joyce Worsfold of Kamloops, B.C., a close friend, and bridesmaids were Miss Linda Ozubko, sister of the groom, and Miss Betty Shultz, cousin of the bride They wore identical flowing floor-length shrimp organza gowns set off with mature crystal necklaces and eardrops, gifts of the bride. Matching head bands were entwined with their hair styles. They carried triangular bouquets of shrimp gladiolus and ivy

The bride's gift to the groom were a tie tack and cuff-links, each with matching brilliance.

The best man was Lee Watson of Edmonton, close friend of the groom. Louis and Maurice Verhynck also attended the groom. Ushers were Don Ozubko, Jim MacKay and Larry Yoder.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother wore a pink ensemble of serrano and lace, with pink and white accessories, and a corsage of deep pink and white roses. The groom's mother chose a gold brocade dress with white accessories. She wore yellow-shaded roses on corsage

The reception to 200 people was held at the Riviera Motor Hotel in Edmonton. The hall was decorated in pink and white streamers and bells with red roses. In charge of the guest book were Mr. and Mrs. Don Niemetz. Master of ceremonies was the bride's uncle, Ed Schultz, who commented on the bride's early life Toast to the bride was given by Graham Allan, friend of both families, to which the groom responded Other speakers included the fathers of the bride and groom, Ted Kremsate, uncle of the bride, and best man, Lee Watson

Following the reception, a dance was enjoyed by all as the married couple mingled with their guests. Friends and relatives gathered from various distant points from southern Alberta, British Columbia, Ontario and California

After a honeymoon to Jasper, Banff, Vancouver, Portland and southern Alberta, the couple have taken up residence in Edmonton.

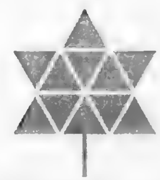
What does Centennial mean to you?



What are you planning for Centennial?

1967 is the year for Canadians everywhere to stop and think about Canada. To look back on how far this nation has come since its rough and rugged beginnings. To think about Canada as it is now: free, prosperous, and with an unlimited future for growth.

To celebrate, magnificent projects are in the works. The Confederation Caravans will bring Canada to millions in rural and tiny out-of-the-way places. The Caravans unfold an exciting colourful story of Canada: from early beginnings right up to the present. Festival Canada brings Canadians the largest entertainment package ever: from western music to opera, musical comedy to drama. Two companies of 300 servicemen each will travel Canada to put on a magnificent stirring Military Tattoo, portraying Canada's past 300 years of military history!

These are just three of hundreds of Centennial events planned for you in the coming year. But what are you doing for Centennial? What is your own personal project? Other Canadians are painting their homes, flying the Canadian flag, planting Maple trees, hooking Centennial rugs, reading up on their Canadian history. What will you do? It's not important how large or how small your project may be. What is important is that you have stopped and thought enough of your country and what it means to you to take up a Centennial project of your own.

The Federal/Provincial events planned will be magnificent and thrilling. But to each of us, the truly exciting and most meaningful projects will be the ones we create ourselves.

What does Centennial mean to you? And what are you planning for Centennial?

The Centennial Commission
Ottawa, Canada.

From the scrap book ...

From 24 years ago

Tofield, Alberta.
November 8, 1966.

Editor, The Mercury.
Dear Sir

Looking through the Scrap Book, I came across the following for Armistice, 1942 I think it is still applicable for today as the world is still at war, and as I look into the dim and misty past I still remember the horrors of war. Let us not forget our glorious dead, who sacrificed their all that we may enjoy the freedom we enjoy today. I wrote this while I was at Coal Valley during the last war.

Wishing you every success as Editor, and trust you are enjoying the best of health.

Yours truly,
—J. W. Robinson

ARMISTICE (1942) LEST WE FORGET

On Wednesday next, it will be 24 years since the Armistice was signed. We thought then that this was an end to all wars. The sacrifice was great, the pick of our youth giving their all, and many paying the supreme sacrifice, that the world might enjoy a lasting peace. There was a smouldering spark left, and was kindled and fanned by German hate, Nazism and Hitlerism, and burst into flame a little over three years ago, and has swept over Europe and half the world, leaving death tyranny and oppression in its wake.

Today we are fighting this terrible inhuman machine of destruction fighting as a free people. This is a war voluntarily and deliberately accepted in order that the freedom of fair dealings may not be allowed to perish from this earth. This is not a war of conquest or territorial gain. This is not a war of hatred. But a war that we may never be slaves to a Nazi-dominated world. Men who in such a spirit accept the challenge of destiny will see it through to the end with courage and faith. Fighting believing that right will triumph over might, though the struggle may be long and the days may be dark, in the end right will overcome might.

And to the glorious dead, I say "Sleep on, sleep on". Be at rest—your sacrifices were not in vain. Today we pay homage to your memory, a memory that the years have not dimmed, and cannot dim as the years go by. Your sons and the youth of today have picked up the torch and will ever bear it high, and carry it to final victory.

This is not a war of hatred not a war of conquest—but a war of idealism. A war to overthrow Hitlerism and dictatorship and all that it stands for. A war to end wars. A war that small nations and civilization may exist. A war that mankind may enjoy freedom that God meant him to have.

It is Churchill against Hitler. It is England's green and pleasant land. Canada's prairies and vast resources, against the darkness of the German forests, where the hordes are gathered again. It is courage against frenzy. The courage of the civilized man, who knows fear, yet sets it gallantly aside, against the duped and driven and slave-minded German youth. It is the hope of the world against the call of the wild. No less.

Courage is the word for Churchill and for Britain, and all the Empire; courage and energy. It is inconceivable that the citadel of Britain will not hold through these awful months; and the condition in which the Motherland faces the future depends largely on us—on this Canadian nation which has risen to Britain's aid, and so to greatness.

There is a duty of paramount importance to us, as Canadians. It is to give of our time, our money, and our brains to help to win this war. It is true that we have done much. But we must recognize that the momentum of the war has doubled in intensity in recent months, and that in order to maintain our share we must double our efforts, by dedicating our best endeavors to the work, by sacrificing many of those things that we in the past deemed essential to our happiness and comfort.

The people of Britain are doing this. Can we? If we neglect to make our work conform to war necessities, how will we be able to face the consequences of our indifference.

Hope, also, there must be. There will be dark days ahead, struggle and suffering; but we must look beyond these. It is our task to pray with youth, and work together with love, and live in hope, and go forward trying always to make our lives a little more worthy of the great sacrifice that was made in the last war.

Victory in this war is not only to be won in the trenches, in the air, and on the sea. It is something deeper than a mere physical thing. This war is a struggle between good and evil. We are fighting against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Today is the harvest of yesterday and the seed-time of tomorrow. Today the world is reaping a harvest of chaos, darkness and declining Christian civilization. Let us pray with faith and trust, nay convinced, that there will be a bigger, a better, a greater world rise out of this darkness and chaos; and that there will be a glorious seed-time of unity, concord and a lasting and abiding peace among the nations of the world.

—J.W.R

The Ladies Club reports a highly successful annual turkey supper on October 25 and would like to thank all who attended. The club met at the home of Mrs. Rowland on October 20. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs A. Scott on Thursday, November 17.

Congratulations are extended to Maureen Perssler and Verlyn Noble who were married at St Francis Catholic Church Vegreville on Oct 21. Mr and Mrs. Rowland and Theresa attended the wedding and reception at the Ritchie Community Hall, Edmonton.

Several work parties have at last got the outside of the new addition finished. This has been hard work, and just the same few have turned out when a party was called. Thanks are extended to all who helped

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Mr and Mrs. Walter Grosland visited with his mother, Mrs Lillie Grosland, during the week-end

Mrs. Helen Taselsmann was a business visitor in Edmonton on Monday, also visiting with her brother and sister - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison

HOSPITAL SERGE

Mrs. Ted Anderson of Calgary and her niece, Marilyn MacDougall, daughter of Mr and Mrs MacDougall of Spirit River, who is a student at the University of Alberta, were Sunday afternoon visitors and supper guests with Mrs. N L. Campbell. Muriel has been staying for several days in Edmonton where her husband Ted is a hospital patient. Ted underwent major surgery a couple of months ago and, after returning home suffered a relapse and had to order a Calgary hospital with severely congested lungs. As his condition became worse the last few weeks, he was flown to Edmonton to be under the care of his doctor there.

Mr and Mrs. Percy Barlow, who were visiting with their daughter and family in Calgary, are staying there to look after the children until Muriel is able to return home idea of a secret ballot on the to get the meeting to debate the leadership issue. What chance would there be of getting such a resolution approved – let alone debated–after such a demonstration of loyalty to the chief"

Secondly, and even worse for the Party president, the Johnston agenda would put off the election of party officers until the after noon of the last day of the meeting. Normally, they are held the first day.

Mr Camp is running for re-election as president on the platform that a leadership convention should be held before the next election. Toronto lawyer Arthur Maloney has been put up by the Diefenbaker loyalists to run against him on the diametrically opposite platform that leadership convention must only be held when the incumbent voluntarily resigns.

This has been Conservative practice to date. But other leaders have given way voluntarily when party dissidents have gang ed up on them privately.

Mr. Diefenbaker is not such a leader. After 20 years and five elections at the helm, he remains convinced that he is the man of the people, if certainly not of all the Party manipulators. The usual vote of confidence will be quite sufficient justification for him to stay on

Mr. Camp says his chances of re-election will be seriously compromised if the presidential vote is held off until the end of the meeting. By that time, the younger Conservatives among whom his strength rests, will probably have gone home.

Apparently Mr. Camp—whom observers think should have accepted the Diefenbaker - Johnston tactics – has lost the first round in the battle of the agenda.

Holden Elks install officers

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN—The Holden Lodge BPO Elks held a special meeting Sunday evening for the installation of Officers for the coming year 1966-1967

The installation ceremony, which was an open ceremony, was conducted by DDGER Lyle Grosland, assisted by PDDGER Earl Hardy. Attending were members of Ils'den Lodge IOOBP, visitors from Viking lodges BPOE and IOOBP wives of Holden Elks and invited guests. The drill team of the Holden IOOBP, assisted by Cund Helen Bilyk as assistant, middling officer, escorted the newly installed officers to their podiums and, later, members encamplifed one of their drills

Officers installed were Bro. William Kelly, exalted ruler; Bro Zane Bilyk, past exalted ruler; Bro Donald Mascher, leading knight; Bro. Eddie Parra, loyal knight; Bro Eugene Bilyk, lecturing knight, Bro John Semotiuk, secretary-treasurer; Bro. J. Lindberg, chaplain, Bro. Joe Furnal, esquire; Bro. Paul Riddel, inner guard, Bro Gordon Story, tyler; Bro Oleh Shykora, trustee; Bro. Lars Olson, publicity director, Bro Lars Olson, historian; Bro Earl Hardy, pianist

Following the installation of officers a hearty vote of thanks was extended by Bro. Lars Olson

The second round will be fought at the national executive meeting where the forces are fairly evenly divided. If the embattled Party president doesn't get his kind of agenda then, a final round will almost certainly be fought on the convention floor.

Roses from the world over will be planted in a 100-bed rose garden at Expo 67. The garden, which will be near the United States pavilion, will feature the Canadian Centennial Rose, a rich coral-colored bloom

Mr Moore said a lot of discussion on 4-H problems took place in the halls and rooms. Here is where several leaders will get a lot of ideas on how to solve their own individual club problems.

There were 227 leaders at the conference, which was sponsored by the Alberta Wheat Pool, United Grain Growers, Department of Agriculture and the Department of Youth.

VOL. 16. No. 12. PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, November 17th., 1966.

VANCOUVER ISLAND, B.C. — In a darkened room, entombed in a solid granite mountain in Colorado, military men are vitally concerned with the activity taking place on and beneath the waters of two oceans, thousands of miles away. These Canadian and U.S. men who serve at the North American Air Defense Command's underground nerve center use the eyes and ears of the Canadian Forces' integrated Maritime Command to search the waters off both coasts of the continent in a never-ending surveillance for any aggressor that could threaten the mutual security of both countries and their populations.

Three Alberta men are part of this Maritime Command team protecting this continent against aerospace attack. They are Flight Lieutenant C. A. Nelson, a navigator from Donalda and Sergeant W. Prokuda, a flight engineer from St. Michael, and Flying Officer G. R. Whitson, a radio officer from Tofield.

"Must stand for something" teachers told

A meeting of the Tofield sub-local of the A.T.A. accepted a program of activity for the remaining school year. Several meetings are planned for the teaching staff which are to serve as an encouragement to better teaching, closer student evaluation, and reporting. Plans were also made for Education Week, consisting of a program for the public.

The speaker for this A.T.A. meeting was Mr Hardy of Holden, who reported on his visit to the School of Fine Arts in Banff where he attended the Leadership Conference. His emphasis was placed on the teacher's responsibility in this age of change and rebellion. "Society generally is in rebellion" were the words of Mr Hans Bergeron, who spoke at the conference and teachers must lead in the areas of their responsibility or face a society in ferment which will force upon its teachers and upon itself the changes which must come.

Mr Bergeron went on to say that the school exists for the student. Consequently the teacher must seek to understand his student as the doctor seeks to understand his patient and the lawyer his client. Not only the power and structure of our society are being theatened today but the very values and principles from which our society draws its meaning and vitality. If out of all this we are to reap the "Great Society" by getting better people, we must get better institutions to implement human generosity. Mr. Bergeron continued, "If we are to rescue the carcass of our culture from society's organizational valley of dry bones, the professions must somehow provide the leadership." He suggests that the place to begin is to re-valuate the conditions of our own house (the teaching profession) and ask ourselves if the organizational patterns we have made are really geared to achieve the ends we seek.

Mr. Bergeron then concluded by saying that the true rebel must stand for something. It is easy to dissent but much harder to provide solutions. Restlessness must not be confused with revelation, and to be up and going is not necessarily to be up and doing.

The local teachers generally appreciated this interesting report and if we are united in one matter at least it is the matter of providing the needed guidance for young citizens at a crucial age in life and a critical age in society.

ELCC is First Autonomous Lutheran Church in Canada

Dr. Karl Holfeld of Saskatoon was installed as president of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada in a festival service Nov. 8, celebrating the birth of the first autonomous Lutheran Church body in Canada. The service highlighted the constituting convention of the new church held in Regina, Nov. 7, 8 and 9. Dr. Holfeld has served since 1949 as president of the Canada District of The American Lutheran Church, which on January 1, 1967, becomes The ELCC

Conducting the installation was Dr. Fredrick Schiotz of Minneapolis, president of The American Lutheran Church of which The ELCC was heretofore a district, who also delivered the sermon at the festival service and presided during the first day of the convention. Prefacing the festival service was a pageant, "Prelude to Presence" written for the occasion by Rev. Reyelts.

The constituting convention adopted its constitution and by-laws, and approved a budget of $765,000 for its first year of operation. It also voted to apply for membership in the Lutheran Council of Canada, the Lutheran World Federation, and the World Council of Churches.

The new autonomous church has a membership of some 77,000 in about 330 congregations, and were represented at the convention by nearly 400 pastors and lay delegates.

Tofield High school news

On Thursday, Nov. 10, a very successful Parent-Teacher Conference was held. Two hundred and ten of the two hundred and forty-four families of the Tofield School students met with teachers during the day. Many parents were able to confer with all of the faculty members teaching their child. This was made possible by the addition of the evening session.

Grades one, seven and ten apparently cause the greatest parental interest, as 96 per cent of these parents were in attendance. The grades of least interest appear to be eight, nine and eleven, as only 81 per cent of this group were at the school.

Any parent who was unable to attend on the regular day may arrange to see any staff member by contacting the school office.

Another conference will be held in the spring, as this meets with the requests of a majority of the parents of the community.

Modern etiquette

Q. When a man is standing in an elevator in an office building, and a woman friend enters, does he remove his hat?

A. He should lift his hat in greeting her. But custom and etiquette do not require that he remove his hat in a business elevator.

Q. Who pays for the beverages and other liquid refreshments at a wedding reception, the bride's parents or the bridegroom?

A. The bride's family pays all the expenses of the wedding reception.

Centennial year to be tops for curlers

Interior sheeting of the Tofield Curling Rink is finished, thus completing the "War on the Drip" which commenced late last spring. Members at the general meeting of the Curling Club on Monday heard the Ladies' Curling Club announce they would undertake to install the windows, floor and staircase to the upper area over the waiting room. It was suggested that the entire Club would take the project of completely finishing the interior of the rink as a personal Centennial Project. E. Halverson was named caretaker for the forthcoming year and has already started work for the season's operations.

Club curling will follow the same pattern as last year. Mixed curling will be once a week; skips can choose their own rinks and hand in a list of rink personnel to Jack Whyte. The same procedure will be followed for the men's curling; the skips are asked to obtain one new curler for their rink wherever possible, otherwise the club will supply a curler. Anyone wishing to curl and not already placed on a rink are asked to contact Jack Whyte, or any member of the executive and they will be placed on a rink.

Ice should be ready for curling by November 27 and regular club draws are slated to start Monday, Nov. 28.

Have you ever wondered...

... who protects the rights of Alberta's working girls ... and men?

The working girl in Alberta today receives wages equal to her male counterpart and [illegible] rates of pay, hours of work, [illegible] established under The Alberta Labour Act and enforced by the Board of Industrial Relations, Alberta Department of Labour. The board not only carries out regular inspections of working conditions and investigates complaints but also protects the new employer by providing him with full information as to the regulations when he establishes a business. In addition, the Board of Industrial Relations provides conciliation officers from its staff when labour disputes reach an impasse and the parties involved request assistance. The record shows that 85 per cent of the disputes handled by these officers have reached successful conclusions.

...what northern Alberta has to offer you?

Whatever your reason for considering this northern area of the Province; as a place to live, a location in which to open a business, or a good investment prospect, the Northern Alberta Development Council is the agency to ask for information. If they don't have the answers to your questions, they know where they can be obtained. This is the clearing house for intelligence on northern Alberta, collected from all departments of government on all phases of [illegible] In addition the Council advises both government and industry on economic and social development in that area of Alberta lying north of the [illegible] parallel.

... who brings power to rural residents of Alberta?

The residents do, with the assistance of the Co-operatives Branch of the Alberta Department of Industry and Development. This Branch supervises a Revolving Loan Fund which is available to Rural Electrification Associations for financing their projects. These are formed by any group of ten or more farmers who can prove that electrification of their area is feasible, practical and acceptable to the residents. Once this has been established the R.E.A. can borrow all but $100 of the cost of each installation. So far, over $51 million has been borrowed by such associations to light up rural Alberta.

... how you can help develop a summer resort area in Alberta?

Write a letter to the Lands Division, Alberta Department of Lands and Forests and tell them about the area in which you'd like to acquire a lot. If enough requests are received, the Lands Division carries out an inspection to be sure the area is suitable for a summer cottage subdivision, then subdivides the land into lots, develops a water supply and builds access roads. The availability of the lots is then advertised and interested applicants gather at a meeting where a draw is held to see who gets first choice, second choice and so on. Normally, the lot is leased for a period of ten years on a renewable basis, at an annual rate of ten per cent of the appraised value. The value of the lot is established by taking into consideration the value of the land plus the cost of development. The lessee must pay taxes on the leased site as well. Once the land is improved by the construction of a cottage, which must be completed to approved plans within two years, the owner may then purchase it outright except in certain forestry areas of the Province where cottage sites are leased only.

... who does the flying under Alberta medical services?

[illegible] Emergency Air Ambulance Service of the Alberta Department of Public Health. Doctors fly too on occasion. When the situation is urgent and the patient can't be moved, a specialist will be flown in. Another use of the Emergency Air Ambulance Service is fast transportation of blood for transfusions. In any case, the tab for transportation by this service is picked up by the Provincial government.

...what you're supposed to do if you discover a cave-in?

Chances are that the cave-in has occurred at the site of one of the more than 1,700 abandoned coal mines in the Province, so your best move is to call the Mines Division of the Alberta Department of Mines and Minerals. Inspectors from the Division keep a very careful eye on all these locations, checking regularly to see that there are no [illegible] closely watched until all signs of settling have disappeared. Safety conditions at the 50 active coal mines in the Province are [illegible] of the Mines Division and [illegible] operating mines are checked once a month, [illegible] operations three or four times a year, and strip mines every two or three months.

Remembrance Day services were conducted at the United Church on Sunday, by Tom Powell. Despite the below zero weather, there was a good attendance.

Influenza has been making the rounds in our district many being victims of the "bug". Harvey and Elaine Kleinschroth are patients in Tofield Hospital and it is hoped their stay will not be too long; also that everyone else who contracted the 'flu will be feeling better soon.

Recent word from Rev. and Mrs. Howard Munro says they are now at Fairview in Northern Alberta after three years at Valleyview. They are enjoying their new post and wish to be remembered to all their friends here. They were both student ministers here, but at different times.

Mrs. Steve Dunn, Brent and his new sister came from Calgary last week to visit Mrs. W. C. Barnes. Mrs. Barnes was getting acquainted with her new granddaughter.

Mrs. Helen Hennessy spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Edmonton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Liknes. She also attended the bazaar and coffee party at the Winnifred Stewart School for the mentally retarded children, where Mrs. Liknes was a convenor.

AT FATHER'S FUNERAL

Slain Mountie served in Tofield

A former Tofield RCMP constable from 1964 - 1965, Gordon Pearson was shot to death Tuesday morning in a restaurant at Winterburn, west of Edmonton The lone gunman who fired the shot also wounded two other men critically.

Constable Pearson was called to the Holly Restaurant, an all-night cafe in a service station at Winterburn shortly before 4:00 a.m. to quell a disturbance there. This he had successfully accomplished, when a man walked in the cafe with a rifle and fired it point-blank at Pearson. A woman spectator rushed the critically injured policeman to an Edmonton hospital, driving in the patrol car at 100 miles per hour, but Const. Pearson was dead on arrival.

Two hours after the shooting, a combined city police and RCMP force rushed a Jasper Place apartment, arrested Charles Hill, 26, and charged him with capital murder

Married only last August to the former Harmien Weaver of Neerlandia, Constable Pearson's funeral will be held Saturday in the same church where he was married.

Tofield marks Book Week

A good sized audience turned out last Thursday evening in the Tofield Community Centre and certainly enjoyed the skits put on by Grade 8 students under the capable guidance of Mrs. Grace Philips Art Evans of the Edmonton Journal gave a fine talk on the great value of reading books of all types

As an expression of appreciation to Mrs. Rose Dodds and Mrs. J. E. Stinson, for their services at the Tofield Library for over 11 years, they were presented with engraved polished chrome dishes by Mr. E. F. Watson who was master of ceremonies of the evening.

An expression of appreciation by Mr. Watson was given Mrs. W. H. Freebury who originally sparked the Tofield Library and continues unstintingly in giving of her time and energy in keeping the library going Other ladies were also named as valuable workers and all mentioned are volunteers.

Launch winter truck program

Truck registration for winter work will commence Friday, November 25, and end December 31. Necessary forms will be available in the Highways Building, Edmonton, and in the offices of several District Engineers.

The program this winter is expected to be smaller than last year and will be primarily in the more remote areas of the province. The nature of the work places much of the hauling in isolated areas, requiring the trucker to have portable living accommodation. A number of the haul routes will be across muskeg terrain and out of some of the major river valleys. The operators must, therefore, be competent and have the trucks in good operating condition

The gross earning amount will be set initially at $1200.00 per owner called to the work. However, this figure will be adjusted if required depending on the volume of work and the success in obtaining trucks promptly when called.

Have you ever wondered...

...who keeps Albertans informed on government activities?

To make sure that as many Albertans as possible know as much as possible about government activities and services is the responsibility of the Alberta Government Publicity Bureau. Although attached to the Department of Industry and Development, the Bureau's scope includes all departments and, to keep the public informed, it utilizes many forms of communication. Advertisements, such as this, news releases provided to all media, a variety of free periodicals, all help keep you informed on the activities of your Provincial government and the services it performs on your behalf.

...what is the most important use of water?

Water is VITAL to the sustenance of human life; necessary for irrigation and industry; preferred for the production of power; and desirable for recreation. These are the priorities set for the use of Alberta's water by the Water Resources Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, and it is the responsibility of this agency to see that the supply is distributed accordingly. To help accomplish this purpose, no one may divert water without authority from the Division and permanent records are kept of all water diversions. This careful control is necessary for the long term planning required to assure Alberta sufficient water for all uses through the growing years ahead.

...if the rights of any Albertan are being destroyed by discrimination?

The continuance of the traditional Alberta policy of judging a man by his personal worth, not by race, creed or color, is the purpose of The Human Rights Act. Administered by the Alberta Department of Labour, this Act is designed to safeguard the dignity and human rights of all residents of the Province. In order that each Albertan will know his rights and responsibilities under The Human Rights Act, an extensive educational and informative program is currently being prepared by the Department of Labour.

. . . about the flowers that beautify Alberta's public buildings at special events in mid-winter?

It's summer all year 'round in the Provincial greenhouses maintained by the Alberta Department of Public Works and it's here that plants which bloom at different times of the year are specially raised in preparation for specific occasions such as the opening of the Legislature for Christmas. By some green-thumb magic, plant growth is speeded up or retarded to allow their blooming to coincide with the special event. The greenhouses are also the source of meddings for the flowerbeds decorating Provincial buildings all over Alberta. Over a quarter of a million plants are grown here every year.

...if homesteading in Alberta is extinct?

Homesteading is still very much alive in our Province, sustained by an average of more than 1,000 applications for land received each year by the Lands Division, Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. Under homesteading regulations a man can purchase land at the going price, without competitive bidding, and he doesn't have to make any payments during those important first three years when he needs all his capital to establish his buildings and obtain equipment. He doesn't start paying taxes or payments on the land until the beginning of the fourth year. In return for these advantages, the homesteader agrees to cultivate a minimum of 40 acres per quarter section within four years and to establish residence on the property for at least 12 months to qualify for title.

...what precautions are taken to provide immediate treatment of accidental poisoning?

Every general hospital in Alberta has a poison control centre where information of poisonous substances is immediately available to the family doctor, the hospital nurse or, in emergencies, to parents. Maintained by the Department of Public Health, these centres have a quick reference system which provides details on whether or not a substance is poisonous or not, on what the active poisonous material is and what can be done about it. In addition to these poison control centres, poison information centres are located in Calgary and Edmonton, where information on special treatment of unusual poisons is immediately available to doctors or hospitals.

The Mercury

VOL. 16. No. 14. PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, December 1st, 1966

For long service

Marking the service given to the Tofield Library by Mrs. Rose Dodds, left and Mrs. J. E. Stinson, E. F. Watson last week presented each with engraved polished chrome dishes. Both have served the library for over 11 years. The presentation was made recently when an excellent program was arranged to mark Young Canada Book Week, during which several members of the community were cited for the help they had provided the library over the years.

Ryley carnival well received

Ole Hagen was the big winner at the Ryley Curlers' Carnival held last week. He was the first double winner of the 500 Curling Bonspiel. Although attendance was lower than hoped for on Thursday evening due to icy road conditions, the turnout for Friday's evening of entertainment was sensational, and the curlers realized in excess of $1,000 profit for the entire venture.

SLAVE SALE POPULAR

Bobby Penner brought "prime" price on Thursday evening as auctioneer Garnet Burnstad brought the hammer down at the $2 per pound. All slaves were sold at a fair "round" basis and prices ranged from the $.50 per pound.

The Bonspiel events also numbered five and all received prizes. Ole Hagen endeavored. Howard Beeke was awarded the prize for most original. Ed Hagen was easily the most determined with his "Don't shoot over head". Wilmer Magnuson rated the most consistent prize. Lloyd Wickstrom was far and away the curliest, and Garnet Burnstad received the prize for most outstanding display of "chin wankers".

The main evenings of revelry were topped with a most successful dance on Friday evening.

OPENING 'SPIEL PROGRESSING

All evening draws are filled as the opening bonspiel proved very popular with 36 mixed rinks participating. No matches of interest were available at press time.

French Charolais arrive in Canada

Charolais cattle straight from their native France recently arrived in Canada and are in quarantine on an island in Quebec. In view of the fact that the strain will eventually spread on the North American continent, some findings on their effect on British stock may be of interest. Importations from France have been there sufficiently long for some data to be collected.

The Milk Marketing Board of England and Wales has come to the conclusion that the Charolais crosses grow faster than crosses by the major British breeds. According to their report, however, they have presented more calving difficulties. Between 1962 and 1966, over 11 per cent of calves caused trouble against two per cent in other breeds and crosses. Because Charolais cross calves were carried four days longer than purebreds, high calving weights resulted. Calving mortality was also higher. On average, Charolais bulls sired 2.6 per cent that died within 12 hours of birth, against 0.8 per cent with purebreds.

The report admits, "Charolais bull's sire calves which are carried longer, are heavier at birth, cause more calving difficulties and are rather more likely to die at a young age than are calves sired by British breeds."

Growth and feed conversion results are summarized as giving

Farm curlers p'an to hold turkey contest

The interior of the curling rink has been completely renovated, the upstairs lobby has been made suitable for spectators, and now the ice surfaces are being flooded . . . all that remains now is for everyone to get the old curling fever.

The afternoon curling club has completed its draw and, as in past years, has come up with 16 rinks, curling Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 1:30. The curling club and the mixed evening club are still in urgent need of curlers. Those wishing to curl on the evenings should contact either Graham Allan or Jack Whyte.

As a prelude to curling this year, the afternoon curling club will sponsor a curl-fest and turkey-rama slated on December 16, with activities to get underway at 7:00 p.m. There will be four challenge games between four town and four country rinks. A suitable trophy will be awarded in this event.

Immediately following the challenge games, the turk-a-rama shoot will begin, and anyone may participate in this. There will be open events, children's events, ladies' events, and even a few novelty events. Each person will be allowed to shoot two rocks for a dollar, with 10 people shooting for each turkey . . . so, if

Halt grain shipments to West Coast docks

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29—A tieup of dock operations at West Coast ports has forced Canadian Pacific to impose a temporary embargo on the movement of Prairie export grain in Vancouver. Grain shipments for the Lakehead and domestic customers are not affected.

The embargo takes effect immediately. It was ordered to prevent a serious build-up of loaded boxcars at Vancouver grain terminals and to permit full use of equipment for other shipments, including grain bound for the Lakehead. It will also enable Canadian Pacific to resume a steady flow of grain to Vancouver—soon as normal dock operations are resumed.

As of midnight, Nov. 28, the CPR had 1,015 grain cars waiting to be unloaded at Vancouver,

Who speaks for whom across the table?

Guest Editorial from The Montreal Star

The Montreal Star two weeks ago carried an important editorial . . . on the eve of the Air Canada strike . . . on the appalling situation facing the country. The situation of course has changed: the Air Canada strike is over, the possibility of a postal strike has been delayed ten months, and the railways seem past the immediate likelihood of strike.

The Star comments: "What is more important is never, is the condition which the three events expose. We are suffering a collapse in traditional procedures. In each case, deep dissatisfaction exists in the ranks of the union. The traditional controls are breaking down. The pace is being set by the rank and file or by its shadow leaders . . . not by those elected to office or by that same membership. . . . And the system of negotiations from start to finish has become increasingly cumbersome and prolonged.

. . . The union knows, or feels, that if it presses the point it will force the cabinet to enter negotiations directly, that what happens before this stage is merely skirmishing. This is the real lesson of the seaway and dockers settlements in the federal field, and of the hospital settlement provincially. The real boss was exposed and the normal procedures shown up to be nothing but window dressing.

It is this fact more than the amount of the settlement which constitute the Pearson guidelines. What happens before the direct involvement of the government now appears to the men to be of no account, time wasted, a period in which what patience exists in the ranks is exhausted.

But there must be procedures and there must be order if we are not to have chaos. If the government is to intervene, if those who appear to be charged with responsibility are not really so charged—the port authorities in the case of the Montreal Harbor dispute—then we would be better off with a new system. On the other hand if the membership will not accept the direction of the leaders whom they appoint and the negotiators they choose, then the job of these men is impossible. Negotiations become meaningless; on the management side, the real decisions are made elsewhere; on the union side the negotiators cannot commit the union.

Law is not involved here as much as practice. If the government is in, it should be in from the beginning; if the membership is not willing to give its spokesmen the green light, then a...me other system for determining rank and file wishes must be found. As it is today, those who confront each other across a table are not the determiners of events in either case. The result is near chaos.

Have you ever wondered...

...what happens to the profits made by the province of Alberta treasury branches?

After all operating costs have been paid, these profits (over $5 million in the last six years) are turned over to the General Revenue Fund of the Alberta Government to help pay for the cost of running the Province. In addition to this, a Treasury Branch reserve fund has been built up to more than $1 million. A self-supporting business enterprise, the Treasury Branches make no loans from government accounts. Loans made to assist in the financial and industrial growth of the Province come entirely from the money deposited by the people of Alberta.

...who should be concerned about Alberta's "neglected children"?

YOU should be. It is the duty of every Albertan to help prevent any child from being harmed through neglect or ill-treatment and, under the terms of The Child Welfare Act, it is obligatory to report such action to the authorities. In this case, the authorities are the Child Welfare Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Welfare, as this department gradually assumes all responsibilities for child protection within the Province. It is expected that the transfer of these duties from the Municipal to Provincial authorities will be completed by the end of this year, except in Edmonton and Calgary where the change will not be completed for two years.

...who administers Alberta's new towns before there is even a population?

Many of Alberta's new towns must be carved out of the bush and a wilderness must be turned into a habitable area with streets, water, sewer and power, even before the population starts to arrive. This takes money and people and, in most cases, arrangements for both are supplied by the Municipal Inspection Branch of the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs. Loans of up to one million are available from the Provincial Treasurer for the development of a new townsite and experts from the Branch form a Board of Administrators which will oversee the growth of the town until the population and prospects become sufficient for the local residents to assume control.

...why you can't fish with live bait in Alberta?

Any fisherman who puts that enticing little wriggler on his hook may be unknowingly taking the first step in replacing the trout in his favorite fishing spot with completely undesirable fish. # Have you ever wondered...

...what happens to the profits made by the province of Alberta treasury branches?

After all operating costs have been paid, these profits (over $5 million in the last six years) are turned over to the General Revenue Fund of the Alberta Government to help pay for the cost of running the Province. In addition to this, a Treasury Branch reserve fund has been built up to more than $4 million. A self-supporting business enterprise, the Treasury Branches make no loans from government accounts. Loans made to assist in the financial and industrial growth of the Province come entirely from the money deposited by the people of Alberta.

...who should be concerned about Alberta's "neglected children"?

YOU should be. It is the duty of every Albertan to help prevent any child from being harmed through neglect or ill-treatment and, under the terms of The Child Welfare Act, it is obligatory to report such action to the authorities. In this case, the authorities are the Child Welfare Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Welfare, as this department gradually assumes all responsibilities for child protection within the Province. It is expected that the transfer of these duties from the Municipal to Provincial authorities will be completed by the end of this year, except in Edmonton and Calgary where the change will not be completed for two years.

...who administers Alberta's new towns before there is even a population?

Many of Alberta's new towns must be carved out of the bush and a wilderness must be turned into a habitable area with streets, water, sewer and power, even before the population starts to arrive. This takes money and people and, in most cases, arrangements for both are supplied by the Municipal Inspection Branch of the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs. Loans of up to one million are available from the Provincial Treasurer for the development of a new townsite and experts from the Branch form a Board of Administrators which will oversee the growth of the town until the population and prospects become sufficient for the local residents to assume control.

...why you can't fish with live bait in Alberta?

Any fisherman who puts that enticing little wriggler on his hook may be unknowingly taking the first step in replacing the trout in his favorite fishing spot with completely undesirable fish. If the live bait goes free to grow and spawn, these undesirable species will soon crowd the trout into extinction, thereby destroying sport fishing in that location. ## School committee to undergo the test for Tuberculosis

The Superintendent's Report was referred to the Committee at this time. Item No. 1 was a report of Inspector of High Schools for the following teachers: Cornelius Kyrosk, Boris Stashko, Mrs. Wayne Baillie and Miss Susan Smith, all of Hyley.

The reports were very satisfactory, and it was moved and carried that the reports be accepted and filed.

Mr. Lloyd Cribb, representative of the local ATA, attended the meeting at this time and he requested that a record of the top three students in Grade XII be forwarded to the Local ATA.

He also referred to the matter of sabbatical or educational leave that had been discussed during the salary negotiations in the spring. The Chairman asked that the Committee had this day discussed this matter and that the Local ATA would receive some further information on this matter after next month's meeting.

The Superintendent's report referred to ASTA Seminar on "Employee-Employer Relations" to be held on December 6th to 7th and the Supt suggested that representatives should be appointed at this meeting.

Moved that Crs. Radnick and Krupelnicki and the Sec.-Treasurer or the Asst. Sec.-Treasurer, whoever can take time off, be appointed to attend this Seminar fee.

In the report it was mentioned that the Ryley school required a spirit duplicator as the old machine was in poor condition. It was recommended that an electric drive Heyer Duplicator be purchased for this school.

Moved that the requested spirit duplicator be purchased. Cd.

The report referred to additional school ground in Tofield. this land being located south and east of the present school ground. Mr. Bruce attended the Tofield Town Council Meeting on October 24th and in his opinion the land would be available if the school Committee desired to obtain it.

Moved that we apply for the land in question. Cd.

A revised form for the bursary agreement was referred to the Committee at this time. In this connection it was reported that the following number of students were in each of the following categories.

First year — 10; Second year — 10; Third year — 8; Fourth year — 1.

The suggested revisions to the bursary agreement were fully discussed and after one or two minor adjustments it was moved that the proposed form be accepted and that the new bursary program be put into effect this year. Cd.

The Committee was advised that Gary Eugene Bilyk of Holden had been awarded the Governor General's Medal for the best student in the County in Grade IX examinations and that, as had been the practice in previous years, a watch had been obtained to be presented on behalf of the Cunty.

Moved by Cr. Krupelnicki that the report be accepted and action recurred in. Cd.

On account of the "Employee-Employer Relations" Seminar being held December 6th to 7th, that interfering with the regular date for the School Committee meeting, December 6th it was moved that the next meeting of the School Committee be held on December 14th. Cd.

Widynowski-Wagner vows pledged in summer rites

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Roman Catholic Church, Stony Plain, was the scene of a lovely wedding on July 23, when Dolores Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wagner, was united in marriage to Wayne Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Widynowski. Father Bees performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length lace gown, styled with pearl-beaded neckline, lily-point sleeves, and a three-tiered panel skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a crystal tiara, and she carried a white prayer book on which was a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Attending the bride was her sister, Darlene, and cousins, Amanda Kuhl and Rose Marie Wagner. They wore similar pink silk gowns with empire waists and lace bodices, and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Best men were the groom's brother Kenneth, Lee Watson and Ronald Louis, and guests were ushered by Arthur Wagner and Joey Yurkowski.

About 250 guests were present at the reception and dance at Stony Plain Community Centre. Lee Watson was master of ceremonies, and John Seich, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride, responded to by the groom.

For going away, the bride wore a brown suit with pink accessories.

The happy couple are residing in Calgary.

Town battles country in Saturday bonspiel

The Tofield Curling Rink promises to be a beehive of activity on Saturday evening, Dec. 10th. Preparations have been completed for the challenge game between the town and country curlers and 50 turkeys will be available for the turkey shoot to allow everyone a chance at a turkey.

In conversation with Gabe Pittel, president of the Tofield Curling Club, he intimated that his town rinks possess just too much skill and finesse for their country cousins to cope with, so he is going around freely predicting an easy victory for his side. Earl Rose, president of the Farmer's Club, when informed of Pittel's statement 'snorted' skill and finesse — they'll need more than that; with our power we'll sweep them right out of the rink."

With feelings running so high between the two presidents everyone is urged to come out and cheer their respective sides to victory. A suitable trophy will be awarded the victors.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the Turkey Shoot. Everyone can participate in this whether or not they belong to a club. Ten persons will shoot for each turkey, with each person getting two shots. If a shot covers the button eight points will be awarded, a bite of the button earns seven points, bull on the blue will be worth six, while a bite of the blue is five, full on the red is two points and a biter gets one. No sweeping will be allowed, so get your weight down pat! Competitions will be open with special events for ladies, children and other special novelty events.

During the evening a pair of curling boots will be raffled; watch for George Lee, Russell Ferguson and Percy Fairholm, as they will be pushing ticket sales. The curling boots on display will be size 9 . . . If this is not your size, Robinson Stores will fit you with your size.

Proceeds from the evening's activities will go towards a heater for the rink.

On January 5, 6 and 7, Tofield is to have a chance to see the award-winning "Mary Poppins" in the Community Centre.

Ryley 4-H Club meets Nov. 28

(Mrs. A. Bray)

The Ryley 4-H Beef Club held their third meeting on November 28, at 8:00 p.m at the Ryley School. Kevin Bugge opened the meeting with the pledge, and each of the 31 members present answered the roll call by giving the weight of his or her calf. These calves, numbering 28, were weighed November 5, at Lyon's Ranch.

It was decided that a turkey bingo be held on December 19, at the Legion Hall. For recreation the club decided to attend a hockey game in Edmonton in the near future.

The next meeting will be held at 8.00 p.m. at the Ryley school on December 13.

NEW PROJECT

The 4-H clubs of Ryley are planning a very interesting project. They intend to write a book on the start and subsequent history of the buses operating in the Ryley area.

The club would appreciate any information or high-lights on this subject. Please contact Mrs. G. Annebo, Mrs. W. Magneson, Mrs. J. Pepper, Mr. Peter Muskedal, or Mr. Bob Westmancoat.

Clothing and quilts sent to Hong Kong

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN. — The Friendship Group met Wednesday, Nov. 30, at the home of Mrs N. L. Campbell, with 16 ladies present. This meeting was held instead of one in December, and the ladies were busy packing a parcel containing four quilts and numerous other articles of children's clothing such as warm woollen sweaters, mitts, etc. This is being sent to the Missionary in Hong Kong.

They had also received a thank-you card from the Leprosy Mission headquarters in Toronto, thanking them for the parcel of used postage stamps. These are sold to a buyer of used stamps and the proceeds are sent to assist Leprosy patients. The ladies would appreciate receiving used stamps, which should have a quarter-inch margin of envelope left around the stamp.

Sports' interest is keen among school enthusiasts

Basketball is again in full flight. From early appearances, the Tofield school and community can be justly proud of the calibre of play this year. In recent league games the Tofield boys were defeated 42-30, while the girls won their encounter 33-16.

The next games will be at Ryley when the teams take on the high-flying Ryley hoopsters. Ryley defeated Viking in their last time out.

Your support at any or all of these games is always very much appreciated.

Curling is now well underway, with eight school teams organized. Curling will be every Tuesday after school, with Mr Cribb again in charge.

Students to work at Blood Donor Clinic

As usual, arrangements have been made to have the High School organize and provide workers for the Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic to be held on January 17, 1967.

The local school appreciates this opportunity to take part in another worthwhile community project. Tofield was the first school in the province to look after a clinic, although a number have followed the example.

Remember, it is hoped to see all eligible donors at the Community Centre for this very worthy appointment.

Christmas program to be December 21

A special welcome is extended to the community by the Tofield School to come to the Annual Christmas Concert, to be held in the school gymnasium on Wednesday, Dec. 21, at 7.30 p m.

Grades II, V and VIII are presenting the program this year.

Carnival night is big success

(Mrs. A. Bray)

At the Ryley Carnival, November 25, there was suspense and excitement as the judges gave their decisions on the moustache competition.

Judges, Mrs. Marvin Bruce, Mrs Robert Lund and Mrs. H. Willans very ably announced the winner and presented first to Larry Zuk; second to George Bekker and third to Lawrence Anderson.

Daryl Albrecht master of ceremonies presented the three lady judges with gifts and thanked them for their help. During the intermission with Mrs. Lloyd Wickstrom at the piano, two selections were rendered by a quartette, Mr. Regher, Mr Dunham, Mr. Wickstrom and Mr. Dunham.

With bingo, games of chance and the auction of the slaves at midnight, everyone reports an enjoyable evening. It is reported that one slave was bought by a group of ladies, and is now doing household chores.

The Curling Club was very satisfied with the results of the Carnival and would like to thank all those who helped in so many ways.

No shortage of mandarins

The West Coast dock strike has delayed the arrival of Japanese mandarin oranges in Tofield.

Ships carrying the fruit have been re-routed to a number of United States ports, at Seattle, Portland and Astoria.

Unloading has been slowed in some of the smaller ports, which are not equipped for the job. John Baergen, manager of the Tofield Co-op, said supplies should start arriving today (Thursday), and no shortage of mandarin oranges is expected this year.

Since you were called away,
How well do we remember that and weary day
We often visit your grave,
And cover it with tears,
How hard it is to leave,

Happy face, loving smile,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear
Today, a cluster of fondest memories
Sprayed with silent tears;
Wishing God had spared you

Isn't it nice that some things get better and better:
(Like Falcon's luxury and performance)
And some things never change:
(Like Falcon's low upkeep and big savings)

Make a change for the better...

Falcon '67

The nicest thing about buying a Falcon is that you get a lot of car for your money. Sure, Falcon is a compact — but it rides more smoothly, runs more quietly than any compact has a right to: that's why it's called "the limousine of the compacts!"

And if living it up and saving a little at the same time appeals to you, then Falcon is your kind of car. Did you realize that on Falcon you can get just about every luxury option the biggest cars offer? And generally pay less!

Falcon offers you bucket seats, head-rests, full carpeting, all-vinyl interiors, a Stereo-Tape System, vinyl roof, power steering, power drum brakes, power front disc brakes . . . and all the rest. For big power, order one of Falcon's two 289 cu. in V-8's. Performance is sparkling and economical!

And to put this sparkling, economical power into action, choose a 3- or 4-speed manual or 3-speed SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission that lets you shift manually (a feature many big cars can't even offer).

It's a fast-moving, luxury-loving life with Falcon. Go talk to your Ford or Mercury Dealer about a new Falcon. He'll show you how to get a lot of car for your money.

FORD OF CANADA MORE COMPREHENSIVE 3-POINT NEW CAR WARRANTY

1. 5-year/50,000 mile-warranty on the power train, steering, suspension and wheels.
2. 2-year/24,000 mile-warranty on the entire car.
3. Only one dealer certification per year.

Retired Holden farmer, Olaf Chetney passes

Olaf Chetney of Holden passed away on November 13 at the age of 76 years and 8 months. Born at Tiller, Norway, on February 27, 1890 he received his education in Norway and operated a bakery in Heimdahl for several years. In 1916 he came to the United States where he was employed by a bakery in North Dakota. During a visit to Alberta and Saskatchewan the following year, he was impressed with the fine farm land. Within a short time he became a well-known farmer in the Holden district where he lived until two years ago when he retired to reside in the village of Holden.

As a responsible member of this community, Olaf was a councillor for the Municipal District of Beaver for ten years or more; was an active curler; a charter member of the Elks Lodge; a willing worker at the Lutheran Church, and a participant in many community projects.

Mr Chetney is survived by his loving wife Borghild, and by many nieces and nephews.

The funeral service was held in the Lutheran Church at Holden on November 16 at 2 p.m., with Rev. S. Rude officiating. Hymns sung during the service were "Jesus Lover of My Soul", "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me". Rev. Rude spoke from Psalm 9, verses 1-5; from John 1-12, and Psalm 23. The theme being "the Lord is my Shepherd". Messers Friggstad and Thoring of Frontier, Sask., sang the solo "Beyond the Sunset".

Ryley oldtimer dies in Viking November 12

Hans B Hillerud passed away in the Viking Hospital on November 12, at the age of 82.

Born in Bardo, Norway, he immigrated with his family to Crookston, Minn., as a youth, and arrived in the Ryley district in 1904, where he homesteaded. In 1912 he married Martha Solberg, his loving helpmate for nearly 55 years.

For a time he managed a livery business in Ryley before moving to the farm, where he resided until his retirement.

In his early years he played hockey and football, but later curling became his favorite sport. Fond of music, he sang in the Bardo Male Chorus and was an amateur violinist. He served on the local school board and municipal council, was a Wheat Pool member, and a charter member of Ryley Lodge, No. 75, I.O.O.F.

Mr. Hillerud is survived by his loving wife, Martha; one son, Glenn, of Ryley; four daughters, Hazel (Mrs. C. Patterson) of Tofield, Evelyn (Mrs. H. K. Moen) of Vancouver, B.C., Merle (Mrs. S. H. Hately) of Madeira Park, B.C., and Beulah (Mrs. J. C. Giebelhaus) of Vegreville; 21 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren; also nieces and nephews in Washington, U.S.A. An infant son predeceased him in 1930.

Funeral services were held at the Ryley Lutheran Church on November 16, with Pastor Stanley Rude officiating, assisted by Pastor G. Ostrem of Camrose, with interment in the Ryley Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Albin Anderson, Arnold Bugge, Lawrence Rude, William Maaren, Erling Sand and Raymond Patterson.

Andrews - McLaughlin Funeral Directors had charge of arrangements.

Who was responsible?

Tofield, Alta.,
December 5, 1966.

Sir:

Upon reading the minutes of the School Committee meeting for the County of Beaver in The Mercury of December 1, a few paragraphs particularly caught my attention. It seems from this report that the Committee members were making much of the fact that an inspector from the Attorney-General's dept. stopped one bus from operating, while overlooking more serious defects in two other buses.

To my mind, the important point of this incident, is not that the inspector may have goofed. What seems to me of far more importance is the fact that two buses were admittedly being operated, one with faulty brakes and the other with badly worn tires.

As a ratepayer of many years in this locality, I would like to ask the top brass of the school division, as to exactly who was responsible for these buses being allowed to operate in this condition, and what steps, if any, are being taken to ensure that other buses are not being operated in similar or perhaps worse conditions.

I think these are questions to which the ratepayers, and especially the parents of children riding the buses, are entitled to a straighforward answer.

From this, and other incidents that I have heard of, it certainly seems there is considerable laxity somewhere along the line.

I think most people will agree that this laxity should be pinpointed and eliminated, before we have a catastrophe here, such as happened at Lamont a few years ago, and a near miss at Ellerslie just a while back.

Yours truly,
Clifford C. Plants

Season's Greetings the Lions way

Mailing individual greetings cards to people they see every day is eliminated with this giant-sized public Greetings Card prominently displayed on the main street in Ryley. The Lions erected this novel sign where residents estimate the cost of buying and mailing local holiday greetings cards and place this money in the box on the signpost, then place their own names on the oversized card. All proceeds will be used for community betterment. --Mercury Staff Photo.

Country teams win in 'grudge' curling tilt

The Tofield Curling rink Saturday evening was the scene of challenge games between town and country; and a gigantic turkey shoot.

The evening activities got underway at 7 p.m. with the four challenge games. The town rinks skipped by Arnold Swift, Rev McDannald, John Wall and Geo. McFadzen took an early lead over the rinks skipped by George McLachlan, John Moore Art Francis and Ken Rempel. However, better conditioning soon began to show up as the country teams slowly edged even, then went ahead to win three of the games and lose the other one by a 6-4 score. The over-all score was 19-15 for the country.

A certain measure of the victory has to be attributed to the superior scouting system of the country coaches.

After the games, since the country had gotten the "town's goat", Gabe Pettit, president of the Tofield Curling Club was presented with a mounted goat to keep in their possession to remind them of their downfall until next year.

The turkey shoot was held later and before the evening was over 27 turkeys had found their way to the roaster.

The blindfold events had the crowd in stitches as the curlers lost complete sense of direction and rocks were going in every direction. Winners of the events were E. Ferrel, Charles Rude, and Elmer Geoglein, and the left handed event was won by Percy Fairholm.

Winners in the open events were I. Foshaug, G. Pettit, M. Eleniak, H. Page, G. McFadzen, P. Fairholm, B. McFadzen, Barbara Appleby, Irma Francis, Ruby Sears, D. Everrit, Darrel Albrecht, L. Rude, Ron Geoglein, Barbara Geoglein. Double winners were G. McLachlan, Ole Haugen, Bob Wylie and Glenn Francis

High scorers for the evening were G. McLachlan and Mrs Ruby Sears who each scored 12 points in winning their turkeys The only button shot of the evening was pulled off by Brian McFadzen and it was also good enough to win a turkey for him.

The curling shoes which were raffled were won by Lars Rude.

The evening was a great success both as entertainment and financially.

Luther Olson named to senate of university

LUTHER OLSON

Luther S. Olson, chairman of the Board of Regents of Camrose Lutheran College for several years, has been elected to the University Senate effective last November 1. He becomes one of thirty representative members of the Senate. It is thought Mr. Olson is the first member of the Senate ever elected from Camrose.

Mr. Olson has been closely connected with developments of the junior college in Camrose ever since initial planning for the program got underway, and was chairman of the finance campaign which raised sufficient funds and pledges to ensure the first step in the long-range development program During early discussions with the university, he was also closely involved with working out details and plans for development.

The Senate's responsibility includes inquiring into any matter which might tend to enhance the usefulness of the University. It is empowered to require reports on any matters from any faculty or school council, the students' council or any member of the academic staff, to receive and consider submissions from anyone interested in the university and to arrange for public meetings, radio and television programs and other ways of providing information on the functions and operations of the university.

Mr. Olson's term is for three years.

Fire destroys barn & animals of V. Rudzcki

(Mrs. Ellen Eaton)

An early morning fire at the farm of Victor Rudzcki on Monday destroyed the barn, as well as a cow and calf, a number of brood sows and young pigs, and other items

Several neighbors turned out to offer assistance, and were able to save some of the animals and articles. The Tofield Fire Brigade responded to a call for help, and were able to contain the fire, thus saving a quantity of feed stored near the barn

It is believed that defective wiring was the cause of the fire. Partial insurance in the amount of $2,500 was carried on the building.

The Tofield Local FUA immediately began a relief fund for the young Rudzcki couple, contributing $30.00 as a local; with individual members adding another $80.00 Other individuals and organizations are being asked to contribute to the trust fund set up by the FUA.

Tofield Lions have Christmas supper

After business was dispensed with, a Christmas dinner was enjoyed, provided by Karl and Vi Myers of the Tofield Cafe. Deputy District Governor, A.P. Renneberg and eight members were present from Daysland

It was learned that 47 Peace Essays have been entered by Tofield School Pupils and are to be appraised by the local clergy before being sent elsewhere

Following the installation ceremony, Worthy Matron Nolan presented the retiring Worthy Matron, Mrs. Ella Hardy, with her Past Matron's jewel, which was passed on by Mrs. Blanche Hardy This jewel was a very special one in that it was a treasured family heirloom as well as being a symbol of a year as head of Ionic Chapter.

Mr. Neil Phillips was presented with a gift by the Worthy Matron in recognition of his services to the Chapter.

Associate Matron, Mrs. Daisy Young presented Worthy Matron Nolan with a beautiful bouquet as a token of the fraternal love and best wishes of the Chapter. Mrs. Daisy Young, accompanied by Mr. Paul Thomas, sang "Star Of The East", a favorite song of the Worthy Matron.

After the meeting was closed, a special Christmas lunch was enjoyed. The Christmassy table decorations were made by Mrs. Mabel Boyles; Mrs. Evelyn McDannold, Mrs Ollie Moos, Mrs Vivian Murray and Mrs. Marie Murray arranged and served the attractive and delicious lunch.

Winter's beginning

That dirty weather you've been experiencing the past few weeks isn't winter at all. In case you're interested, you've only been getting a little practice for the real thing.

Officially, winter begins next Thursday, December 22, when the sun is at its farthest point south. Known as the winter solstice, this is also the shortest period of daylight of the year, and the longest night, although strangely enough the earth is nearer the sun this day than at any other time of the year.

Conversely, as December may be the darkest month of the year, points out the Canadian Highway Safety Council, it may seem the darkest month for accident victims. Shorter daylight hours, bad weather and poor visibility are some of the factors contributing to December's hazardous driving conditions.

But no safety

Recent announcement of a hot new model by one of the major auto manufacturers left us highly intrigued a few days ago. Even as a parliamentary committee was touring certain auto plants looking at safety features, this press release struck our desk.

It highlights the huge new horsepower and amazing "big car" transmission featured by the new model, then goes on to list a wide variety of other features, all designed to give the impression of great reserves of raw, naked power designed into the new unit.

It lists special markings, special paint, special body design and identifying features and so on.

But in all the "high powered" promotion the only reference to any feature which could even mildly be considered a concession to safety were the inclusion of heavy-duty chassis components, a doubtful contribution at best, and red-line tires, or tires, that is, designed to stand up to racing speeds.

The mail the same week suggested that more innovations may be introduced to cars during the next ten years than appeared in the past 50. The question is not will they come, says one writer, but when will they come? Air that becomes more polluted every year, congestion on the streets and hazards on the highways will be the major causes of design changes, according to this expert.

Not, it will be noted, interest for the safety of the public, so much as the convenience and mobility of the public, with an eye to the growing smog danger and the public indignation about it in the certain knowledge it is not necessary.

Already past the idea and drawing board stages are cars with steering wheels only six inches in diameter which can be turned with a twist of the wrist, TV screens that do the job of the rearview mirror, 'little black boxes' that could route you across Canada by flashing appropriate turn signals on a screen, and alert systems that send taped warning messages to the driver.

Stick around for a look at the 1977 models.

A WEEKLY LOOK AT EXPO '67

by Tracy S. Ludington

Any day — for six months in summer '67 — you can see the wonders of 70 countries of the world in Montreal and have the time of your life doing it!

Pausing a moment to think of it — Montreal is in a most strategic location for the greatest show on earth. It is the world's largest inland seaport, home of the world's two largest transportation corporations, and on the international air map, Montreal is the air-crossroads of the world.

Now, with the opening day of April 28 a half-year away, enthusiasm for Expo is mounting at a steadily and rapidly-increasing rate, in the city of Montreal itself, throughout Quebec province generally, and Expophilia is spreading all across this country.

From the outset, and through the preliminary period of gestation, a great deal of the Expo story had to be taken on faith. True, the International Exhibitions Bureau had authorized an Exhibition of the First Category outside of Europe for the very first time — but the very magnitude of the undertaking was too-staggering for many to grasp and the task of developing man-made areas in the mighty St. Lawrence River appeared to some too great to be capable of achievement.

During the first week of October, however, the word was flashed: Expo will be ready on time.

Immediately there was a great upsurge of interest in all parts of Canada, so great an upsurge in fact that the over-all total of the attendance forecast was upped from 30,000,000 to 35,000,000.

[illegible]

... been made, so that the visitor may select, and having selected be freely transported to the land of his or her desires.

Daily there are new news bomb-shells about Expo — the possibility that U.S. President Johnson will open the American Pavilion for example — and weekly in this column will be gathered the most titillating of the tidbits, so that the man-in-the street in each and every Canadian town and city will be kept abreast of the latest and best at Expo as plans are made for a visit to 'the greatest show on earth' that opens April 28, 1967 and continues until October 27, 1967, seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. and with the entertainment area open until 2:30 a.m.

Season's Greetings

The past year holds many special memories for all of us. We remember happy associations with old friends, the pleasures of new acquaintances, accomplishments of which we are proud and difficulties we have overcome.

One outstanding achievement this past year has been the great steps taken towards unification of the Christian church.

This surely is a message that we, who stand on the threshold of our country's centennial, should heed. Let us all resolve to work together to strengthen the many bonds that unite our country and seek to bridge the gaps that divide us.

The management and staff of Calgary Power join together to wish you all the message of Christmas — "Peace on earth and goodwill to all men".

(Mrs. Orvil Bray)

Homecoming activities on Saturday, Dec. 10, honored the 1966 Ryley graduates. Chaired by Miss Gail Lyons, president of the Ryley High School Students' Union, the evening commenced with a banquet in the Legion Hall, where the blessing was asked by Paul Voegtlin. Marvin Bruce, Superintendent of Schools in the Beaver County, offered the toast to the Queen.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Voegtlin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Symyrozum, Miss Gail Lyons, Lorne Booth, Miss Marilyn Hjelter, Barry Albrecht, Miss Patsy Stumbo, Lynn Kurach, Miss Shirley Jacobson and Ronald Pepper.

Paying tribute to all former students who, today, represent a large variety of professions in all corners of the world, Mr. Parsons, vice-principal of the Ryley School, offered the toast to the graduates. Lloyd Symyrozum, guest speaker and former teacher of the Ryley School delivered an address to the graduates, stressing the need for individuality in a conforming world.

The [illegible] banquet, an innovation this year, was considered a success and will be [illegible] years as part of the [illegible] to the graduate.

Winning the draw [illegible] were Murray Lohman of Camrose, the electric blanket, and Myrna Sather of Strome, the electric clock.

There were many faces, both familiar and unfamiliar, but none lovelier than those of the three candidates for Homecoming Queen, Miss Shirley Jacobson (Gr. 10), Miss Pat Stumbo (Gr. 11) and Miss Marilyn Hjelter (Gr. 12) as they were escorted to the dias by Ronnie Pepper, Lynn Kurach and Barry Albrecht. Winner of the intense campaign for queen was Miss Marilyn Hjelter who was crowned by Tommy Annebo, master of ceremonies, as the 1966 Homecoming Queen.

Awards in recognition of high scholastic achievement were forthcoming from many sources. Miss Lois Kay Voegtlin won two awards for the highest marks in the 1966 grade nine departmental exams, presented by the Ryley Sub-local A.T.A. and Cavell Rebekah Lodge of Ryley. Miss Carol Lien earned the Ryley Junior High School award for achieving the second highest average in the grade nine examinations. Individual athletic awards in the various sports during the 1965-66 school year were presented by Mr. Boris Stashko as follows: boys' basketball, Gary Wiens; girls' basketball, Mary Ann Osada; baseball, Roger Oslund; softball, Kay Fisk.

The outstanding event of the evening was the presentation to Margaret Lee (Fisk) Kosoway by Paul Voegtlin of "The J. D. McDonald Trophy" for outstanding citizenship.

Say "Quiet Ford" and the next word has to be "Quality."

Fairlane 500

Falcon Futura

This year's Fords are quieter because they're stronger, stronger because they're better built. The '67 Fords are even quieter than the '66's and '66's proved quieter than one of the world's most expensive cars. This is the result of quality. And it's this quality that makes a Ford-built sedan better value than other cars. So when you buy one, you know you're getting a car that's worth more. One that's built stronger and lasts longer.

Ford sedans are the Quiet Ones, with the [illegible] quiet ride. The quietness is the first thing you notice when you drive one and it's wonderful! These sedans have the solid worth that makes all the other features meaningful: the stylish appearance, the luxury touches, the roomy comfort—and one big Ford advantage you'll notice in the showroom: the trunk has one of the lowest [illegible] heights of any car.

Fairlane sedans are the middleweight champions. They're big, they're roomy. And they're performance packed! You'll find them easy to handle and a joy to park.

Falcon sedans are the limousines of the compacts. They're easy to buy, economical to operate. And you'll be amazed at their performance. Falcon has two V-8 options this year.

Take any one of these Ford-built sedans for a test drive. See what a difference Ford's extra quality makes.

For the fourth consecutive year the Grade VIII classes are collecting toys for the children in Aberhart Memorial Sanatorium. Many of these children are Metis and, since they are far from home, do not receive many, if any, gifts at Christmas time. Mrs. Elsie Samuel, matron of Aberhart, has sent a list of girls and boys in need of attention at Christmas. There are three children listed, their ages ranging from one to fifteen years. One day soon, the Grade VIII's will wrap and tag these presents, thus giving a practical application of the Christmas spirit.

Hobby Day was held recently by the two Grade VIII classes in the Audio-Visual room. Each student described his hobby in glowing terms of interest to the assembled classes, after which he gave a practical demonstration of his particular interest. Music was played by several students on various kinds of instruments. Collections of many kinds including stamps, coins, foreign money, old money, and rocks were shown. Sewing was displayed and cookies were eaten. Band instruments and Scout uniforms were exhibited and explained. Animals came in for their share of attention, especially from the 4-H members. Tours were re-travelled and illustrated with pictures. Book friends were introduced and mechanical prowess demonstrated. Even TV. watching was described as a hobby.

Mr. David Balzer has been preparing a Jr. Hi entry for the Community League's Christmas Festival. Mr. Balzer, who attends University of Alberta, has been donating two noon hours per week to conduct the chorus in "Shepherds Shake Off Your Drowsy Sleep" and "Jesus Is Born".

Mr. Norton's Grade VIII Art classes have a display in "the Roundhouse". Both conventional and abstract art is on display and attracting much attention. Mr. Ronaghan's Grade VII Art class is also putting up a display of Christmas art.

Tofield takes two from Ryley

The green and white clad basketball teams from Tofield swept Ryley aside in games played Friday night. The girls team was led to victory by Charie Astley who scored 9 points and played an outstanding game on the boards. All 11 girls saw action and each contributed to the 19-11 score by hawking the ball, scoring or blocking Ryley shots.

The boys game saw the locals fall behind and trail until the midway mark of the second quarter. At this point the height of the Tofield team appeared to tire the shorter Ryley boys. Tofield took control of the boards and slowly stretched their lead until the final gun score of 53-43. Duane Stauffer, playing his best ball game in two years, scored 21 points. Derrill Bell and Henry Schroeder chipped in 12 and 10 points successfully.

This Friday, Dec. 16, Tofield hosts Viking. Come out and see these young athletes in fast moving action. Everyone is welcome.

The 4-H Klub Korner . . .

(Marilyn Shacker)

The regular meeting of the Tofield 4-H Beef Club was held on December 8. Susan Appleby led the pledge and the members of the club answered the roll call with what they wanted for Christmas. The members then gave their feed reports telling the amount of feed that their calf eats per day.

Three very interesting debates were given at this meeting. Nettie Appleby and Lyle Henberg of the negative and Monte Malcolm and Gordon Antoniuk of the affirmative gave a debate resolving that mini-skirts should be allowed in school. The negative side of this debate was chosen the winner. Jim Dodds and Miles Rose of the negative and Doug Finseth and Brian Litwin of the affirmative gave the second debate resolving that Tofield should have a public library as a Centennial project. The negative side won this debate. The third debate was given by Pat Kallal and Linda Rose of the negative and Ross Casey and Judy Moore of the affirmative. This debate resolved that urban areas should be included in 4-H projects. The affirmative side were the lucky winners. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed each debate. Mr. McDonnald, Mrs. Wood, and Mrs. Brown were the judges for these debates.

It was planned at the meeting to have a judging competition on December 28. It will be held at Ralph Casey's at 1:30 p.m. The club has also planned to have a Whist Drive on January 20. A committee was appointed to look after arrangements.

The meeting was ended with a very interesting and useful demonstration given by Grant Casey on the various kinds of feed.

The Tofield 4-H Pee Wee Club held their regular meeting on December 10th at the Ralph Casey home. The pledge was given by Randy Jones and the members answered the roll call with the breed of their calf. The members then gave their feed reports. The Pee Wee Club decided at this meeting to raffle a cowboy hat. Three interesting talks on projects were given. Ray Casey spoke on the characteristics of the ideal club calf, Doug Jones on the disadvantage and advantages of early selection of a club calf, and Ferlin Schacker on the steps in judging. Guest speaker at this meeting was Grant Casey. Lunch was served by Mrs. Casey, Mrs. Bailey, and Mrs. Ferguson.

Dodds-Ryley

(Mrs. Oliver Lehman)

DODDS - RYLEY, Dec 16 — Mr and Mrs Kenneth Zook and family left on Wednesday afternoon for Wakarusa, Indiana to spend Christmas with Elsie's parents, Mr and Mrs. Warren Nunn.

Mrs. Peter Fast is a patient in the Tofield Hospital.

Scotch Broth

"This is the week when Christmas comes
Let every pudding burst with plums
And every tree bear dolls and drums . . ."

These lines from "Keeping Christmas", by Eleanor Farjeon just about sum up a family Christmas day with traditional fare, and fun for the children.

o—o—o

Nothing can be added to or subtracted from the Christmas story. Its very simplicity lifts us above the commonplace into the beauty and charm of an atmosphere that defies analysis.

The greatest hope of man this Christmas is still one that has come down through the ages—that some day men will "beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks".

Gloom should not pervade our spirits even though, with the passing of another year, the world is seemingly more unsettled. The message which comes again and will remain with us always, is the message of the angel: "Behold I bring you tidings of great joy".

Ferguson-Hoover vows exchanged November 5

The Tofield United church was the scene of a lovely afternoon wedding on November 5, when Miss Gloria Dianne Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Hoover, became the bride of Mr. Harold Watson Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Ferguson, all of Tofield. Rev. W. H. McDonnold officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor-length gown of peau de soie and lace featuring a chapel-length train and styled with elbow-length sleeves and plain rounded neckline. Her jewellery, a single strand of pearls, was a gift of the groom. Her headpiece, a cluster of crystal drops and leaves with a bouffant finger-tip veil completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses with white streamers tipped with roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jean Kozushka, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Lampitt and Miss Marion Hardy, friends of the bride. They wore identical floor-length gowns of cornflower-blue crepe and royal velvet, set off by tiaras of crystal. Each wore a single drop pearl necklace, gift of the bride, and they carried bouquets of white baby 'mums.

The best men were Claude Gallinger Jr., Floyd Taylor and Glen Winder, friends of the groom. The ushers were Robert Hoover, brother of the bride and Alan Ferguson, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hoover wore a teal blue wool-knit suit with teal and black accessories, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. For her son's wedding, Mrs. Ferguson chose a burgundy wool suit with burgundy and black accessories and yellow sweetheart roses en corsage.

The reception was held at the Tofield Community Hall, where the guests were received by the bridal party and the parents. In charge of the guest book was Miss Judy Kindley, niece of the groom. Master of ceremonies was Ben Rutz of Viking, and toast to the bride was proposed by Ewart Hoover, the bride's uncle, to which the groom ably responded. Following the reception a dance was enjoyed by all.

For travelling, the bride chose a brown three-piece wool suit with matching accessories and wore a white cymbidium orchid en corsage.

After a brief honeymoon to Jasper and points north, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have made their home in Tofield.

Modern etiquette

Q. What have you to say about letters of condolence?

A. All too often this is a letter that is put off and finally never written at all, simply because you can't think of what to say. It is extremely thoughtless to let this happen, for in time of great sorrow the fact that one's friends are standing by can mean so very much. It isn't WHAT you say that's so important—it's the fact that you SAID it.

Q. How does one properly eat a hard-boiled egg at the table—an egg that has been served in its shell?

A. Tap it gently with the blade of your knife, strip off the shell, then eat the egg with your fingers.

Q. Is it proper, when setting the dinner table, to put the butter on one plate and pass this around to your guests, or to put it on individual bread-and-butter plates?

A. This is more a matter of convenience than propriety. Usually it is more convenient to serve the butter on individual plates than to have your guests pass it around.

Q. What do you think increases one's popularity as a conversationalist?

A. The ability to be a good listener. It takes perseverance to learn how, especially if you want to express your own view. Don't fidget, sneak glimpses at your watch, or stare into space, even if you're bored. Look the speaker in the face and give him your undivided attention. It's a nice feeling when someone else does the same for you, isn't it?

Christmas messages from province's heads of state

LIEUT.-GOV. G. MacEWAN

From the office I have the honour to occupy, I extend the Season's richest greetings to all the people of Alberta and beyond, to the people who live in our villages, towns, and cities, to those who make homes on farms and ranches, to those who live in our vast northland, to those who travel, to those who must work to maintain public services on the holidays and to [illegible] in any way.

It is a time when good will and good cheer should fill every heart. Families will be together as they should be, and it would be my hope that family gatherings will be happy ones with young ones having fun and young and old enjoying big appetites. May happiness prevail.

I would hope also that Canadians would not let the Christmas Season pass without pausing for moments of thanksgiving for all the great gifts of nature which we enjoy and which have contributed so greatly to our comfort and prosperity. These rich treasures have been entrusted to us, not to be exploited in the shortest possible time, but to be managed wisely to make them serve mankind as long as possible.

And along with all the people of Alberta, I would join in the hope that an ever growing measure of peace and goodwill may prevail throughout the world.

Grant MacEwan,
Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

PREMIER E. C. MANNING

The festive season is with us once again and I sincerely welcome this opportunity to extend to each of you best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and good health, happiness and prosperity in the coming New Year. I hope this will be one of the best Christmases you have ever known.

As we enjoy Christmas Day with loved ones and friends, let us not forget those less fortunate than we for whom this day has brought no festivities and who face only bleak tomorrows amid the ravages of war, privation, oppression and the misery that follows in their train.

Let us also remember that this is the anniversary of the birth of the One who came into the world that men might have life and have it more abundantly. We cannot consistently honor Him and the purpose of His birth unless we are prepared to yield ourselves to Him as living instruments through which He can bring to pass peace on earth and good will towards men. To this end, let us resolve to work for a world of reason and understanding in which God's will for men may be done, not just among a favored few but among all mankind. Such a dedication of our lives will give a new depth of meaning to our commemoration of Christmas and ensure that its joys and its hopes will abide with us throughout the New Year.

To each of you, on behalf of all members of the Government of Alberta, I extend these best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a purposeful rewarding New Year.

Ernest C. Manning,
Premier of Alberta.

Sisbert-Thiessen vows exchanged

A wedding of local interest took place on November 26 at the Jasper Place United Church, when Miss Katie Theissen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Theissen of Tofield, was united in marriage with Floyd Seibert of Edmonton.

Miss Linda Theissen was her sister's bridesmaid, and best man was a friend of the groom. Little Arlene Regehr, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Miss Olga Theissen was the soloist.

A reception for 50 guests followed in the church parlors.

Tofield FUA elects officers

At the annual meeting of Tofield local Farmers Union of Alberta, held December 9, R. Georgiein was elected president, with C. Sears vice-president and C. Niemetz secretary for 1967.

The M.S.I. financial statement was presented, showing a healthy statement, with 118 members the group. The question of forming a Blue Cross group was again discussed, and while this local is slowly building up, there are still a lot of members who have not yet expressed their views. If any members who are an interested would just contact their neighbours, it is felt this would go over with a bang; but if members just sit back with the hope that someone is going to canvass the whole district, then the project is doomed. There is a difference of some $25 per year between group and non-group plan, which is worth some effort on the part of members. Also, there are still some who have not yet picked up their 1967 membership cards . . . contact your secretary.

A bank account in the Bank of Montreal for the V. Rudacki family, who lost their barn and some ten sows and cattle, was opened with $50 from the local and some $70 from individual donations. Other organizations were also to be asked for contributions.

The FUA members are invited to a social evening in January by the FWUA . . . more about this later.

On November 9, the local had a very successful harvest home supper, with some 180 members participating. The ladies of the Mennonite Church did the catering to a splendid turkey supper with all the trimmings.

Mr. Page, executive member from Didsbury, was guest speaker, and gave a very informative talk on FUA activities pointing out among other things that the Farm Unions were responsible for saving the farmers over one million dollars this year by blocking the rise in grain handling charges.

Mrs. G. Taylor

An attempted break-in was made at the NADP creamery in Holden on Friday evening. Entrance was tried through one of the windows but the culprits were able to pry the window open only a couple of inches.

The same evening, thieves entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lud Mielimaka while they were both absent. Lud attending a meeting and Mrs. Mielimka visiting at Mrs. S. Mielimaka's. ## Santa C'aus visits children in Ryley

(Mrs. A. Bray)

RYLEY. — On Saturday, Dec. 17, Santa Claus came to Ryley. This year he came by snowmobile, and over 200 children greeted him as he drove up to the Legion Hall.

Three films were shown to the children, and afterwards Santa greeted each child. One little boy who plays hockey told Santa all he wanted for Christmas was to win all the hockey games. Santa tried to explain that this would be hard to put in a stocking!

Santa and his helpers then passed out treats to all the children. Leaving Ryley, Santa made a trip to the Tofield Municipal Hospital, where treats were given to the children there.

Council clarifies welfare restrictions

One of the main items on the agenda when Tofield Council met on December 5th, which came in for a good deal of discussion, was the matter of welfare applications from local residents. Mayor Freebury and councillors Berse, Everitt, Herndon, Patterson, Pittet and Swift considered three applications.

It was Council's unanimous decision that only foodstuffs be allowed to be purchased, eliminating pop, cigarettes, potato chips and candy and pastries limited to $3 per month. The secretary-treasurer was instructed to inform the recipients as well as the merchants of these restrictions. Clr. Pittet moved that the applicants be accepted.

Correspondence from the Department of Welfare asking the Town to provide a Christmas bonus to welfare families was read and approved.

The question of a cheque to cover the expenses incurred by the Welfare Officer, Mrs. M. Boyles, was discussed. It was moved by Clr. Swift that $100 be paid to Mrs. Boyles. Carried.

The question of assistant maintenance man, Emil Halverson, was discussed. It was decided that Mr. Halverson be hired on an hourly basis as required to March 31, 1967, and on April 1, 1967, be returned to a monthly basis.

Building permits from Peter Wiens for a garage for $1,200, and from Ella N. Roth for a garage for $800, were approved. The By-Laws Committee agreed to revise the Building By Law regarding garages and the distance from front property lines for presentation at the next meeting.

The Bardo Lutheran Church requested the purchase of Lots 3, 4 and 5, Block 22, Plan 3165NY. The secretary-treasurer was instructed to find out if they would be interested in the last three lots of the same block, which would allow them better access. If not, no objection was raised to the sale of the three lots they desired.

The 1967 Assessment has been increased by $38,340.00.

Clr. Everitt moved that the office be closed December 26 and 27.

The secretary-treasurer was instructed to contact George Fochsee and Bob Haycock regarding their cars being parked on Main Street for the past couple weeks. The vehicles are to be removed for snow-clearing purposes.

Kingman

The Kingman Baptist Church was filled on Sunday for the Sunday school Christmas program and fellowship dinner.

Survey shows support for Medical Centre lags

The Holden Chamber of Commerce supper meeting was held on Friday, December 16, with 26 members and guests present.

The minutes were read and approved as read, and three accounts passed for payment.

Bruce MacDonnell gave a report on the proposed Medical Centre. Cash, cheques and pledges amounted to $7,500; the Sports Day Committee donation of $425, and the Elks Lodge to donate $50. It is estimated that if all pledges are honored, a total of $8,000 would be in hand. The Medical Committee had interviewed the Village Council and requested a grant of five mills which would be assessed on the village ratepayers at large.

It was also interesting to note that our of a possible 425 families in Holden and district which were contacted, only 195 had supported the Medical Center with funds.

Reg Minchin, one of the guest speakers gave an account of his trip to Chicago. He had been one of the 14 4H delegates from Alberta to the 6th Congress of 4H Clubs, held in the U.S.A. Canadian representation was made possible by M.M. & C., which has a plant in Saskatchewan and sponsors candidates from 4H Clubs. Miss Eileen Stuart, who is attending the University of Alberta, showed enhanced colour slides of her trip to Toronto and Ottawa. She had been the runner-up on high points in Alberta and therefore received this trip.

Mr. Minchin thanked the Holden and District Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the special guests and also the ladies for the wonderful supper. He invited the young people of the district to join the 4H Clubs.

A vote of thanks was given to Harold Giebelhaus who had supplied chocolate milk, and congratulations were extended to him on his first year's operation of the dairy.

Don Hultholin, treasurer, gave his report, showing a bank balance of $209.65. Bruce Budd, president, asked Mrs. Hadley to say a few words regarding the Sun Publishing Co. and The Holden Herald. An open question period was then held.

It was decided to hold the Christmas lighting competition again, throughout the village and district, prizes being $10 first, $5 second, and $3 third. It was also agreed the Chamber of Commerce would share the rent equally with the B.P.O. Elks for the kiddies' Christmas show held Saturday, Dec. 17th.

M-mbers were advised that the New Year's Eve party and supper would commence at 8:00 p.m. instead of 9:00 p.m., as advertised.

President Budd then thanked the two guest speakers and Mrs. Hadley for their interesting talks. The meeting then adjourned.

Turkey winners in 4-H Bingo

(Mrs. A. Bray)

BYLEY—The Byley 4-H Beef Club meeting was held on December 14. President James Panick called the meeting to order, with Freddie Lyons giving the Pledge. Secretary Darryl Lyons read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mr. Kehoe, district agriculturist, showed two films on the raising and feeding of Beef Cattle.

The club would like to thank all those who attended the Bingo on December 19. Turkey winners were Harold Beetz, Elmer Bruce, Nick Kolodychuk, Vern Roth, Bill Winsmus, Mrs. Neufeldt, Diane Dueck, Mrs. Kongsrud, Dennis Wood, Mrs. E. Larson, Stan Kabon, Evelyn Kozak, Ken Hilburd, Edwin Klowsiler, Pete Wiens, Elaine Hammer, Gail Lyons, Pete Dueck, Lynn Harbak and Mrs. John Bruce.

According to scientists and statisticians, over 70,000 Albertans have arthritis.

Modern etiquette

Q. Would it be proper for an department or "runaway" marriage to be announced later by means of the customary engraved cards?

A. Quite proper.

Q. Is it all right to use informals in giving thanks for wedding gifts received?

A. Yes, so long as there is no greeting that substitutes for the written words of thanks and if the informal is conservative and of good quality paper. It should be sent, of course, first - class mail, sealed.

Q. Is it considered proper or in good taste to send a male patient in a hospital a bouquet of cut flowers?

A. Although not exactly "improper", cut flowers are usually sent only to women. A growing plant is the customary gift to a male patient.

meeting between Mr. Bachelder and Mr. Gordon.

STILL MONTHS AWAY

With the Mercantile Bank home to be settled and several briefs still to be heard before the committee gets down to detailed examination of the Bill it will be well into 1967 before the revision becomes law, allowing Canadian banks to charge higher interest than the present 6 per cent ceiling, issue debentures and invest in conventional mortgages.

The first Bank Act revision was introduced by Finance Minister Gordon in May, 1965. It never reached committee stage and died when Parliament was dissolved. The Sharp Bill with some major changes from the Gordon version was introduced last July.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULES

The pro Rink enigma of 1967 is John Diefenbaker as it has been each year since his government was defeated. So far he has ignored the cold truth of the ballots cast by delegates at November's annual meeting of the party and declares he is still in the fight. The Tories are planning a full leadership convention which gives plenty of time for second thoughts. Liberals are also talking of a full convention in the light of persistent and growing rumors that Prime Minister Pearson intends to retire this year. If this comes about, Ottawa may see a repitition of 1948 when both old parties changed leaders within a few weeks of each other.

Canada can look forward to higher unemployment this winter than in 1965-66. A trend in this direction developed in October and was more plainly seen in November when the number of jobless at 288,000 was 18,000 higher than a year ago and when a greater than seasonal decline in employment occurred.

* * *

Prime Minister Pearson exploded the bubble of rumor that had been persistent around Parliament until when he announced that no member of this Parliament had accepted payment from CBC. One columnist had gone so far as to suggest that with the numbers reported to be involved Mr. Pearson would have to call an election in February. Seventeen members of the previous Parliament did accept payment between May 1963 and September 1965 but even if this had been known and successful suits for forfeiture of the seats been brought there is nothing that would have prevented them sitting in the present Parliament.

Audience fills Centre for Yule Carol Festival

The annual Christmas Carol Festival, sponsored by the Tofield Community League, was held on December 15 in the Community Centre, with Father Scrivens as chairman. The Centre was filled to the doors to hear a record number of choirs participate in the festival, which is one of the highlights of Christmas in Tofield.

The invocation was given by Mr. Quiring, who also read the Christmas Story which the Carol services honors. Paul Voeglin conducted the community carol singing, which was accompanied by Mrs. Mildred McFadzean. The benediction was given by Abe Bourgon. Choirs participating included Tofield High School chorus, conducted by Dick Thiessen, accompanied by Loretta Dueck; United Church choir, with Henry Schroeder as guest conductor, and Mrs. J. E. Slinson as accompanist; the Salem Mennonite choir, directed by Paul Voeglin; the Junior High School chorus conducted by David Balzer, and accompanied by Lillian Balzer; the Tofield Mennonite choir, conducted by Henry Schroeder, and accompanied by Elaine Boergen; the Bardo Lutheran Church choir, conducted by Mrs. Lester Severson, accompanied by Mrs. Litwin; the Ryley School chorus, conducted by Paul Voeglin; the Kingman Parish choir, conducted by Terry Grainger; the Tofield Mennonite Brethren Church choir, conducted by Martin Hamm, and accompanied by Loretta Dueck.

On behalf of Lionel Boston, president of the Community League, who was hospitalized, J. C. Lompitt presented Roland Balzer with the League's fifty-dollar cheque, which is awarded annually to the student obtaining the highest marks in the Grade IX June exams. Mr Lompitt in his presentation stressed the part the parents, community and school all play to a student's success.

In Roland's reply to Mr. Lompitt, he thanked the Community League for providing an incentive to the students, his parents for their continuing love and encouragement, his teachers for their capable instruction and God for His guidance.

Good weather report reaches underground

News of the good weather must have got through to the underground forces and a sentry sent up to take stock of the situation. A gopher was seen near The Junction on Sunday sitting up but only partly bright-eyed and not at all bushy-tailed.

Frankie Maisley Jr., and Willie Lyster spotted him as they were driving along and gave him a chase. No doubt he reported back that humans were as "ornery" as ever and enemy activity in full blast on the highway.

She moved to reform her friends that her father, 85 years old, had passed away in August and her 83-year-old mother in September.

A gopher which apparently did not make provision for the long winter months has been seen for nearly a month on the Leroy Fimerth farm. Each day the Fimerths watch from their kitchen window, as the robert comes out of its burrow to nibble on stubble, sometimes staying out for over an hour.

County Council notes

Following are the minutes, in part, of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9, held November 23.

Business Arising from Minutes

In regards to Constable John Wall's request to be appointed County Constable, the secretary-treasurer advised that, according to the Dept. of the Attorney-General, it would be quite in order to appoint Constable Wall as County Constable subject to his authority in the County only being in effect for cases originating in the Town of Tofield.

It was moved and carried that Constable Wall of the Tofield Town Police be appointed County Constable, his authority to be used only to follow up investigations in the County for offences committed in the Town of Tofield; he/she, that no remuneration be attached to his appointment.

In regards to the C.N. culverts at Deidis, a letter from the Assistant B & B Master was referred to the Council. The letter indicated that the replacement material for a 24-foot culvert, that the County had installed under the roadway south of the crossing at Deidis, would be replaced by the CNR. In regards to the request for permission to clean out the ditch along the east side of the roadbed in existing culverts the letter indicated that, providing certain matters were conformed with, the CNR would have no objections.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted and the correspondence received and filed.

Concerning the meeting of the Proposed Regional Planning Commission on Wednesday, Oct. 26, Crs. Boddick and Krupelnicki, who had attended this meeting, reported briefly. Some 60 persons were present, some areas not represented at all. The Councillors were of the opinion that at the present time a Planning Commission would not be of much value to the County and, unless the Towns and Villages within the County entered into an Agreement as well, the Commission would be of no value. However, it could be that a Planning Commission would be of some value in the future.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted.

In regards to the Winter Works Incentive Program, the secretary-treasurer referred back to the type of employees that would be eligible to be employed under this program and it appeared to the Council that not very many persons in the County would be eligible. Cr. Knudsen stated that he had one mile of road that was very heavily covered with trees and brush and that he would like to experiment using a "cat" and dozer to remove this brush.

Moved and carried that Cr. Knudsen be authorized to use a cat and dozer for brush clearing.

Correspondence

Two letters from the Provincial Planning Director, concerning the Proposed Regional Planning Commission in the North-East Central Sector of the Province, were referred to the Council.

The first letter indicated the pleasure of the Provincial Planning Director of the County having been represented at the meeting at Vermilion on October 26. The Director now expressed his expectation that the Council would seriously consider the information that could be made available through those representatives that were at the Vermilion meeting and consider the membership in the Proposed Planning Commission.

The second letter indicated that a further meeting would be held in the Town Hall of Two Hills at 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 30.

After some considerable discussion, it was decided to obtain some further information from areas that are now in a Planning Commission. It was moved and carried that no action be taken at this time pending further information as to the benefits that might be derived from being part of the Planning Commission and that there be no attendance at the meeting on November 30.

A letter from the Provincial Planning Director announcing a Planning Conference for 1966 to be held Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 12 and 13, in Calgary at the Holiday Inn. The Council felt that representation at this Conference was advisable, and that information as to the advisability of joining a Planning Commission could possibly be obtained at this time.

and it was moved and carried that Crs. Boddick and Krupelnicki attend this Planning Conference.

A letter from the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation advising that, due to the tight and expensive money, certain restrictions were being instituted. The A.M.F.C. would limit its amount of purchases of debentures to $30 (Continued on Page Fourteen) success.

Hrabec, Robert E. Bruce, Wm. D. Bruce and J. E. Manderson were referred to the Council. It was noted that the Appeal Board was of the opinion that the Assessment on N.E. 36-47-13-W4 and S.E. 3-50-14-W4 were not properly assessed.

Moved and carried that the orders be accepted, filed and that a request be made for an Order in Short reassessment of the two parcels referred to.

The secretary-treasurer advised that with the dial telephone coming in it would not be possible to have as many extensions in the office as was now in effect. A push-button communication service had been suggested by the Communications Consultants for A.G.T., and it was proposed to have all the office phones plus the Fieldman's phone in this circuit. The estimated monthly rental charge would be $44.15 and an estimated installation charge of $100. The secretary-treasurer stated that he was aware that this was higher rental than now in effect but that the benefits from the push-button system would possibly outweigh the extra cost.

Moved and carried that the proposed push-button communication system be installed in the County office.

A print of the proposed secondary road system in the County, submitted by Stewart, West, Stewart & Watson, was referred to the Council.

After the print had been studied, it was moved and carried that the Council goes on record as being satisfied with the proposed roads.
